TWO CANADIANS ELECTED IN BRITAIN

London, May 30th.—Up to 2 a.m. two Canadians had been elected and one defeated in the general elections. Col. Grant Morden, native of Prince Edward County, Ontario, and founder of the Canada Steamship Lines, was re-elected Conservative member for Bromford and Chiswick. The former Canadian army officer was opposed by Dr. Stella Churchill, Labor, and Capt. John Stevenson, Liberal.

A. W. Haycock, who was born in Cataraqui, Ont., was elected in Salford West, where he made a gain for Labor from Conservatives. He is a son of Joseph Haycock, former leader of the Patrons of Industry.

Brig.-General Alfred Cecil Critchley, D.S.O., native of Calgary, Alta., was defeated in a three-cornered contest in Gorton, Manchester.

General Critchley was a poor second to J. Compton, Labor member in the last house for Gorton, Manchester. Compton polled 22,056 votes, Critchley 10,604, and Mrs. Beatrice Bayfield, Liberal nominee, lost her deposit by polling only 3,385 votes.

WEDDING BELLS.

Venton—Conners.

A quiet wedding took place at the United Church Parsonage, at Odessa, on Saturday, June 1st, at 9.30 o'clock, when Rev. Mr. McQuade united in marriage Miss Evelyn Violet, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conners, of Wilton, to Mr. George H. Venton, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Venton, of Odessa.

The happy couple were attended by Miss Lizzie Venton, sister of the groom, and Mr. Douglas Bell, of Montreal, Quebec.

The bride looked pretty dressed in a saphire flat crepe dress, with French beige hat, shoes and hose to match.

The happy couple left immediately after the wedding dinner, which was prepared at the Princess Cafe, for Fulton, N.Y., and other parts of the States. The bride travelled in a navy and sand flat crepe dress with coat to match.

CHECKLEY NAMED SYNOD SECRETARY

E. R. Checkley, Montreal, was elected secretary of the Anglican Synod of the diocese of Ontario, Wednesday, after a third ballot had been taken. He was elected with a majority of 13 votes over Canon J. W. Jones, present secretary. The first ballot taken on Tuesday was not in accordance with the canons of the diocese and it was found necessary to take two more today.

The present method of electing the secretary was scored by Bishop C. A. Seager, who said this system was a "relic of a bygone age". There should be a change in every diocese in the country" he said. "To ask a business man to accept such a position, or to ask a clergyman to give up his living in order to accept such an enormous position, knowing he may be kicked out on to the street at the end of the year, is absolute nonsense," he declared.

Following further denouncement of the method of electing the secretary for only one year, by Very Rev. Dean W. W. Craig, it was decided to move a resolution in Synod with a view to amending the existing canon to place the appointment of a secretary in the hands of the executives.

The Synod Wednesday endorsed the action of the General Synod in connection with the Anglican Communion Extension fund.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"You say your son was cured of his blindness by an operation?" asked the great surgeon.

"Yes, that's what I said," replied the wealthy man.

"That's interesting; what was the operation?" demanded the surgeon.

"I shut off his allowance and made him go to work," smiled the wealthy man.

For Rheumatic Pains.—The pains and aches of Sciatica and Rheumatism should be treated with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The soothing and healing properties of this famous remedy have been demonstrated for fifty years. Use it also for inflammatory pains, cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains, either in human beings or the lower animals.

It was a lecture about modern women, being delivered by a modern woman at the club. One of the speaker's chief points concerned the modern, commonsense style of woman's dress.

"Do you know," she cried to her own sex, "that our present-day style of sensible clothing has reduced our accidents on trains, cars and busses by at least 50 per cent?"

She paused to let this sink in and it gave a long-suffering young man his opportunity.

"You'll excuse me," he said politely, "but why not do away with accidents altogether?"

For Both House and Stable.—There is a good deal of similarity, physically speaking, between human ceilings and the lower animals. Both are subject to many ailments arising from inflammation and to all manner of cuts and bruises. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is an entirely reliable remedy for such ailments and mishaps in both human beings and the lower orders of animals.

Mrs. Jiggins, who was reading a newspaper, observed to her husband that it contained an article entitled, "Women Work for the Feeble-Minded." Mr. Jiggins, who was in a reactionary mood, said: "I should like to know what women have ever done for the feeble-minded." "They usually marry them, my dear," replied Mrs. Jiggins sweetly.

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator because it has relieved the little one of suffering and made them healthy.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure.

A young woman was being cross-examined in court.

"How old are you?" asked the judge. She hesitated.

"Don't hesitate," he said, "every second makes it worse."

Miller's Worm Powders will drive worms from the system without injury to the child. The powders are so easy to take that the delicate stomach can assimilate them and welcome them as speedy easers of pain, because they promptly remove the worms that cause the pain, and thus the suffering of the child is relieved. With so sterling a remedy at hand no child should suffer an hour from worms.

Miss Vane—"I know he was talking to you about me. Now, wasn't he?"

Miss Spite—"Well, yes."

Miss Vane—"I thought I heard him remark that I had a thick head of hair."

Miss Spite—"Partly correct. He didn't mention your hair, however."

The Proven Asthma Remedy. Since asthma existed there has been no lack of much heralded remedies, but they have passed shore lived and worthless. The ever-growing reputation of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has given it a place in the field of medicine which no other can approach. It has never been pushed by sensational methods, but has simply gone on effecting relief and making new converts.

Hubby—"We must think of the future. We ought to economize more. If I were to die, where would you be?"

Wifey—"Why, I'd be right here. The question is, where would you be?"

OBITUARY

Wesley McGill.

During the early hours of Sunday, May 19th, there passed away Wesley McGill, the last surviving member of the family of seven sons and three daughters of Thomas and Mary Ann McGill.

Born in the Township of Camden, on June 1st, 1852, he lived his life and died here.

In April of 1879, he married Deborah, second daughter of Wm. and Margaret Sexsmith, and together they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, on April 9th, 1929, at their home at Centreville, together with a large gathering of relatives and their Pastor, Rev. H. A. Bunt and Mrs. Bunt. Of kindly and generous disposition, the friend of all and best loved by them who knew him best.

While in health, he took an active interest in the affairs of church and municipality, holding the office of councillor, deputy-reeve and reeve, and a faithful attendant of the United Church, of which he was a member.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Ed. Loughhead, Enterprise, Ont., and five grandchildren, Mrs. A. S. Furrs, Toronto; Dale McGill, Springville, N.Y.; Bert McGill, Oxford, Mich., and Glenn and Howard Loughhead, Enterprise, Ont.

The funeral services were in charge of Rev. H. A. Bunt, from his home to the United Church at Centreville, who based a comforting and helpful address on I. Corinthians, 15th chapter and 55th verse. The last rites at the grave were under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 756, of which the deceased was an Honorary member and Past County Master.

GREEN FEED FOR DAIRY COWS

The average pasture in Eastern Canada rapidly loses its succulence after the middle of July and in order to maintain the maximum flow of milk, supplementary feeds are necessary.

Mill feeds are expensive and are not succulent; therefore, it is economy to provide a sufficient amount of some form of green feed to supplement the pastures until a supply of roots is available. If this is not provided, a decrease in milk flow and also in condition is sure to occur.

At the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, it has been found profitable to provide one acre of oats, peas and vetches for each five cows kept. This will average one ton of green feed per cow, or twenty pounds per day for 100 days. The mixture sown is 1½ bushels of Banner oats, 1 bushel of Golden Vine peas and 1½ bushels of vetches per acre. Another good mixture is 2 bushels of oats and 1 bushel of peas. It is advisable to seed this in three lots, the first as early as possible in May and the others at two-week intervals. If it is found that the pastures are supplying sufficient feed until the middle or last of August, the first lot may be ripened and threshed providing an excellent grain mixture for winter feeding.

Fall turnips are also excellent as a pasture supplement, but are not as sure a crop as O. P. V. due to aphids infestation and club root infection.

In localities where corn will grow well, this crop makes an excellent green feed, but requires cultivation during the growing season, a disadvantage it shares with turnips as compared with the O. P. V. crop recommended above.

A domestic science student says it is no trouble at all to make honeymoon salad. It is made of "lettuce alone".

First Suburbanite—How did your potato crop turn out, old chap?

CONTROL OF THE CANADA THISTLE

A weed so well established as is Canada thistle, will not be exterminated by any means at present in sight, but a reasonable measure of control is both possible and economically sound.

This control, for its success, demands attention to two things, the seeding habit and the rooting habit of the plant. While the latter is receiving suitable attention in the fields, the former must be watched beyond their borders.

The seed menace requires that all stragglers in waste places, along roadside, etc., be destroyed before maturity by cutting, salting and pasturing, plowing under, or otherwise. Each neighboring farmer must be likewise concerned; a state of things which inspection under provincial weed laws is intended to bring about. Each farmer, moreover must avail himself of all the protection in the matter of seed purchases, that the Seeds Act of Canada offers. No amount of work performed in the field, will keep them free of Canada thistle, while its exceptional facilities for seed dispersal are being ignored.

Field infestations themselves are ordinarily best dealt with by the method of starvation. By the time a rotation of crops has come around to hay, following grain, thistles will have reached their maximum recovery from previous suppression. If the choice of hay crop, and its stand is such as to make a good smother crop, this is the first step. Legums, especially alfalfa and sweet clover, make a heavy cover. They are removed in ample time to forestall seeding of the thistles, and to allow a long period of after-harvest fallowing. As soon as thistles begin to show after mowing, the ground is plowed, and, through the the balance of the season, the underground parts are kept derived of nourishment from the foliage, by use of the bread-shared cultivator. A somewhat deeper plowing late in the fall is a good finish to the season' work; and a cultivated crop the following year gives further opportunity to keep the foe at bay.

It will be seen that only the live-stock or mixed farmer can make full use of the method outlined. The crux of the matter is that only to the extent that the straight grain farmer can modify his practice in this direction, can he hope for much success in combatting a weed so well at home in a grain crop.

Sprays and other chemical expedients that have been experimented with many yet provide additional offensives for use on small areas; but experience at the Dominion Experimental Farm has not proved them generally economical. All they can do usually is to deprive the thistles of foliage, and by repeated application thus starve the rootstocks, a process more satisfactorily accomplished under field conditions, by tillage methods. Other tests to be conducted this season may justify a better word concerning one promising material.

The man who is all "Ts" expects every one else to be all ears.

Civil war has broken out in China again, which, considering the record of the past eighteen years, only shows what a peace loving people can do if they try hard enough.

Only custom-built cars can compare in beauty of design and luxury of finish with the new-style Willys-Knight. Sweep and verve of line, distinctive harmony of color and perfection of detail make it the outstanding creation of today's style specialists.

And never before has such a large and powerful Knight-engined car been offered at so low a price. The new-style Willys-Knight brings the patented, double sleeve-valve engine within easy reach of the thousands who have previously been restrained from buying by the necessarily higher cost of this superior motor.

It offers an engine free from costly carbon cleaning and valve grinding. An engine smooth, silent, powerful at the beginning, that actually increases in power and smoothness to a mileage limit impossible to determine.

CONTROL OF THE CANADA THISTLE

A weed so well established as is Canada thistle, will not be exterminated by any means at present in sight, but a reasonable measure of control is both possible and economically sound.

This control, for its success, demands attention to two things,—the seeding habit and the rooting habit of the plant. While the latter is receiving suitable attention in the fields, the former must be watched beyond their borders.

The seed menace requires that all stragglers in waste places, along roadside, etc., be destroyed before maturity by cutting, salting and pasturing, plowing under, or otherwise. Each neighboring farmer must be likewise concerned; a state of things which inspection under provincial weed laws is intended to bring about. Each farmer, moreover must avail himself of all the protection in the matter of seed purchases, that the Seeds Act of Canada offers. No amount of work performed in the field, will keep them free of Canada thistle, while its exceptional facilities for seed dispersal are being ignored.

Field infestations themselves are ordinarily best dealt with by the method of starvation. By the time a rotation of crops has come around to hay, following grain, thistles will have reached their maximum recovery from previous suppression. If the choice of hay crop, and its stand is such as to make a good smother crop, this is the first step. Legums, especially alfalfa and sweet clover, make a heavy cover. They are removed in ample time to forestall seeding of the thistles, and to allow a long period of after-harvest fallowing. As soon as thistles begin to show after mowing, the ground is plowed, and, through the the balance of the season, the underground parts are kept derived of nourishment from the foliage, by use of the broad-shared cultivator. A somewhat deeper plowing late in the fall is a good finish to the season' work; and a cultivated crop the following year gives further opportunity to keep the foe at bay.

It will be seen that only the live-stock or mixed farmer can make full use of the method outlined. The crux of the matter is that only to the extent that the straight grain farmer can modify his practice in this direction, can he hope for much success in combatting a weed so well at home in a grain crop.

Sprays and other chemical expedients that have been experimented with many yet provide additional offensives for use on small areas; but experience at the Dominion Experimental Farm has not proved them generally economical. All they can do usually, is to deprive the thistles of foliage, and by repeated application thus starve the rootstocks, a process more satisfactorily accomplished under field conditions, by tillage methods. Other tests to be conducted this season may justify a better word concerning one promising material.

The man who is all "Ts" expects every one else to be all ears.

Civil war has broken out in China again, which, considering the record of the past eighteen years, only shows what a peace loving people can do if they try hard enough.

OBITUARY

Wesley McGill.

During the early hours of Sunday, May 19th, there passed away Wesley McGill, the last surviving member of the family of seven sons and three daughters of Thomas and Mary Ann McGill.

Born in the Township of Camden, on June 1st, 1852, he lived his life and died here.

In April of 1879, he married Deborah, second daughter of Wm. and Margaret Sexsmith, and together they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, on April 8th, 1929, at their home at Centreville, together with a large gathering of relatives and their Pastor, Rev. H. A. Bunt and Mrs. Bunt. Of kindly and generous disposition, the friend of all and best loved by them who knew him best.

While in health, he took an active interest in the affairs of church and municipality, holding the office of councillor, deputy-reeve and reeve, and a faithful attendant of the United Church, of which he was a member.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Ed. Loughhead, Enterprise, Ont., and five grandchildren, Mrs. A. S. Furrs, Toronto; Dale McGill, Springville, N.Y.; Bert McGill, Oxford, Mich., and Glenn and Howard Loughhead, Enterprise, Ont.

The funeral services were in charge of Rev. H. A. Bunt, from his home to the United Church at Centreville, who based a comforting and helpful address on: 1 Corinthians, 15th chapter and 55th verse. The last rites at the grave were under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 756, of which the deceased was an Honorary member and Past County Master.

GREEN FEED FOR DAIRY COWS

The average pasture in Eastern Canada rapidly loses its succulence after the middle of July and in order to maintain the maximum flow of milk, supplementary feeds are necessary.

Mill feeds are expensive and are not succulent; therefore, it is economy to provide a sufficient amount of some form of green feed to supplement the pastures until a supply of roots is available. If this is not provided, a decrease in milk flow and also in condition is sure to occur.

At the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, it has been found profitable to provide one acre of oats, peas and vetches for each five cows kept. This will average one ton of green feed per cow, or twenty pounds per day for 100 days. The mixture sown is 1½ bushels of Banner oats, 1 bushel of Golden Vine peas and ½ bushels of vetches per acre. Another good mixture is 2 bushels of oats and 1 bushel of peas. It is advisable to seed this in three lots, the first as early as possible in May and the others at two-week intervals. If it is found that the the pastures are supplying sufficient feed until the middle or last of August, the first lot may be ripened and threshed providing an excellent grain mixture for winter feeding.

Fall turnips are also excellent as a pasture supplement, but are not as sure a crop as O. P. V. due to aphids infestation and club root infection.

In localities where corn will grow well, this crop makes an excellent green feed, but require cultivation during the growing season, a disadvantage it shares with turnips as compared with the O. P. V. crop recommended above.

A domestic science student says it is no trouble at all to make honeymoon salad. It is made of "lettuce alone".

First Suburbanite—"How did your potato crop turn out, old chap?"

Second Suburbanite—"Splendid, old man. Some as big as marbles, some as big as peas, and a lot of little ones".

THE HOUR FOR CANADIAN ACTION HAS ARRIVED

The promotion and growth in Canada on a sound and continuing basis of our wild life resources has been largely dependent upon a slow but sure sympathetic public opinion. It seems that has arrived.

Men in official life have for many years advocated protection of the wild life resources of the country and education of the people accordingly. They have sought the cooperation of wild life protective associations of various kinds. It seems they have this now.

Many scribes have from time to time sought with their pens to awaken the Canadian conscience sufficiently to make a beginning along constructive lines. As a result, numerous natural haunts of the wild fowl have been set apart as sanctuaries for the protection of these migrants on their annual excursions for breeding, nesting and rearing purposes, and as a result Canada continues to supply eighty-five percent of these birds for North America but, Canada has advanced more rapidly along these lines since Jack Miner with nothing in his purse seriously undertook the gigantic task of setting up on his own 200 acre farm an exhibit that is really worthy of the name "Sanctuary." Here, literally thousands of economic song birds annually nest and rear families among the hundreds of plant and tree life started there a number of years ago by the "Father Of Them All," Jack Miner. With nothing but an overlarge heart and real constructive interest did Jack Miner attempt these things in addition to travelling the country to spread the gospel of wild life and forest protection.

Righteous and sympathetic editorial tribute has met the recent appeal of Jack Miner for financial encouragement to maintain for the future this unusual haven for all forms of economic wild life. Many editors of Canada have in recent years visited this area and viewed at close range those beautiful and sweet-throated weed seed and insect pursuers including Bob White, and the larger of our migratory colony of game birds, the Canadian Goose. Naturally and fortunately for Jack Miner and the cause he expounds, these editors found themselves equipped and otherwise in an enviable position when Jack Miner spoke for funds.

Having visited the Miner Game Preserve, and Jack Miner, for many years and having carefully observed the growth there of all wild things and the care necessary to their maintenance on a sound and continuing basis I have my doubts that Jack can finance that undertaking over a period of future years on the sum he asks namely, $25,000 a year. I don't think anyone now assisting, and anxious to assist, with a view of influencing the Federal Government to increase their grant should attempt to call Jack Miner down to $5,000 a year because he displays an unusual modesty in the matter. He should be allowed to have at least a few coppers on hat empty purse at all times. This is practically the only item in Jack Miner's views which I seriously dispute the accuracy of. In my humble opinion he should have at least $25,00 a year, and I prefer to see him get it now than be compelled to come back in two or three years and ask for it.

Jack Miner's idea has been "sold" to the people of the United States and Jack Miner has lectured that country from one end to the other. He has lectured Canada also, but we Canadans are slower to grasp ideas of this kind regardless of their worthiness.

As the Canadian people ge nerally wait for activities by the United States along almost any line (except in fiscal policy) am I not right in assuming that "The Hour For Canadian Action Has Arrived" by granting and increasing Jack Miner's request?

CANADIAN CANNERY BIGGEST SARDINE PLANT IN EMPIRE

Ottawa, Sardines are small fish but they mean big money, in the total, in Canada's Atlantic Coast fishery production, and through the season in New Brunswick they keep busy the largest sardine cannery in the British Empire. This cannery is at Black's Harbor on the Charlotte county coast of New Brunswick, the province where by far the greater part of the Canadian sardine fishery is carried on. A small catch of sardines is also taken in Quebec and some of the fish are also caught in Nova Scotia waters. The marketed value of the Canadian production is over a million dollars a year.

Statistics compiled by the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries show that total catch of sardines in 1928 was 31,798,200 pounds—a big increase over 1927 when 12,936,000 pounds were landed. The 1928 catch had a landed value to the fishermen of $340,325 as compared with $202,056 in the previous year.

RECORD YEAR IN MINERAL INDUSTRY REVEALED IN OFFICIAL REPORT

Official figures on Canada's mineral industry for 1928, marking the attainment of a new record output were made public today in the course of an address on this subject by Mr. S. J. Cook, chief of the mining, metallurgical and chemical branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa, presented at the opening session of the 30th annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy now being held in Winnipeg.

In the Bureau of Statistics' preliminary report on the mineral production of Canada for 1928; copies of which were distributed at the Institute meeting, it is noted that new output records were established for: cadmium, copper, gold, lead, nickel, metals of the platinum group, and zinc among the metals; cement, coal, gypsum, lime, salt, and stone in the non-metals and structural materials field; and in point of total annual output values, records were also attained for natural gas, petroleum, and sand and gravel.

Metals made magnificent advances, despite prevailing lower prices for lead and zinc. Improvement in prices of silver and copper helped to augement the total values.

Fuels, comprising coal, natural gas and crude petroleum, rose about 11.6 million dollars in value.

Other non-metals, including a long list of which some of the chief items were asbestos, feldspar, gypsum, magnesite, pyrites, quartz, salt, talc and soapstone, were valued at 1.1 million dollars above the total for the preceding year.

Building materials comprising cement, lime, brick, stone, sand and gravel, reflected the activity in construction during the year and at $49,882,235 attained a total production value far in excess of the figures for any previous year.

While Canada produces about 70 different mineral products of econimic value, 18 of these make up 98 per cent of the total annual output value. More than 50 other products, each interesting in itself, and many having potential commercial value, are produced in relatively small amounts, so that they are not, presently, of great economic importance. In order of production values the leading products are: coal, gold, copper, nickel, cement, lead, silver, clay products, asbestos, zinc, stone, natural gas, sand and gravel, lime, gypsum, petroleum, cobalt, and salt.

Copies of this report, (which is available in both English and French editions) it was stated, may be had free of charge, on application to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

MAKING A LAWN

When one is making a new lawn it is a matter of great importance to have the soil in suitable condition. A loamy soil is best and will make a very good lawn if properly graded, the surface made even and fine, and the seed put in properly. When one has a clay soil it is necessary to see to it that it is well underdrained as a matter of first importance. It is a good practice also to apply an inch or two of sand or black muck to the surface and have it worked in to the top five inches of the clay. This, of course, should be done after the grading has been accomplished. Neither black muck nor sand will grow good grass without fertilizer. The presence of the clay will help but the addition of a good mixed fertilizer is well worth while. A mixture of four parts of sulphate of ammonia, three parts acid phosphate, and one part muriate of potash makes a complete fertilizer that may be applied at the rate of three hundred pounds per acre of lawn. This should be well worked in to the top soil by raking. A good lawn seed mixture is one consisting of Kentucky blue grass and White Dutch clover mixed at the rate of four to six bushels of the blue grass from one to two pounds of the Dutch clover. This amount is sufficient to sow an acre of land. For small lawns of an area of fifty by one hundred feet, one peck of the Kentucky blue grass to a good handfull of the Dutch clover is about the right amount. This should be carefully sown when there is no wind blowing, and the soil well raked and rolled. If an application of this sort is followed within a few days with a shower of rain it will be but a short time until a green sward is evident. As most surface soil contains weed seeds it is probable that there will be a considerable crop of weeds appear with the new grass. As these are as a rule mostly annuals they will disappear with the frequent cuttings that will be necessary during the season. These recommendations for the making of a lawn are contained in an address delivered by Mr. M. B. Davis of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa at the annual convention of the Ontario Horticultural Association.

MUSICAL REVUE

Remarkably Well Presented by Local Talent in the Rideau Theatre

Desire J. Bourque added another successful revue to his long list of triumphs on Thursday night in his new production "Smile" met with the enthusiastic approval of large audiences at the matinee and evening performances in the Rideau Theatre. With a cast entirely made up of local young people, "Smile" and all the qualifications necessary to make the revue a smashing hit. Comedy in plenty was provided by Bert Waterhouse and Wilfred Livant, the singing and dancing was of a much higher standard than is usually found in an amateur revue; the costumes were bright, novel and pleasing to the eye and on the whole "Smile" provided one of the finest entertainments Smiths Falls has seen in years.

Musical revues are generally named in haphazard fashion but in this case the title was certainly appropriate. "See Smile and Smile" had been the slogan adopted by Mr. Bourque and there were few who watched the brilliant revue without allowing themselves the luxury of a pleased smile.

There were numerous highlights to the revue and some of the scenes were unique and pleasing. The "Living Garden" scene, featuring Desire J. Bourque and Jessie Christie, was generally the biggest hit of the show and the dancing and scenic effects in this beautiful number were really wonderful. The "Showboat" number with Jack Callan and the boys was another unusual feature and "Pirates Bold" provided a picturesque and colorful scene that earned much applause. The costumes were all new and furnished the finishing touch that lifted "Smile" from the class of the ordinary amateur revue to a fast moving refreshing show that developed into a real success as it neared the finale.

Every credit is due Mr. Bourque whose efforts, as reported throughout the revue, left nothing to be desired, and although the time for preparation had been limited, "Smile" ran smoothly without a hitch. The costumes were splendid and the dancing throughout was pretty and graceful. Solo performances were rendered and the stage arrangements and lighting were perfect. "Smile" fairly shrieked with brightness and it will go down in the mythical book as one of the best amateur productions to ever show in Smiths Falls.

Mr. Bourque himself took a leading part in the revue and his magnificent personality, splendid stage appearance and extraordinary talent played a big part in the success of the revue. The audience's applause was heard in person, solo parts and his graceful dancing was one of the features of the show. Record-News, Smiths Falls, June 28th, 1929.

Dreaded anaemia can be banished

IN middle life, when vitality is not as great as it once was, and the blood stream is naturally thinned and devitalized, anaemia can easily get a hold on the system. At first, just a tired feeling, it quickly results in bodily weakness that ordinary tonics cannot avail.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills then become a wonderful aid. They supply the necessary oxygen to the blood, increase the blood count and restore waning vigor.

"I was seized with anaemia," writes Mrs. Charles Lambert of Port Hope, Ont., "and was in a very bad state. As a girl I had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition and decided to take them once more. Again the result was marvellous. In a little while I was fully well again."

You cannot begin too early to check anaemia. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold at your druggist's or by mail, postpaid, 50 cents, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 545

MAPLE LEAF INSTITUTE

The annual Summer Series meeting of the Maple Leaf Institute was held at the North Fredericksburgh Town Hall, on May 28th, at 2 p.m. Owing to an epidemic of measles the President, Mrs. J. W. Cummings, was unable to attend. Mrs. J. R. Ackerman, 1st Vice Pres., took charge of the meeting. Community singing was followed by Ode and repeating of Creed in unison. In a few pleasing remarks, Mrs. Ackerman welcomed the speaker of the day, Mrs. M. E. Lowe, Government Delegate. Minutes of last Summer Series were read, followed by Secretary's report of year's work and Auditors' report.

It was decided to have the piano tuned before June 21st. Music by Mrs. Wilfred Cuthill. Mrs. Lowe's address on "Institutes and What They Mean to Home and Country". Solo by Miss Johnston, "Moonlight and Roses".

Mrs. Lowe then talked to us on "Efficiency and Self Control as a Science". Three ladies paid membership fees. Collection, $1.60.

Meeting closed with "God Save the King", after which a very enjoyable lunch was served.

SUMMER SERIES

On May 30th, Conway, Ernestown, Bay View and Bath Institutes met in the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Hare, of Ernestown, took the chair. The meeting opened by singing the Ode.

The reports from the different branches were given, and everyone felt the past year had been one of success.

Mrs. C. Thompson gave a humorous reading which put every one in good spirits for the afternoon.

Mrs. Lowe, the Representative, then gave her paper on "The Institute and What it Means to Home and Country". This was a remarkable paper and one worth hearing. Miss D. Compton rendered an instrumental, which was followed by another paper by Mrs. Lowe. This was taken in two parts :— (a) Food and Its Influence on Our Lives and Temperament; (b) Faith and Agreeableness is the Secret of Youth. Discouragement is a Disease.

A reading, "Neighbours", was given by Mrs. Collins, of Bath.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, after which lunch was served.

"Pa," said Clarence, "what is an optimist?"

"He's a man, son," replied his dad, "who thinks if he tells the back-seat driver to shut up, she'll keep mum for the rest of the trip."

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Susannah Craig.

In the early morning of the 16th of May, 1929, there passed to her eternal rest, at 80 years of age, Susannah Alkenbrack, beloved wife of the late Henry Craig, who predeceased her twenty-one years ago. She was a loving mother and of a kind and cheerful disposition, and her home was always filled with hospitality for all. She was a good Christian, trying to live a life to please her Heavenly Father. She leaves to mourn one loss one son, Willet Craig, Arborfield, Sask., and two daughters, Mrs. James Kennedy, Westbrook, Ont., and Mrs. Silas Harris, Napanee, Ont., with whom she lived. One son, Nelson Craig, predeceased her ten years ago. Two sisters, Mrs. R. W. Kimmerly, Deseronto Road, and Mrs. John Pinkle, Carievale, Sask., and two brothers, J. B. Alkenbrack, Hopkins, Minn., and J. W. Alkenbrack, Fort William, Ont., also survive. There are also eleven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, who have memories of a loving grandmother. The deceased was formerly of Moscow.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held at her late home. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Woodger, of Grace United Church. The words that were spoken were impressive and comforting. The pallbearers were her nephews, John Henry Craig, Levi Card, Wellington Craig, Claud Alkenbrack, Stewart Clement, and Corey Cummings. The remains were taken to Moscow for burial in the family plot, the burial service being conducted by Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Yarker. The floral tributes were a wreath from her daughters, spray from Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kimmerly, and wreath from Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Alkenbrack and family.

CANADIAN GARDENING SERVICE

Corn.

The season for corn, like most other vegetables, can be greatly extended if advantage is taken of the fact that there are early medium and late varieties. Even in those parts of the West where this crop is somewhat of a gamble there are usually two varieties from which a fairly safe choice can be made. In the average district in Canada, three or four plantings at intervals of a week or so can be made and will furnish a supply of this table delicacy for a month or more. The Golden Bantam type is a standard in most sections and can now be secured in both an extra early and early variety. Corn requires loamy soil and plenty of moisture and sunshine. It is a gross feeder and therefore should be supplied with plenty of manure or commercial fertiliser, and it requires thorough and frequent cultivation. Allow about five kernels to a hill, and count on an average of about a cub and a half per stalk.

Gladiolus.

Because they are so easily grown, make a brilliant showing, and are hardy, gladiolus are now among our most popular flowers. They will come into bloom in from fifty to ninety days depending upon variety, hence a long season of flowering is possible. In those sections of the country where early Fall frosts are encountered, naturally the earliest varieties should be chosen. This flower will grow in almost any soil, but prefers a rich open loam, properly drained. Plenty of moisture and sunshine is necessary, though too much of the latter will fade out the flowers and, therefore, it is advisable to locate the bed in a position where it will be partially shaded by light tree growth during the middle of the day. The gladiolus bed should be moved each year so that there will be no trouble from any disease that may be left in the soil. Two to four inches deep is be right depth to plant in heavy clay and about five inches in sandy soil. When planted in clumps, which is the best way from a decorative standpoint, place about eight inches apart, but where grown for cutting it is well to plant in rows in the vegetable garden about four inches apart. The taller of the individual plants will have to be staked, likely, to prevent keeling over in a wind or a heavy rain. The bulblets or corms found clinging to the large bulbs in the Fall may be sown in rows about an inch apart. They should be dug up each Fall and stored away in some frost-proof place and planted again in the same way the next year. In two or three seasons they will obtain their full, flowering size. Gladiolus require frequent cultivation and when the flower-spikes appear, sprinkling the soil around the stems, but not actually touching them, with nitrate of soda at about a half ounce per square yard, will result in larger flowers. During cold spells, water late in the day, and in very hot weather, at night or early in the morning.

Special Flowers.

The real gardener will not be satisfied with just the ordinary run of flowers year after year, but requires many special varieties for particular purposes. There is, for instance, a shady corner in practically every garden, but this should not be neglected. In fact, there are certain flowers which do especially well in such a location, many of them in fact better in partial shade than in an open position. According to Miss Isabella Preston, of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Alyssum, Candytuft, Clarkia, Marvel of Peru, Lupine, Larkspur (Annual), Godetia, Verbena, Phlox, Pansy, Nicotine and Nemophila are recommended for shady positions. Even under the dense shade of our leafy trees, a brilliant show of Tuberous-Rooted Begonias, their wax-like flowers in an amazing array of colors, can be obtained. Then there are flowers popularly known as the ever-lasting sort which will provide material for Winter bouquets. Chief among these is the Helichrysum, or straw flower. This is a hardy annual growing about two feet high and producing yellow, bronze, pink and red flowers. There are also Rhodanthe, Statice, Acroclinium and several others. For preserving the flowers, pick with long stems just before the blooms open up fully and hang upside down in some warm, dark place. The Chinese lantern plant is also grown for permanent indoor decoration, as the pods of this turn bright red and puff up like Chinese lanterns when dry.

BIG Car Beauty Style Performance and something more—

IT takes more than mere size to make a BIG Six. It takes more than beauty, more than style, more than performance. True, a car needs all of these before it can become a BIG Six. True, Pontiac Big Six has all these.

But it has something more . . something that stamps it once and forever as a real BIG Six. It has the "feel" of a BIG Six. People accustomed to much driving will know immediately what that means.

And it's not a sensation you can counterfeit. You have but to sit behind the wheel, drive the car and get the "feel" of it . . you'll know in an instant whether or not you are driving a Big Six.

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT.

A fatal accident occurred at the Selby crossing of the Canadian National Railway tracks, at Napanee, on Sunday morning about 2 o'clock, as a result of which Ambrose Hunt, of Erinsville, lost his life, and Mr. Charles O'Neill, of Erinsville, who was driving the car, was seriously injured. The two men were on their way home when they crashed into a box car on a moving freight train. Hunt was thrown through the windshield, his head striking the car. He was rushed to Kingston Hospital in the ambulance, but it was found on arrival nothing could be done to save his life and he passed away Sunday afternoon. Mr. O'Neill who received painful chest injuries, was taken to his home in Erinsville, and from the last reports was making slow recovery. Mr. O'Neill is the proprietor of Palmetto pavilion at Beaver Lake, and is very widely known throughout the county. The remains of the late Mr. Hunt were taken to his home, north of Beaver Lake, on Monday, and the funeral was held on Tuesday.

DORLAND

The weather for the past few days has been most surprising. The middle of the week was unusually warm, people and horses were sweltering with the heat, but the sudden change to decidedly cool weather over the week-end gave everyone a chance to revive. — Mrs. Lowe, Deputation Speaker, addressed the Women's Institute on Wednesday evening. The meeting was well attended and her address should encourage the members of one of the oldest Institutes in view of the extent to which the work has spread, not only to all parts of the Dominion, but to lands far across the ocean as well. Mrs. Lowe said it was impossible to realize what it means to the downtrodden women of India.—There was no preaching service here on Sunday, but many of the congregation attended service either in Napanee in the morning or at Hayburn in the afternoon, and some were present at both places. Rev. H. B. Neal, of Wooler, who spoke at Hayburn, is a former pastor of this circuit, and always receives a warm welcome when he revisits any point on the circuit.—Miss Dorothy Magee spent the week-end in Napanee with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Keech.

ERNESTTOWN

We are having nice warm weather at present, which is much enjoyed by all.—Miss Mary Hamm, of Japan, has returned to her home here. — Miss Edna Glenn spent the week-end with her sister at Consecon. — Mr. Levi Thompson, of Morven, spent a few days with his son, Wesley Thompson.—A number of our Institute members attended the lecture given by Mrs. Lowe in Bath on Thursday last.—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Conroy, of Toronto, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Spring. — Mrs. E. Amey spent Tuesday with Mrs. Malcolm Hogle.—Mr. and Mrs. Asel Thompson, of Desmond, called at Charlie Morrow's recently.—Mrs. Fred Hudson's sale was well attended on Wednesday. — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clement, Miss Ida Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Hall, of Rome, N.Y., visited at Mr. and Mrs. Kellar's recently.—Mr. Milton Thompson is erecting a new barn. — Mr. Montgomery, our station agent, is confined to his house.—Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rogers and family left on Monday for their home at Yankiest Hill.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

On Monday, June 3rd, 1929, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Kimmerley celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding by entertaining about thirty guests from Desmondville, Hawley, Deseronto, Adolphustown, and Napanee, at their pleasant home, just East of Deseronto. The occasion was unique as the bride and groom were also celebrating their joint birthday.

Among those privileged to sit at the bride's table, lovely with tulips and lily-of-the-valley, were the guest of honour, Rev. R. J. Craig, who officiated at the wedding fifty years ago, Mrs. Henry Clement, daughter of the host and hostess, and Mr. Clement, Mr. Wesley Kimmerley, brother of the groom, and Mrs. Kimmerly, whose golden anniversary was celebrated over a year ago; Mrs. Alfred Keech, sister of the groom, and Mr. Keech, and Mr. Mendel Kimmerley, another brother.

After a delicious repast, and the added excitement of the bride's blowing out birthday candles before inserting the knife in her cake, the Rev. Mr. Craig gave some pleasing reminiscences, to which the groom responded. The Rev. R. W. Irvine also made a few apt remarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimmerley are both of U. E. Loyalist descent, worthy representatives of such noble ancestry, and their guests were grateful for an opportunity to offer congratulations, and also slight tokens of loyal affection. One of the most charming gifts was a mantel clock from the four grandchildren.

ENTERED INTO REST

On May 24th, 1929, the white winged messenger of death entered the home of Mr. Robert Pringle, at West Plain, and bore to the Paradise of God the soul of Mrs. Elizabeth Pringle, widow of the late James Riley Pringle, in her 74th year.

The deceased had not been well for a few weeks, having been subject to several attacks of acute indigestion. From these she seemed to rally, and was apparently much better and able to be up. On the day of her demise she had dinner and supper with the family, but she suffered a severe attack, lasting but a few minutes, later in the evening, from which she never rallied. Her end was clear and triumphant.

Of a retiring disposition she bore the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit which is in the sight of God of great price. She lived a beautiful, even life, patiently, perseveringly, pressing toward the mark of her high calling in Christ Jesus. Her home was always open to the ministers of the Gospel, and of her hospitality many have partaken from time to time.

The high esteem in which she was held in the neighborhood where she had spent all her days, was very manifest by the large attendance at her funeral, which was held in the United Church, by Rev. F. C. Bennett, assisted by Rev. A. E. Oliver, Pastor of the church. The service was very impressive throughout. The text used on the occasion is found in Matt. 24 : 44. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brooks sang very touchingly "There Will Be No Shadows on the Other Side", one of the favorites of the departed. Interment was made in the family plot at West Plain.

Mrs. Pringle was married in 1874, and there are left to mourn the loss of a true mother, seven daughters, three sons and two step-daughters, namely Mrs. Chas. Caughill, Niagara-on-the-Lake; Mrs. Milton Hughes, Mrs. Ezra Dafoe, Mrs. Reggie Valentine, Roblin; Mrs. G. W. Beaupit, Mrs. J. Saddler, Niagara; Mrs. F. Thompson, Chaumont, N.Y.; Wesley, William E., Robert, Roblin, and Mrs. Frances Pralick, Roblin; Mrs. Adam Scott, Sharpe Corners; also one brother, Mrs. Joseph Sedore, Napanee. Her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Yates; a step-daughter, Mrs. T. French and a step-son, Stephen, predeceased her.

The pall-bearers were John Belton, Jefferson Davis, Hazard Young, Robert Young, James Richmond and W. J. Tyner.

The family and relatives have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

IMPORTANCE OF THINNING VEGETABLES

Beginners in vegetable gardening are almost sure to make the mistake not only of sowing seed much to thickly, but also of leaving the plants too thick in the row. A very large amount of seed is wasted each year because of this and failure to have plants develop properly is another result of more consequence to the sower of the seeds than the waste of seed. Thinning of all vegetables is desirable as soon as the plants are large enough to catch hold of, that is, quite small. Lettuce can be used even though the plants are thick, but to have satisfactory individual plants of leaf lettuce the plants should be thinned to five or six inches apart, and the plants of head lettuce should be thinned to eight inches or more apart. They will not develop satisfactory heads if much closer than this. It has been in the Horticultural Division, Experimental Farm, Ottawa, that the larger varities of head lettuce give the most satisfactory results when the heads are nearly one foot apart. Carrots should be thinned to about an inch and one half apart: beets to two inches apart: parsnips to two inches apart: onions to one inch apart: spinach four to six inches apart. Radish if sown rather thinly are thinned as ready for use. Often too many kernels of corn are left in a hill. Five plants are quite sufficient to leave after the cutworms and birds have taken their toll. Bean plants should be from two to four inches apart, and peas about one inch apart.

Vegetables will not develop satisfactorily if the plants are thick, hence judicious thinning is very important.

LEMONADE TREE.

A Strange Tree Found In Rhodesia by J. A. G. Davey.

A tree which grows "lemonades" is one of a number of species found by James A. G. Davey in the course of a 50,000-mile trip around the world in which he has returned to New York.

The tree is called the baobab, or cream of tartar tree. It grows in Rhodesia, South Africa, in the vicinity of Victoria Falls, on the Zambesi river. Its pod is about the size of a large cucumber and contains, in addition to the seeds, a fine white powder.

The powder, according to Mr. Davey, looks like cream of tartar. The natives make a hole in the pod, fill it with water and shake it vigorously. The result, he said, is a drink which tastes like lemonade.

Quacks Invade Europe.

Many of the older generation will remember the old-time Indian medicine man who sold his cure-all concoctions from a red wagon under a sputtering oil light on city street corners and village squares.

He has almost vanished from the west, but his tribe hasn't died out. It has only gone to Europe. In Berlin, Paris, Vienna and other continental cities, you can find Big Chief What's-His-Name crying his wares to curious hosts of citizens. In his feathered headdress and quaintly-colored clothes, he is a novelty to the Europeans, who are taking his hokus-pokus claims seriously.

Included in these displays will be found lions, leopards, polar and grizzly bears, trained ostriches and zebras, the Sparks' group of "Rotation" horses, three elephant herds, fancy gaited and posing horses trained under the guiding hand of Carlos Carreon. Then there is the Bibb County Pig Circus, Sparks' Seals, and hosts of others of a novel nature.

The circus will also introduce the elaborately staged spectacle, "Lily of the Nile", in which all of the animals, performers, premier dancers, and a large chorus participate. I. O. O. F. CELEBRATION

Rain and cold weather played havoc with the Jubilee Picnic held under the auspices of Argyll Lodge No. 212, I.O.O.F., on Wednesday afternoon last.

For weeks the general and sub-committees have worked unceasingly to make the event a grand success, and only the weatherman prevented them in achieving their goal. If fine weather had prevailed it is estimated that the celebration would have been attended by at least 5000 people. However, the Oddfellows of Napanee never get down-hearted, and at noon when the clouds parted and Old Sol began to shine the various committees got busy, and by half past one had the arrangements made for the holding of the parade, it starting from the Armouries at 2 o'clock, led by the Citizens' Band.

In the parade were scores of cars also decorated cars, jazz band, and about one hundred and fifty Oddfellows. Arriving at the park the sports were soon gotten under way, consisting of races, quoits and tug-of-war.

Two teams were entered in the tug of war, Napanee Lodge No. 88 and Argyll Lodge No. 212, the former winning the handsome trophy.

Four teams competed in quoits — Madoc, Odessa, and the two lodges in Napanee.

In the preliminary games Argyll team defeated Madoc and Napanee team defeated Odessa. In the finals Argyll team won out by a narrow margin of points. Only four races were held, the hour being too late to start the remainder. The results were :—

Boys, under 10 years—1, Godfrey Paul; 2, Leonard Huffman.

Boys, under 15 years—1, Earl Richardson; 2, Kenneth Lapointe.

Girls, under 10 years—1, Jean Young; 2, Grace Markle.

Girls, under 15 years—1, Isobel Jackson; 2, Gussie Boyes.

The winners for the decorated cars were : 1, C. N. Loucks; 2, Harry Seymour; 3, Ray Huffman.

Following the sports the people wended their way to the grand stand, where a very interesting address was given by Rt. Jas. W. Hibbert, P. G. P. of London, who represented the Grand Masters, and who at the outset congratulated Argyll Lodge on its Jubilee year and then gave a brief synopsis of the splendid growth of the Order as a whole during the past fifty years. The speaker also referred to the humanitarian work that is being done at the Oddfellows' home.

An interesting ceremony took place preceding the address when Mr. John Wilson, who was initiated with Argyll Lodge in June, 1880, and Mr. Lester A. Scott, who was initiated in August, 1880, were each presented with a beautiful walking stick, with silver band subly engraved, these brethren being the two oldest members in point of membership in the lodge. Oddfellows were present from Madoc, Campbellford, Frankford, Deseronto, Odessa, Yarker, Tamworth, Enterprise, and Kingston, and the visiting lodges were presented with gavels.

Owing to the weather conditions the basket picnic was abandoned as was also the softball games.

The afternoon program was concluded about five o'clock and in the evening a dance was held in the Armouries which was attended by a large concourse of people.

The music was furnished by Walters' Orchestra, which was augmented by out of town musicians. Under the various committees were rewarded for their efforts and particular mention must be made to Assistant Leader No. 86 for the splendid support which its members gave to make the celebration a success.

Too floats in the parade which also deserve special mention were the one by the Napanee Legion and the other by Mr. Bourque.

Each and every member of the committee worked hard and if the weatherman had given them a reasonable break the celebration would have been a great success.

HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS WILL GO TO PRISON

By J. V. McAree.

Harry F. Sinclair will be the richest man who ever served a jail sentence in the United States, if indeed he does serve it. But within a month he must enter a jail in Washington and serve ninety days unless the President of the United States should pardon him. His other alternative is to leave the country. One is not more likely than the other and we may assume that Sinclair will go to jail. To escape fine and imprisonment, he drew lavishly upon his millions. He had the services of the best lawyers, the most unscrupulous agents. All failed him. He will remain chief of one of the greatest oil industries in the world unless a wave of moral indignation should arise and overwhelm him, of which there is no sign at the moment. It may be that he has passed his prime as a business and financial figure, but he remains one of the rich men of the country, and is to be envied his capacity for enjoyment. Not much sympathy will go his way.

A Great Gambler.

A gambler will always get what he usually calls a great kick out of life, and Sinclair is one of the greatest gamblers in the world. He owes everything he has to gambling. Sometimes he has guessed wrong. He guessed wrong in the matter of the oil leases with ex-Secretary Fall, but as he told his directors, the stakes were so great that he felt justified in making the hazard. He guessed wrong again when, at the time the Federal league was trying to establish itself as one of three major baseball leagues, Sinclair sank $500,000 in his effort to establish the new circuit in Newark. It is recalled that at the time he was engaged in this enterprise he was warned by Col. Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, to stay out because he did not have a big enough bank roll. Sinclair's answer was a challenge to Ruppert to meet him on one of the piers at Atlantic City and start throwing silver dollars into the ocean. Sinclair promised he would have dollars to throw long after Ruppert's zest for the contest had evaporated.

A Lucky Accident.

Harry Sinclair is in his 52rd year. He was born in Wheeling, West Virginia, where his father was a druggist. The family circumstances were scant, and seeking greener fields a move was made to Independence, Kansas, where he received his education. He studied pharmacy at the University of Kansas and in his spare time clerked in a drug store and mixed drinks. He had some previous experience in Oklahoma where he had served as waiter in a restaurant after some hopeful brokerage business had brought him down to bandpan. But it was to Oklahoma that he returned when opportunity offered. Here he had his first piece of good luck. Out shooting rabbits one day he discharged the shot through his foot, most of which had to be amputated. To many people this would not appear as any particular stroke of luck, but Sinclair had previously yielded to the importunities of an insurance agent and had a $5,000 accident policy, which he collected. With this in his pocket he sought out a baker who had an oil lease. Sinclair paid half his insurance claim for half of the lease. The new partners had a disagreement about drilling, and decided to dissolve relations. A map of the oil location was brought out, and Sinclair produced a coin. On the flip of the coin depended which part of the property should go to the winner. The coin favored Sinclair. The part he owned turned into a bonanza. The part that the baker received was comparatively worthless.

A Financial Snowball.

Thereafter Sinclair never looked back, so far as money is concerned. Had he been of a different temperament he might have retired, for the oil wells that were developed in his tract of land were enough to make him rich. But, as remarked, Sinclair was a gambler, and he used his first hundred thousand to win a million, and his million he reinvested in other oil claims; some of them developed, some of them mere prospects. Sinclair proved himself a generous man with his money. One of the first things he did when the thousands began to roll in on him was to present a public park to the City of Independence. He provided the members of a band to which he had been attached with uniforms and musical instruments. He built a fine house and entertained lavishly. He held to the theory that to make money one must spend money. He began buying up small oil producers, following the example of Standard Oil and he built a pipe line.

Spending Millions.

Of course the thing that changed Sinclair from a rich man to a multi-millionaire was something over which he had no control. That was the development of the automobile industry, which may be said to have begun some twenty-five years ago, when Sinclair was becoming a big figure in the oil business. His career was crowned in 1910, when he formed the $100,000,000 company which is known as the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation. He became a acting man on a grand scale with the purchase of the Rancocas farm, and he had some remarkable successes. He remained always the generous tipster, giving a $50 bill to a bellboy who had pleased him, buying $1,000 worth of tickets to a Broadway show he liked and distributing them in the street. He erected a million-dollar home on Fifth avenue and bought a million-dollar estate on Long Island. His lamentable dealings with Fall brought him public disgrace, and the failure of the machinery of justice to lay him by the heels was met with the cynical remark from the man in the street: "You can't put a hundred million dollars in jail." But it seems that after all you can. Sinclair will soon know. Another six months' sentence imposed on him for contempt remains to be settled in the courts.

There once was a man to Parliament sent
Cause he said that he always would say what he meant.
Then, inspired by ambition, he soon went ahead—
He found that he never need mean what he said.

The schoolboy who heard that Old Masters were going to America was delighted.

The Council here have had stop signs placed at the main streets throughout the village, also the Woman's Institute have had sign boards placed on the south and west highways. Mr. Richmond as one of the executive and Mrs. Richmond as a delegate from Tamworth United Sunday School— Anniversary Services were held on Sunday last in the United Church. Rev. Dr. Dyde, of Queen's University, Kingston, spoke to the large congregations both morning and evening. At the morning Rev. Dr. Dyde took his text from Genesis, Chapter 32, 24th verse, and his text in the evening was taken from the 5th chapter of Galatians, the 22nd verse. The speaker certainly held the large congregation spellbound as his discourse was full of interest from the beginning to the finish. The choir rendered special music at both services.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Jackie Kinkley, who departed this life on June 13th, 1927.

Sudden was the call that took him,
From our home to realms above;
But some day we hope to meet him
In that land where all is love.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brother. 24ap

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Charles Crouse, who departed this life on June 13th, 1928.

We mourn for one we dearly loved,
For one we could not save.
Beloved in life and mourned in death,
Remembered in the grave.

His loving voice we'll ne're forget,
Though years may pass away,
The loss of him we sadly feel
As keen as that first day.

When all is still and silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes,
Our thoughts are in a silent grave
Where our dear father lies.

What happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memories still,
But they have left an aching void
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by his Wife, Daughters and Son. 24ap

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

On Thursday, June 6th, at 3 o'clock, the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday School. An interesting programme was provided by those in charge of the June meeting. Miss Dora Casey gave a very pointed talk on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. D. B. Wilson handled the question of budgeting in a very clear and satisfactory way, pointing out the necessity for including our offerings to the church in our family budget, and that it should be considered just as much (if not more) a part of our expenditures as any other item. Mrs. Wilson also gave a short reckoning of the amount of moneys in view for the W. M. S. for the present year, and showed very plainly that if the members of the Society would each increase their systematic giving a little, the complete amount of our allocation could be reached without any special effort being made.

Miss Alma Thompson gave an intensely interesting report of the Branch meeting at Kingston, so that those who had not the privilege of attending the convention were enabled to receive the benefit of some of the inspirational moments of this large gathering of enthusiastic missionary workers.

Mrs. H. Pawson sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul".

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Geo. Switzer's committee served tea.

Tender Vegetables

With all danger of frost over, the tender vegetables may now go in. Chief among these will be the squash types. Watermelon, citron, muskmelon, cucumbers, marrows, pumpkin and Summer squash can be sown up to the 1st of July. They all do best when given warm, rich, light soil, and an abundance of well-rotted manure. They also require good drainage. An old chip pile where some well-rotted manure has been dug in and which is soaked with sunlight from morning till dusk is the ideal location. Plant six seeds to a hill, three feet apart and thin later to four plants which should be trained in different directions. The Summer squash, marrows, and most of the cucumbers should be picked and used when about half grown, the flesh being more tender then than later. This rule, of course, does not hold good for melons which must be dead ripe. To determine whether they have reached this stage or not, simply press the end of the fruit with the thumb and if it is a little soft one can safely consume them. This is also the time to plant Lima beans which will give a good crop if sown immediately. Limas need richer soil than string beans and there must be plenty of humus to retain the moisture. The pole Limas give the largest returns and usually do best with the amateur. They need seven feet of climbing space. Water well in dry weather, but keep the water off the leaves. This is also the time to set out egg plants, and to get their maximum yield which is three or four fruits to the plant, they must have rich soil but not too heavy and an abundance of moisture. Place them two feet apart in the row.

Perennials From Seed.

The cheapest way to start a perennial garden, and also probably the most interesting, is to secure the seed. This is the best month to sow it, and with the exception of poppies which are best planted in the ground in which they are to grow permanently, these flowers should be started in a special bed. Select a well-drained piece of soil which is sheltered from the wind and is partially shaded and work up the soil into a very fine state of tilth. Sow in rows about an inch apart. Press the soil down firmly over the seed which should not be planted deeper than about three times the diameter. In order to prevent the seed washing out, cover with some coarse sacking before watering and this may be left on until the seeds germinate. When the seedlings have developed their second set of leaves, transplant into a nursery bed, giving them from an inch to three inches each way, depending upon the variety. In the Fall, if the plants have done very well, they may be moved to their permanent position in the perennial border, but it is usually best to leave them where they are until Spring. These young plants will need extra protection in the form of loose straw, leaves or similar masterial during the Winter and it is best to dig a deep trench around the bed to make sure that they are free from standing water. If planted this June, they will flower next season and be at their best two years from now.

Celery.

Except for the commercial man, it is advisable to depend on plants for the celery crop. These plants may be secured from the nearest seedsman and the first of them may be set out now. For a continuous supply, set out a few plants every week or two up to the middle of July, with the bulk going in about the last mentioned time for storage for Fall and early Winter use. Well-drained muck is the ideal soil but celery can be grown on any rich, drained soil provided it is not too compact. Heavy applications of manure are advisable, with nitrate of soda during the early stages of growth. Water plants well before removing from flats and if possible have soil moist into which they are being transplanted. Give them from six to eight inches each way in rows about three feet apart. Cultivate early and consistently during the season. In the Fall, the simplest way to bleach the celery is to place boards close up against the plants on both sides of the row, and hill those up a little with earth to keep them in place. Celery will keep half of the Winter in cool, fairly dry storage.

Hints

Keep a sharp lookout for bugs and fungus pests, and have sprays ready to attack them on a moment's notice.

Cosmos planted along the fences will make a good screen and provide an abundance of cut flowers from August.

Alyssum, either normal or dwarf, is the ideal low edging plant. Alternated with the deep blue lobelia in clumps, a very attractive border is produced.

WOMAN, 101, ENJOYS FIRST VISIT AS HOSPITAL GUEST

Few persons can hope to equal, let alone surpass, the record set by Mrs. Louise Amey, formerly of Central Square, who will be 101 years old on June 17th, and who is enjoying her first visit to a hospital, which she finds a grand new adventure.

As a patient in Onondaga street, she has designated herself as official grandmother to the staff and all visitors—especially since all members of her own family are in Canada.

Until a week ago, Mrs. Amey stayed with Mr. and Mrs. William Clement of Central Square, but the illness of the latter prevented her from taking care of her visitor and friend, necessitating Mrs. Amey's removal to a hospital.

Despite her 100 years, she is "up and doing" all the time, and her only quiet moments are when she is asleep or listening in on the radio earphones, comfortably resting against the raised upper section of the modern hospital bed.

Enjoys Visits.

Visiting hours with the centenarian, who recalls many interesting anecdotes from her rich experience, are curtailed only by the orders of doctors and nurses, for if she had her own way, she would receive callers 'all day long.

"There is nothing I enjoy so much as a good confab," she admitted. "You know once I did a lot of entertaining. I was born in Canada, and lived there most of my life. We had a big house at Morven, near Napanee, in Ontario, Canada, and you can guess how large the house is when I tell you that we had two parties of forty each in one week. When my daughter married, we had more than 100 persons there, and there was no crowding."

Incidents of the far distant past and events which happened 80 years ago are far easier for Mrs. Amey to recall than happenings during the past few years.

Memory Accurate.

That her memory is still accurate is shown by the tenacity with which important facts cling to her. "My daughter, Mrs. E. B. Fowler, lives at 147 Rubrage street, Peterboro', Canada, she said. "She had two children, a son and a daughter, and the son has two children. Robert is studying law and the girl is in high school, I guess. I can't exactly remember."

Mrs. Amey herself taught school in Canada until she was married to Hiram Amey. She loved her work, enough to continue teaching until she was 26 years old. As in the present week-ending age, she visited her fiance's folk from Saturday night to Monday morning, and before her marriage, assisted in selecting the farm, "for Mr. Amey wanted me to have one that I liked," she admitted.

Before her marriage she was Miss Louise Davey, a member of the noted Davey family, which included Leonard Lewis Davey, a Methodist minister who for 40 years preached in Watertown and nearby towns, and Nelson Davey, also a preacher.

Sister Still Living.

All but two of the nine Davey children, according to Mrs. Amey, the eldest, are dead. Belle, 13 years her junior, is still living. "Her name now is Belle Richardson, and she lives in Canada, so I guess I will never see her again," she said.

"We come from a long lived family, and I may live to be 103", she said. "That would be only a little while longer. My mother lived to be 98, but my father died quite young. He was only 80 years old when he passed away. I've never worked very hard, and for the past 40 years I haven't worked at all, so I'm not worn out like some people. I've never been sick, either."

Her straight thinking, her enjoyment of her surroundings, which are nicer than most homes, she admits, and her keen interest in all that goes on, make her unusual for her age. Even her white hair, which is usually extremely thin on most aged persons, is long enough to form an eight-inch braid down her back.

Plans Birthday Party.

She takes pride in her activity, and looks on women 40 years her junior as older for their age than she. "When I came here," she explained, "I rode 18 miles in a car and then stayed up all day. That's pretty good for a woman going on 101 years. And this summer, when I have a birthday, all my relatives from Canada are coming to my birthday party."—The Post-Standard, Syracuse, N.Y., Wednesday, March 6th, 1929.

When Baby Is Well Mother Is Happy

The happy mother is the one whose baby is well — it is the laughing, gurgling baby who always brings joy to the home. When baby is ill everyone in the home suffers — not only through worry over the little one but through loss of sleep — no one can find rest with a sick baby in the home. Thousands of mothers are happy mothers because they have found the way to keep their little ones well—or if sickness does come on suddenly, as it usually does with little ones, they have found the way to speedily bring the baby back to health again. Mrs. George Kech, Lindberg, Alta., is one of these mothers and she writes as follows:—"I am the happy mother of a seventeen-month-old baby girl. Baby is healthy and strong and sleeps well at night. I give her no other medicine but Baby's Own Tablets and she just loves them. I am never without the Tablets in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion and make the cutting of teeth easy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The druggist was awakened long after midnight by the violent ringing of his doorbell. On looking out his window, he saw a young miss in evening dress.

"What's the matter," he cried, as he pulled on his dressing gown. "Somebody ill?"

"Oh, no," she cried gally; "but I'm at a dance close by and I've mislaid my rouge."

"Really?" asked the druggist, softly. "Well I'm sorry, but I never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a cheek like yours!"

CONCERT IN A CAVE.

Choral Society Sings Songs 600 Feet Underground.

A choral concert in a cave 600 feet below the surface is certainly a very uncommon event, and those who were privileged to hear the songs sung by the choral society of Natisone in the famous grottoes of Posthumia described the scene as a dream, writes a Rome correspondent. The concert was held in a circular cavern with a dome-shaped roof, known as the "Elysian Fields," which possesses considerable acoustic properties.

Every year thousands and thousands of tourists visit the famous stalactite caverns of Posthumia, formerly known as Adelsberg, distant about fifty miles from Trieste. The largest and most magnificent formations of the kind in Europe, they extend into the heart of the earth for a distance of over twelve miles, of which little more than half has yet been explored.

The Italian Government has made the grottoes more accessible to the public by the installation of a small railway which runs from the entrance to the so-called Mount of Calvary, passing through the variegated beauty of the glittering stalactites. So beautiful and rich in colors are the caves that when the late Queen of Roumania, Carmen Sylva, visited the grottoes, she wrote on the visitors' book: "Fairy tales are still real—underground."

SINCLAIR ANNOUNCES LIBERALS HAVE ADOPTED LIQUOR CONTROL ACT

Pledges Impartial and Strict Enforcement — Would Administer Act As Temperance Measure and Give Commission Full Scope in Management.

Fort William, June 3rd.—Charging that Premier Ferguson had not given the people the liquor control he promised in 1926, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M.P.P., Liberal leader in the legislature, to-night announced here that the Liberal party had accepted the principle of the Liquor Control Act and proposed, if elected to power, to give it strict enforcement as a temperance measure.

This announcement of a new Liberal policy on liquor was Mr. Sinclair's opening shot in the campaign which he and some of his followers in the legislature have launched in New Ontario. The Liberal leader made his declaration at a large meeting in the city hall auditorium.

Mr. Sinclair declared that the change of policy was brought about by reason of the vote of the people in the 1925 general election. The temperance plank adopted by the Liberal convention in 1919 pledging support to the O.T.A. was no longer applicable, he said.

Attacking the Ferguson government's operation of the act, the Liberal leader charged that the present administration was wholly partisan, that political appointees constituted the staff, and that the act was handled "for the advantage of the government and not as promised, as an aid to temperance."

He accused the government of bad faith in that it denied the public information as to the amount of liquor sales in individual stores. The people, he said, should have the fullest information on all the act's operations.

Free From Politics

"To make the act effective," Mr. Sinclair declared, "there must be a government which will allow its commission full scope in its management and control, free from political interference, a government economical in its general administration and not grasping for every dollar to avoid a deficit, and a government prepared to give strict enforcement of the act as a temperance measure, regardless of political consequences. Liberals, if entrusted with office, will give this kind of government and will enforce the act impartially and strictly.

Discussing the question Mr. Sinclair said:

The provincial Liberal Convention, in 1919 at which time the Ontario Temperance act was in force, laid down the policy of the party in regard to temperance legislation as follows: "Moved by William Proudfoot, M.P.P., seconded by Mrs. J. Wesley Bundy:

"Whereas the people of the province of Ontario by referendum, vote will decide the question of provincial prohibition, and whereas after the referendum vote is taken it will be necessary to see that proper legislation is provided and the will of the people is carried out;

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, affirms its attitude in favor of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the provincial jurisdiction, and pledges itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the majority of the people as expressed by the said referendum vote."

"The convention of 1922, while the O. T. A. was still in force, made no reference to the matter by way of repeal or amendment. This plank therefore remained. The 1926 provincial election came on with the O.T.A. still in force and the temperance plank of party as passed in convention in 1919 still in force and binding upon the party.

In the 1926 election the government made the issue government control as a repeal of the O.T.A.

"In my manifesto to the people, as leader of the Liberal party in the 1926 election, I said: "The proposed policy is diametrically opposed to the principles of the Liberal party, as decided time and time again and as announced by myself at the last session of the Legislature, Liberals must battle to support the will of the people, and that will was unmistakably expressed in reference to the O. T. A. by the plebiscites of 1919 and 1924. That expression of the people's will Mr. Ferguson arbitrarily proposed to disregard. To this arbitrary action Liberals are opposed as contrary to the fundamental principles of Liberalism. Liberals everywhere regret the introduction of this question into party politics by the premier. They believe it is a matter which the people should settle for themselves upon its merits, and, according to their own best judgment, and that having settled it, the legislature should abide by the decision and enforce the will of the people. The O.T.A. as voted upon and endorsed by the people must be enforced by the legislature as long as the people by their votes say they wish to have it so."

"I stated the same principle on every platform where I spoke. The decision of the people was against my platform and in favor of Government Control.

Discard Temperance Plank.

"By reason of the vote of the people at the last election the temperance plank of the 1919 convention is no longer applicable. The change in the method of dealing with the temperance question as required by the people as shown by their vote in 1926 requires that the Liberal party approach the question as it did at the 1919 convention and as it did at the 1926 election, having in view the will of the people. The Liberal party always respects, and endeavors to carry into effect the expressed wishes of the people. The foundation upon which Liberalism is based is that the will of the people must prevail.

In spite of all the feminists say, every woman is willing to work for a husband—till she gets him.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The druggist was awakened long after midnight by the violent ringing of his doorbell. On looking out his window, he saw a young miss in evening dress.

"What's the matter," he cried, as he pulled on his dressing gown. "Somebody ill?"

"Oh, no," she cried gaily; "but I'm at a dance close by and I've mislaid my rouge."

"Really?" asked the druggist, softly. "Well I'm sorry, but I never keep enough rouge in stock to cover a cheek like yours!"

Drives Asthma Before It. The smoke or vapor from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma no chance to linger. It eradicates the cause. Our experience with the relief-giving remedy shows how actual and positive is the succor it gives. It is the result of long study and experiment and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

Waiter—Here is some very good canvas-back duck, sir.

Business Man (after some chewing)—Here, take the canvas back and bring in the duck.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Marie—I hear your boy friend wants to settle down and get a home.

Gertie—Well, he's got a good start. I gave him the gate last night.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Remover.

A writer complains of the number of notices to clients placed about in American hotels. One man upon leaving a New York hotel saw a notice over the cashier's office which read, "Have You Left Anything," so he went back to his room and took the soap and towels.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

Dietitian—A few leaves of lettuce without oil, a bran cracker, and a glass of orange juice. Stick to that and your weight will come down.

Woman—Well, that's fine, doctor. Now do I take that before or after meals?

Powerful Medicine. — The healing properties in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial liniments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Sympathetic Neighbor—I hear you lost your husband. It's a terrible thing.

Widow—Yes, indeed. You know what you're losing, but you don't know what you'll get the next time.

Excellent for Croupy Children. — When a child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

CONCERT IN A CAVE.

Choral Society Sings Songs 600 Feet Underground.

A choral concert in a cave 600 feet below the surface is certainly a very uncommon event, and those who were privileged to hear the songs sung by the choral society of Natisone in the famous grottoes of Postumia describe the scene as a dream, writes a Rome correspondent. The concert was held in a circular cavern with a dome-shaped roof, known as the "Elysian Fields," which possesses considerable acoustic properties.

Every year thousands and thousands of tourists visit the famous stalacite caverns of Postumia, merly known as Adelsberg, distant about fifty miles from Trieste. The largest and most magnificent formations of the kind in Europe, they extend into the heart of the earth for a distance of over twelve miles, of which little more than half has yet been explored.

The Italian Government has made the grottoes more accessible to the public by the installation of a small railway line, which runs from the entrance to the so-called Mount of Calvary, passing through all the variegated beauty of the glittering stalactites. So beautiful and rich in colors are the caves that when the late Queen of Roumania, Carmen Sylva, visited the grottoes, she wrote on the visitors' book: "Fairy tales are still real—underground."

SINCLAIR ANNOUNCES LIBERALS HAVE ADOPTED LIQUOR CONTROL ACT

Pledges Impartial and Strict Enforcement — Would Administer Act As Temperance Measure and Give Commission Full Scope in Management.

Fort William, June 3rd.—Charging that Premier Ferguson had not given the people the liquor control he promised in 1926, W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., M.P.P., Liberal leader in the legislature, to-night announced here that the Liberal party had accepted the principle of the Liquor Control Act and proposed, if elected to power, to give it strict enfarcement as a temperance measure.

The announcement of a new Liberal policy on liquor was Mr. Sinclair's opening shot in the campaign which he and some of his followers in the legislature have launched in New Ontario. The Liberal leader made his declaration at a large meeting in the city hall auditorium.

Mr. Sinclair declared that the change of policy was brought about by reason of the vote of the people in the 1925 general election. The temperance plank adopted by the Liberal convention in 1919 pledging support to the O.T.A. was no longer applicable, he said.

Attacking the Ferguson government's operation of the act, the Liberal leader charged that the present administration was wholly partisan, that political appointees constituted the staff, and that the act was handicapped "for the advantage of the government and not as promised, as an aid to temperance."

He accused the government of bad faith in that it denied the public information as to the amount of liquor sales in individual stores. The people, he said, should have the fullest information on all the act's operations.

Free From Politics

"To make the act effective," Mr. Sinclair declared, "there must be a government which will allow its commission full scope in its management and control, free from political interference, a government economical in its general administration and not grasping for every dollar to avoid a deficit, and a government prepared to give strict enforcement of the act as a temperance measure, regardless of political consequences. Liberals, if entrusted with office, will give this kind of government and will enforce the act impartially and strictly.

Discussing the question Mr. Sinclair said:

The provincial Liberal Convention in 1919 at which time the Ontario Temperance act was in force, laid down the policy of the party in regard to temperance legislation as follows: "Moved by William Proudfoot, M.P.P., seconded by Mrs. J. Wesley Bundy:

"Whereas the people of the province of Ontario by referendum vote will decide the question of provincial prohibition, and whereas after the referendum vote is taken it will be necessary to see that proper legislation is provided and the will of the people is carried out;

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario, in convention assembled, affirms its attitude in favor of progressive temperance legislation to the fullest extent of the provincial jurisdiction, and pledges itself to take all necessary steps to vigorously and effectively carry into effect the will of the majority of the people as expressed by the said referendum vote."

"The convention of 1922, while the O. T. A. was still in force, made no reference to the matter by way of repeal or amendment. This plank therefore remained. The 1926 provincial election came on with the O.T.A. still in force and the temperance plank of party as passed in convention in 1919 still in force and binding upon the party.

In the 1926 election the government made the issue government control as a repeal of the O.T.A.

"In my manifesto to the people, as leader of the Liberal party in the 1926 election, I said: 'The proposed policy is diametrically opposed to the policy of the Liberal party, as decided time and time again and as announced by myself at the last session of the Legislature. Liberals must battle to support the will of the people, and that will was unmistakably expressed in reference to the O. T. A. by the plebiscites of 1919 and 1924. That expression of the people's will Mr. Ferguson arbitrarily proposed to disregard. To this arbitrary action Liberals are opposed as contrary to the fundamental principles of Liberalism. Liberals everywhere regret the introduction of this question into party politics, by the premier. They believe it is a matter which the people should settle for themselves upon its merits, and, according to their own best judgment, and that having settled it, the legislature should abide by the decision and enforce the will of the people. The O.T.A. as voted upon and endorsed by the people must be enforced by the legislature as long as the people by their votes say they wish to have it so."

"I stated the same principle on every platform where I spoke. The decision of the people was against my platform and in favor of Government Control.

Discard Temperance Plank.

"By reason of the vote of the people at the last election the temperance plank of the 1919 convention is no longer applicable. The change in the method of dealing with the temperance question as required by the people as shown by their vote in 1926 requires that the Liberal party approach the question as it did at the 1919 convention and as it did at the 1926 election, having in view the will of the people. The Liberal party always respects and endeavors to carry into effect the expressed wishes of the people. The foundation upon which Liberalism is based is that the will of the people must prevail.

"SMILE"

Another feather in Mr. Desire J. Bourque's cap is his new revue, "Smile", which was produced on Monday and Tuesday evenings, in the Armouries, under the auspices of the U. E. L. Chapter of the I.O.D.E. The revue was well named, as there were very few moments when the large audiences were not smiling in appreciation of the excellent talent and the pretty scenic effects.

The Living Garden was literally full of flower-like little girls ranging from three years upward. In dainty frocks and in charming groups, they made a most colorful picture. Miss Margaret Walters was a graceful partner for Mr. Bourque, and the dancing by the ballet was perfect. The Pirate scene was most effective, and Donald Scott and his boys made a tremendous hit in the Show Boat song. The three small pirates are worthy of special mention, Francis Thompson, Maurice Thompson and Gordon Gilbride. Miss Nina McKim sang very sweetly during the Pirate scene.

Muriel Garrison and Mr. Bourque, and Ruth Graham and Wm. Gault delighted every one with their specialty acts. Their singing was good and the dancing splendid.

A short playlet, entitled "Squaring It With the Boss", was well done by Grant Paul, Jean Paul, Douglas Exley, Margaret Nolan, Mrs. Powell and Joe Marshall. Each one was particularly clever in the part allotted to him, and the audience rocked with amusement. The Gipsy scene was delightful, with the pretty costumes, chcruses and lighting effects, and Charles Walters' solo, and the Gipsy dance by Grace Harrigan and Mr. Bourque added the finishing touches. The chorus of boys and girls were well-trained and easy and graceful in all their dances.

Mr. J. McGillivary also assisted cleverly in one of the comedy skits.

Of our two comedians, "Paul and Marshall", enough of praise cannot be given. We hope they will long live in Napanee to gladden the hearts of our local theatre goers.

Mr. Bourque is not only an artist of great talent himself, but possesses the gift of selecting and training others. Every time he comes to Napanee he brings new costumes, new scenery, and new music, which added to his ability to produce an entertainment after ten days' rehearsing, assures everyone of an entertainment worth seeing. We shall look forward to another performance soon.

A goodly number of ladies were present and were helpfully entertained by the reports of the Branch Convention held in Kingston, given by Mrs. Symington and Miss Mellow. The meeting was closed by a social half hour.

—A very bright and impressive service was held in St. Thomas' Church, Morven, on Tuesday, June 4th, at 10.30 a.m., when the Rt. Rev. Dr. Seager, Bishop of Ontario, administered the Apostolic Rite of Holy Confirmation to a class of seven candidates presented by the Rector, Rev. W. G. Swayne. The Rev. R. J. Dumbrille, Vicar of Napanee, was present and assisted in the service. The Church was most tastefully decorated with flowers and presented a very appropriate setting for this beautiful service.

—The U. E. Loyalist Celebration will begin in Deseronto on Sunday, June 16th, with military services in the different churches. There will be a military parade for Divine Service at St. Mark's Church, Anglican, Deseronto, Sunday, June 16th, at 11 a.m., lasting only one hour. The surpliced choir, assisted by the Organist, will be out in full force and render a beautiful musical service. Evening service at 7 p.m., when the Bishop of the Diocese Dr. Seager, will be the special preacher. Music suitable to the occasion will be rendered by the Choir, and a most enjoyable service may be confidently anticipated. All are welcome.

BRAVE LOYALISTS' COMING RECALLED BY THE CELEBRATION AT DESERONTO

THOUSANDS HONOR 145th ANNIVERSARY OF GALLANT BAND'S ARRIVAL AT BAY OF QUINTE—BISHOP SEAGER GIVES INSPIRING ADDRESS AT OPEN-AIR SERVICE.

Deseronto, June 16.—Cradled in the nursery of historical fact and legendary lore, this little town celebrated today the 145th anniversary of the coming to the Bay of Quinte of Major Vanalstine and his gallant band of United Empire Loyalists.

It was on June 16th, 1784, that the Major led his people to the spot on Canadian soil now known as Adolphustown, and from which date the White Settlement of Upper Canada had its beginning. The month previous, on May 24th, the Mohawk chief, Captain John Deserontyon, paddled with six Indians to a point a few acres west of the present town boundary, landed and held a service, using a Communion set presented to the Mohawk Valley by Queen Anne of England. Captain Deserontyon and Captain Joseph Brant had divided at Lachine, the latter going to Brantford, and being afterward acclaimed as the founder of that city.

Town in Holiday Mood.

The Mohawk and United Empire Loyalist celebrations are being held in conjunction, and will last four days. Deseronto is lavishly decorated and lighted, and in holiday mood. Saturday afternoon the Argyle Light Infantry Regiment, Belleville, under command of Major Keeler, and the Princess of Wales Own Regiment, under command of Major d'Esterre, arrived with bands, the former marching in five miles from Marysville, and the latter from Napanee. This morning the two battalions paraded and were augmented by the arrival of B Company, Prontenac Regiment, Napanee, with Major H. L. Babcock in command. At 11 o'clock they paraded to the churches, where they broke up into units. All church services were of a special nature.

Bishop Kittie Band played for the open-air service in the park this afternoon and massed choirs led the singing of old familiar hymns. Three thousand people were present and many had to be turned away. The Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. Dr. Seager, delivered a powerful address. Assisting in the service were Rev. W. D. Harrison, United Church of Canada; Rural Dean Radcliffe, Anglican, and Rev. W. S. Irvine, Presbyterian.

Bishop Seager saw the hand of God in the migration of the heart and soul of the thirteen colonies of the United States. What the movement of the Israelites from Egypt, the Normans to Britain, and the landing of the Pilgrim of Old familiar hymns. Three thousand people were present and many had to be turned away. The Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. Dr. Seager, delivered a powerful address. Assisting in the service were Rev. W. D. Harrison, United Church of Canada; Rural Dean Radcliffe, Anglican, and Rev. W. S. Irvine, Presbyterian.

Bishop Seager saw the hand of God in the migration of the heart and soul of the thirteen colonies of the United States. What the movement of the Israelites from Egypt, the Normans to Britain, and the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers meant to other countries, the United Empire Loyalist migration meant to the Dominion of Canada. They traced the different streams of migrations to Nova Scotia, the English colony in Quebec and the settlement along the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario. Out of the heart of the thirteen colonies came men of culture, knowledge, and ability, said Bishop Seager, and from these evolved the greatest Dominion in the Commonwealth of Nations.

All the ministers at the church services were descendants of the United Empire Loyalists and gave inspiring messages relative to the hardships which the Loyalists endured, and the great monument which they erected in character and self-sacrifice.

Memorial Decorated.

Thomas C. Brown, a Deseronto boy, now a member of the New York State Senate, placed a wreath at the base of the Soldiers' Memorial, presented to the town several years ago. A firing party from the Frontenac Regiment fired the salute and buglers sounded the Last Post. Deseronto Boy Scouts, with many Scout visitors, took part in the program of the day. Band concerts by the Cobourg Kiltie Band and by the massed bands of the visiting regiments tonight concluded the opening day of what promises to be the greatest celebration ever held in such a small town in this country.

The pageant, staged with a cast of 250 people, which is staged every evening, is based on historical fact gleaned from the archives by W. B. Herrington, K.C., and his daughter, Miss Herrington, Napanee, is brilliant in its conception and true to detail.

Monday's Marathon Swims.

The three mile swim from the docks was won by Murray Griffin, of Toronto, in one hour and twenty minutes. In the men's class, Alf. Sully, of Toronto, was second, just thirty seconds behind Griffin, and H. Potts, of Hamilton, was third. Others competing were W. J. Hedger, of Belleville; Donald Roe, of Belleville; G. C. Scott, of Brantford, and H. A. Murray, of Brantford.

In the junior class for two miles the race was won by J. Miles, of Belleville, in 59 minutes; W. J. Christmas, of Kingston Y.M.C.A., was second in 61 minutes, and Jessie Baker, of Trenton, was third, and Sidney White, of Belleville, was fourth.

In the ladies' one and one-half mile race the winner was Mary Casson, of Granille Club, Toronto, in 46 minutes; Sthelin Griffin, of Toronto Ladies' Swimming Club, was second, and Marly Cassidy, of Kingston, was third.

Olive Cattlerdam, Jewel Chestwood and Irven Summers, all entries in the C. N. E. Wrigley Marathon of Toronto, gave brief exhibitions before and after the events of their aquatic powers.

Johnny Walker, noted swimmer and former hustler of George Young, was in charge of the Toronto contingent of swimmers.

ANNUAL CELEBRATION AND RACES AT NAPANEE, ON DOMINION DAY 24c

COL. C. P. TEMPLETON, M.D. DIES SUDDENLY

Napanee received the sad news on Wednesday last of the sudden death in Brandon of Dr. C. P. Templeton. Sentiments of sorrow and sympathy were expressed on all sides. Though Dr. Templeton had been away from Napanee for twenty years, his immediate relatives live here, and he had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who never lost their interest in him.

Dr. Templeton had gone to Rivers, Man., about thirty miles from Brandon, to perform an operation for Dr. Lyons of that place. He took along Edward Templeton, and after the operation Dr. Templeton took the three young daughters of Dr. Lyon along with the others for a short drive in his car. He was travelling about forty miles an hour when they struck a patch of loose gravel road. The brakes locked and the car turned over. The other occupants were all more or less seriously injured, but are recovering. Dr. Templeton was pinned down by the driving wheel, and died within an hour.

Dr. Templeton was born in Napanee, the son of the late William Templeton, the founder of The Beaver, and Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Thomas St. He received his education in Napanee Collegiate and at Queen's University, graduating in medicine at the early age of twenty. After a year as a New York hospital, he took up residence in Brandon, Man., and soon achieved a position of eminence among the medical fraternity of the West.

He married Miss Alice Cumberland, daughter of Judge T. D. Cumberland, of Brandon. When the war broke out Dr. Templeth, who had a commission in the C.A.M.C., at once enlisted and started his wife and infant daughter for Val Cartier. On the way East his wife contracted typhoid and died in Toronto. Dr. Templeton proceeded overseas, where his ability was soon recognized. He was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and on October 2nd, 1918, he was again promoted to the Colonelcy and was A.D.M.S. of the Third Canadian division. Col. Templeton's unit was among the first of the Canadians to reach France after the war was declared and he saw continuous service from beginning to end of the war, with the exception of the time when he was severely wounded during the battle of Vimy Ridge. It was for his services while on duty under fire at Vimy that he was awarded the D.S.O. He was mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches in 1916 and in 1919 he was made a Commander of the British Empire, his name appearing in the birthday honor list of war decorations for Canadian officers. Since the war Col. Templeton had command of the 21st Field Ambulance Corps in Brandon. He was only put on the re-serve of officers last January. He was one of the most popular officers of the local garrison and highly esteemed by all his service men. The Canadian Legion always found a friend in he late medical officer.

(Brandon Daily Sun, June 13th)

Full military honors will be accorded the late Col. C. P. Templeton, M.D., who will be buried on Sunday afternoon in the family plot at the Brandon cemetery. All officers and the local Brandon garrison will attend, while all ranks on the active or reserve list in the district will also be in the line. The members of the Brandon branch of the Canadian Legion and other ex-soldiers, the 50th Battery, C.H.A., will supply the gun carriage, horses and drivers, while the First battalion of the Manitoba Rangers will also have a band detail detailed for the funeral.

The service will take place at St. Paul's United Church at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Phillip Duncan conducting the last rites of the church. Today His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, James D. McGregor, named General Jas. Kirkaldy to represent him at the funerals. The provincial government, as the Governor will be out of the Province at the time.

It was intimated today that no inquest into the accident which proved fatal to Col. Templeton, and which placed five others in the general hospital here, will be held. Dr. J. Wednesday morning Dr. Templeton was called to Rivers to perform an operation and he took with him as a assistant for the trip A. M. Brown. Following the operation the men were standing in front of a Rivers residence when some passing high school girls admired the auto. Three of the girls were the daughters of Dr. H. D. Lyons, of Rivers, and with them were two girl companions. A ride was suggested, and the rumble seat was filled.

The car turned westward along a splendid stretch of road west of Rivers. No one knows what happened, but the auto suddenly turned over, in a half somersault. Six of the seven passengers in the car at the time were caught underneath, and only one, Aileen Lyon, was thrown clear. While those under the auto were struggling to get clear, Aileen ran back to Rivers for help. This was soon forthcoming, and it is stated that all were able to get clear except Dr. Templeton, whose feet were caught.

Autos soon arrived on the scene and were quickly commandeered for quick service into Brandon. Dr. Templeton was placed on a truck and word sent into Brandon to have the hospital ambulance meet it en route. Quite conscious to the end, Dr. Templeton realized the serious nature of his injury and intimated to those with him that it was a broken back. About two miles out of Rivers he succumbed to the injury and the body was brought on to Brandon.

In the meantime other cars were rushing the four girls and A. M. Brown to the general hospital, where hurried injuries had been relayed to have everything in readiness for quick operations. Mr. Brown was placed on the operating table first, and after a view to ascertaining just how serious his injuries were. It was stated that his chest was badly hurt, that several ribs were broken and that there might be other internal injuries.

Dawn Lyons has her collar bone broken and several ribs, while her sister, Charlotte, has a large cut on her left leg and a fractured right arm. Laura Paddock and Alma Cluff also have broken collar bones, but the full extent of their injuries are to be determined later by X ray pictures. Aileen Lyon, the girl who was thrown clear of the auto when it turned turtle, only suffered minor bruises and shock. All of the girls are of high school age.

Born in Napanee, Ont., forty-five years ago, Col. Templeton received his education in the schools there and at Queen's College, Kingston. He came to Brandon twenty-two years ago to practice his profession. In 1909 he married Alice Cumberland, daughter of Judge and Mrs. T. D. Cumberland, of Brandon. She predeceased him in 1914. Col. Templeton is survived by one daughter, Margaret, who is attending Bishop Strachan School, Toronto; his mother, Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Napanee; a brother, William A., of Napanee; three sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) G. H. Carlisle, of Winnipeg; Mrs. Vance Everett and Mrs. McIntosh, of Toronto. The late doctor was a member of the Masonic craft and active in many other fraternal circles locally. He was an active friend and worker in hospital matters and in political fields had an interest as a Conservative. Sporting organizations also found a warm supporter in Dr. Templeton.

Colonel Templeton has a distinguished war service record. He left Brandon on August 19th, 1914, as Major in command of the C.A.M.C. as the 21st Field Ambulance Corps. A year later he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and on October 2nd, 1918, he was again promoted to the Colonelcy and was A.D.M.S. of the Third Canadian division. Col. Templeton's unit was among the first of the Canadians to reach France after war was declared and he saw continuous service from beginning to end of the war, with the exception of the time when he was severely wounded during the battle of Vimy Ridge. It was for his services while on duty under fire at Vimy that he was awarded the D.S.O. He was mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches in 1916 and in 1919 he was made a Commander of the British Empire, his name appearing in the birthday honor list of war decorations for Canadian officers. Since the war Col. Templeton had command of the 21st Field Ambulance Corps in Brandon. He was only put on the re-serve of officers last January. He was one of the most popular officers of the local garrison and highly esteemed by all his service men. The Canadian Legion always found a friend in he late medical officer.

BRAVE LOYALISTS' COMING RECALLED BY THE CELEBRATION AT DESERONTO

THOUSANDS HONOR 165th ANNIVERSARY OF GALLANT BAND'S ARRIVAL AT BAY OF QUINTE—BISHOP SEAGER GIVES INSPIRING ADDRESS AT OPEN-AIR SERVICE.

Deseronto, June 16.—Cradled in the nursery of historical fact and legendary lore, this little town celebrated today the 165th anniversary of the coming to the Bay of Quinte of Major Ruttalstine and his gallant band of United Empire Loyalists.

It was on June 16th, 1784, that the Major led his people to the spot on Canadian soil now known as Adolphustown, and from which date the White Settlement of Upper Canada had its beginning. The month previous, on May 9th, the Mohawk chief, Captain John Deserontyou, paddled with six-teen families to a point a few acres west of the present town boundary, landed and held a service, using a Communion set presented to the Mohawk Valley by Queen Anne of England. Captain Deserontyou and Captain Joseph Brant had divided at La-chine, the latter going to Brantford, and being afterward acclaimed as the founder of that city.

Town in Holiday Mood.

The Mohawk and United Empire Loyalist celebrations are being held in conjunction, and will last four days. Deseronto is lavishly decorated and lighted, and in holiday mood. Saturday afternoon the Argyle Light Infantry Regiment, Belleville, under command of Major Keeler, and the Princess of Wales Own Regiment, under command of Major d'Esterre, arrived with bands, the former marching in five miles from Marysville, and the latter from Napanee. This morning the two battalions paraded and were augmented by the arrival of B Company, Prontenac Regiment, Napanee, with Major H. L. Babcock in command. At 11 o'clock they paraded to the churches, where they broke up into units. All church services were of a special nature.

Cobourg Kiltie Band played for the open-air service in the park this afternoon and massed choirs led the singing of old familiar hymns. Three thousand people were present and many had to be turned away. The Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. Dr. Seager, delivered a powerful address. Assisting in the service were Rev. W. D. Harrison, United Church of Canada; Rural Dean Radcliffe, Anglican, and Rev. W. S. Irvine, Presbyterian.

Bishop Seager saw the hand of God in the migration of the heart and soul of the thirteen colonies of the United States. "What the movement of the Israelites from Egypt, the Normans to Britain, and the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers meant to other countries," he said, "United Empire Loyalist migration meant to the Dominion of Canada. The speaker traced the different phases of emigrations to Nova Scotia, the English colony in Quebec and the settlement along the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario. Out of the heart of the thirteen colonies came men of culture, knowledge, and ability, said Bishop Seager, and from these evolved the greatest Dominion in the Commonwealth of Nations.

All the ministers at the church services were descendants of the United Empire Loyalists and gave inspiring messages relative to the hardships which the Loyalists endured, and the great monument which they erected in character and self-sacrifice.

Memorial Decorated.

Thomas C. Brown, a Deseronto boy, now a member of the New York State Senate, placed a wreath at the base of the Soldiers' Memorial, presented to the town several years ago. A firing party from the Prontenac Regiment fired the salute and buglers sounded the Last Post. Deseronto Boy Scouts, with their Scout uniforms, took part in the program of the day. Band concerts by the Cobourg Kiltie Band and by the massed bands of the visiting regiments tonight concluded the opening day of what promises to be the greatest celebration ever held in such a small town in this country.

The pageant, staged with a cast of 250 people, which is staged every evening, is based on historical fact gleaned from the archives by W. S. Herrington, K.C., and his daughter, Miss Herrington, Napanee, is brilliant in its conception and true to detail.

Monday's Marathon Swims.

The three mile swim from the docks was won by Murray Griffin, of Toronto, in one hour and twenty minutes, in the senior men's class. Alf. Stiff, of Toronto, was second, just thirty seconds behind Griffin, and H. G. Potts, of Marmora, was third. Others contesting were W. J. Hedger, of Belleville; Donald Roe, of Belleville; G. C. Scott, of Westford, and H. A. Murray, of Brantford.

In the junior class for two miles the race was won by J. Miles, of Belleville, in 59 minutes. W. J. Christmas, of Kingston Y.M.C.A., was second in 61 minutes, and Jessie Baker, of Toronto, was third, and Sidney White, of Belleville, was fourth.

In the ladies' one and one-half mile swim the winner was Mary Casson, of the Grenadier Club, Toronto, in 46 minutes; Stella Griffin, of Toronto Ladies' Swimming Club, was second, and Martha Cassidy, of Kingston, was third.

Olive Gatterdam, Jewel Chesterton and Byron Summers, all entries in the Lake of the Woods Marathon of Toronto, last week, grabbed first, second and third positions before and after the swim, of their aquatic powers.

Johnny Walker, noted swimmer and former handler of George Young, was in charge of the Toronto contingent of swimmers.

COL. C. P. TEMPLETON, M.D. DIES SUDDENLY

Napanee received the sad news on Wednesday last of the sudden death in Brandon of Dr. C. P. Templeton. Sentiments of sorrow and sympathy were expressed on all sides. The Templeton had been away from Napanee for twenty years, his immediate relatives live here, and he had a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who never lost their interest in him.

Dr. Templeton had gone to Rivers, Man., about thirty miles from Brandon, to perform an operation for Dr. Lyons of that place. He took along with him Miss Laura Paddock, Miss Ruby Cluff and A. M. Brown, a druggist, all of Brandon. After the operation Dr. Templeton took the three young daughters of Dr. Lyon along with the others for a short drive in his car. He was travelling about forty miles an hour when they struck a patch of loose gravel road. The brakes locked and the car turned over. The other occupants were all more or less seriously injured, but are recovering. Dr. Templeton was pinned down by the driving wheel, and died within an hour.

Dr. Templeton was born in Napanee, the son of the late William Templeton, the founder of The Beaver and Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Thomas St. He received his education in Napanee Collegiate and at Queen's University, graduating in medicine at the early age of twenty. After a year in a New York hospital he took up practice in Brandon, Man., and soon achieved a position of eminence among the medical fraternity of the West.

He was married twice. Alice Cumberland, daughter of Judge T. D. Cumberland, of Brandon. After the death of Dr. Templeton's wife in the war, Dr. Templeton took the three young daughters home with him. Their mother was a daughter of the late Judge Cumberland, of Brandon. When the war broke out Dr. Templeton, who had a commission in the C.A.M.C., at once enlisted and started with his wife and infant daughter for Val Cartier. On the way, East his wife contracted typhoid and died in Toronto. Dr. Templeton proceeded overseas, where his ability was soon recognized.

He was advanced to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel, received the D.S.O. and by the King was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. For the last year of hostilities he was A.D.M.S. of the Third Canadian Division. He sent all through the war with his wife and children, and from these evolved the greatest Dominion in the Commonwealth of Nations.

All the ministers at the church services were descendants of the United Empire Loyalists and gave inspiring messages relative to the hardships which the Loyalists endured, and the great monument which they erected in character and self-sacrifice.

Memorial Decorated.

Thomas C. Brown, a Deseronto boy, now a member of the New York State Senate, placed a wreath at the base of the Soldiers' Memorial, presented to the town several years ago. A firing party from the Prontenac Regiment fired the salute and buglers sounded the Last Post. Deseronto Boy Scouts, with their Scout uniforms, took part in the program of the day. Band concerts by the Cobourg Kiltie Band and by the massed bands of the visiting regiments tonight concluded the opening day of what promises to be the greatest celebration ever held in such a small town in this country.

The pageant, staged with a cast of 250 people, which is staged every evening, is based on historical fact gleaned from the archives by W. S. Herrington, K.C., and his daughter, Miss Herrington, Napanee, is brilliant in its conception and true to detail.

Monday's Marathon Swims.

The three mile swim from the docks was won by Murray Griffin, of Toronto, in one hour and twenty minutes, in the senior men's class. Alf. Stiff, of Toronto, was second, just thirty seconds behind Griffin, and H. G. Potts, of Marmora, was third. Others contesting were W. J. Hedger, of Belleville; Donald Roe, of Belleville; G. C. Scott, of Westford, and H. A. Murray, of Brantford.

In the junior class for two miles the race was won by J. Miles, of Belleville, in 59 minutes. W. J. Christmas, of Kingston Y.M.C.A., was second in 61 minutes, and Jessie Baker, of Toronto, was third, and Sidney White, of Belleville, was fourth.

In the ladies' one and one-half mile swim the winner was Mary Casson, of the Grenadier Club, Toronto, in 46 minutes; Stella Griffin, of Toronto Ladies' Swimming Club, was second, and Martha Cassidy, of Kingston, was third.

Olive Gatterdam, Jewel Chesterton and Byron Summers, all entries in the Lake of the Woods Marathon of Toronto, last week, grabbed first, second and third positions before and after the swim, of their aquatic powers.

Johnny Walker, noted swimmer and former handler of George Young, was in charge of the Toronto contingent of swimmers.

ANNUAL CELEBRATION AND RACES AT NAPANEE, ON DOMINION DAY 24c

splendid stretch of road west of Rivers. No one knows what happened, but the auto suddenly turned over, in a half somersault. She came to rest on the occupants in the car at the time were caught underneath, and only one, Aileen Lyon, was thrown clear. While those under the auto were struggling to get clear, Aileen ran back to Rivers for help. This was soon forthcoming, and it is stated that all were able to get clear except Dr. Templeton, whose feet were caught.

Autos soon arrived on the scene and were quickly commandeered for quick service into Brandon. Dr. Templeton was placed on a truck and word sent into Brandon to have the hospital ambulance meet it en route. Quite conscious to the end, Dr. Templeton realized the serious nature of his injuries and intimated to those with him that it was a broken back. About two miles out of Rivers he succumbed to the injury and the body was brought on to Brandon.

In the meantime other cars were rushing to the girls and A. M. Brown to the general hospital, where preparations had been relayed to have everything in readiness for quick operations. Mr. Brown was placed on the X-ray table that afternoon with a view to ascertaining just how serious his injuries were. It was stated that his chest was badly hurt, that several ribs were broken and that there might be other internal injuries.

Dawn Lyon has her collar bone broken and several ribs, while her sister Charlotte, has a large cut on her left leg and a fractured right arm. Laura Paddock and Alma Cluff also sustained collar bones, but the full extent of their injuries are to be determined later by X-ray pictures. Aileen Lyon, the girl who was thrown clear of the auto when it turned turtle, only suffered minor bruises and shock. All of the girls are of high school age.

Born in Napanee, Ont., forty-five years ago, Col. Templeton received his education in the schools there and at Queen's College, Kingston. He came to Brandon twenty-two years ago to practice his profession. In 1909 he married Alice Cumberland, daughter of Judge and Mrs. T. D. Cumberland, of Brandon. She predeceased him in 1914.

Col. Templeton is survived by one daughter, Margaret, who is attending Bishop Strachan School, Toronto; his mother, Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Napanee; a brother, William A. of Napanee; three sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) G. H. Carlisle, of Winnipeg; Mrs. Vander Every and Mrs. McIntosh, of Toronto. The late doctor was a member of the Masonic craft and active in many other fraternal circles locally. He was an active friend and worker in hospital matters and in political fields had an interest as a Conservative. Sporting organizations also found a warm supporter in Dr. Templeton.

Colonel Templeton has a distinguished war service record. He left Brandon on 19th, 1914, as Major in command of the Brandon unit of the Third Ambulance Corps. A year later he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and on October 2nd, 1918, he was again promoted to full Colonel and was A.D.M.S. of the Third Canadian division. Col. Templeton's unit was among the first of the Canadians to reach France after war was declared and he saw continuous service from beginning to end of the war with the exception of the time when he was severely wounded during the battle of Ypiny Ridge. It was for his services while on duty under fire at Vimy that he was awarded the D.S.O. He was mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's dispatches in 1916 and in 1919 he was made a Commander of the British Empire, his name appearing in the birthday honor list of war decorations for Canadian officers. Since the war Col. Templeton had command of the 21st Field Ambulance Corps in Brandon. He was only put on the reserve of officers last January. He was one of the most popular officers of the local garrison and highly esteemed by all ex-service men. The Canadian Legion also found a friend in he late medical officer.

(Brandon Daily Sun, June 13th)

Full military honors will be accorded the late Col. C. P. Templeton, M.D., who will be buried on Sunday afternoon in the family plot at the Brandon cemetery. All officers and ranks of the Brandon garrison will be invited to take part in the active or reserve list in the district will also be in the line with members of the Brandon branch of the Canadian Legion and other ex-soldiers. The 59th Battery, C.H.A., will supply the gun carriage, horses and drivers, while the First battalion of the Manitoba Rangers will have its band and firing party detailed for the funeral.

The route will take place at St. Paul's United Church at two o'clock, with the Rev. Philip Duncan conducting the last rites of the church. Today His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, James D. McGregor, Samuel Gerrard and Jas. Kirkcaldy to represent him at the funeral services in an official capacity, as the Governor will be out of the Province at the time.

It was intimated today that no request into the auto accident that resulted fatally for Col. Templeton and injured also five others in the general hospital here, will be held. Dr. J. Stewart, of Oak River, who is the attending coroner for the Rivers district, was in the city on Wednesday evening, and will return there this evening. Death was caused by the accident according to the certificate signed by the medical officer.

Due to the condition of the patients in the hospital, the exact story of what happened has not been told yet. Gathered from the investigation carried out on Wednesday afternoon by the authorities, and in part from some of the occupants of the car, the accident was caused by the application of the brakes with probably too much pressure. The portion of the road over which the car was travelling at the time just west of Rivers is slightly rolling, providing some dips that would make fast travelling almost impossible. At the time that the accident took place the auto was about 150 yards from a turn.

The examination of the auto showed that the brakes had been applied and that the front and rear brakes on the right side of the car had seized tightly. This apparently caused the car to swerve almost completely around, hit the small embankment on the side of the road, and then turn over and land with the wheels in the air. It was stated today that one occupant of the car had stated that they were not travelling 45 miles an hour at the time the accident occurred. The car itself was not greatly damaged, the windshields and top being broken, and some of the cowl lights smashed.

Riding in the car were the late Col. Templeton, A. M. Brown and two girls in the front seat and three girls in the rumble seat. The condition of Mr. Brown in the hospital today was reported as good as he had a fair night. His injuries consist only of broken ribs and shock, it was stated today. The progress of the four girls, Dawn and Charlotte Lyon, Laura Paddock and Alma Cluff was also said to be good.

have saved the province many millions of dollars in the past few years in their efforts to rid both town and country of WEEDS.

Millions of Dollars are still being lost, however. The work is only begun. Farmers, knowing their personal loss through weeds, co-operate to end the nuisance. Municipal councils and individuals in villages, towns and cities are wholeheartedly joining in the fight against the common enemy—WEEDS.

NOW is the time to strike, to prevent most weeds from seeding. Cut the weeds down BEFORE they flower and seed.

Fight weeds as you would fire! You wisely protect yourself from losses by fire . . . which are a possibility.

Protect your property from heavy losses by weeds. Neglect makes these losses a certainty.

Weeds spread like wildfire if neglected. Destroy all noxious weeds on your lands. Notify your municipal council or weed inspector of weed growths found on roadways, vacant properties, cemeteries and other public places.

WARNING Under the provisions of the Weed Control Act, every occupant of land and every owner of unoccupied land is required to destroy noxious weeds before their seeds ripen. Road Authorities are required to destroy all weeds growing upon the highways.

CANADIAN GARDENING SERVICE

Can Still Start

If for some reason or other it has been impossible to do any gardening yet, it is not too late to put in many vegetables and flowers. While the season is fairly well advanced now, generally speaking many of our seeds are usually put in too soon and a garden started at this time often does as well as one set out too early. The commoner vegetables such as carrots, beets, onion sets, corn, melons, cucumbers and practically all of the plants like tomatoes, cabbage and cauliflower will all give good results if put in well-prepared ground. With these late sown vegetables, however, it is advisable to hasten germination by soaking the seed a few hours before planting, and frequent cultivation and an application of some quickly available fertilizer like nitrate of soda are also advocated. Unless the season is very dry, it is remarkable the results that can be achieved even when vegetables are not sown much before the first of July. In the flower garden, use well-grown plants, secured from any nurseryman or florist, if possible, as these will come into bloom sooner, although a brilliant show from August on can be secured from zinnias, marigolds, cosmos, nasturtiums, and similar flowers from seed sown now.

Fighting Pests

Many a beautiful flower garden and a highly satisfactory stand of vegetables has been partially or totally destroyed by attacks of insect and fungus pests which might easily have been controlled. Roughly speaking, the insect enemies are divided into two groups—those that eat holes in the foliage and those that suck out the juices. For the first-named, poison is usually applied, while the suckers are attacked with a burning spray which penetrates their hides. Often when both are present a combination of poison and something that burns such as lime sulphur and arsenate, gives the best results. The damage from the biting insects is usually quite apparent, but the presence of the other kind is only shown at first by a wilting or withering of the foliage.

For eating insects, one may spray with paris green, arsenate of lead, hellebore, or some of the many patent poisonous preparations. Paris green is usually applied at the rate of one ounce dissolved in ten gallons of water. It is well to add a couple of ounces of freshly slacked lime to make the mixture stick and to prevent burning of the foliage. Arsenate of lead in powdered form is applied at the rate of one scant ounce to a full gallon of water. With hellebore, make sure that a fresh supply is secured, as it rapidly weakens when exposed to the air, and apply at the rate of one ounce to a gallon of warm water, or it may be dusted over plants damp with moisture. Cut worms, which eat through the stems of plants close to the surface and whose presence are indicated by the plants toppling over, require special treatment. These grubs are about three-quarters of an inch long, grey in color and about one-third of an inch in diameter. Cultivate thoroughly and sprinkle a little poisoned bran around the plants. Mix one quart of bran with one teaspoon of paris green and one tablespoon of molasses with enough water to moisten the bran. Larger quantities of course will be used in plantations of canning tomatoes and market gardens. In small gardens, or where particularly valuable plants have been set, paper collars loosely placed around the stem and sunk into the soil to a depth of about half an inch will ward off attacks.

For sucking pests, chief of which are the aphids or plant lice, spray with whale-oil soap, a quarter pound of soap to a gallon and a half of water; nicotine sulphate, or "Black Leaf 40" or any other repellent secured from a reliable seed store. Cold water from a fine nozzle, under high pressure, will sometimes wash off the pests.

When fungus attacks the plants, the foliage usually turns yellow or brown or white spots like mildew cover the leaves. On closer examination, the under side of the leaves will show tiny spores. Fungus attacks are usually most common in warm, murky weather. Spraying with Bordeaux Mixture or dusting with specially finely ground sulphur is advised. Sulphur dust will also protect hollyhocks and phlox from rust, if applied when the disease first shows itself. An ordinary tin can with the top perforated like a salt shaker makes a good duster. For flowers, it is well to add a dry poison such as arsenate of lead, or tobacco dust, to the sulphur, so that insects will also be controlled.

DIAMOND WEDDING

A most happy and unique event was celebrated on Sunday, June 8th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, South Napanee, it being the occasion of the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage. All the family, together with other relatives, gathered at their home with well-filled baskets, to extend to them happiness in their long span of wedded life.

Ten years ago the golden wedding was celebrated and few that were present on that occasion expected to see Mr. and Mrs. Gibson so well able to enjoy this diamond jubilee but despite their good old ages, 86 and 83 years respectively, they are both hale and hearty and go about their daily tasks as cheerful as ever.

The happy occasion was spent in social intercourse, and during the day many tokens of congratulations and a well-filled purse were showered upon them. Toward evening a joyous day was brought to a fitting conclusion by singing "God Be With You Until We Meet Again."

Before leaving for their respective homes all again extended to the young-old couple best wishes for many more years of happiness and good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were formerly staunch Presbyterians and attended regularly St. Andrew's Church, now united.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson, Floyd, Fred and Vera, of Gananoque; Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Gibson and Gordon, of Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Sine, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson, of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, of Lonsdale; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Anderson, of Empey Hill; Mr. Robt. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gibson and Maude, Viola and Carmon, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Owen Roblin and Miss Julia Roblin, of Salem; Mr. Jas. Tripp, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murphy and son, Earl, of Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Smith and Ernest, of Cannifton, and Mrs. Bailey, of Madoc.

GOLF

Golf is a form of physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 clubhouse.

Golf is what letter-carrying, ditch-digging and carpet-beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks.

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up and the toughest after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These little balls cost from 75c. to $25.00 and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the centre of a "green". A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing $1.80 a blade and usually located between a brook and a couple of apple trees, or a lot of "unfinished excavation".

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point into each of the eighteen cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled by about $200.00 worth of curious looking implements, especially designed to provoke the owner.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes, subtracts six and says, "Made that in five".

After the final, or eighteenth hole, the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached eighty-seven.

He then has a swim, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other liars, and calls it the end of a perfect day.

FIRST TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

The first non-stop trans-Atlantic flight was successfully accomplished by two British aviators, Captain John Alcock, D.S.C., pilot, and Lieutenant Arthur Whitten Brown, navigator, the machine used being a Vickers Vimy Rolls Royce twin engine. It was a marvellous flight and greater glory attaches to it because it was made under bad weather conditions; indeed fog so obscured vision at times that the machine was discovered to be flying upside down and once only fifty feet from the water.

The project of the Atlantic flight was originated by the late Viscount Northcliffe in the London Daily Mail in April, 1913, and suspended during the war.

Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown left St. John's, Newfoundland, at 5.13 p.m. Saturday, June 14th, 1919, and landed near Clifden, Galway, Ireland, at 9.40 the next morning — a flight of 1880 miles, taking only fifteen hours and fifty-seven minutes — a truly marvellous flight, which won for the victors a prize of £10,000.

Both Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown were knighted by His Majesty the King in 1919. Sir John Alcock crashed during a flight about a year later and was killed.

A Chicago gangster boarded a tramcar and refused to pay his fare. As the conductor stood over him and pointed out the tough individual to a policeman. "This man doesn't want to pay his fare. Will you get him out of this car?" asked the conductor. The policeman took one look at the gangster. "I'll pay for him, myself," he said.

A Warning to Mothers

Watch the Health of Your Little Ones at All Times.

No mother can expect that her child will escape all the ills to which babyhood and childhood are subject, but she can do much to lessen the severity of these troubles. The mother should be constantly on her guard to prevent childhood ailments, or if they come on suddenly as they usually do, to have the means at hand to relieve them. Thousands of mothers have found Baby's Own Tablets the ideal remedy for little ones — thousands of mothers always keep the Tablets in the house as a safeguard against the sudden illness of their little ones.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make the cutting of teeth easy. The Tablets are absolutely guaranteed free from injurious drugs and may be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mrs. Mellow kindly invited us to her home for the July meeting, Mrs. H. A. Carscallen. In a few well chosen words, spoke of the regret we all felt in losing our President, Mrs. Bunt. The meeting was closed with singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and repeating "Mispah".

OBITUARY.

Harold Clark

A sad gloom was cast over our neighborhood of Bethel Street and the vicinity of Colebrook on Saturday, June 8th, when it was learned that little Harold Clark, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Clark, had taken suddenly worse, and from which he never recovered, passing away on Tuesday morning, June 11th. His funeral took place on Thursday, June 13th, at 2 p.m., at the home of his parents, and interment took place in Harrowsmith cemetery. Little Harold was of a bright and cheerful disposition, giving a smile to everyone, and to know him was to love him. Deceased was only six years and three months old, and was never very strong, yet he was not thought to be seriously ill until about three months before his death, when on taking him to Dr. Horton, of Enterprise, for treatment, it was learned he had contracted Brights Disease, and little hopes were held out for his recovery, but through careful nursing by his parents, it was hoped he might overcome the dread disease, but God in his wise Providence, thought best to take him to himself. Great is the sympathy extended to his bereaved parents and sisters, who are left to mourn his loss. Through his long illness, whenever asked how he was, his answer was always "I'm alright".

BECAUSE I HAD A FRIEND

Life never would have been so rich
To me—so well worth while—
But for that cheering word you spoke,
But for that cheery smile;
The burden had so heavy grown,
My heart was filled with care;
I never would have reached the goal
Had you, friend, not been there.

Because, because I had a friend,
One who was real and true;
Because your friendship did not fail
, Just when I needed you,
I had the strength to clamber on,
I had the will to do.
Because I knew I had a friend,
I've had no cause to rue.

Oh, there are records of the past
That tell of trust sublime,
Of friendships that survived the test
Of doubt, disaster, time;
But I know one that's up to date,
That had not had an end
When a man defeated fought and won
Because he had a friend.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"Golf, golf, golf," wailed the wife of the business man one Sunday morning as he picked up his clubs and started out. "Nothing but golf. I really believe if you spent a week-end at home I'd die of the shock."

"No use talking like that, m'dear," said hubby, wearily, "you can't bribe me."

This matchless remedy is sold by dealers everywhere.

Miller's Worm Powders attack worms in the stomach and intestines at once, and no worm can come in contact with them and live. They also correct the unhealthy conditions in the digestive organs that invite and encourage worms, setting up reactions that are most beneficial to the growth of the child. Old Sam, the optimist, was sitting on the roof of his house during a severe flood, watching the water flow past. A neighbor, who had a boat, rowed across to him.

"All your fowls washed away this morning, Sam?"

"Yes," answered Sam pleasantly; "but the ducks can swim."

"Apple-trees too?"

"Yes; but the crop wasn't worth anything."

"I see the river's reached your windows."

"That's all right. They wanted washin'."

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

An old Southern planter was discussing the hereafter with one of the colored servants. "Sam," he said, "if you die first, I want you to come back and tell me what it's like over there. If I die first, I'll come back and tell you what it's like."

"Dat suits me, Massa," replied the old negro, "but if you dies first, Ah wants you to promise me dat you'll come back in de daytime."

Your Home Medicine Chest.—Among the standard household remedies that should always be on hand in your home medicine chest, none is more important than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its manifold usefulness in relieving pain and healing sickness is known by many thousands throughout the land. Always use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for relieving rheumatic and sciatic pains, treating sore throats and chests, coughs, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains.

The Family Physician. — The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home-remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

I KNOW SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't this old world be better,
If the folks we meet would say,
"I know something good about you,"
And then treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each handclasp, warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance,
"I know something good about you?"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If we praised the good we see;
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking too?
You know something good about me!
I know something good about you!

"That's all right. They wanted washin'."

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

An old Southern planter was discussing the hereafter with one of the colored servants. "Sam," he said, "if you die first, I want you to come back and tell me what it's like over there. If I die first, I'll come back and tell you what it's like."

"Dat suits me, Massa," replied the old negro, "but if you dies first, Ah wants you to promise me dat you'll come back in de daytime."

Your Home Medicine Chest.—Among the standard household remedies that should always be on hand in your home medicine chest, none is more important than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its manifold usefulness in relieving pain and healing sickness is known by many thousands throughout the land. Always use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for relieving rheumatic and sciatic pains, treating sore throats and chests, coughs, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains.

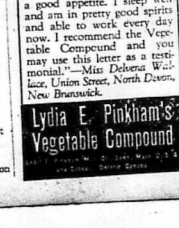
Four motorists came into collision at the same time at Birmingham.

That's the worst of chasing the same pedestrian!

The Family Physician. — The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

Pedestrian (to passing motorist) — "Hi, mister, I'm going your way."

Motorist—"So I see; but I'll get there before you do."



Felt Tired and Miserable

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for miserable and tired feelings and it gave me strength to do my work. My nerves are better and I feel well and strong and have a good appetite. I sleep well and am in pretty good spirits and able to work every day now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Miss Delvena Wallace, Union Street, North Devon, New Brunswick.

I KNOW SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't this old world be better,
If the folks we meet would say,
"I know something good about you,"
And then treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy,
If each handclasp, warm and true,
Carried with it this assurance,
"I know something good about you?"

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If the good that's in us all
Were the only things about us
That folks bothered to recall?

Wouldn't life be lots more happy,
If we praised the good we see?
For there's such a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me.

Wouldn't it be nice to practice
That fine way of thinking too?
You know something good about me;
I know something good about you!

CAMDEN TOWNSHIP S. S. CONVENTION

The annual Sunday School Convention of Camden Township was held in Wesley United Church on Monday, June 10th, morning and afternoon sessions being held. The weather was all that could be desired, the church most beautifully decorated with flowers, and the Wesley ladies served a most bounteous dinner. The attendance was somewhat disappointing. Can it be that our leaders are losing interest in this most vital and important question of training the youth, as only one superintendent and one minister was present. Through some error in arrangements at Toronto the Rev. J. N. H. Norton, representative from the O. R. E. C., was unable to be present at the morning session, but the Rev. Mr. Anderson very kindly acted as substitute and gave a most inspiring address on "The Child Question," showing most clearly the relationship of the child and the church. First, the child should be the first care of the church. In the second place, the church should prepare a fit parenthood for the child. Thirdly, the church should build up a fit world in which a child may grow, that the child will be so trained that of its own choice it will accept the privileges and responsibilities of church membership; and, lastly, that if we are going to win the world for Christ we must win the child now, must put in the child of today what we want the world to be tomorrow.

Items of business of the morning session were the receiving of reports of Secretary and appointing of Nominating and Resolutions Committees and Press Secretary.

The afternoon session was called to order by the President, Mr. M. H. Jackson, the Wesley choir singing the opening selection, after which the County President conducted devotional exercises.

The report of Sunday Schools was read and the grading of schools according to O. R. E. C. standard.

Camden VIII graded 63 points; delegates present at convention 3

Camden East, 30 points, 0 delegates.
Centreville, 51 points, 2 delegates.
Colebrook, no school at present.
Desmond, 25 points, 2 delegates.
Enterprise, 102 points, 7 delegates.
Moscow, 30 points, 0 delegates.
Marlbank, no report.
Newburgh, 100 points, 10 delegates.
Strathcona, 59 points, 4 delegates.
Tamworth, 85 points, 3 delegates.
Wesley, 70 points, 38 delegates.
Yarker, 30 points, 0 delegates.

The Rev. Mr. Norton highly complimented Enterprise and Newburgh schools on their standing. Several items of Sunday School work were dealt with during the round table conference, the best methods of securing teachers being discussed at some length. Mr. Norton strongly advocating the individual Teacher Training Course, another method to have several assistant teachers.

Rev. Mr. Norton gave an interesting and appealing address based on the Master's question to the blind man, Mark 8 :23. He asked him if he saw right. The question is being asked of each one. Do you see anything? On our answer so much depends.

The Nominating Committee submitted the following names as office bearers for 1929-30.

Township President — Mr. H. M. Jackson.

Vice President—Mr. Archie Asselstine.

Secretary and Treasurer—Mrs. Thos. M. Wilson.

Children's Division — Mrs. Wilfrid Wilson.

Boys' Division—Mr. Edgar Drew.

Girls' Division—Mrs. Arthur Baker.

Young Peoples' Division — Rev. Mr. MacKenzie.

Adult Division—Mr. Wesley Wagar.

Home Department Division — Mr. William Richmond.

Teacher Training Division—Rev. I. N. Beckstead.

Missionary Division—Mrs. Joe Paul.

Temperance Division — Mr. Willard Embury.

These, after being accepted by the convention, were duly installed by Rev. Mr. Norton.

The Resolutions Committee brought in the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by a standing vote:

1. Whereas, we view with alarm on every hand the evident results of the prevalence of drinking among our young people, and the ease with which intoxicating liquors are obtained, and whereas we do not consider the law is being enforced as it should be, we hereby resolve that we, as Sunday School workers, redouble our efforts to bring the evils and results of intemperance before our young people and we urge pledge signing in every Sunday School.

2. We desire to express our appreciation for the sincere and faithful service rendered by our retiring officers, Mrs. Moss, Messrs. Dopking, Wagar and Rev. Bunt, and especially to Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wagar, who have served for several as Township Secretary.

3. We hereby resolve that this convention decide by vote the hours of session for 1930 convention.

4. We hereby resolve to extend to the Wesley congregation our sincere appreciation of the cordial welcome given this convention and of the sumptuous repast enjoyed by all.

An invitation from Camden VIII. congregation to hold the 1930 convention in their church was accepted.

Rev. Mr. Norton pronounced the benediction, closing a most helpful and enjoyable meeting of Sunday School workers of Camden and Sheffield townships.

Farmers report crops badly in need of rain.—A large number of the citizens of our fair township are taking in the U. E. L. celebration at Deseronto this week.—The Sunday School convention for our township was held in Bethany Church last Thursday, June 13th. The afternoon worship period was conducted by Mr. Rockwell Parks, based on the subject of prayer. The reports showed our township to be a banner one, with a 90% standard, the highest in the county. Rev. H. Foley, of Selby, gave a helpful address on plans and methods for the Junior Department. Rev. H. Norton, Cobourg, conducted a very helpful round table conference. At supper time the Bethany Ladies' Aid served a very substantial meal. The evening worship period was conducted by Mr. Karl Sexsmith, the subject being that of reverence. Rev. H. Norton presented an inspiring address on "Means of Evangelism." The Bethany choir presented helpful selections both afternoon and evening. Also in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sexsmith sang. The Nominating Committee presented the following as the officers for the year 1929-1930: President, Mr. Peter Huyck; Vice President, Mr. Wm. Joyce; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. Leonard Parks; Children's Division, Miss Grace Bowen; Girls' Work, Mrs. Allan Baldwin; Boys' Work, Mr. Rockwell Parks; Young Peoples' Work, Mrs. James Robertson; Adult Department, Mr. Taylor Spencer; Teacher Training Work, Mrs. E. Alkenbrack; Missionary Work, Mrs. Laura Parks; Temperance Department, Mr. Karl Sexsmith. Next convention to be held at Hay Bay early in June.—The W. M. On Wednesday afternoon the Anderson Ladies' Aid meets at the home of Mrs. Allan Baldwin, and on Thursday afternoon the Hay Bay Ladies' Aid meets at the home of Mrs. Willie Bell.—The W. M. S. of Bay West met at the home of Mrs. Cameron Sexsmith. A very helpful meeting was conducted by the President. Mrs. Ezra Huffman sang a solo, and the Watch Tower Heralds presented helpful messages. While a very refreshing shower of rain helped the vegetation during the meeting hour, the refreshing influence of good fellowship and vital interest was helpful to all during the social hour.—The children who are preparing for their entrance exams. are busy on the last lap. We hope they are all successful. —Our busy Reeve, Mr. James Clark, was in attendance at County Council last week.—Several new cars have been purchased by the Hay Bay folk. After all, who has a better right to ride in a nice car than farmers.—Mr. Clare Sexsmith returned home on Friday from Kingston Hospital and is slowly recovering from his operation.—Services in the following churches this coming Sunday, June 23rd: Hay Bay at 11 a.m.; Bethany, 2.30; Anderson, 7.30. SOUTH FREDERICKSBURGH AND ADOLPHUSTOWN S. S. CONVENTION

The annual Sunday School convention of South Fredericksburgh and Adolphustown Townships was held at Sillsville United Church on Wednesday morning and afternoon, June 12th, with the President, Mr. T. Y. Mellow, presiding.

Devotional exercises, led by Rev. J. A. Plant, were opened by singing "What a Fellowship," which was followed by the Scripture lesson, Eph. Chap. 4. After a prayer this part was closed by singing "More Love to Thee". Mr. Mellow, in the opening remarks, welcomed so many at this convention.

Reports were received from the various Departmental Superintendents and the Secretary-Treasurer. A solo, "Thine, Ever Unchanging," was rendered by Mr. Robert Merritt.

Rev. J. N. H. Norton, representative of the O. R. E. C., gave an address on "How to be a Successful Sunday School Teacher." "Make sure of your relationship with the Master. Nothing but your best is too good to give. You cannot begin too early to study your lesson. Obtain the very best Lesson Helps. Be on time to greet your scholars. Sit with your scholars. Learn to be boys and girls."

After singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", the session was adjourned.

The afternoon session was opened with Rev. S. F. Dixon, Bath, in charge of the devotional exercises. Mr. D. H. Hough, Superintendent of the School, gave an address of welcome, and the President replied. The report of the Nominating Committee was adopted. The following are the officers for next year:

President — Mr. F. Vannest, R.M.D. No. 2, Bath.

Vice President—Mr. T. Y. Mellow, R.M.D. No. 1, Bath.

Superintendent of Missionary Department—Mrs. I. Asselstine, R.M.D. No. 2, Napanee.

Superintendent of Temperance Department—Mrs. R. Vandyck, R.M.D. No. 1, Bath."

The officers were installed by Rev. J. Norton.

The Resolution Committee presented one resolution, which was adopted by the convention, namely. That we recommend to the Executive the School Grouping Plan to be carried out as follows:—Group I. Sillsville and Hawley; Group II. Adolphustown and Conway.

Mrs. J. A. Plant sang a solo, after which Mr. Norton told some very illustrative stories, which would prove helpful to our own departmental officers.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies of Sillsville for their hospitality and the bounteous lunch served in the noon hour, also a vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. J. Norton and Rev. S. Dixon, who helped to make this convention a success.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear father, John Storr, who departed this life on June 16th, 1921.

Our father's voice is hushed,
His warm, true heart is still;
And on his pale and peaceful face
Is resting death's cold chill.

We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep;
But many tears are shed
When others are asleep.

Sadly missed by his loving daughters. 25ap

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Janet Dopking, who departed this life June 17th, 1927.

SOUTH FREDERICKSBURGH AND ADOLPHUSTOWN S. S. CONVENTION

The annual Sunday School convention of South Fredericksburgh and Adolphustown Townships was held at Sillsville United Church on Wednesday morning and afternoon, June 12th, with the President, Mr. T. Y. Mellow, presiding.

Devotional exercises, led by Rev. J. A. Plant, were opened by singing "What a Fellowship," which was followed by the Scripture lesson, Eph. Chap. 4. After a prayer this part was closed by singing "More Love to Thee." Mr. Mellow, in the opening remarks, welcomed so many at this convention.

Reports were received from the various Departmental Superintendents and the Secretary-Treasurer. A solo, "Thine, Ever, Unchanging," was rendered by Mr. Robert Merritt.

Rev. J. N. H. Norton, representative of the O. R. E. C., gave an address on "How to be a Successful Sunday School Teacher." "Make sure of your relationship with the Master. Nothing but your best is too good to give. You cannot begin too early to study your lesson. Obtain the very best Lesson Helps. Be on time to greet your scholars. Sit with your scholars. Learn to be boys and girls."

After singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name", the session was adjourned.

The afternoon session was opened with Rev. S. F. Dixon, Bath, in charge of the devotional exercises. Mr. D. H. Superintendent of the School, gave an address of welcome, and the President replied. The report of the Nominating Committee was adopted. The following are the officers for next year:

Superintendent of Temperance Department—Mrs. R. Vandyck, R.M.D. No. 1, Bath.

The officers were installed by Rev. J. Norton.

The Resolution Committee presented one resolution, which was adopted by the convention, namely, That we recommend to the Executive the School Grouping Plan to be carried out as follows:—Group I. Sillsville and Conway; Group II. Adolphustown and Conway.

Mrs. J. A. Plant sang a solo, after which Mr. Norton told some very illustrative stories, which would prove helpful to our own departmental officers.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies of Sillsville for their hospitality and the bounteous lunch served in the noon hour, also a vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. J. Norton and Rev. S. Dixon, who helped to make this convention a success.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear father, John Storr, who departed this life on June 16th, 1921.

Our father's voice is hushed,
His warm, true heart is still;
And on his pale and peaceful face
Is resting death's cold chill.

We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep;
But many tears are shed
When others are asleep.

BONFIRE

H. T. Kemball Cook.

There are two races of gardeners—the makers of bonfires and the rest; if indeed they are to be called gardeners who barely hire a man to carry away their garden refuse and to tip it on the nearest vacant plot. The real gardener builds many bonfires in the course of the year. Autumn bonfires are poor things, chance gatherings of spring flowers and the contents of the lawn mower box. It is only now that we make our preparations for the great bonfires of autumn; the burnt offerings of a year of experiment, failure, success. A good many small gardeners nowadays use some form of incinerator, and I doubt whether these are popular with the more serious gardeners, men essentially conservative of habit, priding themselves a little on the nice building of their bonfires—no task for the casual amateur. No one has made a close study of the bonfireman, and yet there is plenty of human nature in the making of a bonfire.

Brown and His Bonfire.

There is Brown, for instance, normally, a cheerful gardener, a man who whistles at his work. There are times when Brown's whistling rouses homicidal reactions, but I confess that I miss the cheerful, if intermittently tuneful, noise at this time of the year. For Brown bonfire time is a time of melancholy; his very back is depressed as he loads his barrow, that barrow which squeaks joyfully through the summer only to be greased into dour and trundling gloom in autumn. Smith, on the other hand is all gaiety at bonfire-time. He has no skill in the business; he is constantly relighting his bonfires; he has neither weather sense nor wind sense. I can see him now, as I write. He has chosen the moment when a heavy rainstorm is imminent, he is standing in the middle of the smoke, coughing a little and wiping his glasses. The drier stuff in on the top of the bonfire; the whole construction is wrong. But if I went out and hailed him now he would wave to me cheerily and shout something in the intervals of coughing—probably some tag of verse only faintly appropriate to the occasion. When he goes into the house, where his wife has a bridge party, he will be reproached for having lit his bonfire on a day when the wind drives the smoke directly housewards, but he will only grin cheerfully. "Healthiest smell in the world," he will say, holding the door and leaving black finger marks on the paint.

Manuscripts Dry as Deed

My own mood is something between the stoical and the reflective, or was till I conceived the idea of collecting rejected manuscripts and using them for the foundation of my bonfires. A curious delusion hangs over my household. There is a belief that there is some potential value in everything I write, and that, at some date not clearly defined, the telephone bell will jingle continuously, as editors, publishers, theatrical managers beg me on knees metaphorically bent to send them something—anything so long as it bears my signature. It follows that, as the detested envelopes come back, they are opened and their contents hoarded in a cupboard against the day of triumph. I, knowing better, bide my time. At this period of the year I wait till I am alone in the house. And then I steal to the cupboard and, with arms full of typescript, begin the great clearance. This plan of mine softens the inevitable sadness of the burning. After all, to burn plants is to burn delight, and I am one of those untidy gardeners who hate to destroy anything which has or might have borne flower for me. In the result my borders are always overcrowded, and I must steel my heart. That plant which I bought on the strength of a fervid catalogue, may it not be that next year it would compensate for this year's inability? This old friend which has flowered manfully for years, am I justified, after all, in my decision that, showing manifest signs of deterioration, it must go to make room for something new? As I dig it up I remember with what delight we saw it flower for the first time. I hate the gap left in the border, even though I have already written the order which will bring me its successor—"New variety; huge clusters of rich flowers from June to October." However successful the new plant I shall never look at it without remembering the old friend which I raised myself from seed.

These reflections beget melancholy, and it is now that I savour the antidote. I pass to cheerfulness as the match begins to curl the edges of those rejected manuscripts. That was written specially for old X. I have never seen X in the flesh, but I make for myself an imaginary portrait of him and presently it is X and not the manuscript who is burning. There is Y, who kept that long story till I thought he really had made up his mind to take it; my long grudge against Y vanishes as I condemn him, vicariously to the flames.

All Goes Up In Smoke.

After all, the autumn bonfires are something more than the burning of a certain amount of rubbish—whether garden refuse or brain refuse. That clean swell of the bonfire has in it some special unction. Something has been got rid of quite definitely. For a week or two now I have found it a dismal business to walk in my garden and to see withered stalks and dead flowers, to catch no scent, but dampness, to triumph in no glowing colour effects. And then there was that cupboard. I never looked at it and thought of what cumbered its shelves without a sense of angry frustration, without the feeling which comes sometimes even to the least conceited of writers that a dead set is made against him personally, that the path is made smoother for others than for him. But when the fire has done its work all that goes up in smoke. There are things to be done; there is the lovely savour of freshly turned earth waiting—there is clean paper at command. The plants that were so weakly will be replaced by stronger, better plants in the coming year; the work that was never half so good as one thought it will give way to something better and more worth while. Life would be impossible without its bonfires.—Manchester Guardian.

ANOTHER DOG ROMANCE DESTROYED BY FACTS

By J. V. McAree.

Balto, the heroic husky dog that mushed to Nome with the serum, has been exposed as a nature faker by a veteran Alaska dog driver. He says that Balto was only an ordinary mutt worth perhaps ten dollars, and not to be compared with hundreds of dogs in the north. In the notable venture of getting the serum into Nome, he performed in the chorus as a mere supernumerary. He was chosen for the role of hero by the newspaper correspondents who saw an opportunity of thrilling their readers thousands of miles away, who, because of the trend of movie romance, were ready to believe anything so long as it was sufficiently wistful and incredible about the north. Balto was elected because he had a kind of romantic name, in preference to Foxy, who was the real leader of the expedition. It has been long a matter of observation that people will become more sentimental about dogs than they will about anything else. This is perhaps because dogs flatter human beings in a way that no other animals will stoop to. Psychologists have asserted that men dislike cats because cats disdain men.

The Faithful Dog Fable.

Newspapers are not without responsibility for spreading the fable of the faithful dog at every opportunity. A dog is a lighter sleeper than a human being, and if there is a fire in the house it is likely that the dog will be the first to see the flames, smell the smoke or even feel the heat. In alarm for itself the dog barks and creates an uproar that arouses the family. The next day we may read in the press headlines that the family dog at considerable trouble and inconvenience to itself, has saved the family lives of father, mother and several tots (i.e. children). A noise in the night arouses the dog and it barks until the owner wakes up, puts his head out of the window and sees a prowler sneaking away. The prowler may be the man next door, but the dog gets credit for terrifying a formidable band of armed thugs. No mention is made of the innumerable cases in which the dog barks at nothing and keeps the family awake. We submit that if a cat acted in this imbecile manner it would be drowned by the man of the house.

The Police Dogs.

The so-called German or Belgian police dog is swather in fable and romance. There is a general supposition that this animal has some superior powers which other dogs do not possess and which makes it especially suitable for detective work. The fact is not pointed out that this dog is simply the sheep dog of certain parts of Europe, just as the collie is the sheep dog of Scotland. Nor was it the first dog used for regular police work. That honor, if we mistake not, belongs to the Airedale. At the time the Airedale was put to this use by Major Richardson there may have been a reason which specially fitted it for the task. It was a relatively new breed, produced by a cross of two or three others and had not been long enough in existence to have its natural working qualities debased in the interest of show requirements. It had been valued for its intelligence and hardihood for many years before it was bred for show purposes and being cross bred might be expected to have that extra vigor which an outcross so frequently brings to any stock that is thus produced. Moreover, the Airedale was an active, strong dog with plenty of courage, and just the type that might well cause dismay to a skulking criminal. But to infer from this that the Airedale is any better fitted to be a guard to-day than several other breeds is to be guilty of a fallacy that a knowledge of dog breeding would correct.

Breed Falacies.

It seems not a bad time to impress upon the general public the fact that dogs should not be classified according to breed any more than human beings should. There are nervous, hypersensitive Germans just as there are lethargic phlegmatic Frenchmen, humorless Irishmen, and generous Scots. In fact we are inclined to believe that most of the accumulated wisdom concerning racial differences is to be classed with the accumulated wisdom concerning the blood before Harvey discovered that it circulated through veins and arteries. At the same time one is safe in believing that dogs will do what they are specifically bred to do, for we believe that the great dog breeders are no whit inferior in imagination and intelligence to any other class of creative artist. The underlying fact is, however, that nowadays, the great majority of dogs are bred for certain show requirements which may have no relation whatever to the original purpose for which the dog was developed.

Where Dogs Get Brains.

Is the collie more intelligent than the bulldog? If so, it is because the collie for hundreds of years was the sole companion of shepherds on their lonely hills, and in time came to understand every gesture of their masters. If fulldogs, generation after generation, has been developed in this environment they would have been more intelligent than the collies, had the latter in the meantime been wasting their time baiting bulls and killing badgers. If the dogs of Alaska are hardier than the Mexican hairless dog, it is because their very existence depends upon it, and if they perform feats on the trail that make newspaper readers gape, it is because their masters will reward them if they do and punish them if they do not. Or it may well be that they harness themselves in order to keep from freezing to death.

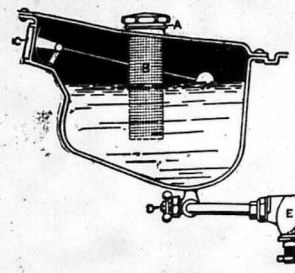
THE FORD CAR FUEL SYSTEM



A—Filler Cap.
B—Filter spout screen filters gas and prevents splashing through filler opening.
C—Gas guage.
D—Fuel line main shut off valve.
F—Carburetor Connection.

Simple— Safe— and Dependable

THE Ford car fuel system is simple because it is direct. Gravity flow does away with forced feed. A short feed line with a minimum of elbows and connections is easy to service and eliminates approximately 100 parts required by the vacuum tank or fuel pump system.

The nine gallon tank is so placed that it is well protected from front or rear end collision. Any overflow runs off on the ground with no serious results, since the only point of possible spark contact is the rear end of the exhaust. Three screens instead of one, as in most fuel systems, prevent foreign matter reaching the tank. A solid steel dash separates the Ford gas tank from the engine.

The gas guage on the dash of the Ford car is controlled by a simple float as shown in diagram, being more direct, simple and accurate than any other type. Another point of driving convenience made possible by the gravity flow system is the ease with which the tank may be filled, while the driver supervises the operation without moving from behind the wheel.

BATH INSTITUTE

The May meeting of Bath Women's Institute was held Monday, June 10th, at the home of Mrs. A. Kilgannon.

The meeting was well attended, and all were delighted with our good program. Several new members joined and they along with other members received the programmes for the coming year. Mrs. A. Sams gave an instrumental. Mrs. H. Collins gave a paper on "Immigration", in which she dealt with both sides of the question: (a) The Inmigrante; (b) The Canadians.

There were followed by a demonstration given by Mrs. Mack, who is very efficient in making decorations from crepe paper. The demonstration was on rose-petal candle holders.

Arrangements were made to have a First Aid Immergency Case bought for the use of villagers and others needful of same. This kit will be placed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Collupy. Before buying any first aid article for the home, visit the first aid kit. May-be the Institute has helped you by placing that article in the kit. All articles must be taken care of and returned in good condition.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem, after which our pleasant hostess served an enjoyable lunch.

The concert put on by J. Elder was well attended, and everyone enjoyed herself.

Management

THROUGH good management the modern woman, just as the chatelaine of old, holds in her hands the keys to plenty: only to-day good measure comes through prudence in money matters.

The woman who says: "I can't afford it—I am saving," will say later on: "I can afford it—I have saved."

DOES COLLEGE TRAINING MAKE HIGHER SALARIES

Dr. Harold Florian Clark, professor of education in teachers' College Columbia University, was assigned to investigate whether a college education acts to increase the recipient's earning power, and is now out with a preliminary report that it does not. On the contrary, he believes, "it can even have an opposite effect. For while there are 800,000 persons in colleges presently to be graduated, the country provides only 1,600,000 jobs for persons with their training; thus there will be competion for places, and an inevitable lowering of salaries. Education is just as much a commodity as wheat," he says, "and must be governed by the same laws of economics. You cannot have 800,000 people in college year after and expect them to compete for 1,600,000 jobs without lowering salaries sooner or later. You can not have the present percentage in high school and expect them all to go into the higher callings. If all tried to do so, salaries would drop to unbelievable levels. The 'higher callings' might even be more overcrowded than the field of unskilled labor is today." All of which sounds very learned, especially as it is buttressed by many months of research, yet it posits as its premise the old lump-of-work theory long exploded, and to this it adds the proposition that the more a man knows the less he earns so absurd that it colapses as soon as it is stated. Probably the snag that tripped Dr. Clark is the notion which he expresses, that "education is just as much a commodity as wheat and must be governed by the same laws of economics." This is wrong. Education is not a commodity. In asserting that it is Dr. Clark may be thinking not of education at all but of college degrees. Degrees, it may be admitted, are commodities; they cost so much in time, work and money, they may be exchanged for so much in jobs, security and prestige. In certain of our professions, notably law, medicine and teaching, there is practically no work to be had without them; conversely, there is always a chance of work with them: There is hardly a lawer so dull that he cannot cross t's for some insurance company, or a doctor so unskilled that he cannot wrapp pills for some clinic, or a teacher so uninteresting that he cannot teach French in some ladies' seminary—provided only that he can exhibit the requisite L. L. B., M. D., or Ph. D. and in respect to such men there will always be competition for places and the pay will be desperately small.

But what has this to do with the living effeect of education on our national productiveness and national wages? Very little, most of us will think. Dr. Clark's investigation is of interest chiefly because of the light which it throws on the conception which a professor holds of the "commodity" which he purveys.

You can not have the present percentage in high school and expect them all to go into the higher callings. If all tried to do so, salaries would drop to unbelievable levels. The 'higher callings' might even be more overcrowded than the field of unskilled labor is today." All of which sounds very learned, especially as it is buttressed by many months of research, yet it posits as its premise the old lump-of-work theory long exploded, and to this it adds the proposition that the more a man knows the less he earns so absurd that it collapses as soon as it stated. Probably the snag that tripped Dr. Clark is the notion which he expresses, that "education is just as much a commodity as wheat and must be governed by the same laws of economics." This is wrong. Education is not a commodity. In asserting that it is Dr. Clark may be thinking not of education at all but of college degrees. Degrees, it may be admitted, are commodities; they cost so much in time, work and money, they may be exchanged for so much in jobs, security and prestige. In certain of our professions, notably law, medicine and teaching, there is practically no work to be had without them; conversely, there is always a chance of work with them. There is hardly a lawyer so dull that he cannot cross t's for some insurance company, or a doctor so unskilled that he cannot wrapp pills for some clinic, or a teacher so uninteresting that he can exhibit the requisite L. L. B; M. D., or Ph.D. and in respect to such men there will always be competition for places and the pay will be desperately small.

But what has this to do with the living effect of education on our national productivenss and national wages? Very little, most of us will think. Dr. Clark's investigation is of interest chiefly because of the light which it throws on the conception which a professor holds of the "commodity" which he purveys.

Puts An End To Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask at Wallace's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and further, that one bottle Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

"I gave them to my eldest girl when she was anaemic, pale and thin and had no appetite. They restored her to health and later when my youngest daughter was run-down after diphtheria, I again brought them into use. My daughter was thin, pale and extremely nervous but the pills soon set her right."

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

TENNIS IN NAPANEE.

The Napanee Tennis Club of late has spent a lot of money to get the property in shape. Three courts are now in splendid condition, hard clay levelled and scraped. The back stops are well screened. Altogether it is a place Napanee should well be proud of. The fees are kept purposely low so as to encourage young players—three dollars for men and two dollars for ladies and high schgol scholars. From now on only members will be allowed to use the courts, and it is hoped there will be a large number of new members in the next few days. Robt. Wilson in the Royal Bank will take fees. It is hoped shortly to organize local and other tournaments. The Club would welcome a visit from those in the town interested in sport that they may see the efforts that are being made to encourage good clean sport in Napanee. Entrance is through Curling Rink gate on Thomas Street, by courtesy of the Curling Club.

V. L. C. OPENS JULY 3

With July come holidays—with holidays—camp! To those of us who have become regular attendants at the V. L. G. C. it is a pleasure to which we look forward all through the winter months. To you who have never known its joys, your bliss consists in your ignorance; for had you once known a season at camp, no summer would be complete without it.

This year we are snatching at as usual the first ten days of holidays—July 3 to 13—and we hope to make of them the crowning days of your summer. The registration fee of $5 will entitle you to ten days each crowded full of all the pleasures it can hold at Gaibraith's point.

The routine of our camp life is arranged to mould a fully rounded fourfold character. Bible-study swimming, hiking and softball will be part of the daily schedule, while each day will bring forth some new event for the interest of all. The camp-fire in the evening is one of the greatest factors in making camp one large family unit; and here we are allowed to see and appreciate our comrades' talents, displayed in the flickering firelight, with the background of green, topped by a brilliant full-moon.

Wednesday, July 10th, will be the date of our field-day when the campers will participate in contests of every sort, and when our parents will be expected to come and spend the afternoon and evening with us.

A further holiday could not be imagined; a better way of forming new friendships is hard to find; and certainly it is the only way to get that fashionable sun-tanned complexion!

Fees are payable to Mrs A. Kitchen, Napanee.

OBITUARY

Clarence A. Lemmon

A very solemn and impressive funeral service was held in St. Luke's Church, Camden East, on Sunday, June 16th, at 1 p.m., when Clarence A. Lemmon, who was accidentally killed on Wednesday morning in the creek behind his home at Violet, was laid to rest. The fatality was a severe shock to the community at large and the deep sympathy felt for the bereaved mother, brothers and sisters, found expression in attendance at the burial, many being unable to obtain admission to the sacred edifice. Clarence was a quiet manly fellow, liked and respected by all who knew him and many handsome floral tributes were laid on the coffin. The solemn and comforting Burial Office of the Church of England was read by the Rector, who also spoke briefly to the bereaved on the text, "My help cometh from the Lord." At the conclusion of the service, the choir—of which Clarence was a member and regular attendant, and from which he will be greatly missed—preceded the remains to the grave, where a hymn was sung before the final words of the Office were read "May he rest in peace and light perpetual shine on him."

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF THE LATE COL. CHAS. P. TEMPLETON, M.D.

(Brandon Daily Sun, June 17th)

Few such representative or impressive funerals have been conducted in Brandon as the last honors paid on Sunday to the late Col. C. P. Templeton, C.B.E., D.S.O., V.D., M.D., C.M., victim of an automobile accident on Wednesday. An enormous number of citizens and visitors lined the route of the funeral procession and it is seldom so distinctive an array of military men of all ranks have been seen in one parade as were in the cortege to the cemetery on Sunday.

At the funeral service at St. Paul's United Church Rev. Philip Duncan preached and conducted the last rites to the dead. The church was full and the pastor warmly eulogized the late doctor-soldier. There were assembled there the family of Dr. Templeton. The mother of the deceased, Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Napanee, and Mrs. Templeton, of Napanee, and her own daughter, Margaret, Judge and Mrs. T. D. Cumberland. Also Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Carlisle, their daughter and son. Mrs. Carlisle is a sister of Dr. Templeton. A brother-in-law, J. M. McIntosh, formerly manager of the Dominion Bank here, and now of Toronto, was in attendance. Another brother of the late doctor was unable to attend as well as two sisters. These are W. A. Templeton, publisher, of Napanee; Mrs. J. F. VanEvery and Mrs. J. J. McIntosh, of Toronto.

In the funeral solemnities the lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, Hon. J. D. McGregor, was represented by Brig.-General J. Kirkcaldy, C.M.G., D.S.O., and by Major W. J. Creelman, as adjutant. The sword of the late soldier was carried in the procession as well as his war-decorations and medals. Fellow officers bore these emblems. His favorite horse, the boots reversed, was led behind the massive coffin by a member of his unit, the 21st Canadian Field Ambulance, which also supplied the bearers as the cortege. The representative of the District Officer Commanding Military District No. 10, Col. A. E. Snell, C.M.G., D.S.O., R.C.A.M.C., rode with Brig.-Gen. Kirkcaldy, as did Commissioner Martin of the Manitoba provincial police. The city was represented by Ald. W. V. Oglesby. There were war nurses in the parade and a representative of the R.C.M.P., unattached ex-service officers and representatives of the militia at Camp Hurdon and this district. Upon these and many war veterans shone medals and war decorations betokening services and honors.

The scene as the cavalcade moved off from the church was memorable. The escort consisted of officers and men from all the units of the local garrison. The firing party from the Manitoba Rangers, the 45th Regiment, followed. The band of the 45th played the funeral dirge as the slow march commenced its impressive and mournful journey. The gun carriage bearing the remains of the late Col. Templeton was ridden by members of the 59th

With July come holidays—with holidays—camp! To those of us who have become regular attendants at the V. L. G. C. it is a pleasure to which we look forward all through the winter months. To you who have never known its joys, your bliss consists in your ignorance; for had you once known a season at camp, no summer would be complete without it.

This year we are snatching at our the first ten days of holidays—July 3 to 13—and we hope to make of them the crowning days of your winter. Our registration fee of $5 will entitle you to ten days each crowded full of all your pleasures; for had you once known a season at camp, no summer would be complete without it.

The routine of our camp life is arranged to mould a fully rounded four-fold character. Bible-study swimming, hiking and softball will be part of the daily schedule, while each day will bring forth some new event for the interest of all. The camp-fire in the evening will be one of the greatest factors in making camp one large family unit, and here we are allowed to see and appreciate our comrades' talents displayed in the flickering firelight, with the background of green, topped by a glistening full-moon.

Wednesday, July 10th, will be the date of our field-day when the campers will participate in contests of every sort, and when our parents will be expected to come and spend the afternoon and evening with us.

A jollier holiday could not be imagined; a better way of forming new friendships is hard to find; and certainly it is the only way to get that fashionable sun-tanned complexion!

Fees are payable to Mrs A. Kitchen, Napanee.

OBITUARY

Clarence A. Lamonion

A very solemn and impressive funeral service was held in St. Luke's Church, Camden East, on Sunday, June 16th, at 1 p.m., when Clarence A. Lamonion, who was accidentally drowned while swimming in the creek near his home at Violet, was laid to rest. The fatality was a severe shock to the community at large and the deep sympathy felt for the bereaved mother, brothers and sisters, found expression in attendance at the burial, many being unable to obtain admittance to the church edifice. Clarence was a quiet manly fellow, liked and respected by all who knew him and many handsome floral tributes were laid on the coffin. The solemn and comforting Burial Office of the Church of England was read by the Rector, who also spoke briefly to the bereaved from the text, "My help cometh from the Lord." At the conclusion of the service, the choir—of which Clarence was a member and regular attendant—and from which he will be greatly missed—preceded the remains to the grave, where a hymn was sung before the final words of the Office were said. "May he rest in peace and light perpetual shine on him."

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF THE LATE COL. CHAS. P. TEMPLETON, M.D.

(Brandon Daily Sun, June 17th)

Few such representative or impressive funerals have been conducted in Brandon as the last honors paid on Sunday to the late Col. C. P. Templeton, C.B.E., D.S.O., V.D., M.D., C.M., victim of an automobile accident on Wednesday. An enormous number of citizens and visitors lined the route of the funeral procession and it is seldom so distinctive an army of military men of all ranks have been seen in one parade as were in the cortege to the cemetery on Sunday.

At the funeral service at St. Paul's United Church Rev. Phillip Duncan preached and conducted the last rites for the dead. The church was full and the pastor warmly eulogised the late doctor-soldier. Pallbearers were assembled by the family of Dr. Templeton. The mother of the deceased, Mrs. S. A. Templeton, of Napanee, Ont., and his daughter, Margaret, Judge and Mrs. T. D. Cumberland. Also Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Carlisle, brother and brother-in-law. Mrs. Carlisle is a sister of Dr. Templeton. A brother-in-law, J. M. McIntosh, formerly manager of the Dominion Bank here, and now of Toronto, was in attendance. Another brother of the late doctor was unable to attend as well as two sisters. These are W. A. Templeton, publisher, of Napanee; Mrs. F. VanEvery and Mrs. J. M. McIntosh, of Toronto.

In the funeral solemnities the lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, Hon. J. D. McGregor, was represented by Brig.-General J. Kirkaldy, M.C., D.S.O., and by Major W. J. Creelman, as adjutant. The sword of the late soldier was carried in the procession as well as his war-decorations and medals. Fellow officers bore these emblems. His favorite horse, the saddle reversed, was led behind the massive hearse by a member of his unit, the 21st Canadian Field Ambulance, which also supplied the bearers to the grave. The representative of the District Officer Commanding Military District No. 10 Col. A. E. Snell, C.M.G., D.S.O., R.C.A.M.C., rode with Brig.-Gen. Kirkcaldy, as did Commissioner Hamilton of the Manitoba provincial police. The city was represented by Ald. W. V. Oglesby. There were war nurses in the parade and a representative of the R.C.M.P., unattached executive officers and representatives of the militia at Camp Borden and this district. Upon these and many war veterans shone medals and war decorations of impressive and honors.

The scene as the cavalcade moved off from the church was memorable. The escort consisted of officers and men from all the units of the local garrison. The firing party from the Manitoba Rangers, the 45th Regiment, followed. The band of the 45th played the funeral dirge as the slow march commenced. Immediately behind the gun carriage bearing the remains of the late Col. Templeton was his fellow members of the 59th Battery, C.F.A. The honorary pallbearers were Lieut.-Col. C. A. Harrison and Clark; Lieut.-Col. J. Y. Reid, Winnipeg; Lieut.-Col. G. Clinton Virden; Lieut.-Col. A. J. Young; and Lieut.-Col. A. E. Croll, Souris; Lieut.-Col. J. W. Candlish, Minnedosa, and Lieut.-Col. H. G. Napier, the commanding Officer of the 45th Regiment.

The ex-service men made a brave showing in numbers and every unit was represented and was finely represented, but veterans from all wars and of all ranks were in the lengthy procession. Retired officers in uniform or mufti. The first two files of the veterans served with Dr. Templeton in France. These end officers, N.C.O.'s and men of the Manitoba Rangers, Manitoba Dragoons, Field Artillery and Field Ambulance, all in goodly numbers, made the imposing military cavalcade. The Boy Scouts of Brandon likewise joined the procession in strength as well as numbers of boy scouts and cubs. The officer in charge was Major P. P. Bucke and the marshal of parade was Capt. W. E. Rogers.

The solemn march to the cemetery opened and closed with the fullest military observances and honors to a military officer. At the cemetery the escort saluted the body with arms reversed and the firing party passed to the front of the graveside. Rev. Phillip Duncan pronounced the last solemn rites of committal. Then the final salute over the grave, the Last Post was sounded as the men presented arms and were stopped to the Reveille. The grave became a mass of floral tokens of remembrance even as the mourners and military departed. The decorum of the solemn occasion was immensely aided by some excellent police arrangements made by the city police within and by the provincial police without the limits. These were most considerately aid saddled to the successful carrying out of a difficult if mournful task.

NAPANEE HUMANE SOCIETY

On Monday, July 1st, this Society will hold a Tag Day. It is our first public appeal to the people of Napanee and district for funds to carry on the work. Many we wonder just why a Humane Society requires money. Briefly it is for two purposes. Firstly, it is to pay the travelling expenses of our Inspector plus a small bonus if possible. He it at the call of all cases of cruelty to animals within our county and naturally some require considerable time from his work. Secondly, to defray the services of a Veterinary Surgeon when such is required. The response to our Tag Day will indicate somewhat the view of the public to the desirability of having a society organized to prevent cruelty to animals.

Just previous to one o'clock on the same day all members intending to enter pets in the parade will assemble at the Market Square. The parade will follow the town band up Dundas and Street and the judging will be done outside the Fair Grounds before dispersing. Be sure to have all animals secured well, and where possible have them and any wagons decorated with flags and bunting.

A meeting of the Society will be held on Saturday, 29th, at 7.30 p.m. in the Library.

(Montreal Star, Tuesday, June 18)

Rev. W. W. Peck, M.A., secretary of the Canadian Temperance Federation, died last night in the Central Y.M.C.A., Drummond street, Montreal. Rev. Mr. Peck's office is in Toronto. On the death of Rev. Dr. Hart, recently, the board of the Quebec League against alcoholism invited Mr. Peck to come to Montreal and assist in reorganizing the work in this province. He had been to the Maritime provinces on a trip and was preparing literature to assist the temperance forces in Nova Scotia in their coming referendum effort.

Returning to Montreal about two weeks ago Mr. Peck remained here to study the situation and had interviewed several citizens with regard to financial and moral backing for the local and provincial temperance work. Last Sunday he visited Oranstown, where he conducted successful services and was accorded a hearty reception. Returning to the city yesterday he called at the office of the League. He was somewhat fatigued and decided to rest for the afternoon and evening, giving no intimation, however, of feeling any serious indisposition.

This morning Rev. Dr. E. Scott, who lives at the Y.M.C.A., rapped at Mr. Peck's door and received no response. He reported the matter to the desk clerk, a key was obtained and it was found that Mr. Peck had evidently died in his sleep. The coroner was communicated with and gave permission to an undertaker to remove the body.

Rural Dean Sanders, President of the League Against Alcoholism, was notified and is in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Peck and part of the family reside in Vancouver. Mr. Peck was for some years a minister and later engaged in temperance work in British Columbia. One son resides in New York. Dean Sanders is awaiting word from the family with regard to the funeral.

Mr. Peck was recognized as one of the foremost temperance leaders in Canada. He was chosen as educational secretary for temperance for the Canadian Temperance Federation about three years ago.

Mr. Peck's duties were very taxing. In addition to watching the temperance work in all the provinces comprised in the Federation and giving special assistance wherever and whenever required, he had speaking engagements almost every Sunday in Ontario towns and cities. He was editor of the "Temperance Advocate." He had in his mind a wonderful fund of information on temperance subjects and had collected data in his Toronto office dealing with every phase of temperance educational work. He was largely responsible for the publication of a text book by Miss McCorkindale on temperance and hygiene, which is used in many schools and circulated by some provincial government authorities.

He was a minister of the United Church of Canada, and about 57 years of age.

At one time Mr. Peck was stationed at Napanee, having charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and his many friends here will regret very much his sudden passing.

CAMDEN EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Camden East Branch of the Women's Institute held its first regular meeting since the annual at the home of the President, Mrs. A. Robinson. Sixteen members and four visitors were present.

After the opening exercises and reading and approval of the minutes, roll call was answered by "Suggestions for keeping flies out of the house."

Correspondence dealing with the district annual and maternal morality was read, and the questions answered regarding the latter.

This being the first meeting, considerable business for the new year was brought before the members.

The Fruit and Flower Committee had asked that a definite sum be stated as expenses for each ill person. This could hardly be done since prices vary, and cases are so vastly different, requiring different treats. Therefore the majority of the members supported a motion to leave the amount of money to be spent and the class of gift to be bought entirely to the discretion of the committee in charge.

It was also decided that a monthly report of work and finances be given at each regular meeting. This is a new feature in our branch, but as most sister branches have found these reports a very interesting and satisfactory means of letting each member know how the Institute is carrying on its business, we feel sure our members will find it very satisfactory.

The following programme was enjoyed by all:

Paper—British Empire—Mrs. H. Huff
Instrumental—Miss I. Robinson.
Knowledge Test on British Empire.
Cake Cutting Demonstration.
Community Singing.
National Anthem.

A social half hour, during which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and committee, brought to a close a very much enjoyed meeting.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who can attend the Summer Series Lecture by a lady speaker from the department, next Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. A. Salsbury. This is free to all, and we would be pleased to have a large number of visitors, as well as all the members present.

She: "You know that I love you and will be true to the last."

He: "But how long shall I be the last?"

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF R. E. COUNCIL

The annual Convention of Religious Educational Council, Richmond Township, was held in Grace Church, Napanee, on Friday, June 14th, 1929. The Convention was opened at 1.30 by Rev. W. P. Woodger, who also welcomed the convention to Grace church. This was replied to by the County Superintendent, Mr. Purcell, of Colebrook.

In the absence of the President, Mr. C. Anderson, Rev. H. W. Foley of Selby presided. Mrs. A. Fraken, Secretary Treasurer, gave the report of the various Township Sunday Schools, after which the committee were appointed.

Rev. J. E. Beckel gave a much appreciated address on Evangelism in the Sunday School emphasizing methods such as group methods as in the Trail Rangers. Mass Evangelism as holding special meetings in the Sunday Schools or the personal method where individuals are spoken to concerning repentance. A decision day should be held in the Sunday Schools at least once a year. He also stressed the fact that a great revival was needed not only among the Sunday School children but among the parents as well. Mrs. Denison rendered a solo which was appreciated by all. Reports were then received from the Department Superintendents (Much credit is due Mrs. R. J. Smith, Superintendent of the Children's Department, who is retiring this year, for her untiring efforts and great success as a leader in this Department for many years.). After the reports were presented Rev. J. N. H. Norton of Cobourg, representing the O. R. E. C. headquarters led in a discussion of problems connected with the work. He also gave a talk on Evangelism in the Sunday Schools, stressing the school grouping plan which he thought proved beneficial.

The evening session was opened by a song service conducted by Mr. C. A. Wiseman, after which Rev. H. N. Foley led in devotional exercises. The report of the Nominating Committee was then presented and adopted. Following this a duet by Mrs Elliott and Mrs. Seymour was much enjoyed.

Rev. A. J. Wilson installed the officers for the following year. Those elected were:—

President— Rev. H. N. Foley, Selby.

Vice President—Mr. G. H. Brooks, Sharpe's Corners.

Superintendent of Children's Work—Mrs. Frank Herrington, Napanee.

Superintendent of Girls' Work—Miss Laura Rockwell, Napanee.

Superintendent of Boys' Work—Mr. Erfest Gibbard, Napanee.

Superintendent of Young Peoples Dept.—Mr. Limbert Graham, Napanee.

Superintendent of Adult Division —Mr. W. J. Winter, Selby.

Superintendent of Home Dept.—Mrs. M. Windower, Selby.

Superintendent of Teacher Training —Rev. A. J. Wilson, Napanee.

Superintendent of Missionary Dept. —Miss Mabel Stafford, Empey Hill.

Superintendent of Temperance Dept. —Mrs. N. B. Miller, Napanee.

An address on Church Wrecking Heresies was given by Rev. Norton. In the Sunday School, home and community proper impressions ought to be made in conversation, etc., as children are more observant than some realize. Leaders ought to practise what they preach if they wish to set proper examples. Teachers should prepare their Sunday School lessons so that they can bring out the best points of the lesson. They should also choose stories, songs, etc., suitable for the age of the children in their charge. Primary Departments should receive special attention. Comfortable and pleasant surroundings should be provided as the child's first impressions of the House of God should be the best possible.

A vote of thanks was conveyed to the Church Board of Grace Church for opening up their church and to all those who in any way helped to make the Convention a success.

Next year's Convention will be held in Forest Mills United Church.

Plaintiff at Bow County Court: Your husband is earning good money.

Woman: It's good money in a way, but there's not enough of it.

He: How about you and me getting married?

She: No. I think I'll make my present husband do for another year.

WALLACE'S DRUG STORE

The Government's loss of its suit against the Standard Aircraft corporation for overpayment of $2,125,000 led Wilmer Stultz, the aviator, to say:

"The people in appointed this aircraft concern did it in ignorance. Their ignorance was blameworthy; all ignorance can't do it," said he, "yet it was innocent, too. It was a good deal like the colored girl.

"A colored girl was called up to give testimony in a chicken stealing case. She took her seat in the box and crossed her knees in approved fashion. But the judge said to her sternly:

"'Pull down your skirt.'

"'Ah can't do it,' said the colored girl. 'When Ah's a-sittin' it goes up. Dat's de style, jedge.'

"'Leave the court,' the judge roared. 'You are fined $2 for contempt.'

"The court clerk, who had been smoking in the back room, was summoned by the crier, and as he hurried in the colored girl handed him her $3 fine.

"'What's this for?' he asked her.

"'Fo' temptin' de jedge,' said she."

CHRYSLER "75" ROYAL SEDAN $1985 f.o.b. Windsor, Ont. Wire wheels extra

Notice who own CHRYSLERS – that alone means a lot

WHEN you see the number of Chryslers in the hands of bankers, lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, engineers, chemists, judges and other leaders throughout the Dominion, you realize more than ever that you travel in the best of company when you own and drive a Chrysler.

It means something definite when thousands of people who formerly owned and drove far more expensive cars are now driving Chryslers by preference.

Today there is a general recognition of the fact that Chrysler has obsoleted long-established standards.

By scientific distribution of car weight, by new utilization of fuel, by advanced carburetion and correctly applied thermo-dynamics, Chrysler engineering has created a new performance.

A perfectly-balanced chassis, with buoyant vanadium springs anchored in moulded blocks of live rubber instead of ordinary metal shackles, supplemented by hydraulic shock absorbers, means an entirely new and delightful comfort in riding.

Take a demonstration. Learn for yourself the difference between Chrysler performance and the others.

VILLAGE OF GLOVE MAKERS

Practically Every Female In Village Learns Gloving—Cutting Out Done by Factories.

In the villages and smaller towns surrounding Yeovil, in Somerset, England, there may be heard from morning until night what appears to be the whir of sewing machines.

To the uninitiated this is at first a mystery, but further investigations reveal the secret—the glovers are at work, says Tit-Bits.

Practically every woman and girl in the cottage homes learns glovingr. Servants are almost unobtainable, for when, in a few cases, a girl is persuaded to take a situation, she quickly returns to her home and the work which, with all its monotony, offers greater attraction to her.

A good machinist can earn £1 or more in a week, and still have her evenings free and her liberty unchallenged day by day.

The unmade gloves are distributed by the manufacturers' agents, the depot usually being the little general shop, where the women go and apply for as many pairs as they are able to make.

All the cutting out is done in the factories in and around Yeovil, and the home work consists in joining-up the finger seams, putting in thumbs, which are also cut out in the factories, and making the buttonholes, a process locally known as "bunbitting."

The buttonholing is a tedious business, and, of course, hand work. Some women do nothing but this during the whole of their lives, having no ambition to learn the other branches of the work. Usually one woman keeps to the particular part she elects to learn, and in no circumstances does one person make a glove throughout.

Every child in the home is brought up in a wholesome fear of touching the work, which is wrapped in a cloth and laid in the window seat, the machines being drawn up endways to the window to catch the light.

Sometimes two or three are crowded there, and the women sit at them, steadily stitching for many hours each day. After breakfast they start straight away, leaving any household duties until evening, when the men come home to a hot meal and the gloves are folded away in the window seat until the next day, says a writer in the London Daily Express.

These glove makers have a curious way of speaking, as if glove making is the only thing to be dignified by the name of work. Cooking, washing, sewing are expressed by the verbs to cookle, to washle, to sewle, and the daily kitchen work is "cleaning up house." To these people "work" is just a synonym for glove making, and nothing else.

Sometimes an order comes for so many dozen pairs of gloves to be ready by a given hour, and then everything else goes by the board.

The children are indeed pressed into service, and sit on the doorstep skillfully manipulating the two bone sticks on which the gloves are turned.

GREAT CAVE IN ROCKS.

Huge Underground Cavern In Australia New Natural Wonder.

A new aboriginal mystery exists in the Cave of the Red Hands—just rediscovered in the Grampians in the state of Victoria. It contains ancient stencils or paintings—symbols supposed to be aboriginals.

Fifty years ago a party of scientists discovered a rock shelter some miles distant in which some remarkable drawings were found imprinted on the walls, but the recent discovery is much more extensive. Red hands, those mysterious stencils or paintings which have been found in many countries, and even in the caves of prehistoric man in Europe, are visible on the walls of this big rock shelter in western Victoria. Some are as fresh as though they were the work of yesterday; others are faint. Probably they were done a thousand years ago; certainly some of the hands are centuries old.

Human figures and those of animals are depicted in red, and rows of straight lines which resemble certain Arunta tribe totemic marking on rock. Mystery veils these relics of the lost tribes. They are sacred and ceremonial in most cases, but their real meaning is unknown.

A LONG JOURNEY.

Just Travelled Through Air Over 2,000 Miles.

One of the most extraordinary journeys on record must be that made by many tons of Australian soil which, suspended in the air, travelled more than 2,000 miles to the South Island of New Zealand last October. The greater part of the journey was over water.

Although not the first time dust has travelled from Australia to New Zealand, this deposit was remarkable both for quantity and the area over which it was recorded. In many parts during the first falls, when the dust was brought down by rain, the rain was referred to as mud rain, the discoloration being sufficient to make it difficult to pick out the jerseys of different teams at a football match.

Occasions on which dust has been carried long distances overseas have been recorded frequently in many ocean waters in the neighborhood of desert regions, such as the Atlantic to the westward of the Sahara, in the Mediterranean, and numerous other places.

The Bitter Bit.

Seagulls, deprived of their natural food by the bad weather, were devouring scraps in the roadway at Skegness when a cat sprang among them. The famished birds attacked the cat, and within ten minutes it had been torn limb from limb and its flesh shared by the birds.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of Camden East W. M. S was held at the home of Mrs. George Black on Tuesday, June 11th, with the President in the chair. The meeting was opened by singing "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," followed by silent prayer. Mrs. Sherlock then led in prayer.

An very heartily welcomed another member to our Society. A Programme Committee was appointed to arrange the programme for meetings for the next few months.

Roll call was answered by a favorite verse from a hymn.

Two very interesting readings were given, "The Better Part" and "Brother Brown and His Gifts."

After matters of business being discussed the meeting was closed by the singing of a familiar hymn. The hostess served delicious refreshments and a social half hour was spent by all.

BUILDING MATERIALS

Portland Cement, Hydrated Lime, Plaster and Gyproc at Wilson's Hardware.

The projected Chicago skyscrapes of the record height of just over a thousand feet is believed to be the outcome of an increasing desire to get away from the underworld.

Norman E. Mack, at a dinner in Buffalo, was talking about prohibition. "It always best to tell the truth," he said, "and we would only make ourselves ridiculous if we pretended that prohibition is properly enforced. Yes, any such pretence on our part would make American prohibition look very silly."

Like the story of the colored porter at the shore hotels.

A bride, bride and groom came to a shore hotel for their honeymoon, and the bride told the porter, who met them at the station, that he must be sure to crush all the rice out of their luggage and to remove all the foolish labels and tins that their friends had smeared on their suit cases and trunks. The porter, above all, was to keep the secret about their being bride and groom.

Well the porter promised faithfully, and the bridegroom gave him a generous ten dollar bill.

Even from the first moment of their arrival at the hotel, by golley, the young couple were so stared at and pointed to and whispered about that they had no peace. In the diningroom, in the ballroom, in the hall—as soon as they appeared a wave of excitement passed over the guests; there were strange smiles and nods, whispers and shakes of the head. They felt like fools.

The porter had given them away, of course. The bridegroom took him to task hotly.

"George, you're an old chump," he said. "I tipped you a ten-spot to keep it dark about us, but we can't move a yard without being pointed at and whispered and snickered about something horrible. You've given us away, you old rascal!"

"But the porter said:

"No, boss, dawn my soul, boss, da tain't de trufe. No, sah! Ah didn't tell de folks here dat you all was jes married—Ah done tole 'em jes de opposite. Ah done tele 'em you wasn't married at all—you was jes' good friends."

WEDDING RECEPTION

On Wednesday evening, June 12th, one of the prettiest receptions in detail was given to Mr. and Mrs. George Venton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Conners Wilton, parents of the bride. Only the nearest relatives of the bridal party participated. The guests were received by Mrs. Conners, and after felicitations to the bridal party they were ushered to the dining-room to the strains of music. The house throughout was beautifully decorated with a profusion of June flowers, but the diningroom colors were in silver and white, the table decorations being Darwin Iris and Guelder Roses while those of the wedding cake being white peonies nestled and lily of the valley. After the toasts to the happy couple, the assortment of happiness was kind—a supper being served to thirty-six guests, delectable to the most inelidacia epicure. Preceding the cutting of the wedding cake a recital rendered by Mr. W. Turnbull of Kingston, accompanist Miss L. Venton. On leaving from the dining-room the guests was spent socially and informally, with the exception of instrumental and vocal music. The high esteem of the young bride was apparent from the beautiful gifts she received.

$1985
f.o.b. Windsor, Ont.
Wire wheels extra

Notice who own CHRYSLERS
– that alone means a lot

WHEN you see the number of Chryslers in the hands of bankers, lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, engineers, chemists, judges and other leaders throughout the Dominion, you realize more than ever that you travel in the best of company when you own and drive a Chrysler.

It means something definite when thousands of people who formerly owned and drove far more expensive cars are now driving Chryslers by preference.

Today there is a general recognition of the fact that Chrysler has obsoleted long-established standards.

By scientific distribution of car weight, by new utilization of fuel, by advanced carburetion and correctly applied thermo-dynamics, Chrysler engineering has created a new performance.

A perfectly-balanced chassis, with buoyant vanadium springs anchored in moulded blocks of live rubber instead of ordinary metal shackles, supplemented by hydraulic shock absorbers, means an entirely new and delightful comfort in riding.

Take a demonstration. Learn for yourself the difference between Chrysler performance and the others.

VILLAGE OF GLOVE MAKERS

Practically Every Female In Village Learns Gloving—Cutting Out Done by Factories.

In the villages and smaller towns surrounding Yeovil, in Somerset, England, there may be heard from morning until night what appears to be the whir of sewing machines.

To the uninitiated this is at first a mystery, but further investigations reveal the secret—the glovers are at work, says Tit-Bits.

Practically every woman and girl in the cottage homes learns gloving. Servants are almost unobtainable, for when, in a few cases, a girl is persuaded to take a situation, she quickly returns to her home and the work which, with all its monotony, offers greater attraction to her.

A good machinist can earn £1 or more in a week, and still have her evenings free and her liberty unchallenged day by day.

The unmade gloves are distributed by the manufacturers' agents, the depot usually being the little general shop, where the women go and apply for as many pairs as they are able to make.

All the cutting out is done in the factories in and around Yeovil, and the home work consists in joining-up the finger seams, putting in thumbs, which are also cut out in the factories, and making the buttonholes, a process locally known as "buttling."

The buttonholing is a tedious business, and, of course, hand work. Some women do nothing but this during the whole of their lives, having no ambition to learn the other branches of the work. Usually one woman keeps to the particular part she elects to learn, and in no circumstances does one person make a glove throughout.

Every child in the home is brought up in a wholesome fear of touching the work, which is wrapped in a cloth and laid in the window seat, the machine being drawn up endways to the window to catch the light.

Sometimes two or three are crowded there, and the women sit at them, steadily stitching for many hours each day. After breakfast they start straight away, feeding any household duties until evening, when the men come home to a hot meal and the gloves are folded away in the window seat until the next day, says a writer in the London Daily Express.

These glove makers have a curious way of speaking, as if glove making is the only thing to be dignified by the name of work. Cooking, washing, sewing are expressed by the verbs to cookle, to washle, to sewe, and the daily kitchen work is relegated to "up house." To these people "work" is but a synonym for glove making, and nothing else.

Sometimes an order comes for so many dozen pairs of gloves to be ready by a given hour, and then everything else goes by the board.

The children are, indeed, pressed into service, and sit on the doorsill skillfully manipulating the two long sticks on which the gloves are turned.

GREAT CAVE IN ROCKS.

Huge Underground Cavern In Australia New Natural Wonder.

A new aboriginal mystery exists in the Cave of the Red Hands—just discovered in the Grampians in the state of Victoria. It contains aboriginal stencils or paintings—symbols sacred to the aboriginals.

Fifty years ago a party of scientists discovered a rock shelter some miles distant in which some remarkable drawings were found imprinted on the walls, but the recent discovery is much more extensive. Red hands, these mysterious stencils or paintings which have been found in many countries, and even in the caves of prehistoric man in Europe, are vivid on the walls of this big rock shelter in western Victoria. Some are as fresh as though they were the work of yesterday; others are faint. Probably they were done a thousand years ago; certainly some of the hands are centuries old.

Human figures and those of animals are depicted in red, and rows of straight lines which resemble certain Arunta tribe totemic marking. Mystery veils these relics of the lost tribes. They are sacred and ceremonial in many cases, but their real meaning is unknown.

A LONG JOURNEY.

Dust Travelled Through Air Over 2,000 Miles.

One of the most extraordinary journeys on record must be that made by many tons of Australian soil, which, suspended in the air, travelled more than 2,000 miles to the South Island of New Zealand last October. The greater part of the journey was over water.

Although not the first time dust has travelled from Australia to New Zealand, this deposit was remarkable both for quantity and the area over which it was recorded. In many parts during the first falls, when the dust was brought down by rain, the rain was referred to as mud rain, the discoloration being sufficient to make it difficult to pick out the jerseys of different teams at a football match.

Occasions on which dust has been carried long distances overseas have been recorded frequently in the ocean waters in the neighborhood of desert regions, such as the Atlantic to the westward of the Sahara, in the Mediterranean, and numerous other places.

The Biter Bit.

Seagulls, deprived of their natural food by the bad weather, were devouring scraps in the roadway at Skegness when a cat sprang among them. The famished birds attacked the cat, and within ten minutes it had been torn limb from limb and its flesh shared by the birds.

A Telephone Library.

A library containing the names and numbers of 25,000,000 telephone subscribers in all parts of the world that are linked to London by telephone has been installed at the Savoy Hotel.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of Camden East W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. George Black on Tuesday, June 11th, the President in the chair. The meeting was opened by singing "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," followed by silent prayer. Mrs. Sherlock then led in prayer.

All very heartily welcomed another new member to our Society. A Programme Committee was appointed to meet after the programme for meetings for the next few months.

Roll call was answered by a favorite verse from a hymn.

One very interesting readings were given: "The Better Part" and "Brother Steven and His Gifts."

A few matters of business being discussed the meeting was closed by the singing of a familiar hymn. The hostess served delicious refreshments and a social half hour was spent by all.

It's a long time since we have noticed any news from Victoria, and things do happen here as well as in other places.— The shower of rain was very welcome on Sunday. — A number were disappointed at not being able to attend the memorial service at Wilton on Sunday. — Everyone is glad to see Ray Babcock's smiling face again, after being confined to the house, he having had quite a serious accident. — Douglas Miles' little girl is home from the hospital, and has quite recovered from an operation.—Mrs. D. Smith is slowly recovering from her recent illness. — Mrs. Vernon Smith and children, who were spending a few days with Mrs. D. Smith, have returned to their home in Kingston. — Miss Nellie Lucas with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Florida.—Miss Laird spent the week-end with Mrs. Bernard Miles.

Mr. Jas. Snider is making extensive improvements on his house. — Mr. Nelson O'Neil and family spent a pleasant week-end in Rochester. —Mrs. R. Ford is improving very slowly after a very serious illness. — Miss Roblin, our very popular teacher, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roblin, Adolphustown. —A number from here attended the W. I. Convention at Maple Leaf and report a very profitable and enjoyable afternoon, the ladies who were unable to go, missed a real treat. —Those attending the garden party at Wilton last Thursday evening had a very enjoyable time. The Odessa band provided excellent music throughout the evening.

DORLAND

The shower on Wednesday, 19th. was not enough to discourage the members of the Ladies' Aid, who met at the home of Mrs. Andrew Magee, where an interesting meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. W. D. Roblin. —Weather is very warm and helpful to farmers who are cutting Alfalfa.—School examinations are now on and the children are looking forward to vacation.—Mrs. G. Love of Milford whose 85th birthday was celebrated on Saturday by a family reunion, is visiting her daughters, Mrs. Andy and Mrs. Alex. THE PLAYFUL MONKEY

Writer Narrates Story of Monkey Which Will Greatly Interest Readers of This Paper.

Katharine Tynan, who has been staying with friends from India, narrates this story of monkeys, which will greatly interest our readers.

Had we seen them at Gibraltar? the colonel asked. Of course we remembered that they gave the alarm which saved the Rock from an invading enemy, and that therefore they are as immune as if they were sacred.

"I could never bear to shoot a monkey," the colonel said with something like a shudder. "I had a horrible experience once. A party of men of whom I made one was out shooting in Nyasaland when by accident one of us cot a big female monkey. The poor thing ran up to us, shaking and crying, the tears pouring from her eyes while she pointed to the wound in her breast.

"I can tell you that we felt just like a party of murderers. We were debating what to do, whether to try to plug the wound and dress it or finish her off mercifully, when she turned from us and ran into the forest. We all felt pretty sick about it."

"They are very human," said the colonel's wife. "I remember one time, when Dick was building the railway to Dehra, we had camped on the edge of a forest which was full of monkeys. We used to look on at them doing all kinds of things, for they grew quite used to us and never showed any sign of fear in our presence.

"I used to see them on the trees with the little monkeys in their arms, rocking them as an old nurse might, patting their cheeks, sometimes smacking them. The baby monkeys were delightful. One of their games was to drop on top of our tents and slide down the sides. We never knew when we might hear the little plop."

"I remember that at Madras at one time," said a lady who was present, "I had rather a fright with a monkey. I was sleeping in a tent in the garden and my breakfast had just been brought. Through the opening of the tent I saw a very large monkey enter the garden, running and leaping.

"He made straight for the tent, bounded on to my bed and sat squatting at the foot making extraordinary faces at me. I felt he wanted something, so I offered him a piece of toast, which he took, ate it all over, and finally ate with enjoyment. After that he sprang off the bed and rushed toward the house, and I heard a frightful commotion, the servants shouting, the dogs yelping, the children calling me. He had thoroughly frightened everyone; but before I could do my duty and intervene he had gone rushing off and we never saw him again.

"There were few monkeys in that particular place and he was much larger than those we knew. He had frightened even the dogs. I remember another time when I came upon a monkey and my dog, a little fox-terrier, barked furiously at it. The monkey ran to me, gibbering and imploring my protection, to the great gratification of Spot."

"I heard someone say the other day," said the colonel, "that animals were without pity. It is not true so far as it affects human beings. But the Gibbon monkeys in Africa, if you should pretend to cry, will scamper down from the trees and run to you to comfort you, moaning and weeping."

Find Street Where Jesus Healed.

What is believed to be the ancient street where Jesus met the man born blind, and performed the miracle of giving him sight, has just been uncovered in Jerusalem.

Remains of a massive gateway and part of the walls of Jerusalem in an excellent state of preservation have also been unearthed.

A number of houses in a fine state of preservation, with mosaic floors, have also been found. They are believed to have been the dwellings of the pilgrims who came to Jerusalem before its capture by the Saracens in 637 A.D.

S. S. CONVENTION AT MORVEN

Odessa, June 14—The annual convention of the Religious Education Council for the Township of Ernestown was held on Tuesday at the Brick Church, Morven, the president, Mr. W. H. Mills, presiding. The opening session was held in the afternoon, the devotional exercises being conducted by Rev. S. F. Dixon of Bath, after which an address of welcome was tendered the delegates by Rev. R. M. Seymour of Morven, a fitting reply being made by Mr. S. W. Clark, Odessa.

The president's address was then given by Mr. Mills of Wilton, in which he outlined the work of the Sunday School.

"The young people of today will be the people of the future," and he stressed the activities of the Sunday Schools in preparing the young people for this change.

The secretary's report was then given by Miss Gladys Wallace and showed the standard of Ernestown schools to be 80 per cent.

Mrs. (Rev.) Seymour delighted the audience with a vocal solo, after which the report of the superintendent of the department was read nine schools having reported.

The round-table conference was conducted by Rev. J.N.H. Norton of Cobourg.

The evening session opened with devotional exercises by Rev. R. N. Seymour, after which invocation was asked by Rev. G. C. N. McQuade of Odessa. The following officers were then installed by Rev. Mr. McQuade:

President, Mr. W. H. Mills; vice-president, Mr. J. Baines; secretary-treasurer, Miss Gladys Wallace; children's department, Miss Gretta Asselstine; boy's department, Mr. Russell Craig; girl's division, Miss Willanna Clark; young people's division, Miss Keitha Babcock; adult division, Mr. Byron Jackson; home department, Mrs. R. Clarke; missionary department, Grace Peters; temperance department, Mr. James Baines

This was followed by a solo by Mrs. J. E. Robson, after which the guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Norton, gave a very helpful address, his subject being, "The Place the Sunday chool Occupies in the Heart of Our Workers," in which he said, "The main entrance to the Sunday School is the main entrance to the church."

Before concluding a very successful convention three resolutions of appreciation were unanimously passed —to the officials of the church; to the ladies for the bountiful dinner; to the Sunday Schools of the Morven Circuit for the musical numbers; to Rev. J. Norton of Cobourg for the excellent address given that day.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Wm. Norris, who passed away June 26th, 1926.

Gone dear Mother gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.

A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poste.

NAPANEE WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon, June 11th. After a very brief business meeting in the agricultural rooms, an afternoon tea was held in Argyle lodge rooms, a large number of ladies being in attendance. The tables were presided over by Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. Exley, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Albert Reid, Mrs. H. Oliver and Miss Dunbar and were very attractive with their flowers and Institute colors cleverly combined During the afternoon a delightful program was given, consisting of a piano duet by Miss Letha Scott and Miss Helen Akenhead. The following ladies Mrs. Asselstine, Mrs. Valkman, Mrs. Frank Mills, Mrs Dennison and Miss Basgheh, with Mrs. Clarence Reid at the piano, sang very sweetly, "The Old-Fashioned House," and "The Barefoot Trail." Readings were given by Mrs. Katherine A Powell. Her first number, "The Least of These," by Bliss Carman, being particularly appropriate. A splendid sum was realized for Institute work.

The candidate was confident of "getting in." He had personally canvassed from door to door the whole constituency, and the promises assured him that the seat was his. When the poll was declared, he found himself at the bottom of the poll. The usual after result speeches from candidates were called for, and the only sentence he said was: "I am glad that I am not to represent such a lot of d——d liars as you."

At the next election he was top of the poll.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Wm. Norris, who passed away June 26th, 1926.

Gone dear Mother gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.

A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poste.

NAPANEE WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon, June 11th. After a very brief business meeting in the agricultural rooms, an afternoon tea was held in Argyle lodge rooms, a large number of ladies being in attendance. The tables were presided over by Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. Exley, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Albert Reid, Mrs. H. Oliver and Miss Dunbar and were very attractive with their flowers and Institute colors cleverly combined. During the afternoon a delightful program was given, consisting of a piano duet by Miss Letha Scott and Miss Helen Alcombrack. The following ladies Mrs. Asselstine, Mrs. Valkman, Mrs. Frank Mills, Mrs. Dennison and Miss Baughers, with Mrs. Clarence Reid at the piano, sang very sweetly, "The Old-Fashioned House," and "The Barefoot Trail." Readings were given by Mrs. Katherine A. Powell. Her first number, "The Least of Love," by Bliss Carman, being partially appropriate. A splendid sum was realized for Institute work.

The candidate was confident of "getting in." He had personally canvassed from door to door the whole constituency, and the promises assured him that the seat was his. When the poll was declared, he found himself at the bottom of the poll. The usual after result speeches from candidates were called for, and the only sentence he said was: "I am glad that I am not to represent such a lot of d——d liars as you."

At the next election he was top of the poll.

The Royal Master
Not one Royal Master in a thousand will ever puncture.
Not one in five thousand will blow out under two years of service.

Does it pay to wear tires OUT?

It does not pay to run tires till they go to pieces—because—

—It's dangerous. A blowout may easily lead to a crash.

—It's false economy. You can't afford the time, the trouble and the inconvenience that blowouts bring.

—It's not worth the worry. You can't ride in comfort if you know a blowout is due any minute.

It will pay you to let us pull off those old tires and put on a set of brand new Dominion Royal Cords or Royal Masters. They will free you from worry. Royal Cords will cost you less in the long run than any other tire in their class—Royal Masters are in a class by themselves.

THE ESKIMO

Writer Says Fine Qualities Predominate Among Folk Little Known to the Outside World.

My first meeting with the Eskimo was in the fall of 1911, at Rampart House in the northern part of Alaska, writes Daniel A. Cadzow in the Scientific American. My idea of an Eskimo up to that time probably coincided with the average person's conception of these interesting Arctic dwellers. I had not heard that the Eskimos came to Rampart for trade, and when several families of them came in over the mountains from the north, I mistook them for unusually clean and cheerful Indians. They were not at all like my imaginary Eskimo, who was short, fat and greasy; constantly chewing on a piece of raw blubber. They were big, clean and very friendly.

Too-a-wak, or "Crooked Arm," was their leader, chosen because of his slight knowledge of the English language. In a few days Too-a-wak and I became fast friends, and during the five years that I lived in the western Arctic, he and his wife considered it their duty, as my friends, to see that I was properly supplied with skin clothing every fall.

Since I left the friendly shelter of Too-a-wak's little snow house in northern Alaska, I have visited many of his people in Arctic America, as far east as Baffin Land, for the purpose of studying their life and customs. And, as a race, I have found them to be a most interesting group of people, about whom very few authentic facts are really known by the general public.

Just how many Eskimos we have on the North American continent is not known. We do know, however, that there are about 25,000 of them scattered along the 5,000 miles of Arctic coastline. As a rule most people consider them as sort of an Arctic Indian, whereas the name Indian, although it is the common designation for all the natives of America, is not intended to include the Eskimo. The two races have nothing in common. Up to the time white men ventured into the far north to trade for fur, they were at war. To this day they do not trust one another in any of the regions I have visited.

The snow houses in which the Eskimos live in winter are marvels of engineering, and in building them of blocks of snow the principle of arch construction is used. The only other use in the world of this arch by primitive people was by the Etruscans. In early times, as proved by recent archaeological research, the Eskimos lived in winter in houses dug out of the ground. The sides of these houses were built up with walls of sod and stone and the roof was covered with whale ribs upon which skins probably were placed.

Then came the invention, long before the advent of white men, of the snow house. Some Eskimo devised the arch with his snow blocks which he built up in spiral courses. To this day the snow houses are the only comfortable type of house in which to live during an Arctic winter.

Living for centuries under extreme conditions, the Eskimos have survived untold hardships, increased in numbers and maintained a cheerful and friendly disposition through it all. Any normal white man who has been in contact with them respects and admires their many fine qualities. Naturally their morals and manners are difficult for a person reared in the knowledge of a different code. Honesty is inculcated in the young and is exacted by all the Eskimos. A murderer is often put to death by the friends or relations of the murdered person. Truth, honesty and the safeguarding of human life could be the slogan of the Eskimo, for they are recognized as essential to the peace and prosperity of all. As a whole the Eskimos I have met, who are supposed to be uncivilized, can teach white men much respecting the happiness and well-being of others with whom they come in contact.

FOOD FOR INFANTS.

Banana a Substitute for Sugar, Potato or Cereal.

The banana, once considered highly indigestible, is now taking its place with milk and cereals as an infant's food, says a Science Service bulletin.

It may be substituted for sugar, potato or cereal. Healthy infants so fed take it well, digest it satisfactorily and gain weight about as they would on the more usual diet, Dr. J. B. Scriver and Dr. S. J. Rosy, of Montreal, declared in a report to the Canadian Medical Association. The bananas must be thoroughly ripened. This is equally important when they are fed to adults.

The fruit should be kept at room temperature, not in an ice chest or refrigerator, and is considered ready for use when brown spots appear on the skin and there is no green at all on the skin, not even at the tip. Ripened in this way the starch of the banana is all converted to easily digested sugar. For infants of from three to six months, the bananas are mashed finely, beaten and mixed with milk. For older children they are mashed finely and fed like a cereal.

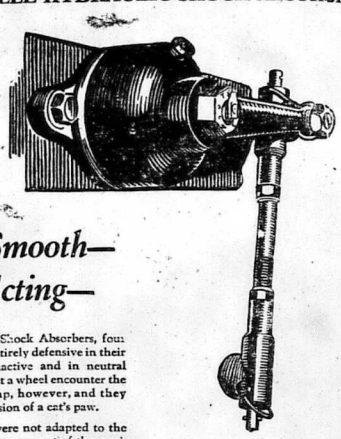
FORD CAR HOUDAILLE HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS



Positive—Smooth—Double Acting—

HOUDAILLE Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, four to every Ford car, are entirely defensive in their action since they remain inactive and in neutral position on smooth roads. Let a wheel encounter the slightest depression or bump, however, and they respond with the velvet precision of a cat's paw.

Houdaille Shock Absorbers were not adapted to the Ford car after it was built, but were part of the specifications laid down by the Ford engineers as they planned the car. Therefore, Houdailles, their powerful operation coordinated, became integral parts of the complete chassis. It is for this reason that they function with such perfect efficiency on the Ford car.

Houdailles absorb both the upward and downward thrust of the shock through slowing the spring action by means of a heavy glycerine solution, which is forced through a small valve from one compartment to another. They check the rebound of the car softly, exert no tension on the springs and are always ready to offer resistance to the blow when and as required. In fact, the more severe the shock, the more effectively Houdailles operate.

Different from any other shock absorber, the Houdaille connecting link between the frame and the axle of the car is a steel arm, not just a fabric strip to wear out and be replaced. Adjustable to suit differing road conditions and various loads, the Houdaille is more than a shock absorber and more than a snubber.

Inspect the Ford car carefully part by part. Then know the thrill of driving it. By its performance you will realize the easy riding comfort of an Houdaille equipped Ford.

CANADIAN GARDENING SERVICE

RE-PLANTING

Seldom are weather and soil conditions to perfect that some re-planting will not be necessary. This is the time to do it and it is by no means too late to get a good crop of vegetables and flowers from these re-plantings. One should go over the rows of carrots, beans, corn, etc., and fill in, not only to make the garden more uniform, but to get the greatest use from the land occupied. There is still plenty of time to plant most of the common types of vegetables, with the exception possibly of early lettuce, spinach, onions from seed, and radishes. In the flower garden there will also be a good deal of work screening out any gaps in the perennial bed where there may have been winter casualties, with quick growing annuals and trimming off those perennials which have grown beyond the bounds of safety. Now is the time to get perennial seeds started, as this is the ideal month for the purpose.

THINNING

Thinning is absolutely essential if one is to have vigorous and uniform flowers and vegetables. Most of the flowering plants require about as much room each way as their height and if they do not get this they are inclined to grow spindly and weak, a prey to the first heavy wind or rain that comes along. Do not be afraid of being drastic in these thinning operations, as the spaces which look so large in June will be well filled by early July when growth is at its maximum. Sturdy plants and large perfect blooms will not result unless there is abundance of room for development. After thinning, thorough cultivation is necessary, and it is a good plan to chop up and dig in the plants and foliage removed. Vegetables also require proper development. The corn should be thinned to about three or four stalks to a hill, and the hills require at least eighteen inches each way. Beans require three to four inches between plants in the row and peas about the same. Beets and carrots should be given about an inch each way to start with and later on every other plant removed for the first and incidentally the most tender crop for the table. A few weeks later take out every other beet and carrot again and one can keep this up until there is from six to eight inches between plants, which is the proper space for full development by late Fall. As one can use these two vegetables from the time they are an inch in diameter up, and can also use the tops of beets for greens, one long row, or, better still, two medium length rows of two varieties will suffice for the average family, using the thinnings as the first crops. In the vegetable garden it is not too late to put in some of those quick growing crops such as Swiss chard, kale, and similar plants to be used like Spinach. They will provide an abundance of material for the space occupied and will make a welcome change from the ordinary run of common vegetables.

CUTTING LAWNS

Care should be exercised in cutting lawns during hot weather. "It is most unwise to cut the grass too close at this time as burning is sure to take place," warns Professor A. H. Tomlinson, of the Ontario Agricultural College. There should be at least one-half inch of grass, if not more, he says, after cutting. To give the effect of a rich Turkish carpet when trod upon, an inch of growth is necessary. In the early part of the season when there is plenty of rain and the grass is making its most rapid growth, and again in the cool weather during the Fall, a weekly cutting may be necessary, but when the hot weather starts a light trimming is all that is required. Do not wait until the grass has grown three or four inches high, however, as the cut material is then liable to smother the growing grass, but trim regularly and leave the trimmings on the lawn, which act as a mulch, conserving the moisture and protecting the roots from the burning sun.

SUMMER SQUASH

Summer squash and vegetable marrow are two vegetables which could be largely extended in this country and they will be when people get more familiar with their possibilities. True, there is a good deal in the cooking, as when carelessly prepared they are liable to be tasteless and watery, but with the improved varieties at one's disposal, and with the more general knowledge of domestic science, there is no reason why they should not be grown and enjoyed by all. These plants are of tropical origin, and should, therefore, not to be sown until the soil is quite warm and there is no more danger of frost. They prefer rich, light, easily worked soil and good fertilizer. The squash are also baked for about twenty minutes and served as a vegetable, or they can be used in pies.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Up with the leaders and not yet a year old

Why is it you see so many De Soto Sixes on the streets? Why is this car such a favorite? Not yet a year old, and already it ranks among the best sellers!

The reason for this swift rise to leadership and universal acceptance is obvious. De Soto Six fills a hitherto unsatisfied demand for a perfectly-styled, smart and beautiful car that combines a brilliant appearance with power, speed, easy-riding qualities, dependability and safety, insured by positive-acting weatherproof 4-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Because it is Chrysler-built, it is in every sense an individualistic creation, unlike every other car in smooth flow of power, in freshness of line and color—in effortless eagerness to eat up the highway, and in ease and economy of operation.

Already there is abundant proof that De Soto Six, after many thousands of miles, retains its good looks, its alert power and its exceptional comfort.

Let us place a De Soto Six at your disposal—so that you can observe for yourself its many superiorities.

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR LITTLE ONES

At no time of life is delay or neglect more serious than at childhood. The ills of little ones come quickly and unless the mother is prompt in administering treatment a precious little life may be snuffed out almost before the mother realizes the baby is ill. The prudent mother always keeps something in the medicine chest as a safeguard against the sudden illness of her little ones. Thousands of mothers have found, through experience, that there is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets and that is why they always keep a box of the Tablets on hand—why they always feel safe with the Tablets.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which by regulating the bowels and stomach banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthy, natural sleep. Concerning them, Mrs. Isaac Sonia, St. Eugene, Ont., writes:—"I have been using Baby's Own Tablets ever since baby was a month old and have found that they reach the spot and do more good than any other medicine I have ever tried. I always keep the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

(For last week.)

The regular meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the parsonage on Tuesday night, June 11th, with the President in the chair. Hymn No. 163 was sung, followed by several short prayers. The making of a quilt was discussed. Hymn No. 92 was sung, then Mrs. Ed. Huffman and explained a chapter in the study book, "Drums in the Darkness." Mrs. (Rev.) Beckstead then gave an interesting reading on "Africa." There were fourteen members present and two visitors. The meeting closed with Hymn No. 151 and the Mizpah benediction.—The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Adam Milligan. CHURCH BELLS.

Were Used in England as Early as the Seventh Century.

From accounts recently published, it would seem that bells are gaining in popularity, especially for church purposes.

Bells were first used in church about the year 400 A.D. by Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, in Campania. We know that they were used in England as early as the seventh century, but it was not until the fifteenth century that bells of really good quality were manufactured.

In the early days, bells were made after a pattern that had proved satisfactory as far as was known. They gave a fairly good tone, but the pitch of the bell was largely a matter of guess work, according to the size and thickness of the material used. They varied a good deal, even those which were supposed to be the same pitch, because the science of bell-casting was not known as it is now. Bells which are to harmonize, that is, they originate more than one simple sound. The late Sir John Stainer, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, is authority for the statement that Big Ben of Westminster, gives out G sharp, E and B flat above. Play these three notes on the piano, starting with the lowest G sharp, and you will have a good idea of the tone of Big Ben, so far as the combination of tones is concerned. Bells are composed of a mixture of copper and tin in the proportion of about three to one, and this proportion gives the extreme amount of tin that may be used without the danger of making the metal liable to crack. It is an accepted fact now, that the pitch of a bell depends upon elasticity, size and weight. The heavier the bell the lower will be the note produced.

To produce a chord, say of four notes, the four bells should have diameters in the ratio of 30, 24, 20, 15, and their weights in ratios of 80, 41, 24, 10. Thus the ground-tone bell weighs eight times as much as its octave. It is of interest to know that while bells in England are frequently rung in peals, in Europe generally they are merely clashed, and the notes of the bells are not arranged in special order. In England bells are tuned according to the ordinary diatonic scale, and are rung in order from the highest to the lowest tone.

Bells are sounded either by being swung or being chimed. A "peal" is a suite of bells, and the number of bells contained in a "peal" determines the number of changes which can be made, for instance. On three bells, six changes may be rung, on six bells seven hundred and twenty changes may be made. Large peals of bells are more numerous in England than in any other country. St. Paul's Cathedral has a peal of twelve, and the tenor bell weighs over three tons.

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR LITTLE ONES

At no time of life is delay or neglect more serious than at childhood. The ills of little ones come quickly and unless the mother is prompt in administering treatment the precious little life may be snuffed out almost before the mother realizes the baby is ill. The prudent mother always keeps something in the medicine chest as a safeguard against the sudden illness of her little ones. Thousands of mothers have found, through experience, that there is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets and that is why they always keep a box of the Tablets on hand—why they always feel safe with the Tablets.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which by regulating the bowels and stomach banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthy, natural sleep. Concerning them, Mrs. Isaac Sonia, St. Eugene, Ont., writes:—"I have been using Baby's Own Tablets ever since baby was a month old and have found that they reach the spot and do more good than any other medicine I have ever tried. I always keep the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHURCH BELLS.

Were Used in England as Early as the Seventh Century.

From accounts recently published, it would seem that bells are gaining in popularity, especially for church purposes.

Bells were first used in church about the year 400 A.D. by Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, in Campania. We know that they were used in England as early as the seventh century, but it was not until the fifteenth century that bells of really good quality were manufactured.

In the early days, bells were made after a pattern that had proved satisfactory as far as was known. They varied a good deal, even those which were supposed to be the same pitch, because the science of bell-casting was not known as it is now. Deep sounds give out harmonies, that is, they originate more than one simple sound. The late Sir John Stainer, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, is authority for the statement that Big Ben of Westminster, gives out G sharp, E and B flat above. Play these three notes on the piano, and starting with the lowest G sharp, and you will have a good idea of the notes of Big Ben, so far as the combination of tones is concerned. Bells are composed of a mixture of copper and tin in the proportion of about three to one, and this proportion gives the extreme amount of tin that may be used without the danger of making the metal liable to crack. It is an accepted fact now, that the pitch of a bell depends upon elasticity, size and weight. The heavier the bell the lower will be the note produced.

To produce a chord, say of four notes, the four bells should have diameters in the ratio of 30, 24, 20, 15, and their weights in ratios of 80, 41, 24, 10. Thus the ground-tone bell weighs eight times as much as its octave. It is of interest to know that while bells in England are frequently rung in peals, in Europe generally they are merely clashed, and the notes of the bells are not arranged in special order. In England bells are tuned according to the ordinary diatonic scale, and are rung in order from the highest to the lowest tone.

Bells are sounded either by being swung or being chimed. A "peal" is a suite of bells, and the number of bells contained in a "peal" determines the number of changes which can be made, for instance. On three bells, six changes may be rung, on six bells seven hundred and twenty changes may be made. Large peals of bells are more numerous in England than in any other country. St. Paul's Cathedral has a peal of twelve, and the tenor bell weighs over three tons.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary Magdalene Church June 19 at eight o'clock when Miss Hilda Doyle of Napanee (one of the choir girls) was united in marriage with Wm. Worth of Gananoque.

The bride looked charming in a Perveuche Blue Georgette dress and lace, and a lace hat to match with blonde shoes and stockings, leaning on the arm of her father, John Doyle.

Attended by Miss Fern Booth as maid of honor in a peach georgette dress with Mohair hat of Baku and two little flower girls in pale yellow with white chiffon bonnets and ties of chiffon carrying a silver basket of pink peonies.

The church was very prettily decorated with syringe and wild roses.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

DR. EDWARD'S SON MAY SIT IN PLACE

The by-election for the House of Commons to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards, who represented the Prontenac-Addington riding, will take place on July 22, according to official announcement made, and already the political pot has commenced to simmer.

An interesting report is that Warden Edwards, a son of the late Dr. Edwards, who represented the Prontenac-Addington riding, will take place on July 22, according to official announcement made, and already the political pot has commenced to simmer.

An interesting report is that Warden Edwards, a son of the late Dr. Edwards, is ready to follow in his father's footsteps and accept the nomination of the Conservative party. Mr. Edwards who has been engaged as a school teacher at Dunnville, is out of the city and could not be interviewed, but is expected to return to Kingston in a day or so.

Some time ago, Dr. William Spankie, reeve of Wolfe Island, was mentioned as a probable Conservative candidate and those in close touch with affairs state that Dr. Spankie will be ready to stand if he gets the convention. R. O. Sweeze of Montreal, who is building a summer home near Kingston, has been mentioned very prominently as a Liberal candidate.

Stalwarts of all three parties in this riding, Conservative, Liberal and Progressive, interviewed, stated that had no information whatever with regrd o a candidate. The date of the election appeared to be quite a surprise to the members of all parties and they realize that the short time before the election, just a month, will mean that conventions will have to be called at once.

OBITUARY

Alexander Crozier

It was with sincere regret that the relatives and friends of Switzerville learned of the sudden death of Alexander Crozier on Thursday evening, June 20th. Mr. Crozier was stricken with heart failure, while at work in the field. Though he did his work as usual, his health had not been the best for some time. Death came as a sudden shock to his family.

Mr. Crozier was born on Wolfe Island in 1856, the homestead being on the southern side opposite to Cape Vincent. Half a century ago the Crozier family moved to Olden Township near Mountain Grove, where he resided until 1916.

Having then moved to Switzerville, where he lived until the time of his death. He leaves a wife, one son, and four daughters, W. G. Crozier, Emma and Mildred at home, Mrs. Allen Baldwin, Napanee, and Mrs. Geo. E. Gooderich, Marmora, Ont., to mourn the loss of a loving husband and kind father.

Two sisters and two brothers out of a family of nine survive. Mrs. W. W. Pringle of Arden, Mrs. Mary E. Yott, New York, and Robet. J. Crozier of Portsmouth, and W. G. Crozier of Kingston.

Mr. Crozier was a very industrious man, an honest neighbor and kind father, one who enjoyed the confidence and respect of all who knew him. Although having reached the alloted span of three score and ten he displayed a keen interest in the management of his farm.

Funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. M. Seymour on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in Switzerville United Church, of which Mr. Crozier was a faithful and devoted member.

A very impressive sermon was preached from the 90th Psalm. Text the 12th verse. "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

The pallbearers were Messrs. L. L. Price, Selby; J. A. Coulter, Napanee; C. C. Bell, H. C. W. Miller, Fred Wales and J. Prink of Switzerville.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. Many friends and relatives from his former home attended his funeral and the large attendance testified to the esteem in which he was held.

The remains were interred in the family plot, in Riverview Cemetetry.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavoie, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EMPEY HILL LADIES' AID

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held in Empey Hill Church on Tuesday afternoon, June 25th, with the President, Mrs. O. E. Ashley, presiding.

The meeting opened by singing the hymn, "Bringing In The Sheaves," followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Foley.

The lesson taken from Isaiah, the 55th chapter, was read by Mrs. S. Winter.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Reports from the different committees were given.

The principal business of the meeting was the arrangement of plans and menus for the Harvest Dinner which is to be held on the Parsonage grounds at Selby on July 24th. To this purpose a committee of ladies from Selby were present to discuss all details in connection with this dinner, which is to be a circuit festival. Committees were appointed to look after the various branch of the work and plans were fully completed, so as to make the Harvest Dinner as successful as possible.

Hymn 340 was then sung and the meeting closed by repeating the benediction in unison.

THE EMU.

Is the Biggest Bird That Australia Possesses.

The size of the Australian emu may be estimated to some extent when the eggs it lays are six inches long and four inches in circumference at the widest part. These eggs number from three to half a dozen, and are laid in a very rough nest in the long grasses of the plains. Their color being practically the same as the grass itself it is hard to detect them. I once found a nest of emu eggs containing four, and seeing that I was out in camp at the time I took them back with me, where the cook made some delicious cakes and puddings with them. As they are so big they will go as far as a dozen hen eggs, and are far richer and suitable for cooking purposes. In many country districts when the hens are not laying the farmers go out on the plains and gather emu eggs, which make an excellent substitute for hen eggs, writes P. B. Prior, in the Humane Pleader.

Emu eggs are much used in Australia for decoration purposes. They can be painted upon, so that pleasing scenes, animals, birds and even people can be displayed on them. They make novel ornaments in the house, and can be purchased at art and curio shops in most Australian towns.

The emu is quite easily tamed when young and makes quite a faithful pet. I know one farmer who had a tame emu, which followed him about the farm, and even to town when he goes there to sell cattle and produce. In fact, it is more like a dog about the place than it is a bird.

The emu has very powerful feet, which, if they come into contact with you, you know it, for they have a kick which much resembles that of a mule. They are also very swift-footed, and like the ostrich, get over the ground in an amazingly quick time. As a rule they are very shy and keep out of a man's way as much as possible, although, at times like other wild animals they get curious, and will be seen quite close to the farm or homestead if they see anything they think strange and unusual.

WATER WORRIES.

It Is a Real Problem In Most Big Cities.

In all big cities water is a real problem. Manchester, for instance, which has been obtaining its water supply from Thirlmere, a large sheet of water in the English Lake district, is now finding that it needs more than even Thirlmere can supply. So an immediate start is being made on the scheme for supplementing the Thirlmere supply from Haweswater, near Kendal.

Haweswater, which is the highest of the English lakes, being about 700 feet above sea level, was acquired by Manchester eleven years ago. The scheme for utilizing its water will cost about $50,000,000.

It is worth noting that, in drawing its water supply from a lake famous for its beauty, Manchester has been careful to preserve natural amenities. The level of Thirlmere has been raised and its area extended, but its picturesque aspect has not been sacrificed. Presumably the same care will be taken at Haweswater.

The aqueduct which carries the Thirlmere water to Manchester is 92 miles long, but even this is not a record. The Catskill aqueduct, which carries part of New York's water supply, is 126 miles long, and the Coolgardie one is 350 miles.

Building aqueducts is not the only task to be undertaken in order to ensure an adequate water supply, however. It may be necessary to make a lake as well. Thus, Liverpool has made the upper valley of the River Vyrnwy into an artificial lake, five miles long and nearly two square miles in area, in order to provide water for its citizens. The work took fifteen years to complete.

But the water problem would be much worse if people in our cities used water on the same scale as the inhabitants of some other countries. London's daily allowance of water is 99 gallons for each person, but in Chicago the figure is 170 gallons per person; and in New York it is as high as 200.

HISTORIC SHOT TOWER.

Built In 1778 for Purpose of Making Shot.

The old Shot Tower which stands on the south bank of the Thames, near Waterloo bridge is a familiar landmark to many in London. The projected removal of Charing Cross station to the site of the tower has aroused conjectures as to its future.

The structure looks like an old-fashioned lighthouse, except that during the dry a faint volume of smoke can generally be seen issuing from it. It belongs to a firm of lead and shotmakers, who have been in business since 1778.

A representative of the owners announces that if the tower has to be removed it will be erected again on another site, as the processes for which it is used are the same to-day as when the tower was built more than a century ago.

Noted Woman Speaker Coming at Chautauqua

MRS. D. PIRIE BEYEA

The experiences of Mrs. D. Pirie Beyea, whose stimulating lecture "Education or Catastrophe" is one of the interesting features of the coming Canadian chautauqua here, have been altogether unique. A grand-daughter of Sir George Aiebury, she was presented at the court of Queen Victoria when a little child and educated to move in aristocratic British circles, only later to be forced to earn her own living in an American department store. Trained as a nurse, she entered the World War at the very start and saw service with the British, Canadian and French armies, with the Hoover Relief Commission and the Army of Occupation in Germany. Mrs. Beyea has travelled and lived in twenty foreign countries. She has lectured in all parts of the United States and Canada, and has just returned from an extensive lecture tour in Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania.

Mrs. Beyea is a tremendously able and magnetic speaker, and she handles her vital subject with conviction and authority.

SUPERSTITION.

Lies Behind Many of the Crimes In the Phillipine Islands.

Superstition lies behind many of the crimes committed in the Phillipine Islands. A story comes from Daro, Island of Nindamac, a Chinese store owner and three other persons were killed by Atas, a pagan mountain tribe to comply with the belief that a wife must be buried with the hands of four murdered, in order to enter paradise.

At first it was thought that robbery was the motive for the crime, but the superstition was established as the cause when it was learned that the hands of all the victims had been severed, and that a few days earlier the wife of a tribesman had been buried without the hands supposed to be necessary for her entrance into Heaven.

Two Ata tribesmen suspected of being the slayers fled to the mountains.

Javanese Death Trap.

A new Valley of Death has recently been discovered in the Island of Java, it is simply the crater of an extinct volcano one half mile in circumference filled with carbonic acid gas which continually emanates from the fissures in the valley in the bottom of the crater. This gas, being invisible and incapable of being perceived by unsuspecting animals, is inhaled by those luckless ones who enter the valley. The gas is present in the air in such large quantities that the animals are suffocated, and the ground is covered with the bleaching bones of the animals who have been caught in this death trap.

Trained Raccoons.

Seward Dean, of Bellona, near Geneva, N.Y., has trained his nine pet 100 raccoons so that they respond to his call. Kindness, Dean said, has been the prime secret of his success with the coons. The animals romp freely about Dean's farm, respond to his call at once and have so far conquered their fear that they eat from his hand.

Difference of Pole Regions.

The north polar region is chiefly water, whereas the south polar region is chiefly land.

HE'S NOT SO BAD.

Australian Death Adder Not Nearly So Fearsome as Imagined.

The Australian death adder is said to have long borne an undeservedly bad name. People said the death adder was the most virulently poisonous of Australia's snakes.

Now Mr. le Souef, director of the Sydney Zoo, states that it is not nearly so fearsome as has been imagined. The average farmer will say emphatically that the death adder is one of the most dangerous reptiles in the bush. At the week-end a man was bitten by one. The fact that the bite had little ill-effect on him prompted inquirers to seek Mr. le Souef's opinion. Mr. le Souef declared that he would have been surprised if the man had died, as he would rank the death adder as only fourth among Australia's poisonous snakes.

The most deadly is the tiger snake, capable of killing a healthy man in 70 minutes. Next comes the brown snake, a potential killer in two hours. Then, says Mr. le Souef, the black snake, which can make man desperately sick for 12 to 24 hours, but gives him a chance of life. Then the death adder and other varieties.

Japanese Naval Department Names for Warships.

For the past seven years the Japanese Naval Department has given merely numbers to her warships. A recent order has been issued to the effect that the vessels are to be named.

Japanese first-class destroyers, 1,000 tons or more, all bear "wind" names; that is, each name ends in "kaze," or "wind." Second-class destroyers, 1,000 tons, bear the names of flowers or trees. Thus, one little vessel of death and destruction bears the name "Cherry," another is named "Whirlpool," others "Wisteria," "Peach-blossom" or "Willow."

SECRET OF THE STREAM.

One-Thousand-Year-Old Parchment Factory.

Close by Hurst Church, and only six miles from Portsmouth, England, is the scene of an industry which, if local legend be true, has been carried on by the same methods and on the same site for a thousand years.

The parchment made there was famous throughout Europe in days gone by, and is still preserved in many libraries and museums on the continent, but it is to the New World that is giving a stimulus to the little factory at Havant to-day.

There has been recently a great demand from America for English parchment to be used for diplomas and certificates in American universities, and, though the demand has been great enough to cause a shortage and send up the price, this seems no deterrent.

When I visited the factory I crossed a small stream, in which lies the secret of its fame, although no scientist has yet been able to explain the reason, says a writer in the London Daily Express. Water plays an important part in parchment-making, for the sheepskins are soaked in a mixture of water and lime for weeks before they are made into parchment.

It is an ordinary-looking chalky rill that runs down from Portsdown Hill, but, although attempts have been made to create the same properties chemically as this stream possesses, they have all failed to achieve the same results.

The workers at Havant give the stream the chief credit.

"It's been making parchment for us for a thousand years," said an old greybeard, as he scraped away at a sheepskin stretched on a frame like an easel, "and maybe it's good for another thousand. Long ago they found out there was something uncommon in this water, but they've never found out what it is.

"Yes, it's skilled work. It took me five years to learn, and I've been at it now for nearly fifty. But the young ones don't seem to take to it, though we can earn now five pounds a week when we're busy. They're impatient nowadays. No one will spend any time learning a craft, not even if there's good money in it in the end."

The sheepskins, after soaking in the pits, are "fleshed" (scraped) with special semicircular knives that have been used for many centuries in the industry, and which peel off the fat in long strips. They go then to the whole craft of parchment-making—a splitting machine that can be adjusted so finely that it will split tissue paper.

This separates the inner skin, of which the parchment is made, from the rest, and, after more scraping and smoothing with pumice stone, painting with whitening and soda ash, and washing with warm water, the parchment at last emerges, smooth, pearly-white, without blemish or mark.

THE CANADA LYNX.

Two Cats of the Lynx Genus Found in North America.

The Canada lynx and wild cat are the two cats of the lynx genus found in North America. The lynx was a mystery to the ancients and was believed by them to be able to see through any object.

The Canada lynx is a big-eyed, flat-faced, short-bodied, bob-tailed, snarling savage with long side whiskers, writes Robert G. Hodgson in the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star. He has larger feet, shorter tail and fur much longer and looser than the wild cat. He stands about one and a half feet high, is not over three feet long and sometimes weighs over twenty pounds.

The fur is a pepper-and-salt color, mottled with brown and having white on the underside and on the tip of the tail. This color makes him unnoticed against almost any natural background, and is one of the protections nature affords her wild animals. The ears have tufts of long black hairs as if pencilled. He runs poorly, travelling by galloping or by leaps and bounds, and his big paws help him bothers snow where they act as snowshoes to bear him up and in the water where they serve as paddles. His muscular legs are enormous in comparison with the rest of his body. He climbs trees easily and from an overhanging limb pounces down on prey, but at heart is a great coward and never attacks people.

POSTAL CONVENIENCES.

British Post Office Officials Are Very Obliging.

The British post office officials are capable and obliging and if anyone should lose himself, he can go to the nearest post office and mail himself home. An express messenger is sometimes given charge of a person and takes him to his destination, where he obtains a receipt. The charges, based upon the distance travelled, are quite moderate.

If you merely wish to prove that a letter has been posted, there is no need to register it. The post office will supply you with a "certificate of posting" for a halfpenny.

If you miss the last collection of letters and have an urgent communication to send, ring up the head post office of the district, tell them your plight, and dictate the letter. It will be written out and sent off with the night mail. The charge is threepence for the first thirty words, a penny for every ten afterwards, and the ordinary postage and telephone fee.

SHORTAGE OF HUSBANDS.

Eligible Young Men are Leaving the Island of Jersey.

The matrimonial prospects of Jersey maidens are about at zero, simply because all the eligible young men are leaving. The exodus from the island of young men who are to-day wholly Anglicized is producing a notticeable change in the nature of the population.

"An increasing number of Bretons are settling in the island," said a leading potato grower. "They come over originally to dig potatoes, for, while Jersey people plant potatoes, they don't dig them. Breton labor is very much cheaper. Bretons are stolid, careful folk, and every year more families acquire small holdings and start in the potato business for themselves. They are not ousting our people, but are simply taking the place of those who are leaving the island. There is plenty of room for them. About one-third of the island is under potatoes and recently we exported nearly one million pounds' worth. Even so, the trade is not as great as it used to be."

While potato growing does not seem to romance there is a gleam of hope for Jersey's marriageable daughters. The island is rapidly developing as a holiday resort, and considerable pains are being taken to make it more attractive. Last year the number of visitors reached a record figure, and it is probable that in future the island lassies will find their charms adequately appreciated.

HOW SEA NAMES CAME.

Most of Them Are Corruptions of Other Words.

Admiral is not an English word. Its origin was Emir el Bash, which is Arabic for "Lord of the sea."

The term captain comes to us direct from the Latin caput, meaning head.

The coxswain was originally the man who pulled the after-oar of the captain's boat, then known as the "cock's boat." Cock-boat itself is a corruption of the word corache, a small round boat used for fishing.

Commodore is nothing more than the Italian Commendatore, or commander.

Frequently we hear about "Davy Jones." There was, of course, no such person, but should you speak of "Duffy Jonah's Locker," you have the original phrase. Duffy is the West Indian Negro term for the spirit of Jonah.

The term "dog watch" is a corruption of "dodge" watch, the "dodge" being an arrangement to prevent men from being on duty every day at the same hours.

The starboard side of a ship was at one time the steerboard side, in memory of the Anglo-Saxons who used to steer their boats by putting out an oar on the right-hand side of the stern.

The larboard (now known as the port side) is a corruption of lower board, which was always considered inferior to the starboard.

How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no cure but to reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces lasts a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

CHINESE GENTLER SEX

Emerging From Their Age-Old Seclusion and Busy Organizing for Further Advancement.

With the encouragement of the Nationalist Government, the women of China are now rapidly emerging from their age-old seclusion and are busily organizing themselves for further advancement, writes a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor from Peiping (Peking).

The Peiping Women's Rights Association was recently inaugurated, and at its first meeting a constitution was adopted and thirteen departmental chiefs were elected on an organization plan similar to that of the Nationalist Government itself. The association, according to its constitution, is for the purpose of promoting the rights of women, and complete political and social equality with men is to be sought.

The Peiping International Women's Club, which was organized in Peking a few years are to introduce women of various nationalities to one another in this cosmopolitan city, has had great success with its series of meetings. The election of a native of the city as president of the organization is expected to insure the continuity of its programs hereafter.

Chinese women are also becoming increasingly prominent in other clubs which were originally for foreigners. The Mothers' Club, the College Women's Club, the Things Chinese Society, and the Institute of Fine Arts all have Chinese women now as active members.

Ho Chi-kung, the new mayor of Peiping, is particularly interested in improving the status of women. He has prohibited the old traffic in children, whereby the daughters of poor men were sold as servants to wealthy families, and he is enforcing the order against foot binding. He has also attacked the ancient system of concubinage and has forbidden men to take secondary wives hereafter. Marriages from now on must be contracted only with the consent of the bride and groom and unions between strangers are forbidden.

In this connection the women of Peking are watching with interest two novel law suits now before the Shanghai courts. In one case, a girl is suing her brothers for an equal share of her father's rich estate, which is contrary to old Chinese law, by which a daughter received a dowry, but had no claim to ranking with her brothers. In the other case, a girl is seeking release on the eve of her wedding from a betrothal arranged for her when she was only twelve years old.

GROTESQUE CURIOSITIES.

Night-Flying Moths Drink the Tears of Horses.

Night-flying moths that flight on the eyes of horses and suck up the moisture they find there, are the grotesque curiosities discovered at the Iguazu Falls in Argentina by Dr. R. C. Shannon, American entomologist now engaged in public health work for the Argentine Government. Dr. Shannon has reported his observations in the technical journal, Science.

He was first informed of the strange phenemenon by the keeper of the hotel at the falls, says Science Service. Somewhat skeptical but nevertheless interested, he watched some horses during his night of study of the mosquito population, and finally succeeded in collecting eleven distinct species of moths showing this strange perversion in appetite. The insects were so numerous at times that they caused eye irritation and even temporary blindness in the horses.

Why the moths should leave their natural sources of food is a puzzle. It was hardly be that they lack moisture, for the region is one of abundant rain. Dr. Shannon conjectures, however, that they may be after salt.

NO "MOCK" IN THESE TURTLES

Turn out who frequent hotels and restaurants usually find "mock turtle" soup on the menu, except that the romance which clings to the turtle is sufficient reason to tempt the patron. Mock of turtle brings visions of Lord Mayor's banquets on lordly tables, wonders of plate and rare dishes. However, today turtle is obtainable in the big markets and illustrations show a cargo of same being placed on board the Lady Nelson, Canadian National Steamships, at St. Lucia, Windward Islands, to be taken to Eastern markets for the delectation of delicate palates and such as desire the rich flavor of the delicacy.

It is one of the instances of the being developed by the new steamers operating from Canadian Pacific ports to Bermuda, the British West Indies and points in British Guiana and British Honduras.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Ernesttown Women's Institute held their meeting in the Community Hall on June 13th, with a good attendance. Roll call was answered by "The Month I Like Best and Why." June was the favored month. This year's programs were distributed to the members. What a splendid program it is.

Next the various committees gave their reports. One must not forget to mention the good work done by our flower committee.

Our program consisted of a song guessing competition which was won by Mrs. M. Mott. This proved most amusing. It is wonderful the number of tunes one will know and yet forget the words just when one wishes to remember them. Next a splendid address on Home Economics was given by Mrs. Anderson of Napanee. Mrs. Anderson told of some very useful labor saving devices one of them being a tea wagon made out of an ordinary table and towel rack. The writer and interesting woman and I am sure every member present enjoyed her address. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Anderson.

A social hour followed. Dainty refreshments were served and a profitable and enjoyable afternoon brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

ROMANTIC GRETNA GREEN STILL DOING BUSINESS

Laws of Scotland governing marriage are quite different from the laws of England. Hence Gretna Green. In Scotland it seems that almost anybody is qualified to make a legal union. Or rather, if we have not been misled by some romatic Scotch novels, all that is necessary is for the two candidates to say in each others presence and the presence of a witness that they do actually accept each other as husband and wife. They are then married. In a once-popular novel—by Barrie if we are not mistaken—the plot hinged on the fact that the villain in the piece meant merely to betray the heroine and they made their mutual vows without visible witnesses. The girl, of course, did not know that this rendered the union invalid, but as matters turned out there was an unseen witness, the marriage was legal and villainy was once more routed. The question of Gretna Green marriages has recently come up for serious consideration in England, and it is said that thousands of romantic marriages performed there are illegal.

Many Illegal Marriages

What makes them of no effect is that there is a provision in the Scottish law which insists that one of the parties shall have resided in Scotland for 14 days before the marriage. This has not been generally known, and if it has it has been cheerfully ignored by many people who were united at Gretna Green. Some of them may find it necessary now to become properly married according to English law. Others may seize upon it as an excuse for relinquishing a relation that has already become irksome. Gretna Green marriages were brought prominently to light by the recent elopement of Olive Kidsdel, a fabulously rich young girl and a 19 year-old university student named Mappin. The girl's parents objected to the attachment between the two on the ground that they were far too young, no particular objection being taken to the young groom. But they did not think they were far too young. On the contrary, they concluded they they were at the perfect age and since they could not get married in England without parental consent or without a great deal of scandal and pressure being brought to bear upon them, they fled by motor car to Gretna where they were married in the famous blacksmith shop.

Romance at Gretna Green

When they learned that perhaps their marriage was not legal, they made haste this time with the consent of their parents, to regularize their position. It was their prominence that brought the famous hamlet just across the border of Scotland into prominence. For 200 years or so Gretna Green has figured in innumerable romantic novels and in even more numerous actual romances. With the timely aid of Gretna Green, fond lovers outwitted stern parents, and scandrels got innocent heiresses into their hands. Many a thrilling pursuit by horseback and postchaise and stage-coach has thundered over the roads leading to the border. Sometimes a cast shoe or a broken wheel has spoiled the romance and enabled the irate father to overtake the fugitives. Sometimes the luck has been turned and the gasping parent, almost in sight of the blacksmith shop, has been obliged to give up the hunt. Tragedy has sometimes clouded these romances, and this was so in the notable case of Charlotte Kelveston and John Meldron, children of wealthy midland squires. The parents were apparently well satisfied with the proposed nuptials, the wedding day was set and all were happy when it came to light that Squire Meldron was far from being a wealthy as had been generally supposed. On the contrary, it appeared that he was on the verge of bankruptcy and that only the dower of Charlotte would keep him afloat.

Murdered Young Husband

The Kelvestons immediately announced that the marriage was off. But the young people were too fond of each other to consent. They resolved to make a run for it to Gretna Green and this they did. They arrived in time but now that Kelveston senior was not far behind.

They were hurriedly married by the blacksmith and when he learned of their predicament he suggested that to set the seal finally upon the marriage they should repair to a near-by inn, register as man and wife and consummate the union. It was thought that this would end the matter so far as the father was concerned. But Kelveston when he arrived and learned what had happened went almost insane with rage. He broke down the bedroom door, and entering, shot and killed the young husband. It is curious to note that apparently he was not even arrested for this murder. A Gretna Green coincidence often commented upon is that three successive lord chancellors of England were married over the border. The first was John Scott, later Lord Eldon, who as a poor youth met the daughter of a Newcastle banker, who objected to the match.

Romantic Lord Chancellor

Parental objections were later removed and Scott was restored to the scholarship he had won and from which he had been expelled as a consequence of his act. It was an extraordinarily happy marriage and lasted through 59 years. Lord Erskine, his successor, famous as judge and lawyer, was nearly 70 when he eloped with the woman who was the mother of several of his illegitimate children and married her at Gretna Green. They took this course because of the not unnatural objections by Erskine's legitimate children who feared that the marriage would jeopardize their property rights. This marriage ended unhappily in divorce Lord Brougham was not married precisely at Gretna Green, but at another Scotch village close by. The Story of this elopement was never made public so particulars of it are lacking. The fact of the marriage, however, is not in doubt. Oddly enough, it was Lord Brougham who was responsible for the latter provision that a short residence in Scotland should be necessary to validate such unions.

SOFTBALL NEWS AND VIEWS

Well folks, did you see the game at Dorland on Thursday evening? If you didn't you missed a rare treat! There was all kinds of playing—plenty of loose fielding and a few dumb throws as well as lots of heavy walloping and some snappy catches.

Adolphustown girls went over the top with a score of 27 runs against Hayburn's 16. Jeanette Rombough, playing first base for the winners, grabbed everything relentlessly. We wonder if there's something in the name for Birdie Rombough gave an exhibition behind the bat that few could equal, while Beulah, out on second, seemed to have lost none of her old pep, and played a good game. Their pitcher, borrowed for the event, walked several players, although she frequently managed to get a strike across home plate.

Rhoda Loyst Hayburn's hurler, made a splendid impression on the fans with her real effective throwing, and with Mil Rickley doing duty on first, almost all the pop flies and what might have been one and two base hits were neatly gathered in. Kay Dickson gave the crowd something to enthuse over, when she made the complete circuit on a particularly heavy liner, the only "homer" recorded. Hayburn girls had good support from Eleanor Sills and Ethel Garrison. They are at home in any position and right in the game every second.

There was a fair-sized crowd of fans out to witness the fray. They rooted lustily and a few tried but failed to "get anyone's goat."

IS YOUR APPETITE POOR?

PERHAPS by dieting or other means, you have been treating the symptoms, rather than the cause. Loss of appetite, heartburn, sour stomach, are symptoms that the blood is impure. This explains the successful use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in all such cases. Here is a typical example:—

"I began to feel easily tired," writes Miss Margaret White, of Parry Sound, "and when I sat down to a meal I felt I did not want to eat. A doctor told me I was anaemic but I made little progress with his medicine. When I started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I soon noticed that my appetite was improving, that the headaches came less frequently and that I was not so easily tired. Now my weight has increased, my cheeks are rosy and every ache and pain has vanished."

Start today to improve your appetite. Buy Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist's or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario. Send for free book—"What to Eat and How to Eat".

COLOMBIA'S SALT MINES

Vast Supply Yields Government More Income Than Any Other Mineral—Dingy Black Inside.

Ask anybody about the mineral wealth of Colombia and an enumeration of emeralds, diamonds, gold, platinum and other precious stones and metals is almost sure to follow. Oil may be mentioned, plebeian but ponderous in wealth.

Salt will not be mentioned, for few persons know that the Government gets more revenue from salt than from any of its other minerals. Emeralds and diamonds have a glamor of romance, but not many persons have them, which may be why so many who do not have them look on them with awe. But even kings and big butter and egg men's "sweeties," as well as the great common people, use salt.

So a pinch here and a pinch there and Colombia, which doesn't even advertise its salt on billboards or put it up in fancy packages, got $2,500,000 income from its salt last year, most of it from the old mine in Zipaquira. It got $2,000,000 in royalties from oil, less from platinum or gold, while emeralds, diamonds and such were further down in the state emerald mines, which might produce $11,000,000 in a year, were not working.

Indians were mining salt here when the Spaniards came and the latter continued. When Humboldt passed along around 1801, satisfied himself that the story of the same rivers being headwaters of the widely divergent Orinoco and Amazon, he suggested that instead of pulling the salt up a shaft a drift be cut into the side of the hill. The method is followed, the loaded cars rolling out by gravity and the salt, which has been blasted into sizes which men can handle, is dumped into the dissolving pits.

It is not only a mountain of salt 6,500 feet deep and 480 above the two levels which is being worked, but an entire mountain range is salt, extending to Chita, four days' ride, where another mine is located. When mined it is about 90 per cent. salt, the balance sulphur, iodine, and other minerals. The water in the pits carries off the salt in a 23 per cent. solution, which is bought by the evaporating plants and the sediment is thrown away. Possibly it is more valuable than the salt, like the old Spanish miners who kept the gold and threw away the platinum. When a pure white vein is struck the pieces are not dissolved but sold as they are for cows to lick.

Juan de Dios Bravo, superintendent of the mines, led the way. Through a short walled tunnel, tracks below and electric bulbs overhead, and we were in the mine. Any who expected caverns of gleaming white under the artificial rays were disappointed for it was dingy black, walls sparkling like spangles but only an occasional splash of white where water had seeped in from above. Nature had roofed it well or the whole mountain would dissolve. The big vaulted ceilings were fifty feet above the floor, held up by natural columns of salt which had not been mined, twenty feet in diameter. On all sides stretched dim, unlit caverns—Inferno, Purgatory and similar cheerful locations as each tunnel is named—which have been abandoned as work goes on a higher level.

A 139 feet climb, 122 steps up a stairway of salt, to the upper level had everybody puffing in the rarefied air more than a mile above the sea. Benches for a miner's school were handy. Farther along a cluster of lights marked a shrine to the patron saint of salt miners. Beyond was an immense amphitheatre with a bandstand. Far in the distance, a dim vista, little circles of light and moving forms of men high up on the walls, too far away to be heard, like a picture of Dante, the miners were working.

Senor Bravo explained that ninety tons a day is mined as he led us out into the sunlight. A fable had been set in a little rustic arbor at the side of the entrance. A chicken which had been cheerfully scratching two hours ago when we left Bogota, potatoes baked in salt from the mine until the flavor is through them, and hot soup were ready. The steady rattle of the iron dump cars and the swish of the falling salt into the wash—the world's seasoning—was the only orchestra. Senor Bravo proposed a toast, recited a poem and told jokes in English and Spanish, proving that all poets should be put in mines.

THE LAW'S DELAYS.

It Would Be Interesting to Know Which Case Holds Record.

The law's delays are proverbial but it would be interesting to know what particular case holds the record in that respect. It was stated recently, for instance, that a suit against the United States Government over property alleged to have been alienated during the Revolutionary War, is still pending.

The famous case of Eugene Aram, which later formed the subject of the novel by Lytton, is a leading one, for the murder was committed in 1745, and Aram was executed in 1759. In the same century a man named Horne was executed for the murder of his child thirty-five years earlier, and there is the case of Governor Wall, who was hanged in 1802 for a murder committed in 1782.

Jail for Debt Abolished.

The Turkish Minister of Justice says jail for debt is an uncivilized survival—so it is abolished. This is one phase of a transformation of the Turkish legal system. Another unusual decree is from the Minister of the Interior, who has ordered all officials to show themselves amiable and smiling to the public.

Splitting Mica.

A piece of mica an inch thick can be split into approximately 1,000 sheets.

THE DOCTOR'S SYMBOL.

Had Its Origin Some Centuries Before Christ.

The symbol of medicine, a staff with serpent entwined round it, had its origin some centuries before Christ. In those days medicine was practiced by Greeks of the priestly class, who called to their aid many gods, chief of whom was Æsculapius, to whose honor temples were built in which the healing art was practiced. One of these temples was built at Epidaurus, and was dedicated to Æsculapius.

After his deification it was supposed that his powers of healing were continued by serpents, which visited the patients in the night.

In the year 296 B.C. Rome was visited by a severe plague, and the Roman Deputies sought the help of the god Æsculapius. The priests of the temple, which was a hospital of Æsculapius, permitted one of the serpents to be sent to Rome with the ikon of Æsculapius, and, on reaching the isle in the River Tiber, it escaped and swam ashore; in that place a temple was erected and the plague ceased.

In memory of the event a portion of the isle was faced with stone and shaped as the stern of a ship, on which was depicted the serpent and staff. This, which may be seen today, has ever since been the emblem of medicine.

Gradually the knowledge and skill of the priests who presided over the temples began to spread to the laity, and finally completely lost its priestly attributes, but the symbols remain with us, and Æsculapius is usually represented as holding a staff with serpent entwined.

According to an ancient writer, the explanation of these symbols was that the sick must renew their bodies and slip their skins as the serpent does; the serpent being also the emblem of attention signifies that doctors should be very attentive to their patients. The staff signifies that those who recovered from any disease had need of care and support to prevent a relapse.

URGED TO "WANDER."

Example Set by Germans to Be Tried In Denmark.

At the annual meeting of the Joint Council for National Education one speaker urged the young people of Denmark to go in for "wanderings," following the example set by the young people of Germany in this direction, says a Copenhagen despatch. The movement began in Germany with the beginning of this century, when a national school teacher obtained permission to use the schools as hostelries for the wandering young people during the holidays.

Since then a couple of thousand hostelries for young people have been formed in Germany, which last year gave accommodation to 2,500,000 travelling and wandering people. Medieval castles were also used in this connection. These hostelries were mostly intended for persons under twenty years, and were very cheap.

The quite young paid about 10 cents a night, older persons half as much again. The state, the municipalities and private individuals are supporting and erecting these hostelries all over Germany. A beginning has been made in Denmark, three hostelries of this class having been formed, and it is proposed to use schools, public buildings and high schools to create network of such hostelries all over the country.

MAN TRACED TO IRAQ.

Probably Lived In Caves Million Years Ago.

Man, in his present form, appeared about a million years ago, probably in the caves of Iraq, in Mesopotamia, which is not very far out of line with the traditional location of the Biblical Garden of Eden, Dr. George Grant McCurdy of Yale, recently declared. He based his statement on discoveries made in excavations outside of Bazdad.

An earlier type of man than any now existing lived in a uniformly mild climate 1,250,000 years ago, while three ice ages, in which a large part of the earth was covered by glaciers, were survived by humanity, according to Dr. W. H. Hobbs, of the University of Michigan. The fourth glacial period, now about half over, drove men into caves and made them nomads.

Glaciers began to recede from Scandinavia about 12,000 years ago. Dr. Ernest Antevs, a Swedish geologist, believes, and men then began to develop into the types of to-day, says Popular Science Monthly. The polar ice caps may be completely melted in another 12,000 years and mankind return to the age of perpetual spring.

Rosenthal's Sly Dig.

Rosenthal, the famous pianist and composer, who is well known for his wit, was once invited to a musical evening at a friend's house, where at the same time a pianist was invited who should play the very short so-called "Minute Waltz" of Chopin, the best-known arrangement of which is by Rosenthal himself. The pianist, however, played the work far too slowly, and one could see Rosenthal frowning. After the piece was over, however, Rosenthal got up, went to the player, and thanked him most heartily, saying in a genial way: "This Minute Waltz, my dear sir, as I have heard it to-night, has provided me with a most delightful quarter of an hour."

Good Old Hickory.

The making of hickory handles, an activity of the wood-turning industry, is carried on mostly in the Southern Appalachians and the lower Mississippi basin. Hickory is a native of the United States, and the wood is more suitable than others for the handles of tools. Approximately 8,000,000 wood shafts will be used this year, requiring a total of 27,000,000 board feet of lumber.

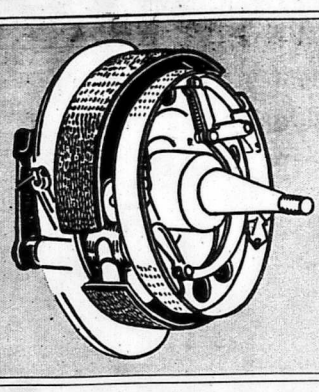
THE FORD CAR SIX-BRAKE SYSTEM



Grips with Silent Power

THE greatest safety feature on any automobile—the braking system—has been developed on the Ford car to a degree that insures absolute driving confidence. Being fully enclosed, the internal expanding brakes on all four wheels are free from any danger of impaired performance from mud, sand, road dirt, grease or other foreign matter entering the mechanism or between the bands and drum.

The four wheel system is operated by a foot pedal, while the emergency or parking system of two brakes, one on each rear wheel, is distinct and separate, operated by a hand lever. This added security is made possible through the unique design of the Ford steel spoke wheels to which drums are fitted to accommodate two sets of internal brakes on the rear wheels.

The smooth, even braking of the Ford car yields more advantages than maximum safety at all times, since it makes tires last longer and adds immeasurably to riding ease and driving comfort.

IN THE PAMPAS COUNTRY.

Outside of Towns, Not One Automobile In Fifty Miles.

The pampas country is famous for its upland vineyard districts from which Argentina draws most of its temperate fruits and most of its wines.

The long stretch of land is covered with well-tended vineyards, manicured fields, while plastered houses, backed by the abrupt rise of gray serrated, snow-capped peaks, higher than any in North America, writes Will Irwin, in Toronto Star. The inhabitants, mostly Italians from their looks, smiled and waved from platforms of seat stations.

At Mendoza, the centre of the district, we changed from the Chilean train, which carried us over the Andes, to a replica of a first-class British train de luse, for the most important Argentina railroads are in the hands of British companies.

That stretch of corn, wheat and alfalfa I looked out upon, succeeded by relatively undeveloped country, where behind barbed wire fences graze cattle in millions — one herd clustered by the fence along the track—must have extended for two miles.

It is still a horse country. There is not one mile of improved road, and outside the towns not one automobile in fifty miles. The inhabitants move down dirt highways in two wheel carts, with horses, like covered wagons or buckboards.

And everywhere rides the gaucho, the cowboy of the pampas. His costume does not live up to the expectations raised by the movies. He wears a flapping black hat, wide-hipped overalls and plain boots, though occasionally he sports a black sash or wide leather belt.

And he sits in a saddle that is a cross between our old Texas tree and the English pad, with a balance and a certainty that is all horseman.

A NEW RACHMANINOFF.

Newly-Rich Lady Thought He Had Forgotten Music.

Here is a new Rachmaninoff story told by the composer-pianist to Frank Ernest Nicholson, compiler of "Funniest Jokes of Famous People":

"Shortly before I made my official debut in Russia," reminisced Rachmaninoff, "I accepted what engagements I could get playing for social affairs. At one such function given by a lady of the newly-rich type whose musical education was sorely lacking, I played for my first number, Liszt's 'Paraphrase on Rigoletto,' which is filled with many long rests.

"As I was holding my hands above the keyboard, motionless, during one of the lengthy rests, the hostess tapped me on the shoulder, and, in a voice that could be heard all over the room, said:

"'Young man, don't you think you'd better play something you know?'"

Martin Luther's Catbechism.

While school textbooks change often and few studies to-day are a jeer, one yet in use can celebrate its four hundredth anniversary—"Luther's Catechism"—and still is used in Lutheran schools.

The Lutheran Church is the largest Protestant church. Its membership is estimated from 75,000,000 to 80,000,000, mostly in Northern Europe and America. The three books translated into most languages in the world are: The Bible, in about 800 languages; "Luther's Catechism," in 127; "Pilgrim's Progress," in 107. The most translated hymn is Luther's "A Mighty Fortress," in 150.

World's Highest Bridge.

The new Grand Canyon Bridge on the Arizona Highway. The bridge is 485 feet in height, and therefore beats the hitherto unassailed record of the Victoria Falls Bridge with its 425 feet from the river's bed.

RIVAL FOR PLATINUM.

Columbium Cost Only a Tenth as Much.

A new metal, with the appearance and some of the qualities of platinum, but which costs only a tenth of as much, was exhibited for the first time at the twelfth annual Chemical Industries Exposition here, says a New York despatch to the Christian Science Monitor.

The metal is columbium, which is believed to exist in large quantities in certain granite veins in combination with another metal and was separated in its pure form by Dr. Clarence W. Balke, chemical director of the Fan-steel Products Co. It has been found to be impervious to corrosion and chemists are now studying its properties in order to determine what use can best be made of it.

Another metallurgical exhibit in the chemical exposition discloses the increase in the value of platinum. A Russian three-ruble coin is shown, made of this material. It was minted about 1828, and is about the size of a quarter-dollar. The metal in the coin at present is worth twenty times the face value of the coin. The same booth also shows a collection of gold fish hooks, used by the native fishermen in Colombia, because gold is more plentiful there and cheaper than any other suitable metal which they can find for this purpose.

A new acid-testing alloy, developed by the Krupp factories in Germany, is expected to be of particular value to the chemist.

In the field of applied metallurgy one manufacturer is showing a new 400-mesh screen which contains 160,000 openings to the square inch — a larger number than there are hairs in the average human head. The phosphor-bronze wire which is used for the screen is one-third the thickness of a hair. The screening is used in the preparation of special chemical materials.

QUICK TELEPHONING.

Most Intelligible Language to Speak Over 'Phone Is Italian.

A large number of experiments made over telephone circuits show that the most intelligible language is Italian.

Next to Italian come German, English and French. But although English is the most intelligible, it is not the best language to use; it is too clipped and winded.

The actual time required to transmit a given number of ideas over a telephone circuit is best for French, and then come English, German and Italian. It is best, on the whole, to use English or French. It is quicker to speak a language of short words, even when some of the sentences have to be repeated owing to the poor intelligibility, than to speak a language of long words which has a relatively high intelligibility.

Deaf Mute Drivers.

There are 177 deaf mutes holding operators' licenses in the State of Pennsylvania and there is no record of any one of them ever being involved in an accident. There are 1,980 drivers classified as "deaf" and a total of 7,656 classified as "incapacitated." Accident reports from this group are a rarity, because it is said they take no chances and handle their cars with a maximum of safety for themselves and the other users of the highway.

Lennox District Annual Women's Institute

The District Annual Meeting of Lennox Women's Institute was held in the North Fredericksburgh Community Hall on Friday, June 21st, at 1 p.m. The District President, Mrs. Fred Hamm, opened the meeting with community singing followed by the Ode and the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Cummings, President of Maple Leaf Institute, welcomed nearly one hundred members and visitors from various parts of Lennox, who had met to report on the work of the past year, and to discuss ways and means for the coming year, and to elect officers. But this was not all; the program was varied, consisting of addresses, solos, both instrumental and vocal, readings and papers. In Mrs. Cummings' address of welcome she stressed unity just to remind us that when discord creeps in, power is crowded out.

The President next addressed the meeting stating that Lennox had a membership of 502 in its ten branches, while in Ontario there are 35700 members, and over 7,000 branches in the world. Mrs. Hamm advised that the young people of each branch be responsible for one program in the year.

All enjoyed very much Mrs. Eplett's solo, "The Garden I Fashioned For You." The Secretary, Mrs. A. P. Young, gave her report which was very satisfactory. Although the balance on hand is only in the neighborhood of sixteen dollars it is the largest it has been.

Mrs. Will Fretts gave a paper on Canadian Industries and before closing advised the patronage of home industries. This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Compton.

Mrs. J. D. Shibley of Harrowsmith, member of the Provincial Federation, gave an excellent address. She explained that in our Institutes the branches are similar to the Township councils; the District to the County Council; and on up through the Provincial, Dominion and Imperial Governments. Ontario Institutes are represented by seventeen members on the board. Institutes are working for social and moral uplift of citizens in co-operation with the Department. Mrs. Shibley spoke of the care of crippled children; stating that if reported to the Rotary Club and the branch bear the expense of transportation the society will do the rest. She stated that Tobermory has a capable and efficient doctor in the person of Dr. Eva Fisher and that Tobermory W. I. is attempting to equip a house for her. They are making a "Friendship" Quilt and any branch wishing to help may send $1.00 to Mrs. W. J. Simpson, Tobermory. The Institutes of Ontario of which Mr. Putnam is superintendent are celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary as such and each branch is asked to send to the District Secretary $1.00 towards this. In her closing remarks Mrs. Shibley said the W. I. were endeavoring to bind together all classes to make things better in every sense of the word.

In Mrs. E. A. Wright's address on "Health" she termed it a call "to arms" against disease, advising coarser foods, raw fruits, vegetables, plenty of water, fresh air, sunshine, comfortable clothes, and cleanliness and she said to profit by the free literature on health.

The Honorary President, Mrs. Jas. B. Miller, spoke of the benefit of Women's Institutes, giving a "Recipe for Better Citizens"—2 ths. love, 1-2 lb. good looks, 1/2 lb. sweet temper, 1-2 lb. butter of youth, 2 lbs. self-forgetfulness, 1-2 oz. dry humor, 2 teaspoons sweet arguments, 1 pt. common sense. Mode of mixing—put flour of love, good looks and sweet temper into a well furnished home, mix butter of youth together with blindness of faults and self-forgetfulness. Throw in dry humor and sweet arguments, then add to the above. Pour in rippling laughter and common sense. Work together until well mixed and bake together forever.

In Mrs. Ralph Ham's report of Convention of October 25th and 26th, 1928, she stated that reports to the standing committees were requested as soon as possible after April 30th.

The outstanding features in part of the reports of the branches were as follows—Adolphustown provided a layette and W. I. members took turns in caring for the mother, they have the care of U. E. L. Cemetery, have had sewing class and judging class.

Bay View is saving up for a Community Hall, they held a great many demonstrations during the year.

Conway added between $25 and $30 of supplies to their room in Kingston General Hospital, and supplied schools with balls and bats, supplied needy infant with all necessary articles.

Napanee held Mother and Daughter banquet and are caring for the teaching of music in Public Schools.

Maple Leaf has placed First Aid kits in schools, have repaired the shed at N. Fredericksburgh Township Hall.

Wilton, only one year's old, has held Needlecraft course, placed First Aid kits in three schools, and given suit of clothes to a fire sufferer.

Odessa not being represented there was no report.

Ernestown, only two and a half years old, have held a nursing course, program of July meeting given by children, gifts to bride, baby, needy, secretary, who was going away, and bought more furnishings for hall.

Violet has held a course in Home Nursing and First Aid, holding a St. Patrick's Tea at the close, placed three First Aid kits in schools, presented silverware to brides and gifts to new babies.

Bath, organized in June, 1928, has held twelve meetings having fifteen papers given. Supplied layette for baby and First Aid kit, also held a "Field Day," which was a great success.

By way of variety when these reports were half given Mrs. Powell gave a catchy reading "The Nice Little Canadian" and "The Spoiler," dedicated to W. I.

A paper on Historical Research was given by Wilton in full from Champlain's book in 1615 until U. E. L. settlement in 1783.

The auditors reported Mrs. A. P. Young's books to be correct, and the same officers were re-elected for next year, namely: Mrs. W. D. Roblin and Mrs. W. H. Phippen.

After considering and summing up the work to be carried out, at the District Annual it was decided to hold an all day meeting next year with morning and afternoon sessions; luncheon being served at noon. An invitation from Conway branch for the District Annual for 1930 was accepted.

A resolution was passed to have noon hour.

Each branch was asked to send a copy of their 1928-29 program to Miss E. J. Guest, c/o Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto, at once.

Mrs. W. Freels, Mrs. E. A. Wright and Mrs. F. Hamm were elected to investigate the school nurse problem.

Mrs. Anderson gave a good paper on Household Economics and advised all to get Bulletin No. 312 on Vegetables and Bulletin No. 9 on Rural Sanitation.

The election of officers was as follows:

Honorary President—Mrs. Jas. B. Miller.

President—Mrs. Fred Hamm.

1st Vice President—Mrs. E. A. Wright.

2nd Vice President—Mrs. S. Lyons.

Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. A. P. Young.

Member of Federation—Mrs. Ralph Ham.

Member of Executive to Kingston Convention—Mrs. W. Cummings

The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King," after which the Maple Leaf members served delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake and the meeting hastily adjourned to meet at Conway next year.

WILTON WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Wilton branch of the Women's Institute was held in the Grange Hall on Tuesday afternoon, June 18th. The President, Mrs. W. C. Snider, presided. The meeting opened with the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer, after which Miss Helen Babcock and Miss Eleanor Emberly gave a duet. An address was then given by Mrs. McMoran of Violet, on her trip abroad, which proved very interesting to the ladies present. The business part of the meeting then took place.

The roll call was answered by the paying the fees for the coming year. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The meeting then closed with, "God Save the King," and a social half hour was spent.

Up in the "North Country" of Algonquin Park, they start their fishermen young—and the ubiquitous barefoot boy with the alder pole almost puts to shame the tourist angler with his split bamboo fly rod and all the other expensive trappings of the game. WISE AND OTHERWISE

Mr. A. Dewar Gibb the Grennock Conservative candidate thought it would be a good thing to make personal contact with some of the voters, and incidentally discover how feeling ran in the district. He asked an old woman what she thought of the four candidates.

"I ha'e seen them a'," she returned, "and thank guidness only yin can be elected."

Complete in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine do its work.

A tiny four-year-old was spending a night away from home. At bedtime she knelt at the hostess's knee to say her prayers, expecting the usual prompting. Finding the lady unable to help her out, she concluded: "Please, God, 'scuse me. I can't remember my prayers, and I'm staying with a lady who doesn't know any."

Paring a corn is both risky and ineffective. It is much better to use Holloway's Corn Remover and endeavor to make it defective. It does not fail to eradicate them entirely.

Mrs. Sooby had been to one of the Talkie picture shows.

"Now did you like 'em, dear?" asked a lady friend.

"If I must tell you the truth, love," confided the other over a pot of pinky, "I'd rather 'ave gorn to one of them unspeakable ones!"

It Testifies for Itself—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, will know that this medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

Proud parent: "What kind of a man is this fiance of yours?"

Prudence this daughter): "Well, he says he has always wanted a home."

"That sounds good."

"And he likes ours very much."

She: "Isn't he connected with you by marriage in some way?"

He: "Yes he married my fiancee."

Mothers Value this Oil.—Mothers who know how suddenly croup may seize their children and how necessary prompt action is in applying relief, always keep at hand a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, because experience has taught them that this is an excellent preparation for the treatment of this ailment. And they are wise, for its various uses render it a valuable medicine.

A man with more confidence than ability took his new car into the London traffic and got badly tangled amid the various "islands" in Trafalgar Square.

After watching his evolutions for some time a policeman strolled across and said, "I say, you're a fine driver, you are. I believe if you were in the Sahara Desert you'd run into a water-trough."

In all infantile complaints that are the depredations of worms in the stomach and intestines Miller's Worm Powders will be found an effective remedy. They attack the cause of these troubles and by expelling the worms from the organs insure an orderly working of the system, without which the child cannot maintain its strength or thrive. These powders mean health and improvement.

Help for Asthma. Neglect gives asthma a great advantage. The trouble, once it has secured a foothold fastens its grip on the bronchial passages tenaciously. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is daily benefiting cases of asthmaa of long standing. Years of suffering, however, might have been prevented had the remedy been tried when the trouble was in its first stages. Do not neglect asthma, but use this preparation at once.

"How to Grow Old" is the title of an article.—Stand in front of a motor-bus would be a good suggestion.

"You can tell a girl's character by her clothes."

"Nonesense; I'm sure girls have more character than that."

Raise Rhino on Bottle.

The smallest rhinoceros ever reared in the London Zoo arrived there last summer from Kenya in British East Africa, and it is fed with a bottle.

If one enters its cage with empty hands it will manifest no interest in the visitor, but if the latter carries some milk it will follow him like a dog.

"Wireless" Milk.

An Austrian scientist claims to have discovered a method by which milk treated by wireless waves of short length can be kept sweet for three or four weeks.

The new "wireless milk" is produced by passing an intense beam of short waves through the liquid. This is said to kill all germs which cause milk to turn. The milk itself is not heated by this treatment, and does not acquire a "cooked" taste.

JULY ROD AND GUN

In line with the season of the year, the July issue of "Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News," Canada's national outdoor magazine, is devoted largely to the fishing and camping interests of outdoor life.

In addition to the regular Fishing Notes department capably conducted by G. P. Sladen a couple of splendid yarns by N. Milton Browne and Rene de la Bruere appear in this issue. The contents include many excellent stories and features by Edward Ormerod, Bonnycastle Dale, C. S. Landis, J. W. Winson and W. C. Motely, providing a wealth of entertainment and information for the reader. Fox ranchers will find valuable information in the articles of the "Canadian Silver Fox News" section.

"Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News" is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

GOOD ADVICE FROM MOTHER OF SEVEN

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I began taking Vegetable Compound for nerves and other troubles and I must say I felt different after the first dose. I have been told this last six months that I look twenty-five, although I am now forty-seven and have had seven children. I have taken the Vegetable Compound regularly for some time and sleep well, rise early and feel young."—Mrs. McKee, 13 Laurier Ave., Toronto, Ontario.

CHAUTAUQUA

A meeting of the local Chautauqua Organization was held in the Town Hall, Thursday, June 26, at 8 p.m., at which a very representative gathering was present.

The meeting was in charge of Miss C. L. Davis, representing The Canadian Chautauquas Limited, which company has bought out the contracts of the Redpath Chautauquas, who have been carrying on Chautauqua for the past few years. After explaining that the new organization is entirely Canadian, Miss Davis gave a very interesting and lucid explanation of the programs to be presented this year. Special mention was made of the fact that two plays are scheduled for this season, besides which there is a wonderful company of negro musicians, a noted Australian violinist and several lecturers of very fine ability and attainments.

The business meeting resulted in the same officers, who held office last year, being re-elected, viz:

Chairman—C. A. Wiseman.
Secretary—C. L. Graham.
Treasurer—W. J. Wiggins.
Ticket Agent—Harry L. Vanluven.
Advertising Manager—Wilfred Wilson.

It was decided that student's tickets, selling at $1.25, tax included, be sold to all boys and girls and students attending the Collegiate.

Moved and seconded that the local Committee expend $30.00 on newspaper advertising, this amount to be supplemented by $20. paid by "The Canadian Chautauquas Limited."

The Advertising Committee appointed was W. S. Wilson, chairman; Mrs. A. Woods, C. A. Wiseman, Bert Elliott, C. L. Graham.

Before closing the meeting Miss Davis stressed again the fact that while Chautauqua tickets this year sell at $2.75, this amount covers the price of the ticket and also the amusement tax, netting the purchaser a saving of 50c. on each season ticket.

Much optimism was expressed by all present as to the possibilities for success this year of Chautauqua.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

Centreville, June 25th, 1929.

Mrs. Wesley Orser and Mrs. E. W Lochhead.

Dear Sisters.—Once again the grim reaper of death has called one of our beloved members, Mrs. E. Orser.

We wish to convey to you a message of sympathy filled with love for your brother and your husband and dear father. It has been our experience of some of the older members of L.O.L. No. 756 to see our brother fill almost every office of the association, as well as the offices of the Township of Camden on the Council board. We pray that God may comfort you in your bereavement. We will remember him as a cheerful brother who was willing to give a helping hand to our L.O.L. and to Church work. May his good example be an inspiration for us to do greater things. We remain,

Fraternally yours,
VICTOR DREW, Rec. Sec.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Beaver:

It gave us renewed interest in Provincial public questions when we read the editorial signed by our Local Representative to the Legislature, and published a few days ago. The question is that it was rather a pity, Dr. Ming did not give his views, on the floor of the House where they could have been answered and particulars given to him, so that if Dr. Ming had been present in the House, he give out the truth to his constituency, the above mentioned letter would never have been published under the name of Dr. Ming, started with asking Mr. Ferguson a question. So may I ask another. Will Dr. Ming say he is satisfied with the educational facilities as provided in our rural school system in Ontario? If so, then, I am of the opinion Dr. Ming is in the minority. If not, then, what does Dr. Ming say for improvement? When Dr. Ryerson organized the school system in Ontario, he gave us a system to end to come, but it was such, that it would lend itself to keep abreast of the times. Times have changed, are changing, and we must keep up with the change. Education may work wonders as well in warping the genius of individuals as in seconding it. We have heard of governments being turned out of office on account of their tariff and per capita. Perhaps that is what Dr. Ming is anxious to see of the Ferguson government.

While Dr. Ming specially mentions the urban school pupil, rural pupils are left out entirely, perhaps, were not even considered by the author of the letter, although the greater portion of Dr. Ming's riding is rural. Therefore, it is the rural school pupil that the riding is mainly concerned about.

Agriculture is acknowledged the primary profession in Canada and it should be hardly necessary for me to bring to Dr. Ming's attention the importance of the office of agriculture in the constituency he represents. Furthermore it does not necessitate being a very close student, to realize that even among crowded professions, agriculture is one that considers the financial investment and labor, is the least remunerate. Can Dr. Ming answer, why? But it ever enter your mind that it might be looked at from an educational point of view. The children of the agricultural districts are educated in the public schools and in passing the entrance examinations, except where they have a secondary school, the majority leave, those that are fortunate enough to be able to continue on, are forced to leave home in order to attend, and are educated away from the farm into overcrowded professions. The exception of the few parents' occupation. Mr. Ferguson's idea is to bring the education to that rural as well as urban pupil, and have the advantage of Home School work at their doors. But I do not think Dr. Ming says no, it is going to cost too much. Perhaps the way it is for the exclusive use of city and town, and those fortunate enough to be able to send their children to the separate High Schools, but for the masses it is then remain the way they are.

No wonder the rising generation of the farms are dissatisfied and are leaving home, going to the cities and towns, and therefore, necessitating the bringing into the country emigrants to take their place. Then there is the exodus of these emigrants like wise transferred on from the farm, and so the force goes on and on in country to country. The cost hundreds of thousands every year. Let Dr. Ming assist by using his influence, in obtaining for the rural portion of the province a like grant to that given by the Federal power at Ottawa, to which he claims allegiance, to help the rural sections of Ontario to obtain an education so that they may take their proper place among the society of their fellow men.

In the letter signed by Dr. Ming it is emphasized, and I think rightly so, that the rural taxpayer, I think he would have been well up on the head and rear of the letter, but he signed it and had it published, he certainly has set his statements stand. First he started off on urban schools then finished out about rural taxpayers, paying for them. Perhaps Dr. Ming might try again, and explain what he means. Also where he obtained his information. He has been very careful to keep from the present urban schools receive from the Ontario government special grants to cover additional cost of technical training etc., that rural school sections do not receive, and to get the benefits of such training, and the children of the rural sections, to receive the education they are entitled to, is what Mr. Ferguson is trying to give and is evidently Dr. Ming is trying to prevent.

YARKER-COLEBROOK WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Yarker-Colebrooke Women's Institute was held Thursday afternoon, June 27, at the home of Mrs. Almon Brown, the president presiding. The meeting opened by singing the Ode and repeating the creed. The Secretary and Treasurer reports were read and approved. The roll call was well answered by, say, sing, or pay. Mrs. Myers, a district speaker gave a very interesting address, which everyone enjoyed. She urged that out W. I. programs be educative as well as social and don't get into a rut when making out the programs. There should be mental food and mental recreation on the programs. The W. I. should have an influence on other people, our influence may go, where we may never be. She urged a girl's garment making class in each branch and never refuse time or money to a Red Cross Hospital. She advised that each W. I. have a Health Committee, a School Committee, a Sunshine or Sick Committee, and a Historic or Research Committee. Mrs. Myers also advised one woman on the school trustee board.

We should have joint meetings of men and women; have a banquet, and let the men see what wonderful work the Institutes are doing.

Each member should prepare for office—do not seek an office, but be ready when the office seeks you. Don't impose life sentence on the Presidents. They should change every two years.

The W. I. should stand behind Canadian-made goods, and buy only those made in Canada. Mrs. Myers also spoke on immigration. We should appreciate the new-comers and make them contented. There is no country that has opportunities that Canada has, her rivers, lakes, mountains, forest and mines, and the W. I. should do all they can to make the immigrants happy.

She urged that the W. I. give prizes to pupils in the schools, not for the highest standing in marks but rather for physical development, deportment.

Social service—there are too many dangers to let adolescents go out into the world ignorant and innocent. We must supervise not criticize the youth of to-day. Train them, trust them.

Mrs. Myers also spoke on Community Hall, Mother's Allowance, Old Age Pension, Hospitality, old and new, citizenship, Royal Road to Happiness—the province of happiness lies in the state of mind. No woman can afford not to be a member of the W. I. and we should never let the church and W. I. clash.

Mrs Myers closed her address by a few short verses.

If you're seeking an investment
That will bring to life contentment
Just help the other fellow lift his load.

There's no greater joy in living
Than that which comes from giving
So help the other fellow lift his load.

Twill make your day grow brighter,
Your every task grow lighter
If you help the other fellow lift his load.

And you'll find before life is o'er
That you found the key to Heaven's door
While you helped the other fellow lift his load.

Twelve new members were received into membership. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Reid, Wednesday, July 17th.

Sergeant-Major: "What shall I do with this fourpence halfpenny which was lying on the table, sir?"

Colonel: "Give them twopence each, and let them toss up for the odd halfpenny!"

The June meeting of the Enterprise W. I. was held in Keech's Hall on June 26, with out lady speaker present.

The meeting opened with the Ode and "O Canada," after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, and the secretary authorized to write a letter to the Council in regard to the cutting of the weeds along the sidewalk. The motion was carried that Mrs. G. Graham and Mrs. W. Fenwick be appointed to look after the exhibit for the Fall Pair, and a donation of $2 was given toward prize money. One dollar, also, was to be sent to Mrs. Fisher to be used in the Tobermory cause. The report of the Convention at Yarker was then given by Mrs. Stanley Bell.

The recitation, "Beyond the Blue," given by Miss Marguerite Wagar, was highly appreciated. The song, "It's a good time to get acquainted," was followed by Mrs. Myers' talk, which was very interesting and much enjoyed.

Add up the reasons for De Soto success

No car in the first year of its life can attain the leadership that De Soto has won without basically sound reasons at the root of that success.

De Soto gives more in performance than any other car in its field will give, and in addition it has an individuality of its own that sets it apart from any other car in any class.

De Soto is alert, nimble and speedy. It is easy to handle and has surprising riding qualities. Its prompt acceleration is remarkable, and its braking is positive and instantaneous because of its hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—not to be found on any other low-priced six.

It is economical to operate, and it is so staunch and sturdy in construction that maintenance is a negligible factor.

Being Chrysler-built it carries the mighty prestige of a Chrysler creation and has an exceptionally high trade-in value.

De Soto Six is a smart and stylish car of which any owner is proud. We invite you to get behind the wheel and experience the thrill—today and without the slightest obligation.

BIG ENGINEERING JOB.

Lines to Run Important Railway to Black Sea.

The contracting firm of Saxdbye & Lerche, Copenhagen, who have built several railways in Sweden have jointly with ano her Danish firm secured the contract for the engineering portion of an important railway in Turkey, says Christian Science Monitor.

The aggregate length of railway to be built was originally close upon 700 miles, the contract including the building of a harbor at Eregli on the Black Sea. But the provisional calculations were very far out, and in order not to exceed the total cost of $55,000,000, the program had to be curtailed. It has eventually been agreed upon that a northern line from the Irmakto Fillas, on the Black Sea, is to be built at present, while the branch line from Zafrarbali to Seurgud Eusu, as well as the coastal line from Pillas to Eregli, and the harbor at the latter place are to be left in abeyance for the time being.

A portion of the southern line from Keller to Diarbekir, probably some 200 miles, will be built. The time for completing the work has been prolonged until December 1, 1934.

The Northern Line will proceed from the Irmak railway station, at a height of 680 meters, rising at its highest level to 1,230 meters. It passes through very difficult country, which necessitates the building of enormous viaducts, frequent bridging of rivers and extensive tunnelling of a number of mountains. On the first fifteen miles of the line twelve bridges have to be built, with up to sixty meters width of span, while further on there are bridges of 100 meters width of span.

At Arghana Maden are some important copper ore deposits, containing 25 per cent. of copper and the line, with its projected harbor should facilitate the working and despatching of extensive deposits of coal.

The work is being pushed ahead with much energy and a highly cosmopolitan staff of engineers are engaged, comprising 49 Danes, 22 Swedes, 19 Norwegians, 20 Swiss, 73 Germans and 33 of other nations, altogether seventeen nations being represented.

Poet (excitedly to landlady): "Mrs. Jones, I've sold my poem called 'Ode to a Fair Lady.'"

"Have you? Well, you'd be better at writing one called 'Oved to a Landlady!'"

LOOKING FOR TOURIST TRAFFIC.

Jugoslavs Provide $10,000,000 for Purchase of New Steamships.

A subsidy of $10,000,000, spread over ten years, is to be provided for the construction of new ships for the Dalmatian coastal trade and the majority of these vessels are to be built in Great Britain, H. N. Banac, director of the Jugoslav Lloyd, said in an interview.

The coastal traffic on the Jugoslav side of the Adriatic is mainly for tourists anxious to see the attractions of this favored region. The "season" lasts for about eight months of the year and most of the travelling is done by day. There are already seven or eight well-appointed ships plying between the various ports, but the growing volume of traffic makes it necessary to add to their number, Mr. Banac said.

The Jugoslav mercantile marine has grown in the past ten years from about 100,000 to 500,000 tons, of which the share of the Jugoslav Lloyd—an amalgamation of two older companies which took effect early this year—is 26 steamers aggregating 230,000 tons. Apart from the coastal trade the traffic is mainly with South America, particularly the Argentine and Chile.

In the latter country Croatian capitalists own large nitrate interests which enable them to carry on a considerable trade with Egypt, where fertilizers are in great demand. The chief export of the Dalmation ports is timber, most of which comes to Britain in exchange for coal.

VICTIM OF LEGAL ERROR.

Mistake by a Judge Gives Young Man 82-Year Sentence.

Clark Randall, who in 1918, at the age of 17, accidentally was sentenced to serve 82 years in the State Reformatory, now is hopeful the state will grant him a full pardon. He is at present in the penitentiary at Fort Madison.

Three times Randall has been granted a parole, and as many times he has failed to observe the provisions of his release. Now the state is being asked to pardon and not parole him, for it is contended the state is in a degree responsible for his wayward-ness because it committed him to association with criminals at an early age.

Randall was first arrested for forging a cheque for $49. Five other counts also were against him. He pleaded guilty, and the court sentenced him to a term from one to fifteen years. Sentence was the same on the other five counts, but all sentences were to run concurrently.

But in entering the court record the judge, Milo P. Smith, 80 years old, accidentally wrote "consecutively" instead of "concurrently," and the error was not discovered until Randall had served eleven years.

Passing of Sail Lofts.

Sail lofts are a rapidly vanishing industry. Where a dozen flourished along the Portland, Me., water front fifty years ago, two or three have hard work to-day in finding enough to keep them busy. Sails still are in demand for yachts and miscellaneous craft, but nearly everything that floats now has auxiliary power and this greatly cuts down the wear and tear on canvas. Six-masted schooners were the best friends of the men of palm and needle. The sail loft that supplied one or two of the big fellows with suits of canvas was sound financially for some time.

The Old and the New.

The huge bell of Rouen Cathedral (France) whose history goes back for over 800 years, has had modern electrical apparatus installed for its operation. The hand apparatus which the new electrical installation supersedes was set up five hundred and fifty years ago, a creaking contrivance of wheels and ropes. A man had to climb five flights of stairs to ring it for fifteen minutes every night, straining muscles and bent back. Now it is rung by touching a switch!

THE HOUSEWIFE'S LAMENT

What shall I have for dinner?
What shall I have for tea?
An omlet, a chop or two,
Or a savory fricase?

Dear! how I wish that Nature
When she made her mighty plan
Hadn't given the task to women
To care for hungry man.

RECITAL

The pupils of the Misses Leitha and Dorothy Scott gave a recital in the Sunday School room of Grace Church on Tuesday of last week, which was of much interest to the people who attended.

About thirty-five girls and boys took part and all showed splendid training and considerable talent. The little ones were remarkably efficient in their solo work, and the older members were well versed in technique and expression. A number of diplomas were distributed to those who had completed their year's work successfully.

Miss Ruth Woodger gave a vocal solo and the Misses Scott played a duet in addition to the regular pupils' piano and violin numbers. The afternoon was most enjoyable, and a silver collection was donated to the Mission Band.

Over one-half of all Canada's industries depend on wood as a raw material. When the forests are destroyed mills must close down, railway earnings must suffer, trade must stagnate and prosperity must vanish.

THE KING OF BIRDS.

Golden Eagle Sought and Brought Home His Bride.

Away among the northern mountain peaks, writes Alan Warwick, the natura'ist, the golden eagle, king of birds, held his lonely sway.

He was the brooding spirit of the place. Every inch of six feet from wing tip to wing tip, and possessing a cruising speed of sixty miles an hour, each day his landing ground was the chisel top of the highest crag—a point from which he could survey his heaven, and his earth of unutterable desolation and frost.

But to-day the golden eagle was restless. There was a new questioning glance in the lateful, haughty eyes that stared defiance at the sun's red disc. Yesterday he had been self-sufficient; to-day a new force seemed to be tugging at him, a call to him in his loneliness.

Yesterday he had hunted, a hurtling, crashing creature of steel that, out of the blue sky, had brought down death in his resistless claws. A thousand feet he dropped, and a brent goose below had been unaware of the descending doom. Then, at the moment of impact it had seemed as if the goose had burst into thousand dying feathers, and a limp form had been conveyed to the eagle's place of repast.

Yesterday, too, the golden eagle had played! The sky for a radius of twenty miles had been his playground. His plaything had been an ancient dried bone such as a dog would have chosen for a similar game on a much smaller scale.

At an elevation of two thousand fee, he had dropped the bone and, hovering, had watched it like a cat until it had almost fallen from his sight. Then, with closed wings, he had descended like a thunderbolt in its wake, swept past it, hurtling towards the naked rocks below.

How he checked himself in this head-long drop without tearing himself to pieces in astonishing. But that he could then roll on his back in mid-air and catch the bone in one claw, was a trick that warranted the applause of the universe!

To-day he was not interested.

With a couple of heavy jumps he launched himself into the air, and the great wings bore him steadily away.

For more than a week the chisel ledge was without its occupant. Then, on the tenth day, the golden eagle returned, and with him was a fierce, haughty companion, a golden eagle even larger than himself. The king had returned with a consort—a mate to whom he would be faithful until death.

EXPLORING CHINA.

All Foreign Expeditions Must Now Include Chinese.

For the first time in its series of five expeditions into Mongolia, the American Museum of Natural History's explorers this year comprise a number of Chinese natural scientists, including a Chinese co-director on an equal basis with Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the men who have spent the last seven years studying the archaeological and paleontological remains of Mongolia.

The arrangement was not altogether voluntary, says a despatch to the Christian Science Monitor from Peiping. A Chinese society in Peiping called the Society for the Preservation of Chinese Cultural Objects proposed and executed the plan by which Chinese joined the expedition, and by which one of them is to go to the United States this autumn to study for six months in the museum in New York.

This society is one of the manifestations of the growing tide of nationalism in China. Its members a few years ago determined not to permit any further explorations under parties by foreign direction in China, and drew up stipulations that all foreign expeditions must include Chinese and meet all the expenses of the Chinese members.

ICELAND IS PROSPEROUS.

Rejoicing In a Greatly Increased Export Trade.

In 1928 Iceland's business was valued at 74,000,000 kroner (about $19,250,000) as compared with the 1927 figures of 57,000,000 kroner. These figures become all the more remarkable when it is understood that Iceland's population does not exceed 100,000. In fact, the foreign trade of $192 per capita is the greatest in the world.

This northern country takes great pride in its exports—both commercial and cultural. While Icelanders point out complacently that they export more economic goods for each inhabitant than any other country, they also are proud of their unusually high production of poets and artists. Some of the best writers of to-day hail from Iceland. No other nation has a higher or more general taste in literature and art. But the export figures show that the Icelanders also know how to weave their dreams into a wonderful fabric of production and sale.

Their commercial men say laughingly that "queer fish, such as poets and artists, are not the chief export of the country, but dried cod and salted herrings."

Expected to Run for Centuries.

It doesn't tell time, yet scientists call it a clock and it is expected to run for centuries without any attention. It is a radium unit, a vacuum tube, inside of which is a small cylinder of the mysterious substance, says Popular Mechanics.

As the radium disintegrates it charges two gold leaves with electricity. They gradually diverge until they touch the sides of the vacuum tube, where they discharge their electricity and drop down. This action is repeated every 34 seconds and will continue as long as the radium is active.

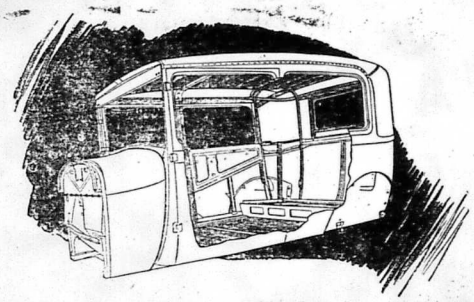
THE FORD CAR STEEL BODY



Combines Strength with Beauty

THE high grade steel used in building Ford car bodies gives maximum driving protection. Beauty of design has been combined with rugged strength in these all-steel bodies. The wood parts shown in the diagram are used only for attaching the interior trim and roof material.

If this body—that of the Tudor Sedan in this instance—mounted on a Model "A" chassis, were turned over and resting on the roof, it would support the chassis, engine and all without even bending the narrow window pillars. Such is the strength and high safety factors of Ford engineering.

Vision obstruction is reduced to a minimum by the use of narrow steel pillars. Lower rear panels, including the wheel housing, are made in one piece. This unusual feature on body construction gives additional strength.

Electrical welding adds greater rigidity and reduces the possibility of squeak and rattle. Panels and frame sections are welded or riveted. In assembly of large units where bolts are necessary, strips of anti-squeak material are used between sections. Sound deadening material is also used. Soft roof construction, of heavy padding over galvanized mesh wire, provides an additional element of quietness.

WANT SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Formosans Asking Japan for Political Autonomy.

A delegation representing prominent residents of Formosa has visited Tokio and submitted to the Diet a petition for political autonomy. The petition is signed by 1,932 persons in all walks of life in the island colony.

"The people of Formosa have already attained a stage of cultural development where they are qualified to participate in the administration of the island," a spokesman said. "It is true that the Governor-Generalship of Formosa has carry with it absolute powers when Japan first took the island over forty years ago, but times have changed. I regret deeply that the Japanese people do not know more about Formosa or the 4,000,000 Formosans. They are so engrossed in their own affairs that they are not awake to the mistakes in colonial policy being made by the Government officials in Tokio. We are completely satisfied with the island as a part of the Japanese empire but we believe that autonomy is best both for the island and for the empire."

Lack of freedom of publication was cited by the group as one of the most objectionable features of the present rule.

Deep-Seated Rheumatic Pains

Probably no affliction is more common or responsible for more intense suffering than rheumatism. Thousands of otherwise robust persons drag through a life of misery and agony.

Here is new treatment. Simply get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil, and apply to the affected parts. It's easy and pleasant to use and there is no doubt but what the most stubborn and severe cases yield quickly to its powerful, penetrating influence. The first application brings blessed relief. All good druggists have it, but you can be sure to get it at Wallace's Drug Store.

Many Hued Crops.

For the past twenty-five years an American farmer has been producing fantastic varieties of corn, until his farm now presents a rainbow appearance. He has discovered the secret of introducing color effects in all parts of the plant. Yellow ears come in shucks of royal purple, purple ears in bronze shucks, or bronze ears in shucks of many colors. Kernels are produced in purple, yellow, bronze, crimson, cherry, red, and pink. Leaves and stalks show an equal variety of color. His experiments, however, have not been confined to colors. He has introduced other varieties that have a definite economic value, such as a short-stalked corn that resists the action of wind better than the long-stalked kind. Varieties that resist disease have also been produced.

RED HOT JULY DAYS HARD ON THE BABY

July—the month of oppressive heat; red-hot days and sweltering nights; is exeremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or, if they come on suddenly, to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does not come on suddenly, will banish it. The tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 28a

"Smilin' Through" Coming Here at Canadian Chautauqua

SCENE FROM "SMILIN' THROUGH"; INSERT, MARTIN ERWIN

"The sweetest story ever told on the stage" was the comment of a great metropolitan critic when he first attended a performance of "Smilin' Through," Allan Langdon Martin's beautiful romantic drama, which is to be presented on the fourth night of the coming Canadian Chautauqua here. You must see "Smilin' Through." It cannot be described. Its wealth of emotional appeal, its humaa comedy situations and delightful love story, its fascinating, whimsical sentiment that tugs at the heartstrings, make this great play a true classic of the modern stage.

"Smilin' Through" will be presented here by the famous Martin Erwin Players, featuring Mr Erwin in person.

An irate customer entered the butcher shop, threw a pice of metal on the counter and indignantly exclaimed:—

"What do you call that, sir?"

The man examined it and replied: "It looks like a piece of brass to me."

Piece of brass—of course it is! And do you know where I found it? In one of your sausages!"

The butcher put up his hand, rubbed his double chin, and said he thought he could explain it.

"Yes, and explain it you will before I leave this shop!"

"Well," drawled the butcher, as he smacked his lips, "I must have forgotten to take the collar off."

It Bids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia racks the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

If we notice little pleasures
As we notice little pains;
If we quite forgot our loses
And remember all our gains;
If we look for people's virtues
And their faults refuse to see—
What a comfortable, happy, cheerful place
This world would be.

For Scalds or Burns.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly soothes the pain and aids speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sores as well as for relieving the pains arising from inflamation of various kinds. A bottle in the house and stable saves many a doctor's and veterinary's fee

A certain clergyman made a habit of repeating his sentences several times to enable his congregation grasp their meaning.

"Who was John the Baptist?" he remarked on one occasion, bringing the words out slowly and distinctly, and then repeating them.

After glancing once more round the church, he repeated the words again.

"Who was John the Baptist?"

To his surprise, a seedy-looking individual at the back of the church shuffled to his feet.

"Look 'ere, guv'nor," he observed, "I know there's a catch somewhere, but come on, 'oo was 'e, anyway."

THE full-size Chrysler-built Plymouth is just a year old—and what a phenomenal year of success it has had!

All this week we are celebrating the first Plymouth anniversary by holding a gala showing of the newly-refined and improved models which make today's Plymouth still more outstanding in the low-priced field.

When a car in its first year becomes the giant Plymouth is—when it wins the popularity that Plymouth enjoys—when thousands upon thousands of owners sing its praises and exhibit it to their friends with genuine pride—that car certainly must have merits that no other car in its class possesses.

That, in essence, is the story of the Chrysler-built Plymouth.

Plymouth is the only full-size motor car at anywhere near the price —the only low-priced car with the individuality and style of Chrysler designing—the only low-priced car with the smooth, flexible, quiet liveliness so typical of Chrysler engineering—the only low-priced car with the safety of Chrysler-famed four-wheel hydraulic brakes, internal-expanding, weather-proof, positive, noiseless.

WHO OWNS CANADA?

That Canada is owned by Canadians is today an established fact, proven by a list of the securities which are owned within the Dominion. A recent survey shows that between 55% and 65% of all Canadian securities are owned by the Canadian people. American capital invested in the Dominion exceeds $3,000,000,000 while British capital located in our industries is about $2,000,000,000. At the same time investments in the United States by Canadian investors amount to over $800,000,000—a figure which compares very well with the American investments here when relative population is considered.

Control being definitely vested in Canadians, the bogie of outside domination can be laid forever. On the other hand, now that we see that there is virtually no danger of foreign control, the exploitation of the numerous potentialities which exist throughout the nine Provinces can, if necessary, have recourse to British and American investment. Both at home and abroad, finances for Canada exist in abundance; and the Canadian investor faces the probability of witnessing a flow of money into the legitimate investment market from both domestic and foreign sources for years to come—perhaps for generations.

To Improve the Port of Odessa.

A sum of 22,000,000 rubles has been assigned for the renovation and improvement of the port of Odessa, writes the Moscow correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. This cosmopolitan city on the Black Sea, long a meeting place for traders from East and the Levant, suffered considerably, first from civil war, later from the general decline of Russian foreign trade.

The improvement in port and storage facilities, it is hoped, will make Odessa a centre for the export of goods to Persia and for the import of tea and other supplies for the Ukrainian market.

MAKING NEWS PAPER.

Speed With Which Paper Is Now Produced.

A Swedish newsprint manufacturer has recently timed the speed with which paper is now produced for newspapers, says the World's Press News. For instance, he had a tree felled at 7.45 a.m. in the forest belonging to his paper mill. The wood was worked up into pulp and then into paper through the mill machinery with such speed that at 9.39 a.m. the first bale of rolls was delivered on a waiting car, which conveyed it to the nearest newspaper printing works, and at 11 o'clock the paper was on sale in the streets printed on the newsprint thus manufactured.

Thus one can read before noon the latest news of the day whose subject which at dawn was still a tree standing in the forest.

Scallops are Popular.

The poor scallop almost needs to work overtime when the city of New York alone consumes 60,000 gallons annually. The shallow bays around Long Island for about twenty years miles are the natural habitat of this succulent bivalve. Although there are forty different species of scallops, and four are found along the Atlantic coast, only two have a ready market in New York. These are the giant or in New York. These are the giant or deep sea scallop of Maine and the smaller, or shallow water scallop.

NAPANEE HUMANE SOCIETY

On July 1st, this society held its first Pet's Parade and Tag Day, both of which proved very satisfactory.

There were fifteen entries, besides the horses brought by several carters who joined the parade to make it more interesting, especially for the children. Many complimentary remarks were passed on the good condition of the horses and the fine appearance the turnouts made.

Some of our merchants and other well-known citizens, who take an active interest in children and in promoting every good cause, kindly donated prizes which were very suitable and pleased the little folks greatly. The judges were Messrs. McGillivry, Seymour and Batten.

The taggers spent a busy day but enjoyed it, as they met with few refusals, many giving liberally to what they termed "a good cause." The taggers collected eighty-five dollars and ninety-six cents. This will greatly help the Society in their work, and the members wish to thank all who so kindly helped to make the day a success.

No meetings will be held during the holidays except by special request of some of the directors.

FARM LABORER DROWNED

Chas. Dwyer, a young farm helper employed by Sam Agate on the Second Concession of Tyendinaga, was drowned Wednesday afternoon in the Bay of Quinte when the boat in which he and a number of companions were occupying capsized. The lad who was in the neighborhood of sixteen years of age was unable to swim and sank to his death before assistance could reach him. He and the other lads left the farm early on Wednesday afternoon for the Bay shore and according to word from Shannonville the fatality occurred about 230 in the afternoon. Coroner Dr. Boyce and Provincial Constable Sylvester were called to the scene immediately on receipt of word to conduct a full investigation into the tragedy. The lads were swimming at a point which is known as Fuller's Grove.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S WORK

At last week's meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club Mark Graham, Chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee made a report covering the work of this committee during the past year.

There were 14 children from the town and county whose cases were taken up by the committee. These ranged in age from babies up to boys of 17 years of age. Each child was taken to a hospital either in Kingston or Toronto, for observation and treatment some remaining only a few days and others for over a month. A number of cases were of children in a badly crippled condition requiring serious operations while some were cases of badly diseased tonsils and adenoids and other similar ailments. The hospital authorities and surgeons have given the committee splendid cooperation and where it was possible to correct any faulty conditions this was successfully accomplished and some of the children are now approaching normality.

The number of cases coming to the attention of the committee is constantly increasing. At present there are four children at the Orthopedic Hospital Toronto who are progressing very favorably after recent operations. It is expected that in the cases already treated and with those in hand at the present time about $1500 will have been spent. This will use up a large portion of the money raised at the Hallowe'en Frolic two years ago for this purpose. It is anticipated that some more funds will have to be raised this fall to carry on the work. It is also expected that a clinic will be held somewhere in this district early in the fall where any children requiring attention can be examined by specialists and their cases investigated. Rotarian J. E. Robinson is to have charge of this work for the coming year.

The dead insects are carefully taken from the "Chamber of Death" and put gently into incubators. They remain there 24 hours in an effort to revive them. If even a wing flutters, the FLY-TOX tested does not come up to the high standard of quality, and never leaves the factory. This is the quick acting insect spray you want. It is FLY-TOX. NAPANEE HUMANE SOCIETY

"Cruelty to animals is our meanest and most cowardly crime," says a leaflet on "The Care of the Cat," issued by the Ontario S. P. C. A. from 11 St. Alban's Street, Toronto.

"Do not get a kitten as a toy for your children. If you do allow your child to keep a kitten inside upon the Golden Rule as applied to cats. A kitten does not like to be pulled about, handled continually dressed and undressed like a doll, wakened out of a sound sleep to play, held in uncomfortable positions, or given a bath to provide children with something to do."

"Feed regularly and not too much."

"Do not put a small new kitten out at night; you will lose it. Let it sleep indoors."

"Do not whip except for persistent naughtiness, and then go gently. A kitten is easily injured. Never strike the head or the ears. The hip is the only part permissable."

"A teaspoonful of pure olive oil about once or twice a week can be given if worms are suspected. Do not give castor oil straight. Keep a sick kitten warm and let it fast for a bit or give milk and limewater."

"Comb and brush it frequently. The flea—comb is the best remedy for fleas."

"Wash the ears and swab out wax or dirt with an absorbent swab dipped in olive oil or boracic solution."

"If your kitten is sick and you do not understand its ailment, get advice."

"In winter, when grass is covered up, have sprouted oats for your cat. Cats often suffer from hairballs. Grass acts as an emetic and brings it up."

"Another form of cruelty that is practised to a shocking extent is the leaving of cats at summer cottages, when returning to town. The fate of a petted animal will be a terrible one when winter comes. No answer to long wailing cries. Then the closing in of cold and storms; freezing nights of hunger; growing weakness and death. As many of our members have said, 'How can they do it?'"

"The Ontario S.P.C.A. will gladly prosecute in cases where the names of these persons can be obtained. They need a few lesons in common humanity."

DENBIGH

With the daily increase of tourists, Denbigh is fast becoming a busy burg. —Splendid fishing, congenial villagers, and plenty accommodation.—Rain is much needed. The hay crop will be short.—Rev. P. A. Scott preached his farewell sermon last Sunday night to a fine congregation. Rodgers presented in a few chosen remarks on behalf of all, a beautiful comforter to Mr. and Mrs. Scott, after which light refreshments were served and many regrets expressed on their leaving. Mr. and Mrs. Scott have served the Denbigh Mission field for six years and in so doing it may truly have accomplished a great work and made a host of friends. Every pressure was brought to bear to induce them to remain, but they decided, believing their work was finished, to leave for Napanee where they will take up their residence.—Rev. H. E. SOFTBALL

Yochoo, folks! here we are again! Did you see us at the game last Tuesday night at Switzerville? Some snappy game, eh? For the benefit of those who were conspicuous by their absence, here's our summary:

Ernestown boys certainly "did their stuff" and paraded their young hopefuls to good advantage. Probably the most outstanding player was Charlie boy, who held down the south west corner of the field and who intercepted everything that came his way and some that didn't come his way.

Down around first base it looked like the Comedy of Errors for a while. Several times the man doing duty there got all set to receive the ball, only to find himself clutching atmosphere, while the runners galloped in like a boy with a swiped watermelon. However, he did make good use of the bat when he got hold of it.

Ernestown looks to have a good second baseman. He made a couple of mid-air catches and had a good share in holding down South Fredericksburgh's score.

In third innings, Ernestown's pitcher was passed his brother, Bill, with the light of battle in his eye, seized the ball and heaved it over with as much speed as if he had grabbed the business end of a hornet. The South Fredericksburgh boys smiled blood-curdling smiles and began clouting.

Jack Prout knocked the first homer and nearly passed his brother, Bill, who was going around from second on two wheels, the result of a smoking drive which left field. Jack repeated his former hero act and let three baserunners in on his wallop, while Bill quietly followed his example by slamming out a homer. Boy! for a few moments there sure was plenty of thrills and excitement as the thundering herd went across home plate.

Ronald Loyst got two blows on his daisy-cruncher but managed to get home on second and his running, it didn't affect his playing. Ken Dickson made several brilliant catches and he pulled in some sure-labelled hits. For an innings or two a slight leak seemed to have developed in what was otherwise real airtight fielding for S. Fred. This was only temporary although it gave Ernestown boys a chance to add to their score. However, smiles quickly vanished when Henry Lloyst glued his tentacles onto a couple of swift liners.

Modesty—and writer's cramp—prevents our recording in detail the way in which George and Ray Dickson, Charlie Bygott and Ed. Lavack helped to put a damper on jaunty celebrating contemplated by the Switzerville boys.

We noticed a goodly number of fans —all with that blood-thirsty look. All certainly were treated to plenty of hair-breadth escapes and one of snappiest pieces of work displayed this season.

Everyone appreciated the fair way in which the umpires handled the game, and the unnecessary display of fireworks was avoided—Oh yes! we forgot to remark earlier that the score was 14-11 in favor of South Fredericksburgh. As there are more games coming, s'long for now; (Switzerville Times please copy).

It was our privilege to attend the 225th anniversary of the oldest Protestant Church in continual use at Sheffield, N.B. The church was replaced by the Loyalists and P. E. I. entertained us at a garden party and reception at their homes. At Lunenburg we had a garden and a reception at Mr. Kimerly's member for, Lunenburgh, N. S. At every city automobiles were in waiting to show us their beautiful natural landscape gardens, Lumbering and pulp mills and fishing is the chief industry. Each city seemed to vie with the other to entertain us and impress us with the Maritime Provinces and we were either welcomed by the different premiers as well as the Mayor of the different places and then were the after dinner speakers. At Halifax the premier also Sir Robt. Borden, gave the chief address. The Public Gardens there are not to be equalled anywhere, I believe, or the private gardens of Mr. Harry Piers, mayor of Yarmouth, N. S., They deserve special mention.

Mr. Stark Brewer has retired home after spending a week with his sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Balentine, Montreal.—The regular meeting of the W. M. S. met on Tuesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Jerry Dorland, the president, Mrs. (Rev.) Beckstead presiding, after the opening devotional exercises and items of business dealt with, Mrs. J. Donavon took charge of the chapter in the study book and had given several of the members parts of the chapter to memorize, which made it very interesting. After a hymn was sung, Mrs. W. G. ADOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The July meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Ronsbaugh on Friday afternoon July 5th with an attendance of thirty-one members and visitors, the President in the chair. The meeting opened by all singing "Brightly gleams our Father's Mercy," with Rev. Mr. Plant as organist. The scripture lesson which dealt on Sabbath Day observance was selected from Nehemiah 13: 15-21, and was read by Miss Amanda Magee. Rev. Plant offered prayer; all joining in repeating the Lord's Prayer. Two verses of hymn "Take time to be Holy" was sung after which the secretary gave her report. The treasurer's report showed a gratifying increase in membership and money raised.

Several of the members promised blocks for the quilt which is made for the Home Mission Schools.

Plans were made for the open meeting to be held on July 31st, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Magee, when the Adolphustown Auxiliary is entertaining the Sillsville Auxiliary.

A lunch committee was appointed, Mrs. James Bird, Mrs. Blake Humphrey and Mrs. W. D. Roblin. The program was also decided upon.

Three of the Heralds reported. Indian work, Mrs. John Humphrey; China, Miss Lilien Carr; India, Mrs. John Magee.

The Superintendent of Christian Stewardship gave an appropriate and humorous reading, after which Mrs. B. Humphrey sang a solo which was much appreciated. Little Vera Plant sang a solo, prettily, "The Little Birdies," with Rev. Mr. Plant accompanying her on the guitar.

Roll Call was answered by a verse of scripture on Sabbath Day observance. Owing to the absence of Mrs. George Ruttan, who was in charge of the study-book it had to be omitted.

The offering was taken. Hymn, "We're a Story to Tell to the Nations" was sung and Rev. Mr. Plant closed the meeting with prayer. Grace was sung, the hostess served dainty refreshments and a social half hour spent. The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ercell Foster.

REIDVILLE

(Too late week)

Death came to one of our most highly respected residents in the person of Mr. Harper Reid after a long illness. The funeral took place from his late residence on Wednesday, July 3rd at 2.30 to St. Luke's Church, Camden East. Rev. Mr. Harrington preached the sermon and was assisted by a former pastor, Rev. Mr. Preston of Lansdowne and Rev. Mr. Spencer of St. Luke's. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife. The high esteem in which the deceased was held was evidenced by the many floral tributes and kind sympathy extended.—We are having plenty of rain and the farmer's find it rather difficult to get the hay harvested.—Mr. and Mrs. Warner of Flint, Michigan, is spending a few days at R. J. Wilson's.—Miss May Reid of New York arrived on Wednesday to attend her brother's funeral, also Mrs. O. Long of Toronto was in attendance.—Mrs. Percy Finley and son has returned home after spending a couple of weeks visiting friends at Athens.—Harvey and Doris Campbell of Kingston are spending the holidays with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reid.

An irate landlord wrote to one of his tenants asking whether he would "quit or pay."

The tenant replied:" Dear Sir,—I remain yours faithfully.—

An epitaph has given many a henpecked husband the opportunity of having the last word and some of them have made the most of it. No conventional respect for the dead stopped the man who had this epitaph carved on his wife's tomb:—
"Here lies my wife, poor Molly; let her lie.
She finds repose at last, and so do I."
It was a Cornish husband who found it in his heart to inscribe upon a tombstone:
"My wife is dead and here she lies.
No man laughs, and no man cries.
Where's gone or how she fares.
Nobody knows, and nobody cares."
Here is another:—

Sandy and Jeanie were not as yet recognized as sweethearts, but they had been in the habit of going about together for some time.

Every Saturday evening Sandy took the girl to the movies. He was dreadfully shy but on evening plucked up sufficient courage to say:
"Dae ye love me?"
The girl blushed and stammered:
"I've telt ye before, Sandy, that I dinna ken."
"Aweel, lassie," said the young man, "ye micht tell me at once that ye love me, and no' have me always buying ye picture tickets."

Mrs. Lallapoosa approached the glove counter in a fashionable draper's.
"These aren't quite the latest style, are they?" she observed, when the gloves were produced.
"Oh, yes, madam," replied the other. "We have only had them in stock two days."
"Really. Well, the fashion notes in yesterday's paper say black kids have tan stitches and vice versa. I can see the tan stitches, but not the vice versa."
"Ah, madam," explained the girl gently, "you haven't quite understood. Vice versa is the French for one button."

"Do you understand exactly what a debenture is?"
"Not yet," answered Farmer Corntossel. "One of my reasons for pushing our boy Josh through college is the hope that he'll get smart enough to explain it to the family."—Washington Star.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The July meeting of B. H. I. was held Monday, at the home of Mrs. A. Sams.

The meeting was well attended and all were helped by the many suggestions made in answer to the roll call, "Recipes for Dishes for warm days." The favorite recipe being boiled custard, decked with raw fruit, preserves, nuts or other colorful and tasty dainties.

The minutes of June meeting were read and confirmed and correspondence dealt with. It was decided to send in our name to be placed on the Tobermory autograph quilt.

Plans were started in preparation for a Field Day to be held during the first part of September. All those attending the August meeting at Mrs. B. Morrow's on August 12th are asked to bring suggestions for same.

Miss Muriel Jackson rendered a very pretty solo. Miss J. Dennee, the speaker of the day gave a very educative and interesting paper on health lines. "The story of Soap and Water." Miss Dennee took us on an imaginary trip through the ages, pre-historic to modern days, secretary gave a demonstration of former Drinks. The one chosen was "A Lemon Drink." All voted that this na one likes to know new ways of making water more tasty, it was decided that we become affiliated with the Federation, that is we may be felt in farther parts of the province. Each member is to bring her own fees, and those who have not already done so, still please bear in mind for August.

After singing the National Anthem, the hostess served a very nice lunch.

"Did you cancel all my appointments as I told you, Smither?"
"Yessir, but Lady Mainchance will take it very well. She says she's going to marry her next Monday."

REVOLUTIONARY IN 1924—STILL MORE SO TODAY

APR 19 1924

"It was inevitable that Chrysler should attract a degree of scientific interest accorded no other car in the past fifteen years. Engineers, naturally, were first to appreciate that Chrysler, while adhering strictly to soundest principles of design, is a distinct departure from previous motor car practice and performance. They recognize in Chrysler an advance in automobile engineering as revolutionary as the development of the X-ray in medicine."

—Advertisement April 19, 1924

HOW HAS CHRYSLER DONE IT?

When an unknown motor car sets out—as Chrysler did—to grasp the leadership of a great industry, and with the speed of a meteor, sweeps to a foremost position in popularity and sales, it must possess extraordinary quality and ability.

When the first Chrysler car was placed on exhibition five years ago, the whole industry looked in amazement at what Walter P. Chrysler had accomplished. Within four years, Chrysler had leaped to third place in the industry.

How has Chrysler done it? What is the secret of this success? Simply that Chrysler gave in the beginning—each year since has given increasingly—and today gives in still greater measure—not only a finer grade of basic quality but a higher order of performance, beauty, style, power, acceleration, safety, comfort—all at most reasonable prices.

Such sweeping success must prove inevitably to the buyer of a Chrysler car today that he can count on the most and the soundest, the safest and the most satisfying motor transportation his money can command. Let us prove these facts in a demonstration.

Puts An End To Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There's a cure simple yet inexpensive way to relief—inflammation and swollen toe go out and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask at Wallace's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated, penetrating oil that two ounces lasts a long time and further, a little bottle Emerald Oil is complete satisfaction or does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen ankles or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly penetrate to those inflamed parts and the contains until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

GOOD FOR DIGESTION.

Unmarried People Suffer Most From Dyspepsia.

Unmarried men and women between the age of thirty and fifty suffer more from dyspepsia than the married folk of similar age.

This discovery has followed a Berlin physician's laborious investigation of cases of stomach trouble. It is one that cheers the heart of the young wife, whose culinary efforts are often made the subject of mirth. Her husband, for all her novice cooking, will be more likely to have a good digestion than his unmarried friends, bachelors eat alone, and consequently eat too fast, owing to the fact that they have no one to talk to.

The unmarried woman, says the professor, usually eats the same things. She will eat only what can be prepared with the least trouble, or what can be eaten unprepared. She, too, like the bachelor, is apt to bolt her meals. The solitary person, in fact, male or female, just eats for nutrition and gets it out of the way as quickly as possible. Hence indigestion and a bad temper. The married have wife with their food the best of all sauces—casual and cheery conversation.

Small Pieces of Ice.

Several small pieces of ice are more effective in a refrigerator than a large cake of the same total weight, says a clerk at the Popular Science Institute of Standards, New York, who dicate. It was found that lower box temperature could be maintained by using the small pieces.

G. F. Belshaw, a refrigerator specialist of Detroit, Mich., recently gave the opinion that it is unsatisfactory to use ice in large cakes in a home icebox as it would be to burn 50-pound chunks of coal in a furnace.

Youngest of the Oceans.

Dr. H. S. Washington of the Carnegie Institute says that there is evidence that the Pacific, largest of the oceans, is also the youngest of the oceans. There are more volcanic islands in the Pacific than in the Atlantic or the Indian Ocean, indicating greater restlessness beneath the bottom. The rocks composing the bottom are denser and heavier, judging by the samples brought up by the volcanoes themselves.

REPORT OF DISTRICT ANNUAL CONVENTION OF SUB-DIVISION NO. 3

The District Annual Convention of South Addington Women's Institute was held at Yarker United Church on Wednesday, June 12th, the District President, Mrs. A. Huffman presiding. The weather being ideal the crowd was exceptionally large, each branch being well represented.

The meeting opened by singing the Institute Ode, repeating the creed in unison, followed by community singing. An address of welcome was read by Mrs. R. Freeman and responded to by Mrs. Carscallen, Tamworth. The minutes of the last District Annual were read and confirmed. Reports were received from the Institute branches and all showed a remarkable growth in the amount of good work done during the year. The District Secretary's report was then given, this was followed by a presentation to our District President, Mrs. Huffman for efficient services rendered during the past three years. Mrs. A Salsbury presented her with a beautiful gold wrist watch. Following is the address:

Dear Mrs. Huffman.—We the officers and members of the Women's Institute Sub-division No. 3, feel that we cannot let you retire from office without expressing our appreciation for the efficient manner in which you have filled your office, and the cheerfulness with which you always responded when asked for assistance.

During your term of office four branches have been instituted and the work being done by them, as well as the other branches in this district, shows the thorough manner in which the organizing was done. We would ask you to kindly accept this token of appreciation not for its intrinsic value, but to show you in a small way that you may long be spared to this community, whom you have served so faithfully and well.

Signed on behalf of the District Women's Institutes Sub-Division No. 3.

Mrs. Huffman who was completely taken by surprise made the following reply:

I am sure ladies you are not expecting an expression of my feelings at this time. When the professor asked the student if the question was perplexing. He replied, "Oh! No sir, the question is quite clear. It is the answer." I find myself facing the same problem. If I were to search the dictionary for words to express my gratitude I would fail to find them. It is true we have had three years of pleasant association. Financially I find my books balance exactly as they did three years ago, but socially, intelligently and I can truthfully say spiritually, I am much richer.

These presentations no doubt are intended to give gladness, but to me there is always a touch of sadness. During the three years in office I have received the hearty co-operation and encouragement of all with the glad hand of welcome, and it gives me just a touch as it were of leaving home, but it would not be just or profitable for the organization, or honorable to me to monopolize this office and keep other capable women from deriving the same benefit from this work that I have, so I am anxious and willing to step down behind my successor and render what assistance I can. Should this be the last opportunity I may have of addressing you as your president I should like to impress upon you the necessity of memorizing the Institute Creed and let this motto or a daily factor of your lives and teach it to your children. I wish to thank you one and all for the expression of your appreciation and loyalty to me today.

Mrs. Redden of Tamworth then gave an interesting paper on the beautiful friendship Mrs. R. Jackson, Yarker, a short reading on Tobermory Hospital.

Newbuisness was introduced and was specially disposed of, after which the representatives adjourned for lunch which was served by Yarker-Colebrook Institute in the League Hall.

A piano duet was given by Mrs. Fenwick and Mrs. Oliver, Enterprise. Then followed the election of officers.

Mrs. Runions, Agriculture Representative of Napanee gave a short address on Household Science Coaching Class which is being held at different places and advising all who could to attend them.

A demonstration of knitted rugs was given by Mrs. B. Lochhead.

Mrs. J. W. Shibley, Harrowsmith, delighted the audience with a vocal solo. Rev. Mr. Anderson, Newburgh, and Rev. Mr. McKenzie, Yarker, gave short addresses on the splendid work done by the Women's Institute.

A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Redden and Mrs. Huffman, Tamworth. Friendship East ladies put on a very fine fashioin tournament of fifty years ago. Their dress was very elaborate and caused much merriment. Miss Mae McDonald and Miss Maybelle Blakely acted as attendants.

Mrs. J. D. Shibley, Harrowsmith Federation member of the Provincial Board for Sub-Division No. 3, Eastern Ontario gave a short address outlining the work of a Federation member. She also spoke of the care of crippled children, stating that if reported to the Rotary Club and the branch bear the expense of transportation, the society will do the rest. COMBATTING FEMINISM

Asia's Islam Mullahs Do Not Like Efforts to Encourage Liberal Treatment for Women.

Ever since the revolution the Soviet East, formerly a stronghold of conservative Mohammedanism, reports the Moscow correspondent of the London Sunday Observer, has been caught up in a wave of modernistic feminism. Polygamy and "kalym," the practice of purchasing brides, have been forbidden, and intrepid agents provocateur of the Oriental peoples of the Caucasus mountains, the deserts and oases of Central Asia and the Volga Valley, urging the women to cast off their heavy horsehair veils and take an equal part in public life.

The latest development in this campaign for the emancipation of Moslem woman is a proposal to make the wearing of the veil illegal. This suggestion was debated at length during the recent conference of Workers' and Oriental Women, and in principle encountered no opposition. There were differences of opinion regarding the length of time which would be required to carry the matter to the legislative bodies of the Soviet Republics, but it is now been accepted as a foregone conclusion that the veil will ultimately be banished.

Old Islamic customs, hallowed by centuries of tradition, cannot be flouted overnight without a struggle; and not a few of the pioneer feminists in the Caucasus and Central Asia have received the martyr's crown. In Uzbekistan alone, the largest of the territorial divisions of Russian Central Asia, 200 women have been killed during the last few months for taking off their veils, according to reports received at the conference of Workers' and Oriental Women. Sometimes these murders are committed by incensed husbands and sometimes by members of the community, stirred up to fanatical rage by the exhortations of the mullahs. The conference recommended that in the future such acts should be regarded as simple homicide, for which the maximum penalty in Russia is ten years' imprisonment, but no counter-revolutionary offence, for which the penalty is death.

Still years of unremitting work and propaganda on the part of the "zhenotdel" and other organizations are beginning to show results. Among the more advanced eastern peoples of the Soviet Union, such as the Tartars, the Bashkirs and the Chuvashes, one can now find considerable numbers of girls studying in the high schools, and even in the universities. Even in old Bokhara, one of the most remote, picturesque and pestilential cities of Inner Asia, where medieval Mohammedan theologians were brought to believe that woman has no soul, the veil has been generally put aside.

All sorts of devices are being brought into play to push, and prod, and awaken the Eastern woman to a sense of, independence and civic consciousness. Movable tents circulate among the nomadic tribes of the steppe, distributing propaganda, medicial aid and elementary hygienic instruction. The Soviet East is dotted with women's clubs, where the first shyness of the discarded veil may be forgotten and where courses in literacy and vocational subjects are offered.

This modernizing movement in the Soviet East has many points of contact and sympathy with the innovating crusades launched by Mustapha Kemar in Turkey and attempted by King Amanullah in Afghanistan. And this is not the least of the reasons why Soviet sympathy was distinctly on the side of the Afghan king. The fall of a progressive regime in Afghanistan could scarcely fail to hearten the mullahs, the beys or tribal chieftains and other pillars of the old order in neighboring Soviet Central Asia.

Texas Man Started Hat on Voyage Months Ago.

"I am on my way. I don't know where, and I don't care where I roam, so give me a lift and send me along, and some day I'll roll home."

An old and battered hat bearing this message, as well as sixty-five labels and many other inscriptions and mottoes, arrived at Aberdeen recently on another stage of an adventurous journey.

It was cast upon the world by a citizen of Dallas, Texas, many months ago. It is his intention that the hat shall travel all round the world, and return to him in years to come with the history of its travels written on the labels which it collects on the way.

But, at the rate the hat is collecting labels now, there will soon be nothing left to which any messages can be attached.

It has been all over the United States and Canada. At one town in Canada it collected a label with a corkscrew attached and this inscription: "Send me to Chicago to Big Bill Thompson. He'll need me."

Before the hat left on its adventurous journey the owner, in handing it to the man who was to carry it on the first stage, exhorted him to see that it travelled as personal luggage. This message has been handed on to each person who has taken it on its journey. It was handed to Chief Engineer A. Baird, of the British motor vessel King James, at Prince Rupert Island last November, by a manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Famous Chinese Statesman Coming Here at Chautauqua

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh Will Be Heard in His Notable Lecture "Awakening China"

The blood of China's ancient aristocracy and the spirit of modern democracy mingle in the person of Dr. Teyhi Hsieh, noted Chinese diplomat and statesman, who will deliver his stimulating lecture "Awakening China" at the coming Canadian Chautauqua here.

That Canadians may gain a truer view of China and her problems is Doctor Hsieh's mission in coming to the Dominion—and China could not have found an emissary better suited for the task. Doctor Hsieh is a brilliant orator, a master of the English language and a keen student of international affairs. It has been said of him that he is the national interpreter of Chinese aspirations, philosophy and hopes.

An editorial in the Toronto Globe speaks of Doctor Hsieh as follows:

"One of the most cultured as well as wittiest visitors Toronto has had in many a day is Dr. Tehyi Hsieh of China, dean of Board of Trade. Doctor Hsieh, in addition to much Oriental lore, knows the Occident better than most of us. He is a graduate of Cambridge and has had wide diplomatic experience on both sides of the Atlantic. He is typical of Young China, which now is rapidly taking over all that power belongs to China from the enfeebled hands of the Old Regime. We all might learn a good deal from this brilliant representative of China."

THE ROTOSCOPE

Marvel Machine Makes Terrific Speed Appear Very Slow — Can Tell Exact Speed of Airplane.

When you go to the cinema and see slow-motion horses jumping a hurdle, and slow-motion men running a race, it makes you wonder how it's done, doesn't it? It's all very simple, if you know how to do it. You can do the magical things seen on the screen for yourself.

Imagine a large newspaper office. Newspapers are being turned out of the machines at eight hundred papers per minute. By means of a wonderful invention, the work of a British engineer, it will now be possible to stand beside the machine and read the papers as they fly from the presses.

The Rotoscope, which is the invention of Mr. A. J. Ashdown, a London man, is a mixture of a camera and a pair of binoculars. It possesses a heliopolic shutter which has a speed of less than one 50,000th part of a second. It has also a dynamically-balanced cylinder which is rotated by a small motor on jewelled bearings. It can be regulated to any speed, much the speedometer of a motor-car registers. By approximating the speed of the Rotoscope to the speed at which an object is moving, the retentivity of vision produces such an effect that terrific speed appears to be very slow.

"For instance," Mr. Ashdown explained to a Tit-Bits man, "if you want to see what the King is doing while travelling in the royal train, you can either cling perilously to the footboard of his express, or you can arrange to travel on a parallel line at the very same speed. In the latter case you will be able to study him comfortably. That is what the Rotoscope means.

"I turn on this electric battery," continued the inventor, "and this piece of coiled wire attached becomes alive with convulsions. It trembles so violently that its speed cannot be measured. Now look through the Rotoscope, and you will see the wire appears to be moving very slowly, twisting and turning like a serpent."

The Rotoscope enables scientists and mechanics to deal with problems arising in all mechanical motion at high rates of speed by actually making what is taking place visible to the eye. It makes no contact with the moving object, but the accuracy of its measurement is infallible, and it can register to a speed of 40,000 movements per minute.

"It is now being used for textile industry, aviation, general engineering, testing and research, and for educational purposes," Mr. Ashdown continued. "In the case of the artificial silk industry it has proved of tremendous value. Hitherto it was extremely difficult to detect flaws in silk owing to the speed at which the machines worked. The Rotoscope 'slows down' the spindles so that the operator can see when the yarn is uneven and working at different speeds.

"I have been able to prove that drops of water falling from a tap are not pear-shaped as popularly supposed, but absolutely round.

"I can tell the exact speed at which an airplane is travelling when it is a mile away. By a few simple mathematical rules and the Rotoscope this is easy. Similarly, I can tell the speed of a bird or winged insect."

PIG FOR A BRIDE.

Papuans Believe That Each Tribesman Has Two Spirits.

When a Papuan tribesman's eye rest with favor on a maid, and he desires her for a wife, he first presents his father-in-law with a pig or a dog, after which he takes his bride to his hut. The wedding ceremony over, the bride joins the other wives in taking care of the hut and working the garden while the husband goes fighting, hunting and fishing.

Yams, sweet potatoes, birds, lizards, fish, and all kinds of insects are eaten by the natives. Turtles are a luxury to them but the favorite delicacy is a fat grub about three inches long.

Papuans differ as to the disposal of the dead. They believe that each tribesman has two spirits. One dies with the body while the other remains with it to haunt the relatives. Sometimes a body is buried for a short time. Later it is disinterred, the bones cleaned and taken to the village.

Belgians Work Cheaply.

Belgium pays probably the lowest workmen's wages in Western Europe, according to the report of an investigation recently made in Brussels by a social service magazine. Belgian miners earn 11 to 12 cents an hour; bricklayers, electricians and mechanics, 12 to 12 cents, and conductors 12 cents an hour. In light industries, such as a chocolate factory, skilled workers earn 10 to 11 cents an hour.

Lord Leverhulme's Belgian soap factory is said to pay some of the highest wages in Belgium, granting skilled workers a weekly wage of 240 Belgian francs, or $6.50, and unskilled workers about 204 francs a week.

Feathered Sheep Dog.

The yakamik, a species of crane, is used by the natives of Venezuela, South America, in the place of sheep dogs, for guarding and herding flocks of sheep. However far the yakamik may wander with the flocks, it never fails to find its way home at night, driving before it all creatures entrusted to its care.

Italian Rule of Athletics.

All types of athletics have been brought under government control in Italy, and physical training for children under seventeen years is now compulsory.

Do the Job Before You.

Move of great men all remind us
Of this homely little text:
If you do the job before you,
You'll be ready for the next!

"Lovely women, striking dresses and wonderful flowers will be the feature of Ascot this week." A little horse racing will also, we understand, take place.—London Star.

A little boy at his Scripture lesson said: "Please, teacher, was Pontius Pilate of an airship or a liner?"

Making the Crime Divulge the Criminal

California boasts of the discovery of a new method for trapping criminals which is said to be moving eastward. In brief, it consist of noting the various idiosyncrasies which are revealed after every crime and which point to the criminal agent. He may wear gloves to conceal his finger prints. He may wear a mask to cover his face. But he has a certain way of committing a crime and there is, as a rule, only one kind of a crime he will attempt. By a minute examination of the scene of the crime the detectives believe that they can pick up enough evidence to prove if not the identity of the criminal than at least the fact tha the criminal who committed one crime also committed certain other crimes. The idea is described by H. H. Dunn in Popular Mecnics, and suggests how remotely related to its contents may be the name of a magazine. But the idea does not strike us as new. Indeed it is a very old idea. Before the coming of finger-prints and Bertillon measurements it was one of the surest means whereby the old-fashioned police fastened crimes on accused persons.

Extorting Confessions

In Sacramento there is a cental identification bureau where is kept a most minute account of crimes committed by all criminals who are known to have operated in the state or elswhere. Sometimes the accounts of the crimes are not accompanied by the name of the criminal. He may be at large and known only by his methods. But if certain characteristics appear in a reported crime which indicate that it was committed by a certain criminal, he he is at once arrested and the absence of his finger-prints will not greatly retard the police. This is because once they are certain that they have the right man they employ certain methods to induce a confession, methods which would not be tolerated —if they were known—in any other English-speaking country. It has been found in California that juries are more likely to be impressed by the detailed description of crimes believed to have been committed by the accused person tha they are by the usual indefinite identification of men or women who have seen him even in the perpetration of the crime.

How It Works

A young man dicked up by the police dringnet in a western city smiled at the chief of detectives: "You'll have to let me go, chief; You've got nothing on me and you know it." The chief did know it, and frowning, he reluctantly handed over to the prisoner his personal possessions, including the cigarette case. The young man opened it, offered the chief a smoke, put a cigarette in his mouth, and then lit it, after having drawn a match sharply across the desk. The chief of the identification bureau, who happened to be in the room, started forward. "You'll have to stay," he said. He knew that on his files were reports of 14 house robberies, all the work of some criminal whose only sign manual was that of a match scratched on some piece of furnitue. The striking of the match had come to an involuntary even inevitable, piece of vandalism with the thief. He was, of course, unaware of it, but it led to his conviction and sentence to 20 years imprisonment. Here is a case obviously in which the police in Canada would have had a great deal of difficulty in getting a conviction. If the youth had remained silent no jury would convict on the mere coincidence of the scratching of a match, but as we have said, American police have their own little methods of securing confessions.

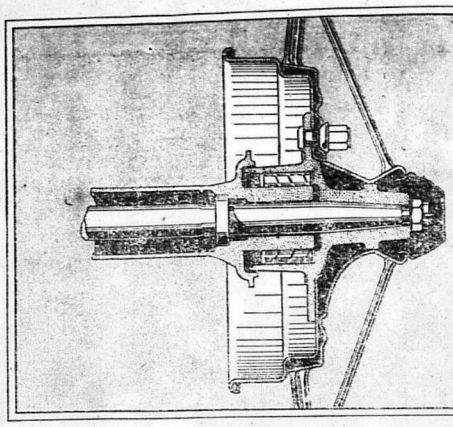
A Fatal Fondness For Cheese

In Rochester a thief was convicted because his only known habit was to rummage through the refrigerators in the houses he was ransacking and eat whatever cheese he could find. When arrested he was given a good meal at the station house. The first thing he ate was chdese. After that, we presume, the detectives began to wheedle over the head with their blackjacks. At present, there is at large on the Pacific coast a desperate criminal of whose identity the police have no inkling, though he has committed a score of crimes. His specialty is the robbing of houses, day or night, where parties are going on. He confines his attention to the room where the ladies leave their wraps and he takes their purses, because men carry their money in their pockets. He dresses himself as a messenger boy with an apron, and pretends to be delivering a parcel from a small basket which he carries. Outside the house is a small house is a small truck, further suggesting the tradesman. He wears gloves when going through the women's wraps and replaces every garment as he finds it, thus possibly delaying the moment when the alarm will be given.

Does Time For Clocks

If detected this man shoots his way out, and the men he leaves behind him are dead, not wounded. It is not expected that he will be taken alive. He is known on th coast as the "party burglar." In his case the clues gathered by the detectives have not helped them much. But in an other case mentioned by Mr. Dunn, they proved effective. An unknown man was found by two detectives in one of the smaller California cities selling a quantity of unmarked silver to a pawnbroker. When questioned he produced newspaper advertisements in which the silver was offered for sale. He said he was the owner. There was no report of silver having been stolen and the detectives were doubtful what to do. The young man then invited them to accompany him home to convince themselves thorcughly that he was as represented. He took them to a neat bungalow, introduced them to his wife and finally sent them away satisfied. In mentioning the matter at headquarters, one of them remarked on the tasteful furnishings of the house and the presence of an unusual number of ornamental clocks. This fell on the ears of an identification expert who knew that for some months past a criminal whose specialty was the theft of clocks, had been working his way west. Police hurried back to the house and, after a shooting match in which one of them was killed, arrested the man who is now serving a life sentence.

THE FORD CAR REAR AXLE



Expense no object in Achieving Perfection

THE rear axle of the Ford car is of the three-quarter floating type with spiral bevel gear. The pinion hub is exceptionally heavy, and, as the pinion is carried on double taper roller bearings, perfect alignment of the gear is always assured. The rear axle has a total of four roller bearings which add considerably to the cost of manufacture but are a protection for the owner against wear.

Special care is taken to insure silence in the pinion and ring gears. These are made up in sets and carefully matched, each set being run in to eliminate all possibility of noise in operation.

The differential side gears are forged integral on the rear axle shafts and the teeth then cut. This permits of lighter and more simple construction. The shafts are unusually strong, and, as the centre line of the wheel comes over the bearings, there is no overhang of the axle shaft, and it has no weight to support.

The use of malleable castings is eliminated in this new axle housing which is made entirely of steel. Bell forgings welded to steel tubing make up the shaft housing which is bolted to an all steel differential housing. The care and skill devoted to the manufacture and assembly of rear axle parts is typical of the high standards of Ford engineering.

THE GAME OF QUOITS.

Descendant of the Ancient Greek Discus Throwing.

The modern game of quoits is a descendant of the ancient Greek discus throwing, with two differences —the quoit is ring-shaped, flat on one side and rounded on the other, and the throwing test is one of accuracy rather than distance. There are few traces of it in Europe. It apparently originated in the border country of England and Scotland. It was one of the games prohibited in the reigns of Edward III. and Richard II., in favor of archery. It is played with two pins sixteen yards apart driven into the ground with one inch exposed, situated in the centre of a circle of stiff clay three feet in diameter.

Quoits are of any weight but usually of nine pounds. They must not exceed 8 ½ inches in diameter or be less than 2½ inches in bore, nor more than 2½ inches in web. Players must stand within 4½ feet of the centre of the end and at one side. Each player has two quoits.

In championship matches, quoits more than 18 inches from the pin are called foul and removed. Measurements are made from the middle of the pin to the edge of the quoit. Those on top are measured first. Quoits landing with the flat side up are fouls.

TOKIO TO DEVELOP PORT.

Plans to Make Capital a Leading Port of Japan.

Plans to make Tokio a leading port of Japan have been drafted by Mayor Otohiko Ichiki, an expert on finance and city government, together with the publication of a new system of financing the capital. Although located on Tokio Bay, says the Washington Star, the capital has never been in direct contact with shipping because of the shallow water.

It has been virtually an inland city, depending solely on Yokohama for an outlet for its goods. By the new scheme ships of 8,000 tons and less could dock in the city limits instead of having to stop at Yokohama. Requiring ten years for completion, the tremendous project involves an expenditure of $14,000,000. A channel 25 feet deep, 43 feet wide and nearly four miles long would be built between the forts which lie about a mile from shore.

This would lead from a quay 1,400 feet long and able to accommodate twelve small ships, while a long pier would be built to take care of three large ships at the same time. For huge storage houses and other buildings about 740 acres of land would be reclaimed.

WOMEN HEAVY ON SHOES.

Census Shows Their Greater Need for Footwear.

The female of the species is far deadlier than the male, so far as the pocketbook is concerned, when it comes to purchasing shoes, the Department of Commerce survey for 1927 indicates. This greater deadliness begins early in life, too, for just as women outdistance men in the purchasing of footwear, so do girls and misses surpass boys and youth.

The one indication of a silver lining for the dark cloud is in the fact that, whereas more shoes, to the extent of 22,500,000 pairs, were purchased in 1927 over 1919, the last prior census, the cost dropped nearly $200,000,000.

Men demanded footwear — that is, boots and shoes — to the extent of 93,912,560 pairs, while women purchased 125,516,768. Boys and youths accounted for about 27,000,000 pairs, while their feminine associates were obtaining more than 21,000,000 pairs. Babies required 24,101,295 pairs at an average cost of $1 a pair. —Washington Star.

TYENDINAGA EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The June meeting of the Tyendinaga East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Roy McMath on Thursday afternoon, June 27th. A good attendance of members were present, also several visitors. The meeting was opened in the usual manner, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The roll call was answered by "where I spent my honeymoon" and the answers were very interesting. Mrs. R. Howe gave a splendid recipe for a wedding cake. The business part of the meeting consisted of the paying of bills and other transactions of business in connection with the booth that the Institute held at the U.E.L. Celebration at Deseronto. Following the business part of the meeting Mrs. T. Anderson of Napanee gave a very fine paper on "Helpful Hints in the Kitchen." The paper certainly had the right name as Mrs. Anderson gave so many good ideas and good suggestions to make work easy in the kitchen. This paper was enjoyed and much appreciated by all. Mrs. Ham of Napanee gave us a few good remarks in connection with the work. After a few remarks by the President a social half hour was spent in community singing. A very dainty lunch was served by Mrs. C. Akey, Mrs. Arthur Waddington, Mrs. R. Tucker, Mrs. Tucker. The meeting closed with the National Anthem and Mizpah Benediction.

MARIE CELESTE MYSTERY IS NOW LAID BARE

In 1885 there came into existence one of the most extraordinary of sea mysteries that of the Marie Celeste. The story must have thrilled and baffled millions of people who read it in one of its numerous versions. It was the work of an American journalist whose name is unfortunately forgotten and was written some 13 years after the drama which was supposed to describe had been enacted. In brief the story is that of a sailing ship, Marie Celeste, after a voyage from New York in 1872 was found off the Azores by the crew of the Dei Gratia. The Marie Celeste was proceeding on her way under sail but with no other visible sign of life. When boarded by the sailors of the Dei Gratia, not a soul was found. Nor was there any sign of tragedy or other untoward happening. The kettle was simmering in the cook's galley, a cat lay purring on a chair, and the table was spread for a meal. Everything seemed ship-shape and the absence of the crew and skipper seemed uncanny. The only thing missing apart from the crew, of whose numbers there were estimates from varying from 40 to 13, was the ship's log.

Authors Detective Work.

There was an inquiry before the attorney-general at Gibraltar the chief witnesses were members of the Dei Gratia crew, and Captain Moorehouse, her skipper. They swore unflinchingly to the facts set forth above, and Moorehouse was eventually awarded £1,700 prize money. That was all the official information which came to light and it provided the American journalist with one of the greatest sea mysteries ever written. He neglected to give his readers a possible clue to what might have happened by omitting to record the strong suspicion of the attorney-general or Gibraltar that something sinister had taken place and that Moorehouse might have been implicated in it When this fact came to light it was ridiculed by the surviving owner of the Marie Celeste and as there was nothing to go upon and apparently in the case, it was dropped, only to survive, as we have said, as a legend. This combined mystery and legend has now been laid bare after what must have been a good many years of earnest detective work by Mr. Lawrence J. Keating, who has just issued a book on the subject, which he calls "The Great Marie Celeste Hoax."

One of the Crew Living.

To the old question "Where became of the crew of the Marie Celeste" Mr. Keating returns the surprising answer that one of them, James Pemberton, the cook is living today near his native Liverpool and that the boatswain and carpenter, Jack Dosel, was known in Shrewsbury until his death in 1911 as Chippy Russell. Instead of making green hands, because of making them with the ointment which he peddled. The story which Mr. Keating has succeeded in ferreting out records that the Marie Celeste was a built of soft wood in a Nova Scotia yard owned jointly by Benjamin Bowker, her captain, and James Winchester, of New York, and just before her final adventure had been engaged principally in the coastal trade. She had been named the Mary Sellars, in honor of the captain's wife, but some domestic French painter had advised to her the fancier name under which she was to become famous. In New York if she was loaded a cargo for Gibraltar. Briggs found himself short-handed and appealed to Captain Moorehouse of the Dei Gratia to lend him some men. The agreement between them was that for this favor the two captains would meet off the Azores where Briggs would transship part of his cargo and give Moorehouse a chance to earn a little extra money.

Tragedy Begins

There may be a possibility that the deal between the captains was of a more sinister sort which may have involved the scuttling of the Marie Celeste for her insurance money, for she was one of those craft which often come home when they are neither expected or wanted. In any event, there was a definite appointment for the two ships to meet just about where they did meet. One of the crew provided by Moorehouse was a drunken landlubber named Carl Veahdoit, who, when he came to his senses demanded that Briggs skirt ship and return him to New York. There ensued a fight between Venhoidt and Hullock the mate, known as the Baltimore bully. Venhoidt was quenched, and his triumph made Hullock insolent to Briggs. He was further exasperated by Mrs. Briggs habit of playing hymns on her piano when he went below to sleep. The first tragedy occured when Mrs. Briggs was playing her hymns and a sudden squall struck the ship, smashed over the piano and killed the woman. Captain Briggs fought to embalm the body in alcohol but the crew thought this was unlucky and of the cast overboard.

was cast overboard

After that all discipline vanished. Venhoidt and the mate pounded Briggs and the captain drank to the health of dreams terrible and also attacked the mate. One night he was in a deadly struggle. In another their bodies were found locked and dead. This was the straining point of the Marie Celeste. Convinced that Mr. Hullock the mate was a murderer, Briggs raised to the rank of captain and in one of the early days of March the crew of the Marie Celeste left, taking with them the log in which the murders and captain had written the complaints. Then the Dei Gratia came up to find aboard Pemberton the cook and three members of her own crew. Captain Moorehouse thus gave quick thinking for immediately he decided that he would express the truth about the loss of a crew and represent the men who had raised in the Marie Celeste as having arrived on Dei Gratia. Pemberton was taken off as a passenger and he presently suitably rewarded to keep him silent. So that is the end of the mystery, or at least it should be for we regard as a remarkable faculty of surviving all kinds of proof intended to discredit them.

DEMONSTRATION OF BROILER SPLITTING

A demonstration of the splitting and preparing of broilers for "Pot or Pan," by Mr. G. S. Webber, of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, was held on the Market Square, Napanee, Saturday morning, July 13th at 10 o'clock.

The broilers, weighing about 2 lbs. are split down the back with a sharp knife, the backbone, breast bone, and all inedible parts are removed. This method of handling has two distinct advantages—(1) It eliminates the irksome job of drawing., (2) With the breast and backbone removed the chicken is in a much better condition for either frying or broiling.

As soon as the chickens are prepared they are carefully placed in transparent Celle-phone envelopes, this making a tasty attractive package as well as keeping it away from dust, flies, etc.

The demonstration attracted considerable interest and all the chickens were disposed of as soon as they were prepared, which is absolute proof that the buying public appreciate a chance to secure high grade article, properly prepared and handled.

The demonstration was arranged jointly by F. H. Buker, Brockville, Market's Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture and A. D. Runions, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Napanee.

Bring your photo work to Hooper's Drug Store and have the developing and printing properly done. All prints finished with a border and special offer for enlargements.

UNIQUE BIRTHDAY PARTY

On July 10th a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr and Mrs. R. J. Wilson, Enterprise, it being the seventy-third anniversary of Mr. Wilson's birthday. About thirty guests assembled to wish him many happy returns of the day. A feature of the evening was the receiving of congratulations by phone call from his son, Edmund, who is a student at the University of Seattle, Wash. The call was received at twleve o'clock and Mr. Wilson, also two others present were able to speak to Edmund for a few minutes. After this lunch was served and all joined hands and sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," to which Mr. Wilson replied in a few well-chosen words thanking those who had so kindly remembered his birthday and wishing all present might be spared to meet again next year.

OBITUARY

Thomas Harper Reid.

On Monday, July 1st, a much respected citizen of Camden, Thomas Harper Reid, passed to his rest after a prolonged illness. The late Mr. Reid was born at Reidville 64 years ago and spent his whole life in this community engaged in farming, and by which vocation he was most successful. Being of Irish parentage, he was blessed with a charming personality and kindly disposition which won for him a host of friends. Ever a staunch Conservative, brother Mason, and devoted churchman, he was a valued citizen in the community, prominent in all gatherings and respected for his fidelity, honesty and integrity.

His funeral took place from his late residence on Wednesday, July 3rd, and was one of the largest ever held in this district. The service was held in St. Luke's Church, Camden East, the Rev. W. Spencer and the Rev. E. Harrington officiating. The Masonic Brethren of Victoria Lodge, Centreville, held their accustomed rites at the grave.

There are left to mourn his loss his beloved wife, two brothers, Albert Reid, Napanee; Fred Reid, Enterprise, and two sisters, Mrs. Alcombrack, Mount Pleasant, and Miss Mary Reid, New York City.

Others from a distance present at the funeral were Mrs. George [illegible] of Trenton, father of Mrs. [illegible] brother, Mr. Marcus Hall of Watertown and her sister Mrs. Gilbert Long of Toronto.

New Ointment Quickly Relieves Itching, Burning, Inflammation

No matter what else you have used, just try "Sootha-Salve". This prescription of a famous physician has brought such quick relief to thousands of sufferers that you can count on it soothing the itching and burning, healing the raw surfaces, and completely clearing your skin of torturing Eczema. 50c at all druggists.

It costs you nothing if you do not benefit. After using two boxes of "Sootha-Salve", if you are not satisfied, just return the empty tins to Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont., and we will refund your money.

DAIRYING INDUSTRY IMPORTANT

Dairying is one of the oldest and one of the most important industries of Canada. It owes its modern development to the introduction of the factory system for the making of cheese and butter, to the invention of the centrifugal cream separator, and to the facilities afforded by improved methods of cold storage.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

They talk about a woman's sphere
As though it had a limit
There's not a place in earth or Heaven
There's not a blessing or a woe
There's not a whisper'd yes or no,
There's not a life, or death or birth
That has a feather's weight of worth
Without a woman in it.

Persistent Asthma. A most distressing characteristic of this debilitating disease, is the persistence with which recurring attacks come to sap away strength and leave the sufferer in a state of almost continual exhaustion. No wiser precaution can be taken than that of keeping at hand a supply of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, famous as the most potent remedy for eradicating the disease from the tender air passages.

Katherine Mayo, the distinguished writer, was talking to a group of New York reporters about the campaign of the women of India to abolish the purdah, or shut-in hprem life.

"And here," said Miss Mayo, "I'm reminded of a story about the emir of Afghanistan.

"The emir once visited London, and of course a royal dinner party was given in his honor. Well, when all the guests were seated, the emir looked around at the glittering assemblage of princesses and duchesses and countesses and what-not, and then said to King Edward in a loud voice:

"'I see you do the same here as we do in Afghanistan—keep all the pretty ones shut up.'"

Children suffering from worms soon show the symptoms, and any mother can detect the presence of these parasites by the writhings and fretting of the child. Until expelled and the system cleared of them, the child cannot regain its health. Miller's Worm Powders are prompt and efficient, not only for the eradication of worms, but also as a toner up for children that are run down in consequence.

Representative Perl P. Oldfield, deploring the increase in automobile accidents, said at a dinner in Washington:

"I can sympathize with the woman who was rung up on the telephone in the small hours. Shivering with fright, she put the receiver to her ear.

"'Is that Mrs. Margaret B. Winslow?' said a very grave voice which she did not know.

"'Yes, yes,' she panted.

"'Mrs. Winslow,' said the grave voice, 'I regret to have to inform you, —and it seemed to poor Mrs. Winslow that her heart stood still—to inform you that your son, John Evans Winslow, has been arrested for joyriding.'

"'O, thank goodness,' shouted Mrs. Winslow, 'the boy's safe in jail.'"

Its Quality Sells It.—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil speaks volumes for its healing efficiency. Ever since it was first introduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its manifold usefulness in relieving and healing sickness. As a specific for cuts, burns, scalds, and various inflammatory pains its record is beyond approach.

Nowadays when wives torment
Their peaceful hubbies so,
Those harassed men seek to escape.
And to the club they go.

Yet t'was the same in olden times;
When wives did nag and scold,
The cave-man oft resorted to
The use of clubs we're told.

Stop the Cough.—Coughing is caused by irritations in the respiratory passages and is the effort to dislodge obstructions that come from inflamations of the mucous membrane. Treatment with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will allay the inflamation and in consequence the cough will usually stop. Try it and you will be satisfied.

Finnegan runs his hotel on lines of his own. Usually the bells won't work. If you want to attract attention, you have to go out and throw your hat at them.

An English visitor, having at last secured a reply, asked for some water. "There is no caraffe in my room," he said; "no water bottle."

"Well, now," commented Finnegan himself, "I always thought a giraffe was a bird."

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.

Always be a kicker.
It means something in the show.
For the kicker in the chorus
Is the one that gets the dough.

Don't tell 'em, son, you're peaceful,
And not too hard to please,
For it is the wheel that does the squeaking
Is the one that gets the grease.

The art of doing nothing
Is the thing that palls and stales,
But the hardest thing of all to learn
Is the one who drives the nails.

The most obstinate corns fail to resist Holloway's Corn Remover. Try it.

Sir Charles Hingham was given, before sailing home, a farewell banquet.

"Little Rock man," said he, visited his New York cousin the other week. The cousin said he'd take in a swell restaurant that night. The Little Rocker said nervously:

"'George, look here, if guests and waiters both wear full dress evening suits in these swell New York restaurants, how can a stranger like me tell which is which?'

"'O, easily enough,' said George. 'The waiters all keep sober.'"

EXTEND MEDICAL SERVICE IN FAR NORTH

Department of th Interior Will Establish Two More Stations In Artic Canada

Realizing that the future development of Northern Canada depends to a large extent on the health and general well-being of the native population every effort is being put forth by the Department of the Interior to protect the Eskimos of the Far North. When the Department assumed charge of Eskimo affairs in 1927 one of the important steps taken was the decision to increase the number of medical officers among the natives. Two officers were stationed in the Artic during 1928, one at Pangnirtung, Baffin Island, and the other at Aklavik, Mackenzie River delta. This year a third post will be established at Chesterfield Inlet on the western shore of Hudson bay, and a fourth on the Arctic coast at the mouth of the Coppermine River.

Last year Dr. L. D. Livingstone was sent North with the 1928 Canadian Arctic Expedition to the posts in the eastern islands of the Arctic archipelago and made his headquarters at Pangnirtung on Baffin Island. Later Dr. J. A. Urquhart proceeded to the western Arctic and established himself at Aklavik at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. When the 1929 Arctic Expedition left North Sydney, Nova Scotia, on July 20th on board the ss. Beothic, it included a new medical officer to relieve Dr. Livingstone at Pangnirtung. The change will patrol the Beothic to Chesterfield Inlet where the materials and supplies will be landed for the new medical post. It is expected Dr. Livingstone will continue the trip on the Beothic to the home port and will submit his report to the North West Territories and Yukon Branch, at Ottawa. Later, probably in January, 1930, he will set out for Chesterfield Inlet where he will remain as Department Medical Officer for a year or more. Plans for the establishment of the medical officer at the mouth of the Coppermine river are being formulated.

The Department of the Interior through its North West Territories and Yukon Branch in addition to co-operating with the Department of Indian Affairs in maintaining medical officers at different points in the Northwest Territories. These officers who are given the status of Medical Health Officers, are Dr. W. A. Truesdell, Simpson; Dr. C. Bourget, Resolution; and Dr. A. L. McDonald, Fort Smith, all in Mackenzie District.

AN ELEVEN-MILLION DOLLAR DAY

Ottawa, July 15.—Holders of the 110,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat stored in terminal and country elevators throughout the Dominion made something like $11,000,000 today. With all the spectacular features of a wartime market, prices shot up, scoring a net gain of 11 cents per bushel on the day's trading as compared with Saturday. There are 110,000,000 bushels of wheat in storage, as compared with 92,000,000 bushels a year ago. Since June 15, a month ago, prices have advanced 50 cents per bushel for July wheat, representing an increase in value of $55,000,000 to the holders. A year ago July wheat was selling at $1.32½ per bushel. Today it closed at $1.66⅞. The Canadian Wheat Pool was recently severely critized for holding large stocks, their critics saying they had been caught badly, with Argentine wheat coming on the market. Their 50,000,000 bushels has increased in value by $25,000,000 in the last 30 days.

AIR EXPERTS STUDY THE FLIGHT OF BIRDS

Before the advent of the airplane the study of birds was regarded as much the same as a study of postage stamps or the breeding of ferrets—a mere hobby. Now it has become a matter of great importance, for it is believed that there are still secrets of flying to be discovered and that they will be found when the secrets of birds are known. Indeed the bird was the inspirer of the inventors of the airplane, for they reasoned that as the bird was heavier than air it should be possible to fly with a machine that was heavier than air. So far all effort to imitate the wing action of birds has led to nothing, but it may be that the final development of the airplane will take this form. Of course the airplane has far outstripped in speed the flight of the fastest bird, but it is far behind the bird in ease and grace of movement, in ability swiftly to alter a course and in the supreme matter of absolute safety in manoeuvring.

Small Birds Large Wings.

Dr. Austin H. Clark of the Smithsonian Institution suggests that the invention of the airplane might have come earlier had more been known about the flight of birds. At least he says, "The necessity of finding answers to the questions—why do small birds have to have larger wings than big birds, and why do they have to move their larger wings more rapidly? made the development of the flying machine difficult" Not only do small birds have larger wings proportionately than large birds, but insects have wings still larger. In the mosquito it has been calculated that for each pound of bod weight there is a wing area of four square yards, six square feet and 105 square inches. In a butterfly of the average size, each pound of body weight represnts a wing area of three square yards, eight square feet and 87 square inches. In the swallow his is reduced to only four square feet and in the stork—which was perhaps the most useful of all birds for the study of aeronautical engineers—only 122 square inches.

Faster Wing Beats

As the size of the bird increases, the number of wing beats per minute decrease. For example the wings of the humming bird vibrate so rapidly that it is difficult to reriser them. The wing beat of the fly row is 780 per minute, that of the pigeon 480, while the crow's is 120 But there is here some difference in speed, the pigeon flying faster than either the crow or sparrow, although for a short distance a sparrow would appear to fly as fast as the pigeon. The explanation of the different wing spreads according to weight and the carrying number of wing beats per minute is to be found in momentum It is known that if a baseball and a ball of wool are thrown with equal force the baseball will go much faster and farther. So a big bird, once it gets started acquires a momentum because of its weight that it is not possible to a smaller bird or to an insect. The build of the birds is inclined in such a way that it is kept in the air through its momentum on the principle of a kite. The wings, by their motion, serve to maintain the speed, but have really very little lifting to do. The smaller lighter bird does not have this momentum, and lessened momentum prevents it from maintaining its height by inclining its body against the air. If the wing action ceases the body drops almost immediately. But birds like the stork, the gull, the hawk and others have such mastery of the air that they may cease their wing action and glide and float for many miles without appreciable lowering.

The Bird of the Winds.

But the large birds are at another disadvantage with small birds. Their great trouble is in getting started. Most of us perhaps have seen a wild duck or a wild goose rising from a lake. It requires as much of a take-off as an airplane. Because of their ability to get started quickly and to rise almost vertical in a short space, small birds have been able to adapt themselves to all lands and climates. They are found everywhere on the earth's surface. But the large strong-flying birds are confined generally to the sea and the vast open spaces, where they can rise and alight with safety. The most wonderful flier of all birds is undoubtedly the albatross, but Dr. Clark says that it is kept in the air not by any effort of its own but by a combination of strong winds and waves. Thus is it exclusively a bird of the windier region of the oceans. In the dead calm the albatross is a pitiable object. He sits on the water rarely attempting to fly. He is, in fact, an aerial sailing vessel, helpless in a calm.

Why Birds Soar.

The calm belts of the tropics form an impassable barrier for the albatross, and for the same reason he cannot fly any great distance over land. In mountainous regions there are always strong updraughts of air both because of the upward deflection of the winds and the warming action of the sun's rays. It is in these regions, therefore, that the soaring habit is developed in birds. Here one finds the condors, the great eagles and hawks, and this explains also why they seem generally to be hovering and for an hour at a time do not flap their wings. They are really being carried up and along by rising currents of air.

Birds soar in circles, not because they can thus more easily spy out the ground beneath them for game but because only by so doing can they keep within the ascending column of air. It is when the fall outside this circle that they will be seen beating their wings to get back into it. The birds will not do much soaring on cloudy days, but only when the sun is bright and the air warm.

WOODBINE - WESTBROOKE

A gloom was cast over this vicinity on Sunday when the waters of Lake Ontario claimed as its victims Milton and Reginald Storms, only sons of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Storms, formerly of Odessa and Cushendale, but came here to live this spring. Milton and Reggie were just learning to swim and had started on their first adventure when the boat in which they were riding overturned. Frankie Leonard and a boy named Watts were with them at the time but were able to swim after bringing Reggie to the surface and able to put him in a boat but it was much more difficult to rescue Milton, the elder of the two. The pulmotor from Kingston was brought into play but of no avail. Dr. Bennett and Dr. Gardiner of Kingston pronounced life extinct. The two unfortunate boys were just past their birthdays, Milton having been sixteen years in April and Reggie fifteen in July; always of bright and cheerful manner and beloved by all who knew good clean boys with what seemed a bright future before them were cut off on the threshold of manhood. Mr. Percy Storms, father of the boys, was the eldest son of Mr. Albert N. Storms, of Odessa. Mrs. Storms was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snider, Violet. The boys are survived by, their loving and sorrowful parents and grandparents also two sisters, Wilma and Irene and a number of other relatives and a host of friends, who can never forget them. The funeral was held on Tuesday, July 16th from their residence, Collins' Bay, to Violet Cemetery, where interment was made. Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper of Cataraqui preached a very impressive sermon. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, showing the esteem in which the boys were held by their many friends. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the sorrowing loved ones in this their hour of trouble.—The funeral was largely attended. The pall bearers were: Joe Potter, Ray Bustard, Willie Leonard, Chester Coulter, Willie Sager and Eber Sager—Mrs. Thos Ponting and family spent some time with Mrs. W. Dalby.—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Walters and baby Gay have returned home to Windsor, after spending some time with Mr. Wm. Shillington, also Miss Verna Shillington.—Franklin and Cecil of Los Angles, Cal., are home for the summer with Mr. and Mrs. William Shillington.—Miss Stella Payne has taken a position in Kingston.—Mrs. P. R. Caird and baby Bobby have returned from a short visit to Batterson.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Convery and Mrs. Stokes was visiting at Mr. W. Dalby's one Sunday recently.—On Sunday last Mrs. Peter Morley and sons, Elwood and Arnold and Miss Alfreda Morley, R.N., and Dr. Moore of the States motored to the Sand Banks.—Mr. and Mrs Fred. Gillies visited with Mr. D. Robbins over the week-end.—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bell, Strathcona, visited at Mr. H. Lockwood's.—Mrs. Jessie Morley visited at Frank Morley's this week.—Mrs. Herb. Burnett and Mable, Mrs. Arthur Burnett and Elinor, and A. Lockwood and son Clarence visited at Mr. H. Lockwood's and also at Mrs. Roy Johnson's.

VIOLET W. I. TEA

Mrs. Rae Brown, Palace Road, opened her hospitable home for the first of a series of teas for Violet W. I. under the "Blues" leadership. Bridge and touring were enjoyed by the guests. At the tea hour the hostess' mother, Mrs. J. E. McCormick, presided at the dainty decked tea table with its huge bowl of gorgeous nasturtiums, assisted by some of the younger girls. As this was the first tea of the series the results were certainly gratifying and all present voted Mrs. Brown a charming hostess. Mrs. Arnold T. Empey, captain of the "Blues" for Violet, entertained Wednesday afternoon July 17th to a very charming afternoon tea and card party. At the tea hour the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. Moore served a very dainty lunch, the tea table with tall candles in silver sticks and silver basket of nasturtiums was certainly very attractive. Several guests from a distance were present and the afternoon certainly was a very happy and profitable one for the "Blues."

PRESTON Ventilation Prevents Spontaneous Combustion

To our knowledge, not a single Preston Ventilated Barn has ever been burned because of spontaneous combustion. Warm, moist air in an improperly ventilated barn produces conditions conducive to spontaneous ignition. Preston Ventilators for the roof, adjustable side-wall windows and spacious doors protect the barn from fire dangers by keeping the air in constant circulation. They are built to keep the elements out. Write for full particulars.

PRESTON STEEL-TRUSS BARNS

A stronger, barn built with rugged Steel Trusses. Every angle of the structure is braced against wind-pressure. The framework is compact, doing away with cumbersome cross-beams. Well-ventilated and well-lighted, the easiest barn to work in. We use your timber.

Barn Door Tracks and Hanger

Preston hot-galvanized floor wheel Hangers and Barn Door Track are the best barn door goods for the money. The Hanger is adjustable up and down, and in and out. This makes erection so easy that hundreds of builders will use no other type.

Over 1000 Ontario farmers have erected all makes and sizes of the Preston Steel-Truss barn. Their satisfaction is our strongest argument. Get the facts about this better barn. Write today for our big book, "About Barns".

Napanee Aquatic Club Regatta

The first of a series of regattas was held on the waterfront last Wednesday evening and one had only to be there to be convinced of the popularity of this kind of sport. The club has just recently been formed and did remarkably well. Crowds lined up all along the water; on the boathouses, in trees and every place possible. It was very unfortunate that there were no ladies' or men's swimming races but the remaining events were keenly contested and delighted the hundreds of onlookers. Ten events were listed and entries were received for eight.

Winners in Events

Oldest member rowing punt—won by a Napanee veteran skipper, Mr. B. Mills.

Boys' swimming race—won by Harold Savage, Napanee.

Girls' swimming race—won by Laura Morgan, Panama.

Duck race—D. Miller.

Long dive—H. Savage.

Canoe doubles—D. Miller and W. Markle.

Greasy pole—no winner.

The Napanee Band provided music for the occasion and the announcer of events was Mr. Joe Marshall.

The club is putting on another evening's sport tonight with many other new stunts and events including, high and fancy diving, tilting, tub and crab races, etc. Entries may be left at the Beaver Office or with the Sec. Treas., Mr. H. Steacy.

ERNESTTOWN WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

The Ernesttown Women's Institute held their regular meeting on July 11th with a fairly good attendance

Our president extended a warm welcome to our visitors from Bay View and Bath. After singing the Ode, the Lord's prayer was said, followed by the Roll Call, "A place I have visited." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Reports of various committees given. A letter of appreciation for gift of First Aid Kit to School was read from Miss E. Glenn.

Our program was qiite a long one. First "demonstration of putting up a school lunch," by Mr. W. Kellar. Mrs. Kellar emphasized the necessity of good clean, wholesome food for the children. A lard pail with holes in the lid being the best thing to pack the lunch in. Next came a delightful talk on "Paris," by Miss L. Fear. This proved most interesting and amusing. Then "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," was sweetly sung by Mrs. Bert Smith. Last but not least was a splendid paper on "The Religion of the Pioneers of Ernesttown," given by Miss M. Fairfield. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. W. Kellar, Miss McTear, Mrs. Bert Smith and Miss M. Fairfield.

The National Anthem was sung next, a dainty lunch served by the hostess and a very pleasant afternoon brought to a close. A basket picnic will be held in August instead of our regular meeting.

Watch your growing children!

WATCH the health of your growing children! See that they have the health and energy necessary for their school work and play. For growing children—particularly girls—a rich supply of red blood is essential. Languor, nervousness, depression, fickle appetite or pallor indicate anaemia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood, prevent anaemia and build healthy bone and tissues. Thousands of mothers have proved this.

"My twelve-year-old girl," writes Mrs. Robert Devitt of Brougham, Ontario, "became so pale, so ill and nervous that we had to take her out of school. I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and she gained in weight and strength. She is now the picture of health."

ROCKEFELLER AT 90 FINDS ZEST IN LIFE

There are, perhaps, half a dozen men on this continent whose recurring birthdays have become as it were public institutions. Newspaper reporters wait upon them, offer congratulations and in return are regaled with a few words of wisdom which they dutifully broadcast. John D. Rockefeller, who was 90 years old yesterday, is the most illustrious of this band. He is the oldest, the richest, and never fails to say something that newspaper editors think well worth publishing. This year he asked to be excused from receiving the large crowd of correspondents which generally assembles to greet him. He said that he would receive one journalist and one photographer. Mr. Rockefeller is apparently thinking more of his health than of publicity. For the past 30 years he has been as careful in guarding this treasure as he was in piling up his millions. Even at 90 Mr. Rockefeller finds life well worth living. He is enjoying himself. But he is thrifty of his health, as he was thrifty of his savings.

Rockefeller's Day.

He rises betimes, has his breakfast at a set moment, has the papers read to him and discusses matters with his secretary. He plays nine rounds of golf, generally on his private links. Then he has lunch, after which he plays a special kind of solitaire something like "Canfield." He has a nap and then takes an automobile ride through his estate and along public roads. On these trips he is likely to stop and pick up anybody walking in his direction. To him he will chat in a democratic manner and as he sets his guest down will present him with either a shiny new nickel or a new dime. If he has not felt particularly edified by the conversation the presentation of the nickel will be a gentle hint. If he has been uplifted and has heard something bright or interesting he will contribute a dime. It has been estimated that his passion for distributing these coins costs him not less than $1,750 a year. On rising he fills one pocket with the nickels and another with the dimes. He gets them from a bank before they have been in general circulation.

The Distribution of Coins.

Of late years Mr. Rockefeller has been associated more with the gratuitous circulation of these small coins than with any other public activity. Generally when he hands over the coin he says: "This is for the savings account" but not invariably. Just why he has indulged in this curious passion is hard to determine, but Mr. P. W. Wilson who writes intimately of Mr. Rockefeller in the New York Times magazine, believes it is a form of humor. Mr. Rockefeller thinks it perfectly killing that a man who personifies in the eyes of the world hundreds of millions of dollars should distribute nickels and dimes instead of hundred dollar bills. The idea that he is trying to encourage savings is ridiculous for Mr. Rockefeller knows that all the coins he thus distributes become souvenirs, and are more likely to be seen in glass cases than in savings accounts. We are informed that Mr. Rockefeller has a keen sense of humor and that he greatly enjoys the conversation of those who have the art of telling good stories. He tells stories himself, but none of them of a character to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of the most sensitive holder of Standard Oil Stock. Indeed Mr. Rockefeller is a pious man a daily reader of the Bible, a conductor of family prayers.

A Fierce Man.

It is true that the methods by which he built up Standard Oil were sometimes disreputable. There was a time which many of us can remember when his name stood for all that was odious and selfish in business methods. But in those days Mr. Rockefeller was not less conscious of being a religious man than he is today. He believed that he was doing right. Perhaps he saw himself merely as an economic force. He did not fail in generous contribution to worthy causes. In fairness to Mr. Rockefeller it ought to be said that it was not as the instrument of irresistible his church attendance, nor in his only after he had amassed his huge fortune that he began to give money away. He was always a giver, though not on the colossal scale that later attracted the attention of the whole world. But he always lived up to the principles that were instilled into him by his mother. To give a percentage of his profits to the Lord was more than a principle with him. It became a superstition. If he failed in it he would expect business reverses.

Training a Son.

For the past thirty years or so he has not been active in business, though it is a mistake to suppose that he does not take any interest in the stock market. But speaking generally he has abdicated in favor of his son. Mr. Rockefeller Jr. has testified that in all his life he never heard his father use an angry word. When as a young man he was placed in the Standard offices on Broadway he was given no orders or hints. He was obliged to make decisions and learned that however costly they were they were always honored. This taught him caution, for his father gave him plainly to understand that he expected him to take the wheel and steer his course independent of backseat driving. It is estimated that at its peak the Rockefeller fortune was about $1,000,000,000. Of this amount Mr. Rockefeller has already given away in various philantropical endowments $750,000,000, but it would be rash to suppose that he has only $250,000,000 left. He rarely attends any of the board meetings which dispose of his millions and for years never so much as set eyes on the Rockefeller Foundation building in New York. He lives in another world, made up of golf, cards, hymns, prayers, the distribution of nickels and dimes and motor drives. Once being complimented upon the appearance of his motor car, he said that he would have been satisfied with a less handsome one, but it had been given to him by his son, who was a dutiful lad.

THE ORIGIN OF THE "SWASTIKA"

The swastika or svastika is symbol of unknown origin and was early introduced into India, apparently in connection with sun-worship. It is thought to have represented the flame of sacred fire, the sun in rotation or a flash of lightning. It appears either as a cross in a circle or a cross with the arms bent at right angles. The latter symbol is found in heraldic and ecclesiastical work in Christian countries and is known there as the tyfod. Mediaeval mystic writers derived it from the Greek letter gamma which they thought suggestive of Christ as the corner stone. It is, however, remarkably widespread and is seen on objects exhumed from Troy by Dr. Schliemann and in early Indian and Chinese art. It is also found on rock carvings in Sweden and Celtic stones in Britain and in Mexico and Peru. It means benediction, health good omen and nowadays is generally a symbol of friendship.

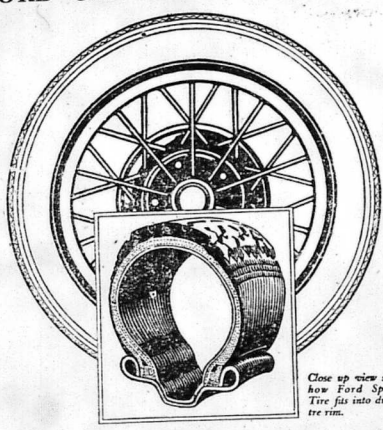
THE FORD CAR STEEL SPOKE WHEELS



Close up view showing how Ford Specified Tire fits into drop centre rim.

Greater Strength and Durability

THE Ford Steel Spoke (Drop Centre) wheel is an advanced step in engineering and the result of exhaustive experimental tests. It is smart in appearance, extra strong, having a lasting finish, easy to clean and provides a simple method for mounting and demounting the tire without tools and in a fraction of the time previously required.

The steel rods or spokes, ¼" in diameter, are electrically welded to rim and hub shell. The finish is enamel baked on steel. Possessing great resiliency and being one solid piece, these wheels have a sturdiness not approached by any other type.

The Ford wheel eliminates loose, squeaking spokes and rims, pinched tubes, chipped or peeling finish, necessity of tire flap, misalignment of tires due to carelessly mounted rims, and a host of other wheel and tire ills formerly encountered. It permits of easy steering and no drumming sound is created by the wind.

There is an enormous amount of careful work necessary to build strength and service into the Ford Steel Spoke wheel, and the results justify the engineering study and skill devoted to this feature of the Ford car.

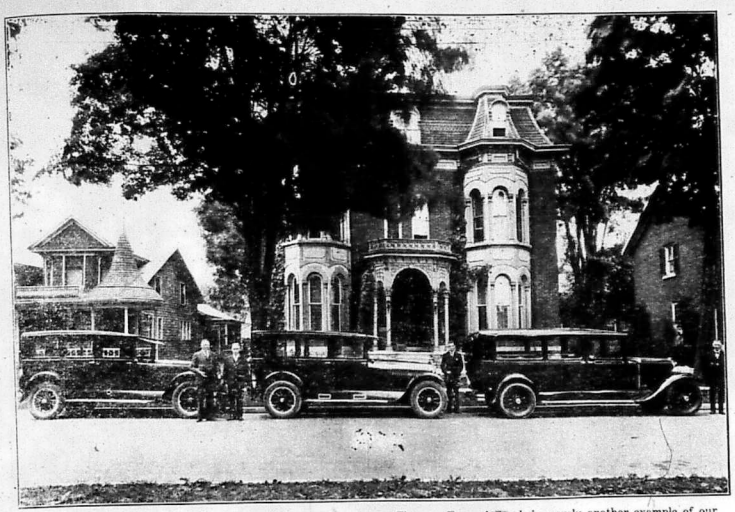
Beautiful New Funeral Coach in Napanee



For a quarter of a century the firm of Martin & Son have been instrumental in introducing the newest and finest in funeral equipment.

We are proud to show above a view of one portion of our fleet of motor cars, including two Hudson 7-passenger Sedans, and our newest addition, the beautiful Studebaker Straight Eight Funeral Coach.

This is only one of our recent innovations. Five years ago we installed the only motor ambulance in this district, and two years later were the first local firm to own and operate the newest type of lowering device and green grass grave linings and covering.

The new Funeral Coach is merely another example of our constant effort to keep our equipment abreast of the times.

Our superior equipment enables us to give, as we have always given in the past, the finest type of unobtrusive, dignified and efficient service.

In the very near future our motor ambulance, although in every way serviceable, will be superceded by a newer and more efficient type of motor known as the Invalid Coach, which will enable us to transport, with the greatest degree of comfort, not only the patient, but, if necessary, the doctor and nurse.

Martin & Son have always been leaders in their profession, and with the years' experience this old firm will continue their efforts to merit the confidence placed in them.

Save The Children

In The Summer When Childhood Ailments are Most Dangerous

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little one are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The DR. RESTOCKING OF CANADA'S LAKES AND RIVERS

Important Work of Fish Cultural Service, Department of Marine and Fisheries

Canada's sea and inland fisheries are among the most extensive and valuable in the world. The natural reproduction of sea fisheries is not, up to the present, showing the need for artificial assistance, probably because the spawning grounds and sea pasturages of the oceans are so extensive that the annual reproduction keeps pace with the toll taken by the commercial fishermen. Natural reproduction has not, however, been found sufficient to maintain the fishing in our lakes and rivers on account of intensive operations, and to account of intensive operations and to counteract this situation the Department of Marine and Fisheries, through its Fish Culture Service, operates a number of fish hatcheries located at strategic points across Canada from Atlantic to the Pacific. From these establishments annual distributions of fish eggs, fry, and fingerlings are made with a view to assisting nature in maintaining the productiveness of the inland waters.

During the fiscal year 1927, the Dominion Fish Cultural Service operated 24 main fish hatcheries 7 subsidiary hatcheries, and four salmon retaining ponds. These were maintained in all the provinces in which the Dominion Government administers the fisheries, namely, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia. Ontario and Quebec administer their fisheries and operate their own fish cultural services. The 1927 distribution from the Federal hatcheries reached a total of 226,283,782 fry, advanced fry, and fingerlings. This distribution included the more valuable food and game fishes, such as Atlantic salmon, rainbow trout, cut-throat trout, steelhead salmon, Kamloops trout, Loch Leveen trout, brown trout, sockeye salmon, spring salmon, whitefish, speckled trout, and pickerel. The largest distribution were of whitefish, sockeye salmon, Atlantic salmon, and pickerel in the order named.

In addition to the distributions that were made from the hatcheries, thirty-five lakes and streams received allotments of fry and older fish from other bodies of water. This work was largely confined to the Prairie Provinces, where many districts are not readily accessible to existing hatcheries and involved the capture and transfer, in many instances for considerable distances of 35,961 fish, comprising six different species.

The propagation of the commercial food fishes has always been given first attention by the Fish Cultural Service but in recent years the demands for the stocking and restocking of lakes and streams with game fish has been steadily growing so that now the hatching of trout and other game fish forms an important part of the work. At the St. John, New Brunswick, hatchery, where progress is being made in the development of a brood stock of trout, nearly two and three-quarter million trout eggs were produced in 1927. The growing value of a well-stocked angling stream may be gauged by a comparison of the rentals which were obtained in 1922 and 1927 for the angling privileges on certain portions of the Restigouche river and its tributaries. The angling in seventeen stretches of the river which was disposed of by auction at Fredericton, New Brunswick, in 1922 brought annual rentals amounting to $16,815. In 1927 the angling in same waters brought the record figure of $75,500 per year for the following five years.

PARKS ATTRACT TOURISTS

Under the policy of development and publicity carried out by the Dominion Government the national parks are not only rendering a wider service each year to Canadians themselves, but they are adding to the knowledge of Canada abroad and attracting to the Dominion thousands of visitors from other countries in every part of the globe.

Nowadays says a lady writer, it is sometimes difficult to tell a mother and her daughter apart because they both look so young. Except, of course, that the former tries harder.

ADVANCE OF COMBINED RADIO IDUSTRIES

There is to be a new industrial giant in Canada, in one of the youngest of the industries, declares Mr. D. B. Wilson, son of Napanee who has just returned from Toronto.

Mr. Wilson was in attendance at the fourth annual convention of the Rogers and Majestic radio dealers held at the Royal York Hotel for two days. The interesting announcement was made to the delegates of a larger organization, now in process of formation, of a group of interests responsible for a big share of the radio business of the Dominion.

In this group would be the Standard Radio Mfg. Corporation, Ltd., manufactures of Rogers batteryless radio and Majestic electric radio; Rogers Tubes Ltd., manufactures of the famous Rogers guaranteed A. C. tube; the radio division of the Q. R. S. Canadian Corporation Ltd., distributors of Rogers and Majestic radios.

This transaction means, in effect, the enlargement of the Standard Radio Mfg. Corporation Ltd., through acquisition of the companies mentioned and an increase in capitalization. It is this company which in 1925 introduced to the world the first successful batteryless radio and who for the past five years have shown rapid expansion in the manufacture and marketing of the Rogers batteryless radio. The success of the Standard Radio Mfg. Corporation Ltd., since its inception five years ago is recognized as one of the outstanding commercial achievements in the industrial history of Canada.

The pre-eminent position occupied by the company is in a large measure due to the sound business policies established by the president, A. S. Rogers and also to the engineering skill and creative ability of E. S. (familiarly known as "Ted," Rogers, who has been responsible for the technical design of the Rogers batteryless receivers and the development of the A. C. radio tube, the basis of electric radio as it is in practical use today. Painstakingly he developed, through a series of experiments extending over many years of research, the heater type of cathode radio tubes.

The greater organization will be under the same executive control which has so successfully guided the destiny of the company for the past five years with the addition of B. A. Trestrail who will direct its sales and merchandising politics.

The oldest of the affected companies is the Q. R. S. Canadian Corporation Ltd., which has been engaged in the distribution of merchandise in Canada for fifteen years contracting the music, phonograph, radio, electrical, general stores and other types of retail stores and other types of retail merchants.

During the past five years since embarking in the radio end, the company has made a phenomenal business record. It has doubled its business every year during that period. The leading factors in the Q. R. S. Canadian Corporation Ltd. are F. A. Trestrial, president and B. A. Trestrail, vice-president.

Majestic radio distribution in Canada has enjoyed tremendous expansion in the short period of one year. Back of the Majestic radio is the Grigsby-Grunow Co., of Chicago, which has grown to be one of the largest institutions on the entire continent. Nine huge plants in Chicago are occupied and the daily capacity has been brought up to the tremendous figure of 4,500 complete receiving sets.

The Grigsby-Grunow Co., will cooperate with the enlarged organization in the manufacture and marketing of the Majestic electric radios in Canada.

The operations of the enlarged company will be carried on in the new and modern plant located on Fleet street, Toronto, and just completed by the Standard Radio Mfg. Corporation Ltd.

Hundreds of radio merchants were in attendance at the meetings and a very enthusiastic reception was accorded the new models of Rogers and Majestic radio receiving sets for the 1929-1930 season.

Aside from the business of the convention a programme of entertainment had been arranged for the dealers including a dinner dance and entertainment that filled the huge concert hall of the Royal York Hotel to capacity; a golf tournament and a baseball game for the men; a boat ride and tour of Toronto for the ladies and two mid-day luncheons.

On the closing evening of the convention the public of Toronto was invited to view the display of Rogers and Majestic new models, including the exquisite combination radio-phonographs, the highboys, the lowboys and the Rogers table model. D. B. Wilson, Hardware represents these lines in Napanee.

A visitor to the small town was chatting with the small-town editor. "Do tell me," he said, "why did you ever call your paper The Pleasantville Blame? Why the Blame?"

"Because," said the editor with a sigh, "Nobody seems willing to take it."

NAPANEE BOAT SINKS

The 28-foot cabin cruiser purchased and remodelled by Messrs. E. Black and C. B. Price of Kitchener was wrecked at Point Breeze about 30 miles west of Rochester, Thursday, July 25th. The cruiser left Napanee one week previous bound for Hamilton via Oshawa, Oswego, Rochester and other points on the south shore of Lake Ontario. As the cruiser was entering the harbor at Point Breeze, the current carried the boat over a sunken pier, where a spike ripped a hole about eight feet long in the bottom. The boat sank in less than five minutes, the crew and passengers reaching shore safely in a life-boat which was towed by the cruiser. Attempts were made to repair and float the cruiser but the waves produced by a rising wind from the north frustrated all attempts and the cruiser was dashed to pieces on the rocks during the night. Most of the clothing and personal belongings of the party were rescued.

AYLESWORTH RE-UNION

On the north shore of the Bay of Quinte, where Bath was built after-ward, a first party of "U. E. Loyalists" landed in 1784. Among them was a little girl in her fourth year. Her name was Hannah Perry. In after years she often told her children of her distinct remembrance of that landing, the circumstances of which made a lasting impression upon the child's inexperienced mind.

When she was sixteen years of age she was married to Bowen Aylesworth, a sturdy youth nineteen years of age. The record of this marriage is to be seen in the Parish resigter of the Church (Bath;) said interesting records containing the hand-writing of them both, and of very many of their friends and neighbors of that early day. These treasured records are now in the keeping of the authorities of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston.

Bowen and Hannah—without any wedding trip, or much of anything else—settled in the woods on Lot 10, Concession B, Ernestown. Here they chopped and cleared and tilled the said farm lot, which has remained in the possession of their descendants, and is now the home of his grandson's grandson.

Both Hannah and her husband had several brothers and sisters, the majority of whom reached maturity and, in obedience to the Scriptures, increased and multiplied, and replenished the earth. Bowen and Hannah likewise raised nine sons and four daughters, and every one of the thirteen lived to become a grandparent. The father was the first among them to be gathered to his fathers.

In memory of all these people, who were all are elsewhere, their children, scattered far and wide, have undertaken to hold an Aylesworth Family Re-union at Bath, on the 10th day of August, to which it is hoped that every one of the relatives that can will come. Every proved possible to send out personal invitations. Dinner will be provided for hundreds; and if there come, they needn't go hungry. Good speakers have promised to attend; a happy day is expected.

There are many family anecdotes and traditions that ought not to be forgotten for want of a scribe. Perhaps I'll get my growth, I'll write some of them for print—if I find myself with the time, enough paper, and a fountain pen, and a good disposition to work.

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me a very few lines in the Napanee Beaver to reply to a "Beaver Reader," and in defence of the Napanee Humane Society.

Just as soon as the condition of handling and shipping of baby calves was brought to my notice I took immediate steps to remedy the evil and I trust in a very short time there will be a marked improvement in the shipping and handling of young calves.

Railway Shop Workers Give Long Service

Nine men shown in the illustration above have a total service of 391 years spent at the Motive Power shop of the Canadian National Railways at Point St. Charles, Montreal. This gives an average of over 43 years for each man, but the senior has the amazing record of 61 years, while the junior is a mere youth with 27 years behind him. The group was photographed outside the door of the old shop, now closed, through which they all made their daily entrances and exits. The shops are older than the men, dating back to 1857, a period of 72 years. This shop has now given way to a modern structure capable of dealing efficiently with the heaviest type of motive power, absolutely the last word in machine shop equipment in the Dominion.

In the standing group from left to right the men are: J. Twigg, 43 years service; A. Lanther, 44 years; Sandy Welch, 43 years; Thomas A. Bates, 50 years; J. C. Marchand, 27 years; D. A. Rollo, 30 years; Frank O'Reilly, 48 years. In the insert left, standing beside one of a set of drivers, is W. H. Sargeant, locomotive inspector, who has been 63 years in the service, and continues active and alert. At the right, in the doorway, is W. H. Surgeon, erecting shop foreman, with 44 years service. The O'Reillys, of which Frank shown at the extreme right is a sturdy representative, have had three generations in the company's service with a total of 108 years. Of the Surgeons, grandfather, father and son have been in the shops, and in the case of Mr. Rollo his father came from Scotland to work on the construction of Victoria Bridge and afterwards entered the service. Throughout the shops at Montreal, and elsewhere, there will be found numbers of men who have spent thirty, forty and even fifty years in the service of the Canadian National Railways and its forerunners.

RUSSIA AND CHINA FIGHT OVER RAILROAD

Perhaps as much through a distrust of Russia as a consideration of the facts which so far have come to light the rest of the world will be inclined to believe that China is in the right in the Manchurian dispute. The Chinese position is that when the agreement was made with Russia five years ago as to the management of the Chinese Eastern railway Russia pledged herself to refrain from propaganda in Chinese territory. Subsequently evidence came to light that Russia had violated this pledge, thus vitiating the agreement. Therefore China deposed the Russian officials and took control of the system. The Russians on the other hand say that China has seized their property with no more legal authority than is cited when Chinese bandits seize foreigners and hold them for ransom. Who owns the railway? That is in dispute and the trouble will not be ended until ownership is vested in one nation or the other. Or, perhaps we should say that it will not be over until China owns it.

Origin of Railroad.

But if the question is: Who found the money to build the railroad? the answer is more favorable to Russia. The railroad itself is the product of the war between China and Japan in 1894, at the conclusion of which China had to pay Japan a large indemnity. But China feared that Japan would shortly come back with territorial demands which indeed she had presented after the war and which she was induced to abandon only as the result of outside pressure. So China was in a mood to protect herself against future troubles by a kind of alliance with Russia. China granted Russia the right to build a railroad through Manchuria, beginning in Siberia and ending in Vladivostok. It was understood, though it did not appear in the formal documents, that in exchange for this Russia would protect China from future Japanese attacks. More than the right to build the road was ceded. China gave the right of way to Russia and also gave to Russia ownership of and control over any cities that might in future grow up around the railroad.

Japan Goes to War

For all practical purposes the railroad and its towns and cities and necessary expansion were to be Russian territory. At the end of 80 years the road was to be handed back to China without cost but it was provided that at the end of 36 years China might buy the road by paying for all the capital invested, plus interest charges. One of the developments of the railroad was a branch line run through Manchuria to Port Arthur. This brought Russia almost within the Japanese sphere of influence and was one of the chief causes of the Russo-Japanese war. At the end of the struggle Japan took possession of this branch line, and one of its first steps was to change the gauge of the rails so that in case another war broke out Russia could not use the part of the system entering the Japanese zone of influence. But up to the beginning of the World War Russia remained in control of the main part of the railroad, despite the fact that Chinese restlessness under the old agreement was visibly increasing. When the revolution broke out China thought she saw an opportunity of getting hold of a line which was built through Chinese territory and which was growing more and more important not only commercially but politically with the growth of cities along the right of way.

Deal With Soviets.

But the new Russian government was not disposed to be shorn of the railway. It was, nevertheless, willing to make a new agreement with China This agreement was much more favorable to China than the old one and was hailed at the time as showing the sincerity of the professions of the Soviet government to live at peace with its neighbors. It recognized the railway as purely a commercial undertaking and resigned to China all control over the towns through which it passed. It was agreed that Chinese and Russians should have equal opportunities of employment and that China should be fairly represented among the directors. Certainly China could have made no such bargain with Czarist Russia but on the other hand, Czarist Russia would not have sought to use the railroad for propaganda purposes.

China's Growing Independence.

Perhaps it can be admitted that China took rather a high hand. If so it can be asserted that it is time that China did take a high hand. China is changing. She is tired of foreign interference in her affairs and its must be admitted that foreign interference is very much a thing of the past. Old treaties may be still in existence which were forced upon China in her days of weakness but they are not in operation. The extra-territorial treaties are not being enforced. China is not so much awakening as she is uniting, here is a central government in Nanking, which if it controls only a fraction of China is daily extending its authority. China has now under arms more men than any other nation in the world. She has by far the largest reservoir from which soldiers can be drawn. She has the benefit in recent years of two extraordinarily capacious foreign ministers, Dr. C. C. Wu and C. T. Wang. China, united, would be incomparable, and however formidable Russia may be in Europe she would have to transport her armies 3,000 miles to be effective in China. And if they became too effective in China they might well stir up Japan. Whatever may be China's position from the point of view of international law, it is strong military and diplomatically.

BIRDS ARE POPULAR.

United States Imported 500,000 Foreign Birds in 1928.

During 1928, 500,000 foreign birds were imported into the United States. Canaries constituted the largest number of these immigrants, averaging more than 1,000 a day. Nearly twothirds of all game birds imported have been Mexican quail. Next to these stand pheasants. These were formerly a large item in the entries, but state game farms and private enterprises now supply most of the stock and importations have fallen off considerably in recent years.

About one-third of all the known species of parrots have been brought in at various times for exhibition purposes, and, like canaries, the numbers have increased considerably since the great war. Very few parrots breed in captivity in the United States. Cage birds still come from Mexico, but in reduced numbers, because the Mexican Government now requires export permits for cardinals, mocking birds and certain other species, and authority for possession must be obtained from the state to which they are consigned.

KOREAN AND HIS OX.

Plough Fields, Haul Heavy Loads and Turns Mill.

The Korean people are most industrious workers of the soil, and from time immemorial oxen have borne the brunt of the battle. Methods of cultivation preclude the use of mechanical devices and, as the native horse is too small for farm labor, the farmer's main beast of burden is his ox or cow. These animals plough his fields, haul his heavy loads and turn his mill.

The last service which Korean cattle render their masters is to be slaughtered for food or for hides. Since the expulsion of Buddhism by the Yi dynasty in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, the people have been accustomed to the use of meat as an article of diet, particularly on all ceremonial occasions. As most of the farmers live in small isolated communities, the cattle market becomes his "social centre," combining his club, newspaper and debating society.

Aladdin Coming True.

Televox, the Robot which leaped into fame as the mechanical man turning on the taps at Washington reservoirs when told to do so by word of mouth, has gone a step farther.

He now turns on the flood lights at the air-port of Newark in the United States when its mechanical eardrums are set vibrating by the sound of a siren from an approaching airplane.

The interior mechanism of Televox is stirred by the sounds at a distance of a thousand yards. Soon it will be able to hear the approaching airplane's siren a mile away, and some day the mere beating of the airplane's winged engines will turn the lights on.

Women's Work.

Mrs. Jiggins, who was reading a newspaper, observed to her husband that it contained an article entitled, "Women's Work for the Feeble-Minded."

Mr. Jiggins, who was in a reactionary mood, said: "I have been thought know what women have ever done for the feeble-minded."

"They usually marry them, my dear," replied Mrs. Jiggins sweetly.

A WORLD WITHOUT TEETH?

Prehistoric Man Never Troubled With Toothache.

Most of us, from our earliest days, are at intervals gravely troubled by our teeth. It was not always so.

The jawbone of the Heidelberg man, who walked this earth about 500,000 years ago, is placed alongside that of modern man. We realize that our unterkiefers, as the Germans call them, are but as toys when compared with those of our earliest ancestors.

The jawbones of still more ancient people than the Heidelberg race were even more formidable, as they were provided with projecting canine teeth, which, without much doubt, were used in fighting and in other manly sports of those days.

Our wisdom teeth are in process of going out of business, which is a very important and significant fact.

In ancient man we find no signs of this atrophy of his rearmost molars, which were evidently in full use as such, and, we may imagine, gave him no more trouble than any other of the members of his dental array, writes J. Reid Moir, the East Anglian archaeologist, in the London Mail.

It is, however, difficult to believe that the widespread degeneration present in the teeth of civilized peoples has been set going solely by an unsuitable diet, and there may be some much deeper cause at work.

In Roman times decayed teeth were common — at any rate in the jawbones of the skeletons unearthed in a cemetery of this date examined by me at Ipswich. There is reason to believe that these human bones belonged to poor people of the period, who would be unlikely to eat prepared and dainty food. Yet their teeth were extensively decayed.

Is it possible that what we are witnessing is a slow disappearance and extinction of human teeth which will result, in the course of sufficient time, in men being born edentulous?

At first sight this seems a preposterous and absurd notion, and one which unfolds what appears to us to be a truly terrifying picture. But it is well to remember that even greater changes than this have taken place in animals in the remote past, and especially to recognize that in the far distant Eocene Period birds possessed teeth. And we cannot well imagine a bird of to-day with its beak armed with teeth.

Will the time ever come when the idea of a human being possessed of teeth will appear to the people then living equally out of place?

POOR MAN'S PIANO.

Never Has the Accordion Enjoyed Such Prestige as To-day.

This year, 1929, marks the anniversary of the accordion. It is doubtful if even in its native Vienna, where the humble accordion first was devised by an instrument-maker named Demain in 1829, the anniversary will attract as much attention as has been given to it in France. Nowhere else in the world has the instrument so well retained its popularity.

One interesting discovery has been made in connection with the centenary. Never in all its 100 years has accordion enjoyed such prestige with the "elite," the sophisticated, the wealthy, as it does to-day. Jazz music is responsible. The saxaphone was not melancholy enough. The accordion was substituted. It is the instrument of the street, of the soloist, of the waltzes that are scorned as the ashes of the past on Montmartre, but still are flushed and gay with the breath of life in the corner bistro where neighbors gather after nightfall; of the villages of the provinces, and of the resorts where "at twilight the nostalgic spirits of sailors beneath foreign skies become drunk with its caressing music and the simple music which brings back to them their faraway native land."

MONORAIL FOR PARIS.

Rapid Transit Service Between Capital and Suburbs.

Within a few months construction will begin on a new rapid transit system between Paris and its principal suburbs. It will be in the form of an elevated railway using cars that suggest airplanes rather than ordinary railway coaches.

The cars, weighing seven tons, with a capacity for 60 passengers, will not run on rails; they will be suspended from an aerial line and will be built according to the latest principles of aerodynamics. A 40-horsepower electric engine will run a propellier pulling the train easily at a speed of 180 miles an hour.

The line will be suspended 42 feet above the ground on pylons 450 feet apart. This system is expected to be a great success, thanks to the simplicity of construction and to its speed.

She Rents Her Hats.

Mme. Cecil Sorel, Comtesse de Segur, the noted French actress, reputed to be one of the best dressed women in the world, has been ordered to pay 8,100 francs—about $320.00 as "rent" for 81 hats, which she said she wore as an advertisement for a Paris milliner.

The judge, however, found that Mme. Sorel agreed to pay 100 francs for each hat, and she had 81 hats since November, 1927. Mme. Sorel patronized several milliners, wearing a new hat every day.

Him—"A wonderful night, a lovely girl—what a moment!"

Her—"Goodness! Does that show?"

A "Chamber of Death" test is your guarantee of FLY-TOX efficiency. The FLY-TOX "Chamber of Death" is a small room in which live healthy insects are turned loose. They are strong and lively. As they fly and buzz around inside the "Chamber of Death," FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Less than a teaspoonful is used. Almost at once the buzzing stops. Within five minutes all is still. The insects are dead. This test shows you how quick and positive FLY-TOX works. Just what you need for those pesky flies and mosquitoes that bother you now. FLY-TOX is positively harmless to people. It has a delightful perfume-like fragrance that pervades a room like delicate insence. It is stainless. FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. At the close of his sermon the discouraged minister announced that within a few days he was to start on a mission to the benighted heathen. His alarmed parishioners gathered round immediately.

"But this leaves us all unprepared; what shall we do for a minister?"

"Have no fear," said their pastor dryly. "I am not leaving town."

Dread of Asthma makes countless thousands miserable. Night after night the attacks return and even when brief respite is the mind is still in torment from continual anticipation. Dr. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy changes all this. Relief comes at once, while future attacks are warded off, leaving the afflicted in a state of peace and happiness he once believed he could never enjoy. Inexpensive and sold almost everywhere.

One of the most effective vermifuges on the market is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and mainting it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

Green: "Shall we trot off to the Ross Cafe for coffee?"

Brown: "No, thanks; I have gone off that place. They don't provide teaspoons now."

"Why not?"

"Because they have engaged an orchestra."

"But what's that got to do with teaspoons?"

"Well, I suppose it's because they consider the music so stirring that spoons are not necessary."

Muscular Rheumatism Subdued.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

In a certain newspaper office there was a very clever cartoonist who had a tiff with the owner. Some days later there appeared a biting caricature of the latter and naturally he just about blew up. Calling the artist he bellowed:

"See here! Are you responsible for this?"

"Not at all," was the bland reply. "Your parents are."

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is often used in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not sear the skin or burn the flesh.

"Sedentary work," said the professor, "tends to lessen the endurance. In other words, it tends to unfit the smart student, "the more one sits, the less one can stand."

Radio Operator Has Travel Record

Trained operators in charge of radio-equipped cars in daily service on the Canadian National Railways travelled a total of 8,124,726 miles during 1928, and the most travelled operator during the twelve months was R. K. Anderson, who may well lay claim to a world's record for his performance. Mr. Anderson covered 152,060 miles on duty, a distance which represents the circumnavigation of the globe seven times. This operator is usually on duty on board the International Limited, the fast daily train operating between Montreal and Chicago. Trains on eight runs on the National System carry radio equipped cars, the Canadian National Railways being the first in the world to offer radio as part of the service provided for passengers.

Clothes, Carpets, Lifeboats, Wheels, and Pianos Can Be Made From It.

Have you ever seen paper made? A torrent of greyish wood pulp rushes upon the straining table; the ninety-eight per cent. of water is removed; and the pulp, dried, squeezed, and rolled, comes out as white paper at the magical rate of 500 feet a minute.

Paper is nearly the commonest thing in the world that few of us give it a second thought, says an article in Answers. Yet please remember that it has more uses than any other article made by man, and that new uses are being found for it every day.

We laughed when we heard that Germany was using paper for clothes for workmen during the war, and selling suits at four shillings each. But these garments, some of which were exhibited at the War Museum, then at the Crystal Palace, were very remarkable indeed. They did not look in the least like paper, but appeared to be of cotton. They did not pulp when soaked in water; what is more, they could be washed, and were actually softer and thicker after washing than when they were new.

Rainproofs can be made from paper yarn, also tablecloths, curtains, handkerchiefs, collars, and even carpets. There used to be a joke about the gentleman who wore a "penny paper collar," but the paper collar of to-day looks and wears like linen.

Japanese papers have always been noted for their tough quality, one of the strongest being produced from the fibre of the mulberry-tree. A rear-admiral of the Japanese navy invented a process for making this paper waterproof and airproof, so that it could be used to make collapsible lifeboats. Joining was effected by the use of a special cement.

Sandbags made of this paper were used in great quantities during the war, also bags for flour, cement, and similar materials of a powdery nature. Even air cushions and bladders for footballs were formed of it. For binding books paper has proved even more durable than leather itself.

A company in Yokohama made quantities of paper shirts for the Russian army, and also turned out overcoats made of two layers of this paper, with a thin layer of silk wadding between. Paper clothes have been found most valuable by airmen, as they prevent cold from entering or heat from escaping. Paper is one of the worst conductors of heat.

It must be remembered that we owe the whole of our marvellous artificial silk industry to paper. Joseph Wilson Swann, the Englishman who first made artificial silk by the squirting process, made it out of a pulp of wood and cotton.

Paper can be spun into threads fine enough to make gas mantles, or into hawsers strong enough to moor a ship.

Many solid things can be and are made of paper. Trays, for instance, chairs, tables even things which have to stand great wear and strain, such as wheels for railway coaches. Paper can be made to masquerade as leather, walnut, mahogany, ebony, even as marble. A complete piano frame has been made of paper pulp, and the instrument was found to have an excellent tone.

During the great war the Italian soldiers who held advanced posts high in the Alps kept themselves warm by burning fuel made of paper. It was waste paper pressed into solid rods, then cut into short lengths and packed in bundles that could be carried on muleback, being a good deal lighter than wood fuel.

Gardeners find paper valuable in many ways. Paper caps are used to cover blooms that have been specially cross-fertilized, and paper is used for keeping frost from delicate flowers or fruits. A pineapple grower in Hawaii covers the whole ground between his plants with black paper. This keeps the ground completely clear of weeds, and at the same time collects the sun's heat and makes the plants grow more rapidly than they would have done otherwise.

Canada's Co-operative Sugar Pool

The little village of Plessisville, Que., east of Montreal on the Canadian National Railways in the very heart of the finest maple groves of old Quebec province, has been developed in recent years Canada's first really big maple sugar concentration, the co-operative organization known as "The Maple Sugar Producers of Quebec." Incidentally it represents Canada's latest successful effort in co-operative marketing.

Some years ago the Quebec Department of Agriculture began seriously to give attention to the maple sugar industry by encouraging and aiding the farmers in the production of a high grade maple syrup. Their efforts were largely nullified by the fact that the purchasers of the syrup gave the farmer who produced the best quality syrup no better price than the farmer who produced poor stuff. Then the Quebec Government went one step further and established in a small way a co-operative plant. Today, at Plessisville, this plant is operating full blast 24 hours a day, employing 28 men, taking thousands of gallons of syrup from the farmers, and manufacturing and marketing a high-grade maple sugar and syrup at the rate of two million pounds of maple sugar and 300,000 gallons of maple syrup yearly.

The products are marketed under a special brand and have found a world market, though most of the product is marketed in Canada and in the Eastern States. Thousands of farmers now benefit by the new maple sugar "pool," and the maple sugar industry is at last on a huge commercial scale. Further steps have been taken by the Quebec Government to extend the organization among the farmers. The organization is operated exactly as Canada's wheat pool, the farmers obtaining full benefit of top price.

The pictures show tanks in the factory at Plessisville, and inset a sixty-pound cake of maple sugar packed ready for shipment.

MOUNTAINEERING IN THE SELKIRKS

Famous Rogers Pass Again the Rendezvous—Great Increase in Number of Mountain Climbers

The Alpine Club of Canada has chosen Rogers pass in Glacier national park, British Columbia, as the site for its annual camp for this summer. The region is a memorable one in the annals of Canadian mountaineering for it was here, in 1885, that the first alpine club was organized, with Sir Sandford Fleming as President, Dr. G. M. Grant, the late Principal of Queen's University, Secretary; and Mr. S. Hall Fleming, Treasurer. A graphic account of the incidents is found in Sir Sandford Fleming's book, "England and Canada," published in 1884. The scene of the alpine climber—grassy ledges the alpine flowers and alpine slopes rising to bleak precipices, icy glaciers and snow fields leading up to pure white summits. Here was a new and superb mountain play-ground. A vision of future possibilities took the imaginations of the members of the party, and, seated on a grassy knoll, a draft constitution was adopted and officers elected for the first mountaineering club of Canada.

The organization so enthusiastically begun, however, was not destined to take actual shape for several years. In the meantime the growing fame of the Selkirk mountains had attracted several prominent members of the English and Swiss Alpine Clubs and a little later of the Appalachian Club of the United States. These men, many of them distinguished climbers in other fields, made numerous ascents in the region and expressed their surprise at the lack of interest shown by Canadians themselves in this delightful field for exploration and adventure. However, in the awakening, this neglect has been more than atoned for by subsequent events. Twenty-three years ago, in 1906, the scheme was revived and the "Alpine Club of Canada" definitely organized. Its success was immediate. Beginning with a membership of nearly four score it has continued to grow steadily and now numbers approximately 1,000 members. During this period it has greatly stimulated the interest of Canadians in the splendid sport of mountaineering, has contributed valuable services to the knowledge and opening up of the mountains, and through its popular annual camps, has made it possible for hundreds to participate at slight expense in this healthful recreation. It was natural that the Selkirk mountains, outstanding as they are in opportunities for climbing, should be one of the first regions to attract the club and that the third annual camp should be held in Glacier national park, at the summit of Rogers pass. Now, twenty-one years later, the Club will again revisit this historic spot.

The name "Rogers pass" must always stand out proudly in the record of the opening up of the Canadian West. It was the discovery of this crossing which provided the last gap in the fortress of the Rockies, and made possible the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway by the present route. When in 1880 the famous "Syndicate" was formed to undertake the construction of the line, Major A. B. Rogers was appointed engineer in charge of the mountain division. The west had already had almost ready established the feasibility of the Eagle pass through the Gold range, on the east the Kicking horse pass, discovered nearly a quarter of a century before Sir James Hector, provided the route for the main line. Between the two lay the unknown world of the Selkirks. Moberly had suggested following the Big Bend of the Columbia and so circumventing the difficulty, but Major Rogers determined, if humanly possible, to force a passage through and after incredible hardships and difficulties discovered the pass which bears his name.

Each year brings an increasing stream of visitors to enjoy the wonders of these beautiful ranges. Less imposing in height than the main Rockies, the Selkirks, on account of the beauty of their colouring, the grandeur of their forest and plant life, their bewildering array of glaciers and, especially, their always keen, to many the climax of Canadian mountain scenery. Lying within the oval made by the Columbia and Kootenay Rivers; they form a sort of "island of mountains," 300 miles long representing a geological history seven older than that of the main Rockies; for when the eastern ranges were still submerged beneath an inland sea, the Selkirks were already old "rearing their serated and snow-capped summits above the primeval ocean." Here is found the peculiar phenomenon which occurs in the Harz mountains, known as the "Spectre of the Brocken. The requisite conditions are said to be a near-by bank of clouds with the sun in nearly the same horizontal plane as the spectator. The shadow of the spectator is thus thrown upon the cloud bank, its size depending upon the distance the cloud is away. A prismatic circle surrounds the shadow which may take the form of an enormous giant or an amusing manikin depending upon conditions. Among the interesting botanical curiosities is the so-called "red snow" (Procococus nivalis), a minute plant, one of the algae, which sometimes covers a whole snow-bank, giving it a peculiar reddish hue.

Though other regions may boast loftier summits and more resounding names, the Selkirks keep for many nature lovers, a charm uniquely their own, undimmed by time, and unsurpassed by any other part of the Canadian Alps.

An enterprising young college graduate opened an office in the vicinity of Wall Street. He engaged a painter to letter the entrance door of his office.

"What do you want on the door?" asked the painter.

"Just John Smith, Broker," replied the student.

"Why don't you make it 'Banker and Broker?'" suggested the painter.

"How much more will it cost?" queried the student.

"About $4," answered the painter.

"Go ahead," said the student. "Who wouldn't give $4 to be a banker?"

COLD EXTRUSION.

Used to Manufacture Seamless Copper Tubing.

Shaping cold copper almost as readily as if it were molded clay has been accomplished on a commercial scale by the Winchester Repeating Arms Company.

The hands which are able to make copper plastic are of steel, and the process is possible through recent development of exceeding strengths in steels and of titantic pressures. The method is named cold extrusion, and is used to manufacture seamless copper tubing.

The essential principle of extrusion is exemplified in the manufacture of macaroni—that is, a plastic material is forced under pressure through a die-shaped mold, making a perfectly seamless hollow tube. This same sort of extruding has been employed in making lead pipe since 1850. But it has not until recently been applied on a large, commercial scale to anything as hard as copper, which is almost as strong as the yield point of some steel.

Little pieces of 9.90 per cent. pure copper, cup-shaped, half an inch long and half an inch wide, are thrust into a press. They emerge as tubes almost a foot long. The press puts on 50,000 pounds pressure, and the copper spurts through in one-fifteenth of a second. The tubes are from one-quarter to three-eighths inches in diameter. Their walls are paper-thin, ranging from three one-thousandths to one-hundredth of an inch. The sizes are controlled accurately.

Although the thin walls are tough, they are sensitive to the slight heat changes from the touch of a finger. The tubes are used for auto and airplane radiators, and for some recently developed heat appliances. In one kind of heating unit, bundles of tubes are employed as room radiators. In another they pass heat through water which is circulating about them. Their smoothness tends to prevent any sort of clogging.

TWENTIETH CENTURY HERMIT.

Has Contrived to Live Twenty Years In Same Ruins.

For the past twenty years an unknown hermit has occupied the windswept ruins of the ancient Rocco Iasuila Castle, which rests at the base of the cliffs, on which 1,300 years ago St. Benedict founded his famous monastery. The hermit has no following. He has founded no school. He is neither monk nor priest and He is neither monk nor priest and rats have been the sole companions of his solitude during the past twenty years. But to the townspeople of Monte Cassino a tradition of saintliness has grown around him, perhaps because of the proximity of the hermitage to the ancient monastery. Rocco Ianula Castle is 300 feet below the monastery, which was built in 529. During past centuries the castle has served as a defence for the monastery from marauding bands which sought to loot the monastery and has been the scene of many stirring battles. Now the castle is in such dilapidated condition that hardly one room in it is proof from the rain, but the hermit stays on.

He cares nothing for money and does no work except to keep his living quarters in repair. He subsists on only the few trifles of bread and meat and fruit that are regularly brought him by villagers, who are still some what awestruck by the sacrifices of the hermit. Just what drove him to the hermitage is not known, although according to the townspeople it was business trouble and not disappointment in love. Some lucky star seems to shine over his head.

Although there are plenty of persons in Italy with inclinations toward leading a hermit's life, authority often interferes with their plans and tells them to move on. The Rocco Ianula hermit, however, has contrived somehow to remain in the same ruins for twenty years, unhindered either by civil or ecclesiastical authority.

A fourteen-year-old school boy has been expelled because his teachers claim that he is incapable of telling the truth. If this young man doesn't mend his ways he will likely end up in the Weather Bureau.—Life.

DOGS AS CADDIES.

Two Dogs Have Retrieved Over Ten Thousand Balls.

Two dog caddies are to be found on the Bungay golf course in Surrey, England. Betty, a retriever, and Jill, a terrier, who are seen regularly on the links. They are owned by Walter Prime, the club professional, and between them they have retrieved over 10,000 balls. Members can take Betty or Jill with them on their rounds, and should they allow a ball into the rough the dogs will find it for them. Betty will follow the flight of a ball and at a word from Prime will set off in pursuit and lie down beside it without touching it, so that it can be played.

A spaniel belonging to Gordon Lockhart, of the Gleneagles Club, has a remarkable faculty for finding balls. Lockhart employs his dog as a caddie when he is practicing, for he can drive ball after ball and rely on the dog to bring them all back.

Down In Rio.

That a Frenchman in a new country will open a cafe, a German a general store, and a Briton a bank, has been an axiom regarding the men of those races in foreign lands. That regarding the British might be amended by stating that along with the bank goes the Church of England. In Rio, which is a city of churches, an English Church, has been the meeting place for the British community for 110 years.

In the present plans to improve the city by cutting new and widening old avenues the English church was destined to disappear, but changes have been made in the plans so that it will continue in the site it has occupied since 1819.

Chinese Marital Troubles.

Chinese women, eagerly striking out for freedom, have hit a snag. Divorces have appeared as a phase of the emancipation of women. Now that the sexes, among educated classes, have been mingling socially and professionally, it is inevitable that men who married under the old system of childhood betrothals should meet women who make them forget their wives. Divorces are easy to obtain in China, but seconds husbands are not. A discarded wife, therefore, travels a solitary, hopeless path.

MELTED BY WIRELESS.

Electric Furnace for Melting Crucible Tool Steel.

Making steel without a furnace is the latest wonder of electrical science, says an article in an Old Country paper. The steel is melted, but by a wireless current without any furnace, inside a wooden box quite cool to the touch!

The new invention is the Ajax Northrop high-frequency electric furnace for melting crucible tool steel, and it has been set up in the Edgar Allen works at Sheffield, side by side with the old process. It is by the contrast between these two processes that the marvel of the new invention is most quickly realized.

In the old process a number of clay pots, each containing about 60 pounds of metal, are heated in a furnace and lifted out one by one with long tongs by a man standing astride an opening at the top. One may imagine the heat to be faced and the strength required in such an operation.

Under the new process some 450 pounds of metal are put into a single crucible surrounded by an inch of sand, which prevents the radiation of heat. Round this sand is a coil, cooled by water, carrying a high-frequency alternating electric current. The whole is surrounded by a wooden casing, so that the apparatus looks no more than a big packing-case.

There is no contact between the coil and the steel inside it; yet, by a process like that of a wireless installation, the electricity in the coil generates heat in the steel; the steel, in fact, is melted by wireless. Eddy currents are set up, which not only melt the metal, but set it moving so violently that the surface in the middle of the pot is higher than at the sides. This secures the thorough mixing, which is one of the many advantages of the new process.

It means a revolution in the whole work of steel-making, and not the least of the gains will be an increase in the comfort of the workers.

BUSY BIBLE SALESMEN.

Colporteurs Work Quietly, Cheerfully and Usefully.

The vast army of Colporteurs, employed by the British and Foreign Bible Society do not share the unpopularity of ordinary peddlers. They work so quietly, cheerfully and usefully that they have friends everywhere.

These men, says an article in Answers are of all nationalities, and often their work takes them into the wildest country, where all sorts of danger, both from animals and savage tribesmen, must be faced. But their work goes on. Last year seventeen of these men travelled 22,941 miles in Burma, visiting 54,927 houses and selling 44,323 volumes—Bibles, New Testaments, Gospels, or other single books of Scripture. In all, the colporteurs disposed of six out of every ten volumes that the society sold.

The report of the society for last year, which has just been published, shows that 9,956,714 volumes of Scriptures were issued last year, of which 905,828 were circulated in Britain. The number issued in the home languages was greater than in any previous year, with the single exception of 1915.

THE LEMON.

Is Not a Thinning Substance, Says an Old Country Doctor.

The legend of the lemon is dead. A doctor has shattered it with one sentence, and a million or more women in England will be heartbroken in consequence.

The habit of drinking lemon juice, undiluted or with water, has spread during the past four years throughout Great Britain. Lemon juice was believed to be thinning, and women in at least one out of every three homes in England have drunk it regularly, believing that the result would be a slyph-like figure.

They are now disillusioned.

"The old idea that lemon juice had a thinning effect has been proved to be quite untrue," said a leading doctor attached to the New Health Society. "A lemon taken in the early morning is an excellent habit. It may possibly be an antidote to rheumatism, but as a thinning substance—never."

A PERFECT PEN.

Staybrite Steel Will Not Rust or Corrode.

A new joy has come to school boys and girls as the result of a discovery by the metallurgists of a famous Sheffield steel-making firm.

The ordinary steel pen-nib in use for so long corroded quickly, and not only spoiled the scholar's writing but caused a serious drain upon the school stock account.

Whilst experimenting to improve on the stainless steel invention, the experts of Sheffield discovered a new steel alloy metal which they have named Staybrite steel, to distinguish it from the stainless and old-type steels, and also because, whilst it possesses all the qualities of best steel, it will not rust and is unaffected by any corroding liquid. This steel is now being made into millions of nibs.

Big Part of the Wages that Keep the Home Fires Burning Come From Empire Orders for British Goods—Cousins Overseas Best Customers.

Have you ever asked yourself how it comes that a tiny island like Great Britain is the heart of the greatest empire the world has ever known, an empire which includes under one crown people of almost every color, race, language, and faith? asks a writer in Answers.

Part of the secret lies in the strong "home" sense of our British race. The virile folk who have colonized vast areas of the earth's surface, in Australasia, Africa, Canada, and a hundred- and one isles of the sea, still regard our little islands as "home."

This loyalty and affection were put to the test when the Great War broke out in Europe. Observers outside our own country expressed grave doubts whether the ties of kinship or loyalty to the throne would suffice to bring men across half the globe to fight—and, if need be, die for the Empire.

But every woman knows, and flushes with pride at the knowledge, that the men of Greater Britain came in their tens of thousands to stand by the Motherland in her time of need. For the sake of the Old Country and humanity, 140,923 men from overseas and 61,398 from India made the supreme sacrifice, while thrice that number suffered wounds from which thousands will never wholly recover.

The Empire emerged, strengthened by blood and sacrifice, with a new sense of unity and interdependence. This oneness of the Empire, which was but a theory before, had become a glorious fact, patent to all the world.

But there are other Imperial ties beside those of sentiment. Look at the figures of our trade with the Dominions, and you will see what the Empire means in wealth and prosperity.

Let us take a year like 1925, far enough away from war conditions to make it a reliable test, yet not so recent as to make one say: "Will it last?"

In 1925 Australia sent us £72,637,109 worth of goods, while our good neighbor France, with a producing population at least eight times greater, sent us £65,042,272. To put it in another way, every man, woman, and child in Britain spent £1 8s. 10d. in France's shop and £1 12s. 2d. in Australia's shop.

During the same year Canada sent us £70,585,661 worth of goods and products, while Germany, with a population something like ten times greater than the total population of the Dominion of Canada, sent us only £48,403,494.

Perhaps thoughtful people will say at this point: "Yes, that is interesting but what are the Dominions taking from us? Shouldn't we do better to stick to our old customers, who are just across the narrow seas, rather than to go farther and fare worse."

Now, when we come to compare the population of the British Empire with the population of the rest of the world, we find that for every person in Greater Britain there are three in non-British countries.

Yet in 1925 we sold to the British Empire exclusively £325,114,162 worth of our products, and to foreign countries £438,266,340. That is to say, out of every £100 paid to the Old Country for the things it exports, £42 came from our fellow-subjects across the seas! Yes, and the average for the last three years is £3 higher.

Notice, again, how these exports are made up. What pays Britain best to export are manufactured articles, such as cotton, machinery, iron, steel, chemicals, motor-cars, locomotives, aircraft, clothing, cloth, dyes, and a thousand other things which spell work and wages for our home people.

Well, in 1925 Britain sent £75,000,000 of raw material to foreign countries and £9,000,000 to the Empire. That means that about one-sixth of our exports to foreign countries consisted of raw materials, while only one-thirty-seventh of our exports to the Empire was raw material.

In the case of iron and steel manufactures and machinery, the Empire buys well over half of Britain's total exports; it takes practically £70 out of every £100 of our woollen and worsted, and getting on for £60 out of 100 of cotton yarns and manufactures.

A lot of work goes into all these articles, and a great deal of what the Empire pays for them represents wages to British men and women.

Britain's trade with the Empire, then, is trade of the kind that pays the wage-earner. And the more the Empire grows, the more its empty lands are peopled with British settlers, the more will this trade grow.

If anyone has any doubt of this, or is inclined to question the Empire being Britain's best customer, here is another set of figures that puts the matter beyond any possible doubt.

In our chosen year, 1925, New Zealand bought from us £15 18s. 2d. for every man, woman, and child of her population; every Australian was worth £10 14s. 1d. to us; every South African £4 3s. 6d.; and every Canadian £2 2s. 2d.

Compare these figures with those for other countries with whom we trade. The average Frenchman during the same year spent £1 0s. 9d. on British goods; the German figure was 14s. 3d.; the Italian 2s. 1d. Even the United States only bought from the British Isles to the tune of 9s. 7d. per head of her population—while Russia's contribution was 9¼d.

More than 1,000,000 houses are needed in Britain immediately to replace unfit dwellings and to abate overcrowding.

Canada's export trade to New Zealand increased by $2,687,486 during 1928 over the previous year.

FLOWER GIRLS PASSING.

Picturesque Figures Crowded Out by Traffic Rush.

London's rapidly changing street scene threatens to eliminate yet another picturesque class from the traditional life of the city. It appears that the flower "girls," most of them mothers or grandmothers, must follow the horse-drawn cabs into oblivion. In the days of the "growler" a fare had plenty of time to buy flowers at any corner. Nobody stops at the corners these days. And many licenses to sell flowers on a corner have been cancelled because the corners have been cut out in reconstructed streets.

Flower selling used to run in the family, but succession in the business is dying out. Flowers are higher to buy and harder to sell and many of the veteran "girls" have advised their grown daughters to go into some other line. Many families have sold flowers for generations. The good-natured flower sellers who shout "Primroses, vilets, vilets, buy flowers cheap for your lidy tody" are as much a part of Piccadilly Circus as the pictures of Mr. Cochran's young ladies in front of the London Pavilion. Not that the young ladies look like flower girls. The anything like the flower girls. The latter are more plump, even though Mr. Cochran tried to fatten up the chorus for his new revue.

London's flower girls have a church of their own, St. Clement Danes in the Strand. Mrs. Pennington Bickford, wife of the rector, does everything possible to aid the girls and seeks help to preserve the "pitches," as their corner locations are called, when business is bad and the license fees are due.

MARGATE LOSES HERO COXSWAIN

The death has occurred at Margate, at the age of 83, of "Big Bert" —Coxswain (retired) Albert John Emptage, one of the most famous lifeboatmen in the country.

Tens of thousands of the older generation who went to Margate on holiday knew "Big Bert" He was a giant of a man, 6ft. 2in. in height, and for years took holiday-makers short cruises in his pleasure boats Favourite and Moss Rose.

For 40 years he was connected with successive Margate lifeboats, and was coxswain of three.

In the 'nineties he became famous for the part he played in a long sequence of heroic rescues.

An Epic Fight

The most notable was the saving of the crew of the schooner Druide, in November 1893. She was shipwrecked two miles from shore, during a tempest.

Five times the Margate lifeboat unsuccessfully tried to reach her, and at last, in desperation, Emptage called for volunteers from the exhausted crews of lifeboatmen to go out in his dingy.

Four others joined him in what all others thought a venture to certain death, and by incomparable seamanship the little boat reached the schooner, rescuing the crew of five.

The Board of Trade presented a special medal — in size the largest ever given by the department—to Emptage, and the town of Margate also had a medal struck for him.

Another great endeavor by Emptage was the rescue of men and pet dogs from four vessels during a storm in 1897. On that occasion one Margate lifeboat was lost with all hands.

OUR INDIANS.

Gradually Being Won to the Ways of Civilization.

In the older regions of the provinces, especially Ontario and Quebec, Indians are entering more and more into the general life of the country. They are farmers, artisans, clerks, teachers and lumbermen, while some few have qualified as medical doctors and surveyors. But a small percentage of the Indians still derive their livelihood from the chase, being located in the outlying districts, but within the northward penetration of settlement they are gradually being won to the ways of civilization. The Government's efforts, particularly in Western Canada, have been to make the Indian a farmer through the cultivation of the reserves. This is being attended with successful results.

The Indians of the Prairie Provinces, it is officially stated, are now self-supporting, harvesting about a million bushels of grain annually and raising live stock on a considerable scale. The last report of the Indian department covering a year's operations, notes the sending of 2,585 more than in the previous year and the breaking of 6,223 acres of new land. Horses and implements to the extent of many thousands of dollars were purchased with the Indians' own money. Prizes were taken with cattle from reserve and animals sold brought in approximately $95,600. Wood on most reserves is found to be for good use in any white settlement, a feature to which attention is drawn being the wonderful gardens found on most of the reserves.

BASEMENT STAMPING OFFICE.

Interesting Facts Concerning the Founders' Company.

Interesting facts concerning the Founders' Company, which to this day retains its stamping rights, and has its stamping office in a basement in St. Swithin's Lane, were brought to light at the recent Livery dinner of the Guild at Salters' Hall, London, England.

The company exists for the benefit and protection of Founders occupied with the manufacture of copper, brass, and others of the finer metals, and although the actual duties of stamping were long ago taken over by the Board of Trade, the ancient offices of Sizers and Searchers, officials appointed to bring to justice persons using incorrect weights and measures, are still in existence. The emoluments, however, which were once substantial, are nil.

The Founders' Company was incorporated five centuries ago, with jurisdiction over candlesticks, buckles, pots, and other articles worked in brass, pewter, and so on. They were stamped with the company's arms, in the same way as articles of gold are stamped by the Goldsmiths Company today.

The Company's Hall, which used to be in Lothbury, was burned down in the Great Fire. It was afterwards rebuilt and the company remained in that position until eighty years ago, when a move was made to St. Swithin's Lane. The origin of the Guild is lost in antiquity, but there is evidence that a Brass and Metal Founders' Guild or Society existed in 1395.

MAGIC, 1929.

Wonderful Building and Engineering Feats Are Order of the Day.

We are promised that on May 1st, 1930, the tallest and largest skyscraper in the world will be ready for occupation. The builders did not wait for the old buildings to be taken down. They started in and had the foundations of the new 840-foot skyscraper while the old buildings were being demolished, so that the two jobs went on simultaneously.

This is in New York, but British engineers can point to a feat just as wonderful in India, in the reconstruction of the Attock Bridge, between Lahore and Peshawar. Two 200-foot spans have been thrown across the Indus, enclosing the old bridge, without interrupting the traffic on it for a minute moment. Now, when the old structure has been taken away, the job will be finished—without any interference with transport arrangements being necessary from first to last.

"WORLD'S OLDEST HOSPITAL."

Founded Twelve Years After William the Conqueror Landed In 1066.

St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Rochester, a little south of east from London, and near Chatham, England, is said to be the oldest hospital in the world.

"This hospital," writes the secretary of the institution, "was founded twelve years after William the Conqueror landed near Hastings in 1066. It was founded for the reception of lepers, and during its 847 years' history it has maintained a splendid service for the poor and suffering."

Although the present building is comparatively modern, the hospital patients still use the beautiful old Norman chapel, the only part of the ancient hospital that remains. It is one of the earliest Norman churches in existence, the work of Bishop Gundulf, Bishop of Rochester from 1077 to 1108.

END OF SHAKER CULT.

Many Communities Have Already Disbanded.

The Shaker settlements at Mount Lebanon, in the Berkshires near the Massachusetts-New York border, are said to be threatened with extinction. The people are advanced in years, scarcely inhabited region to establish communities where all members should be required to work with their hands, and where all property was to be held in common.

The centre of interest in the settlement was the Church Family, which served as the pattern for other Shaker societies and was regarded by them as "the spiritual Mount Zion, whence the law and gospel went forth to believers." Here the visitor may still see the great dwelling houses built by their labor and the workshops where they made implements, furniture and clothing. The property is to be sold, and the surviving members will be wards of the state. Their property will be administered by trustees.

CO-EDS GAINING PRIVILEGES.

Co-education In Japan Only a Matter of Time.

Social conditions in Japan are such that co-education on a wide scale is only a matter of time, in the opinion of Dr. Hideo Yokota, former chief justice of the Supreme Court and now president of Meiji University in Tokio, which has introduced special courses for women. Dr. Yokota is sure these courses will develop rapidly in his other schools, so that before long the women will be on the same basis in their work for degrees.

"Man may feel that his sphere of activity is being encroached upon by woman, but he will have to accept this situation from a sense of justice if nothing else," Dr. Yokota said recently. "The development of the ability of many women along different lines will prove a great advantage. The opening of professional opportunities in Japan for women is the turning point in their destinies.

"The question of relations of young men and women is the chief obstacle. Our women should follow the example set by their sisters in other countries, but the change cannot come too quickly. Educators in Japan must see to it that as this inevitable change comes the ordinary dangers of transition be avoided."

BLUE GOLDFISH.

Indiana Fisheries Sort Out Colors to Produce Desired Hue.

Production of a blue goldfish is the latest experiment of the Grassyforks Fisheries, near Martinsville, Ind., which supplies a large proportion of the goldfish sold in the United States.

Under direction of Dr. Walter N. Hess, professor of zoology at De Pauw University, experiments are now under way to obtain the blue fish among the newly-hatched fish.

The life of the gold fish, while not at all private, has many interesting aspects, according to Dwight S. Ritter, treasurer of the Grassyforks Fisheries.

"The fish are hatched in the spring and put into laying pools where they spawn in artificial nests," Ritter said. "The little fish are fed on the yolks of hard-boiled eggs and the old ones on mush. When the fall comes, we sort the fish. Some of them have turned to a gold color and others are uncolored. We kept the uncolored ones, from which we hope to develop the blue strain of fish."

CONDUCTOR'S BATON.

Mozart Said to Have Used Baton In 1768.

Few choirs and orchestras, and, in fact, few conductors realize that marking time with a baton is a comparatively modern innovation. The eminent music historian, Otto Erich Deutsch, said recently that it was in 1821 that the practice of having the conductor lead his orchestra by means of a piano was discarded at the Vienna Opera and the baton formally adopted.

In London a conductor's baton was first seen in 1819. It was swung by Ludwig Spohr at a grand concert. Mozart, however, it is credibly reported, while directing on December 7, 1768—at the age of twelve—some of his own early compositions in the presence of royalty, whisked out of his pocket a little baton and to the astonishment of all present, by its means kept the mighty orchestra of vocal and instrumental performers in perfect time.

Oldest Living Thing.

In Sequoia National Park, California, is to be seen the big tree known as the General Sherman. It is estimated to be at least four thousand years old, still produces an annual crop of cones from which fall millions of fertile seeds. There are nurseries in the Park that contain many young trees, the progeny of this oldest and largest living thing. The Methuselah of the forest perpetuates its kind to-day as it did when Cheops built the Great Pyramid in Egypt.

WIZARD WATCHES

$100,000 Packard Collection Turned Over to the Washington Museum for Science and Art Purposes.

A Time Building, where the masterpieces of the watchmaker's craft can be preserved and used to help raise the art and science of timekeeping in America to the highest possible standard, is the dream of the Horological Institute of America.

The $100,000 J. W. Packard collection of fine watches, now in possession of the Institute, is expected to form the nucleus of such a museum, dedicated exclusively to the study and advancement of man's mastery of time.

Until then the Institute plans to continue its task, including the examination, certification and encouragement of watchmakers throughout the country, from its little office in the National Academy, working with the National Research Council, the Bureau of Standards, Naval Observatory, Smithsonian Institution and other Government and private agencies.

The Packard collection was turned over to Paul Moore, secretary of the Institute, by Mrs. Packard, widow of the automobile manufacturer and inventor, the trustees of his estate, and the Cleveland Museum of Art, to which he left it in his will. It includes nine historical time pieces and twenty-one of modern type, ranking in value from $500 to $8,000, and including some of the most perfect examples of watchmaking in existence.

Most of them were made by master craftsmen in Europe, where the art for generations has been given much more serious attention than it has received in America until recent years. They include astronomical watches, musical watches, calendar watches, chronographs, chronometers, repeaters and split-second watches of the finest precision.

One, small enough to put in the vest pocket, not only keeps accurate count of the hours, minutes and seconds, but tells the date of the month, being set to take account of those months having twenty-eight, thirty and thirty-one days, and the extra day in leap years for a full century.

It also keeps track of the days of the week, tells when the sun will rise and set, pictures the sky in miniature with the stars in their proper places, and measures speed in terms of a fifth of a second.

In addition, it is equipped with chimes of different tunes, which ring out the hours, quarters and minutes after the quarters when a slide is pressed at the side.

This mechanical marvel is understood to have cost Mr. Packard about $7,000. Another, valued at almost half as much, can be set by a sound sleeper to awaken him at any hour with a musical alarm.

Encased in gold, most of the timepieces contain only the finest materials and vary in size from wafer-like instruments to pocket chronometers two or three inches in diameter. They were collected by Mr. Packard over a period of twenty-five years, symbolizing the delight of a mechanical genius in perfect mechanism.

In the keeping of the Horological Institute, Mr. Moore believes, they will be a great help in its effort to raise the standard of watchmaking in America, where the advance industrial civilization has emphasized more than anywhere else the dependence of business, aviation, transportation, the national defence and life itself on the accurate measurement of time.

ELECTRIC FISH PROTECTOR.

Device to Protect Fish From Flashing Wheels of Power Plants.

A device for the protection of fish from the flashing wheels of power plants, has been perfected by the engineer of a west coast power company. It is the first device of its kind to be successfully used, the Oregon Fish Commission reports.

The device consists of two rows of parallel electrodes suspended from a wooden framework above the water. The rows are four feet apart and the electrodes three feet apart. The electrodes are at approximately the same level near the bed of the stream. An electric field set up about the electrodes will reach from the surface of the water to the bottom of the stream. Its strength will taper off in proportion to the distance upstream and downstream from the centre of the field.

The device is so constructed that when a fish approaches a fatigue it will swim into the edge of the electric field and be immediately turned back; or, if it attempts to enter the field further, a still greater shock proves sufficient to discourage it.

Holystone.

Holystones are common hard brick used on board navy ships having wooden decks, to scour them. To perform this labor the seamen of yesterday knelt on the deck and gave it a scouring with brick, sand and water. The attitude of prayer thus assumed caused the stone to be called holy. To-day this labor is performed by attaching an old broom handle to the holystone, making it unnecessary to kneel while scouring, but the name holystone still remains in spite of the modern method.

Full balloon tires
Fully enclosed six-brake system
4 Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers
22 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline
Shatterproof glass windshield

Reliability and low upkeep

LAVISH use of ball and roller bearings in the Ford car greatly reduce friction and contribute to easier operation and longer life of the car. Note the coasting ability of the Ford car as compared to any other automobile in its weight class.

Examination of the chassis will at once show the advantages of these bearings. On the rear axle pinion and differential all the taper roller bearings are held to such close limits that adjustment is unnecessary, pinion and ring gear always being held in proper mesh.

Spiral roller bearings are used in the rear hub because of their large bearing surface and ability to carry heavy loads. One is also used on the drive shaft at the universal joint end, to assure perfect alignment.

Taper roller bearings in the front wheels have a simple adjustment. Roller thrust bearings on the spindle bolts make for easy steering. Two bearings, one above and one below, take up the thrust on the steering worm.

The fan shaft operates on a roller bearing. The generator, the transmission, the connection between the spline and drive shafts, the clutch, the flywheel—all these important parts are made more efficient and enduring through the use of ball and roller bearings.

These bearings form a striking illustration of the engineering skill and care used in building the Ford car.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN PARK

Rocky Mountains national park, with headquarters at Banff, Alberta, is the oldest and second largest of our national parks. It has an area of 3,834 square miles and contains some of the finest recreational and scenic regions in the world.

IMPORTANT FOSSIL BEDS

The Red Deer valley of Alberta is exceedingly rich in fossil remains of dinosaurs and other extinct vertebrate animals which are being slowly exhumed by erosion of the sides of the valley. It is the most productive collecting field in Canada and has already yielded much new and well preserved material to the museums at Ottawa, Toronto, Edmonton, and New York.

MORLEY'S NAME HONORED.

Secondary School "House" at Wandsworth Named After Him.

Few modern statesmen have had their names perpetuated in the way Lord Morley has been remembered. This is by having a school "house" called after him. From a recent date the boys in the new secondary school at Wandsworth are in four houses, each being named after a distinguished resident.

Pitt, Cromwell, and Gibbon are the three great figures of the past, although their associations were chiefly with Putney. But Lord Morley lived and died within sight of the handsome new school.

The choice must have been embarrassing, for George Eliot and Swinburne were also near neighbors. It would have been a pretty compliment had the one great woman resident been included.

THE ROBERT SIMPSON COMPANY LIMITED

OWNS ENTIRE TOWN

Arkansas Planter Develops 60,000 Acres of Cotton and Timber—No Mayor and No Policemen.

Industrialized farming under the far-sighted genius of R. E. Lee Wilson, head of the largest individually-owned cotton plantation in the world, created the unusual Arkansas town of Wilson.

Mr. Wilson rules the destinies of the town bearing his name because he owns it, lock, stock and barrel. But his "subjects" say he is a "benevolent despot," and everybody appears happy.

By bending science to the development of 60,000 acres of cotton and timber in the alluvial region of Eastern Arkansas, this energetic man, who rose from orphan farm boy to master of millions, was able to realize his dream of an ideal workaday community.

The town has a population of about 2,000, but has neither mayor nor police force. While Mr. Wilson actually owns the town, he prefers to be considered as holding it in trust for those whose work has added to its value.

The community, forty-two miles from Memphis, Tenn., boasts of its own utilities system, supplying every home with electric power, running water and sewage, a free mail service, private protection, and an ice plant.

Other features are a hardwood mill, a box factory, a stave factory, a flour and meal mill, cotton gins, a community centre, and a shopping district.

Besides the vast cotton plantation of 25,000 acres producing a bale to the acre, the Wilson holdings comprise 35,000 acres of timber land, and 2,000 acres for feed crops to care for 1,200 mules used in cotton farming.

The schools care for 400 white and negro students, and have an all-year vocational program in agriculture and home economics. Deficits in the school fund are covered by a check from Mr. Wilson and his associates. Residents are assessed a small fee for medical service and for support of churches.

Cotton seed production is one of the big enterprises in Wilson. M.W.H. Collins, in charge of the plant breeding on the plantation, in 1928 supervised shipment of 1,000,000 pounds of cotton seed to Louisiana, the gift of the American Red Cross to flood sufferers.

Mr. Wilson started as a hardwood lumber operator, a field in which he has gained almost as much prominence as that of a cotton producer. His lumber plant has a capacity of 75,000 feet a day. As fast as timber is cut, the land is cleared and prepared for farming.

Chief assistant to the economic autocrat is his son, R. E. Lee Wilson Jr., who is general manager of operations.

NO ANTS—NO COCOA.

Disturb a Certain Beetle Which Attacks the Tea Plant.

"Without Black Ants No Cocoa," reads a sign posted at the entrance of a great plantation in Central Java. It does not go unheeded, for the natives hand in some four million nests of these little creatures every year, and receive payment in return. These black ants live only upon trees infested by the white cocoa louse. Neither the louse nor the ants injure the trees. The real enemy is a certain beetle whose name is Helopeltis, which also attacks the tea plant.

It has been found that when the black ants are present the Helopeltis fails to injure the trees. Apparently this sap-sucking pest is disturbed by the activity of the ants, for the latter do not attack the beetle. This is why the black ants are protected. Food is provided for them by picking the white coco lice from the shells of the fruit, where they congregate, and placing them on the coco-trees to attract the ants and disturb the beetles.

CHABOT OBSERVATORY.

Maintained as Part In the Municipal Public School System.

The City of Oakland, California, maintains a unique institution as a part of its public school system. It is the Chabot Observatory, a modern astronomical and meteorological observatory situated on Leona Heights in the suburbs of that city. It is maintained for popular instruction in the sciences relating to weather, climate, and the stars. It is also affiliated with the United States Weather Bureau and with the college.

It has a large telescope through which visitors are permitted to view the wonders of the heavens, and it is free and open to the public day and night. In addition to the school children of Oakland, many thousands of tourists call at the observatory every year. It is perhaps the only institution of its kind in the United States maintained as part in the municipal school system.

The Better Manners.

Their teacher had been giving Johnny and Jimmy a lesson in good behaviour, and in order to test them held out two pieces of toffee — one large and one much smaller.

"Now, then," she said, "I want to see which of you has the better manners."

"Oh, that's all right, teacher," Johnny said, quickly grabbing the large piece, "Jimmy has!"

VARTY LAKE GIRLS' CAMP LAST EDITION OF CAMP PAPER, "CAMPFIRE BLAZES"

Friday, July 12th.—Our last day of camp. All over the camp grounds has sounded like a great refrain "Our last day at camp," as though by bearing that in mind the girls thought to crowd a few more happy minutes into this last day.

What perfect days they have been, sunshine and soft breezes laughter and song. Could a score or more girls anywhere has been prevalent in Varty harmonious atmosphere than that which has been prevalent in Varty Lake Girls' Camp these last ten days.

One only needs to stay in camp a day to capture a little of the girls' spirit, to get a deeper sympathy, and to acquire a deeper understanding of our girls' motto: "The Fourfold Life."

None of us can estimate or conceive the effect of these ten days on our girls' future and through them on our community and even farther we say on society at large. Here they have the opportunity and incentive for all forms of physical development, which they cannot have at home or in smaller, more intimate groups, where they are to some extent restricted by formalities.

Here they learn the great game of give and take; here by pure competition of wit they learn to know each other as they are; here by contact one with another they find virtues in each other which creates our wholesome social life among the girls.

Here, in our Bible Study Classes our girls see Jesus by the sea of Galilee, going to the mountains to pray. In imagination this could be Nazareth, in reality they are learning of him, love to God, the Giver of all good things, (our camp one of the best of these gifts), Love to each other, and service to all.

Here they learn self-reliance and attention to detail. One has only to go on cottage inspection to recognize this. When one cottage can gain 195 points out of 200 and when such things as a straw on the floor, or a pillow not quite straight means loss of marks, we are sure the girls are learning one lesson thoroughly anyway.

Then the camp-fire, a perfect ending for a perfect day—songs, skits reading of Camp paper, into which is crowded accounts of camp life, and nonsense. The last but not least, the unbroken circle round the camp fire singing:

Day is done
Gone the sun,
From the Lake
From the hill,
From the sky;
All is well,
Safely rest,
God is nigh.

Who among us would not vote for Girls' Camp at Varty Lake next year.

—CAMP MOTHER.

Camp Days.

It was a sunshine summer day,
The weather it was great,
And Varty Lake Camp was in full swing
From early until late.

The campers all did eat a lot,
For the cooking it was fine.
And the sound of the bell was welcome,
When it meant to come and dine.

The girls decided to have a good time,
No matter what came or went,
So when the very first day it rained,
They were still quite content.

The nurse gave a talk on hgil-making,
But when cottage inspection came,
The only bed that wasn't made right,
Belonged to that very dame.

The Camp days will soon be ended,
But the memory will linger on,
Of all the good times we're having
For ever and ever anon.

—MARJORIE THOMPSON.

Activities of the Day.

At seven, when the bell doth ring,
The girls, who are half asleep, swing
From their beds for their morning dip,
When into the water they softly slip.
They hurry back for morning prayer,
When the royal flag floats high in the air.
Then into the tent the quickly go,
And see the waiters rush to and fro
To see what Mr. Mackenzie will need,
For his early morning feed.
And when the breakfasting is o'er,
The girls busy themselves sweeping the floor,
Making their beds and clearing off the table.
For Mrs. Stalker will find all the straws she's able.
After cottage inspection they have Bible study
Which is followed by a swim,
In a lake which is muddy.
They soon have supper, then lower the flag,
And off to campfire, and never, never to bed.

—DOROTHY COAKWELL.

Camp Verses.

Happy little Camp girls
Sitting in a row,
Singing all the camp songs,
And all the songs they know.

Tidy little cottages
Standing in a row,
Polished up so nice and clean,
That every one's aglow.

Softly gleaming camp-fire
Flickering on the trees,
On the happy camp girls,
And on their sun-tanned knees.

Solemn little Camp girls
Packing up for home,
Sorry camp is over,
But glad that they had come.

—MARION THOMPSON

CHILEAN AMUSEMENTS.

The Mapuches Have Peculiar Game Called "Rum."

The Mapueche tribes of Chili, have a very peculiar game which is very popular, and is called "rum." A wager is made between two competitors as to which will be the first to break the silence. They sometimes remain silent for whole days, until finally the man with the weaker will speaks and loses his bet!

This is but one of the many interesting sidelights on the Chilean people in Augustin Edwards' "Peoples of Old."

In another game of the "dice" sort with colored beans, the players propitiate their luck by talking to the beans and magically invoking disasters for their opponents. To "gamble your shirt" is no mere metaphor with these people; they gamble their knives, clothes, weapons, blankets—anything; and frequently the game ends in a general fight!

'Planes Locate Fish.

Airplanes are being successfully utilized in finding shoals of sardines. They then drop suitable bait into the sea, and notify the fishing vessels of the location of the coveted fish. Several French sardine packing concerns already use this system. The only difficulty, they say, is that of finding a market for the fish. Thousands of tons were abandoned last year because they could not be sold at prices which would recompense the dealers.

According to the aviators engaged in the "fish survey," schools of sardines can be seen for a distance of twenty miles when flying at a height of 1,000 yards.

...OW THE UNIVERSE REVOLVES IN SPACE

Dominion Astrophysical Observatory's Investigations Confirm Theories About Celestial Motion

For thousands of years, ever since man began to observe his surroundings in space, the idea of revolution, or circular movement, has been the keynote of all speculations. The early belief that the sun, moon, planets, and stars revolved around the earth persisted until the nineteenth century, when the theory was evolved that the sun and not the earth was the centre of motion. It has to be remembered, of course, that the properties and discourses of the stars were unknown until the nineteenth century. Various hypotheses have been made as to the laws governing the motions of the different parts of our stellar system, otherwise known to astronomers as the "Galaxy"—the aggregation of thousands of millions of stars in the shape of a very much flattened watch—though some of these hypotheses such as the suggestion that the entire Galaxy was in rotation around the star Alcyone, the brightest of the Pleiades, excited considerable interest, none of them received the general endorsation of astronomers.

There the matter remained until two years ago when came the proposition of Lindblad, the Swedish astronomer, that the Galaxy, revolved in its own plane around a very distant centre, a theory which succeeded in accounting for some hitherto unexplained motions of the stars. The next step in this wonderful conception was made by the Dutch astronomer, Oort, who analysed the motion of the nearer stars and was able to show that they moved as if the Galaxy circled around a very distant point in the direction of the constellation Sagittarius. Oort, however, had only meagre information on the motions of the more distant stars, which are more useful than the nearer stars in proving the presence of this movement, and to Canada came the distinction of putting the theory on a firmer basis.

Through an accurate mathematical analysis of the motions of the more distant stars made at Victoria, British Columbia by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Department of the Interior, there is no doubt that these stars are most distinctly and definitely moving almost exactly as they would if the entire stellar system (the Galaxy) were in rotation around a very distant centre. Further the direction of this centre, determined from these motions agrees within a degree with the direction derived by an altogether different method, that is, from the distribution of the star clusters. Among the results obtained at the Victoria Observatory on the motions, distances, and physical properties of the hottest, brightest, and most massive stars in the sky, are the hitherto unpublished velocities of some 500 stars more distant than any available to Oort, and hence of especial value in testing and confirming the rotation.

The contemplation of the sublimity and majesty of this incomprehensibly huge galactic system is staggering. One hundred million years is required for the stars of this wheeling mass to complete a single revolution. Light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, yet, even at this inconceivable rate, two hundred thousand years would be consumed in crossing the diameter of the Galaxy. In all probability the centre of the Galaxy is some 50,000 light years—the distance light would travel in that time—away from the Earth in the direction of Sagittarius.

Just as the rotation of the solar system can easily be determined from the Earth, so the revolving motion of the Galaxy can, though not so easily, be tested from the movements of the neighbouring stars. There is reason to believe that the Galaxy does not revolve like a wheel, but that the stars nearer the centre move more quickly than those towards the edge, somewhat like the solar system where the inner planets move with greater rapidity than the outer. Indeed were it not for this peculiarity it would be impossible to recognize the rotation at all.

AQUATIC SPORTS

When the Napanee Aquatic Club was formed a few weeks ago the members in arranging for a series of events, possibly had no idea of the interest that would be taken by the citizens of Napanee.

That the people here take strongly to aquatic sports was evidenced on Wednesday evening when hundreds of people lined both sides of the water front to witness the several events which were on the program. The crowd far eclipsed that of a week ago and every race was keenly contested.

The members of the band were present and enlivened the proceedings with a number of musical selections.

Two races which possibly created the greatest interest were, the Crab and Duck races, while the Tub race also created much merriment. Special mention must be made of the diving exhibitions by the Morgan sisters.

These girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan of the Panama zone, who are spending the summer in Napanee. Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hunter.

The girls are much at home in the water as on the land, and their fancy diving, high diving etc. won the plaudits of the crowd, who gave them rounds of applause.

These girls are beautiful swimmers and last week captured first prizes in the swimming events.

The results were as follows:

Boys' swimming race, 12 years and under—1, Stinson; 2, Murphy.

Boys' swimming race 12 to 15—1, Barrager; 2, White.

Crab Race—"Red" Miller.

Canoe Doubles—Miller, Markle.

Duck Race—"Bunny" Detlor.

Tub Race—1, Savage; 2, Morgan.

No entries were received for the punt race.

In addition to the diving exhibition, the crowd received a thrill in the surf board exhibition.

The members are planning for even a larger program of events to be held next week and which promises to eclipse all former events.

SOFTBALL

Regarding the game played on Monday evening last between Adolphustown and Hayburn girls, we are inclined to think that "the least said is the easiest mended." Both teams seemed to be off their game, although Adolphustown's playing was decidely superior, resulting in an overwhelming victory for them. We think perhaps the best part of the evening was after the game when Hayburn girls treated their visitors to cake and lemonade, after which the young people were all invited to a social hour at the home of Miss Dora Ridley. Dancing was indulged in and every one agreed that Doris was a most genial little hostess.

The boys' softball game on Wednesday evening was a real one. North Fredericksburgh met their Waterloo in the boys from across the water, to the tune of 16-5. The whole nine innings were featured by snappy playing and heavy hitting from both sides.

N. Fredericksburgh certainly possesses a peppy first baseman. Even the razzing from the woodpile failed to excite this boy by the name of Hill and many a run contemplated by Hayburn was neatly checked at the initial sack.

Cameron Sexsmith contributed considerable assistance, and made one real circus catch—parking in space to gather in a fast liner.

Ray Sexsmith proved that he knows pitching equally as well as fielding, although he did walk Bill Prout, when Bill was vainly waiting for just one chance to show just how home-runs are made.

Vernon Ackerman, veteran catcher for N. Fred. ate up all the little foul tips with apparent relish.

Altogether it was quite apparent that N. Fred. boys were outstanding, not only as softball players, but also as downright good sports.

Hayburn boys seemed to have softball down fine. Ronald Lloyst stopped a liner that would make lightning look slow—yes! and with his left hand, and several feet off first base.

George Dickson got out in the field just in time to foil, neatly, an attempt to make a homer on the part of one of the N. Fred. boys.

Ken Dickson found plenty of work to do and he did it far too cleverly to be called an accident.

As a matter of fact, each and every player gave his best, and the festivities seemed to be of the highest order.

WEDDING BELLS

Albertson-Thompson.

At the Presbyterian Church Parsonage, Cobourg, Ont., on Saturday, June 15th, 1929, by the Rev. Frank C. Harper, Ruth Eileen Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Thompson, Napanee, to Warren Albertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Albertson, Kingston, Ont.

RABIES TREATMENT GIVEN

Robert Hill, Deseronto, was bitten by a dog which, it is feared, was a sufferer from rabies. He met the dog on the road and the animal jumped at him and fastened its teeth in his groin. He was bought to Shannonville, where treatment was given as a precaution against rabies. The dog was killed and its head sent to Toronto for examination. Four other dogs known to have come in contact with the animal also were destroyed.

—Dr. Duane R. Hall will be absent from his office after July 27th until August 12th.

HOME GARDEN CONTEST

The gardens in the Home Garden Contest, conducted by the Lennox and Addington Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in the townships of Adolphustown, South Fredericksburg, and Amherst Island, were judged by the Agricultural representative, and according to his report, were on the average very good—with a few outstanding gardens. Following is the standing of the first ten gardens in the competition—the first five of these will receive cash prizes donated by the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

1 Betty Heathcote, S. S. No. 1, Adolphustown.
2 Winnie Pretts, S. S. No. 6, South Fredericksburg.
3 Donald Miller, S. S. No. 5, Amherst Island.
4 Clara Brown, S. S. No. 2, South Fredericksburg.
5 George Day, S. S. No. 6, South Fredericksburg.
6 Cissy Lewis, S. S. No. 1, Adolphustown.
7 Rhoda Marshall, S. S. No. 3, Amherst Island.
8 Edna Corke, S. S. No. 3, Amherst Island.
9 Nellie Gallagher, S. S. No. 2, Adolphustown.
10 John Kearney, S. S. No. 3, Amherst Island.

AQUATIC SPORTS

When the Napanee Aquatic Club was formed a few weeks ago the members in arranging for a series of events, possibly had no idea of the interest that would be taken by the citizens of Napanee.

That the people here take strongly to aquatic sports was evidenced on Wednesday evening when hundreds of people lined both sides of the water front to witness the several events which were on the program. The crowd far eclipsed that of a week ago and every race was keenly contested.

The members of the band were present and enlivened the proceedings with a number of musical selections.

Two races which possibly created the greatest interest were, the Crab and Duck races, while the Tub race also created much merriment. Special mention must be made of the diving exhibitions by the Morgan sisters.

These girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan of the Panama zone, who are spending the summer in Napanee. Mrs. Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hunter.

The girls are much at home in the water as on the land, and their fancy diving, high diving etc., won the plaudits of the crowd, who gave them rounds of applause.

These girls are beautiful swimmers and last week captured first prizes in the swimming events.

The results are as follows:

Boys' swimming race, 12 years and under—1, Stinson; 2, Murphy.

Boys' swimming race 12 to 15—1, Barrager; 2, White.

Crab Race—"Red" Miller.

Canoe Doubles—Miller, Markle.

Duck Race—"Bunny" Detlor.

Tub Race—1, Savage; 2, Morgan.

No entries were received for the punt race.

In addition to the diving exhibition, the crowd received a thrill in the surf board exhibition.

The members are planning for even a larger program of events to be held next week and which promises to eclipse all former events.

SOFTBALL

Regarding the game played on Monday evening last between Adolphustown and Hayburn girls, we are inclined to think that "the least said is the easiest mended." Both teams seemed to be off their game, although Adolphustown's playing was decidely superior, resulting in an overwhelming victory for them. We think perhaps the best part of the evening was after the game when Hayburn girls treated their visitors to cake and lemonade, after which the young people were all invited to a social hour at the home of Miss Doris Ridley. Dancing was indulged in and every one agreed that Doris was a most genial little hostess.

The boys' softball game on Wednesday evening was a real one. North Fredericksburgh met their Waterloo in the boys from across the water, to the tune of 16-5. The whole nine innings were featured by snappy playing and heavy hitting from both sides.

N. Fredericksburgh certainly possesses a peppy first baseman. Even the razzing from the woodpile failed to excite this boy by the name of Hill and many a run contemplated by Hayburn was neatly checked at the initial sack.

Cameron Sexsmith contributed considerable assistance, and made one real circus catch—parking in space to gather in a fast liner.

Ray Sexsmith proved that he knows pitching equally as well as fielding, although he did walk Bill Prout when Bill was vainly waiting for just one chance to show just how home-runs are made.

Vernon Ackerman, veteran catcher for N. Fred. ate up all the little foul tips with apparent relish.

Altogether it was quite apparent that N. Fred. boys were outstanding, not only as softball players, but also as downright good sports.

Hayburn boys seemed to have softball down fine. Ronald Lloyst stopped a liner that would make lightning look slow—yes! and with his left hand, and several feet off first base.

George Dickson got out in the field just in time to foil, neatly, an attempt to make a homer on the part of one of the N. Fred. boys.

Ken Dickson found plenty of work to do and he did it far too cleverly to be called an accident.

As a matter of fact, each and every player gave his best, and the festivities seemed to be of the highest order.

WEDDING BELLS

Albertson-Thompson.

At the Presbyterian Church Parsonage, Cobourg, Ont., on Saturday, June 15th, 1929, by the Rev. Frank C. Harper, Ruth Eileen Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Thompson, Napanee, to Warren Albertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Albertson, Kingston, Ont.

RABIES TREATMENT GIVEN

Robert Hill, Deseronto, was bitten by a dog which, it is feared, was a sufferer from rabies. He met the dog on the road and the animal jumped at him and fastened its teeth in his groin. He was bought to Shannonville, where treatment was given as a precaution against rabies. The dog was killed and its head sent to Toronto for examination. Four other dogs known to have come in contact with the animal also were destroyed.

BY DOG SLED AND CANOE THROUGH THELON SANCTUARY

Examination of Northwest Territories Preserve Brings Explorer Many Trying Experiences

The full report of the survey of the southern portion of the Thelon game sanctuary, east of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories, has been received in the Department of the Interior at Ottawa from Mr. W. H. B. Hoare, Commissioner for the North West Territories and Yukon Branch, who recently completed the work and is now engaged in investigation of other parts of the preserve. The patrol and intensive examination of this area is being made with a view to discovering the number of musk-ox and other game animals in the 15,000 square mile preserve that measures should be taken for their protection, and to lay out routes and locate sites for cabins for a proposed warden service.

The report relates the experiences of Mr. Hoare and his companion, Warden A. J. Knox of Fort Smith, N.W.T., during their trip from the base camp near the Royal Canadian Mounted Police post at Fort Reliance, at the east end of Great Slave Lake, through the preserve to the junction of the Hanbury and Thelon Rivers, and return. For eight months they were out of touch with civilization,—battling blizzards, blinding flood, and cold and much of the time on short rations. Inaccuracies in the only available charts and the arduous journey to the east end of Great Slave Lake was continued. The trip was made via Resolution, where a halt had to be made for nine days to allow the dogs to recover from the strain of the journey. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police post was reached on March 5th, and here a canoe shipped in the previous season was added to the equipment and transported on one of the sleds for use in summer travel.

On May 10th the first camp was pitched within the preserve a thousand passed the party's camp, moving westward. Throughout the remainder of the summer caribou were numerous in the territory passed through.

A three-mile portage took the party from Ford Lake to Campbell Lake and on July 24th the explorers started along Campbell lake to find the arm that was supposed to connect with Smart Lake. The lake was found to be about 25 miles long, irregular in shape, and with many deep arms. Two trips around the lake, careful examination of the shore line, and excursions overland failed to reveal any connection between Campbell and Smart Lakes. The nearest approach of the two lakes to one another was found to be about 12 miles, the route involving 16 portages covering a distance of nearly three miles.

The party passed through Smart Lake and proceeded down to the Hanbury River to the junction with the Thelon. This point, where it had been planned to build a warden's cabin, was reached on October 9th. Ice was forming in the lakes and rivers at this time. The investigators immediately started work on the cabin before it was completed the food supply began to run low. Ice running in the rivers made it impossible to catch fish and the question of food became a serious one. The investigators had to share their meager supply with the dogs and short-rationing was resorted to to conserve the supply, while the work on the cabin was rushed to completion.

On November 22nd the party left the Thelon base on the return trip to Fort Reliance as it was imperative that food be soon secured. A herd of musk-ox and the tracks of a second herd were seen on the banks of the Thelon but of course the animals were not disturbed. Reaching Grove rapids, near the lake where game was picked up and both men and dogs recuperated their strength during the three days they were storm-bound at this point. The last lap of the journey, with the food supply uncertain and weather conditions becoming worse each day, is graphically told in the following extract from the report:—

"Starting overland from Grove Rapids on November 28th we reached Campbell Lake on December 1st in a blinding storm. The storm held us up for two days and the fuel oil became almost exhausted while food ran so low that we had to exist on one meal. December 4th we pushed on to the west end of the lake and camped among some caribou which provided us with much needed fuel to dry out our frozen sleeping sacks and clothing.

"On December 5th the last meal of our food was eaten for breakfast. We crossed the three-mile portage to Ford Lake and went eight miles down the lake and found the supply cache intact. The supplies proved most welcome and the famished dogs were given a good feed. Next morning we went on in a blizzard to the southwest end of Ford Lake and there had to take shelter in a snow bank. That day about twenty caribou were seen.

"December 7th saw us again on the way. The remainder of the journey to Fort Reliance was made in easy stages and we arrived at the Police detachment on December 13th."

After resting the dogs and securing a renewal of supplies and equipment, the party started back early in 1929 to explore other portions of the Thelon sanctuary and it is expected that Mr. Hoare will return to Ottawa next autumn, coming out by way of Baker Lake and Hudson Bay.

NAME OF DOG PORTAGE —HISTORY OF ORIGIN

Several Interesting Explanations Recorded by Geographic Board of Canada.

One expects to find throughout Canada lakes and rivers with such names as Whitefish, Sturgeon, Trout, Otter, and Beaver, implying that the water in question are the habitat of these animals. Almost as numerous as these are the lakes and rivers bearing the name, Dog, but why they should be called is not apparent. One out standing example is that on one of the fur traders' routes to the west from Lake Superior which ascended the Kaministiwis River from Fort William, Ontario crossed up Dog portage. Several explanations have been given for this application of the name according to a report of the Geographic Board of Canada.

The first known reference to Dog portage is as "portage du chien" in an account by the Intendant Begon, dated 1716, of a journey up the Kaministikwia River to Lake of the Woods, made in 1688 by Jacques de Noyon. The earliest explanation found by the Geographic Board was contained in the diary of a fur trader who, under date of June 16th, 1816, states that the name commemorates a tribe of Sioux who came to the region on a war expedition. He adds that the image of a dog is cut in the ground on one side of the portage and at that time was still perfectly visible.

Keating, the United States traveller, who crossed the portage in 1823, explains the name as due to the figure of a dog carved upon the hill over which the trail passes, and adds that "this figure is nearly obliterated." Keating notes that "it is supposed to have been executed by a party of Sioux who had advanced thus far on a war-like excursion."

Sir George Simpson, Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company who travelled west by this route in 1841, agrees that the name was first applied to the portage. He states that according to the traditions of the natives, two enormous dogs having taken a nap at the top of the hill on the portage, left the impress of their bodies behind them, "and certain it is," he concludes, "that such figures have been marked on the turf."

CANADA INTERESTED IN U. S. BIRD LEGISLATION

Dominion Concerned About Winter Feeding Grounds in South for Migratory Birds

Canada is directly concerned in everything that effects the protection of bird life in the United States because unless migratory birds have a resting place in winter, there will soon be none left to fly north in spring and our great breeding and nesting areas will be left untenanted. The announcement that the United States Congress had passed the Norbeck-Andresen Bill, appropriating $8,000,000 for the purchase of marsh lands to be used as bird sanctuaries, aroused more than usual interest in this country and Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, whose department is charged with the administration of the Migratory Bird Treaty, being asked to comment on the nature and purpose of the Act, made the following statement:—

"Agricultural expansion and other developments in the southern United States, where most of Canada's waterfowl spend the winter, have gradually been encroaching upon the marsh lands there, and those interested in wild life conversation in the United States have been trying for some years to find an adequate solution of the problem of providing these birds with suitable wintering marshes. Apparently the passage of the Norbeck-Andresen Bill by Congress is the answere that has been sought. If the waterfowl are denied suitable wintering marshes they will become extinct in spite of all that Canada can do to protect them in summer for the birds go south in winter. Sportsmen and bird lovers of Canada will be delighted that this action has been taken under the Migratory Bird Treaty by Congress and that this Bill provides for a series of inviolable bird sanctuaries in the south.

"With reference to the Dominion's action in this matter I am happy to be able to say that Canada has reserved forty bird sanctuaries under the Treaty and in these the summer homes of gray birds on the coasts and of ducks and geese in the interior are protected. In addition to these sanctuaries fifty-one public shooting grounds have been set aside. These are great marshes where waterfowl nest safely during the breeding time, and which differ only from total sanctuaries in that shooting is allowed on them for a set time each fall.

"Other benefits secured under the Treaty, I may add are total protection for Canada's insect-eating birds, which help to protect crops and forests from insect pests; the total prohibition of spring shooting, so that our migratory birds can come north on their way to the breeding grounds without molestation; and the universal prohibition of the sale of migratory game birds, in the United States.

PARK ANIMALS ARE FEARLESS

Wild life conversation measures adopted and enforced in the National Parks of Canada have resulted in the wild creatures losing much of their fear of man. It is no uncommon occurence to encounter wild deer on the streets of Banff townsite in Rocky Mountains Park, Alberta, while Rocky Mountain sheep graze alongside certain sections of the park highways undisturbed by the passing motor traffic.

SHARED QUEEN'S BREAKFAST

Queen Victoria Used to Bring Food to Milkman at Six o'Clock In the Morning.

A survey of the older parts of London has brought to light an interesting secret associated with Queen Victoria in the person of a milkman who once had the honor of regularly sharing in the Queen's breakfast.

Tucked away in a quiet back street, not far from Buckingham Palace, is a cobbled courtyard known as Why's Yard. On one side of the yard, reached by a narrow passage, stand the original sheds in which were housed the cows which supplied the Queen with cream for her morning meal. Facing the sheds, now used as garages, is a group of picturesque, ivy-covered houses, in one of which lives Mr. W. Bownes, who once milked the cows and delivered the milk at Buckingham Palace.

"It seems like yesterday since I used to talk every morning to Queen Victoria in the garden of Buckingham Palace, Mr. Bownes told a Tit-Bits man.

"I was just a lad then, but I was always thrilled at the thought that when I milked the cows I was working for the Queen. Often I was up at two o'clock in the morning. At six I delivered the milk to Buckingham Palace, taking it through the side doors in the cart which we called a 'float.'

"It was then that I shared the Queen's breakfast. Sometimes she would send one of her servants down to me with the food left over from her early morning snack, but more often she would bring it to me herself. She was an early riser, and would come into the garden of the palace for a breath of fresh air. The Queen seemed to take a liking to me, and was always concerned that my work forced me to rise so early. She may have been a Queen and an Empress to others, but she always behaved to me as though she were no more than a kindly housewife to whom I had delivered the milk. I doubt if any of the lords and ladies who surrounded her later in the day ever knew of these early morning idyils between the Queen and her adoring milk-boy.

"She was so kindly that I never felt nervous or ill at ease. She would ask me how I spent my time and all about my family, and I sat down under the shadow of the balcony eating her breakfast. Those were the happiest moments I have ever known, and the memory of them is a solace to me now in my infirmity.

"This is one of the few historic parts left untouched in London," Mr. Bownes continued. "I remembered when this road was a ditch and the part round about was known as Frogs' Island. It was a dismal place, haunted by thieves and vagabonds, and consisting of slum dwellings.

"Many a time Queen Victoria would pass through here in her carriage. The men used to take off their hats to her and the women would curtsy, but beyond that nobody took any notice."

LORD ROBERTS' HOME A CLUB.

Residence In Berkshire Being Turned Into Social Country Resort.

Englemere, formerly the home of the late Lord Roberts, at Ascot, Berkshire, is to be opened as a country club for military and naval officers and members of leading London clubs.

Lawn tennis and squash racquet courts, stabling, garage accommodation and stables, and croquet and archery lawns have been provided, and the mansion has been equipped luxuriously.

The new club stands in 80 acres of lovely park and woodland. Countess Roberts and Lady Edwina Lewis, daughters of the late field marshal, are responsible for the transformation.

An official of the club said:

"Lord Roberts spent the closing years of his life at Englemere. As he was so devoted to the place, it is of interest to know that it will be preserved intact. The house with few modifications is as Lord Roberts left it. His pictures and trophies of war and of the chase are still on the walls."

FAST-FADING INK.

English Prelate Urges Care In Writing Fluid to Preserve Records.

The poor quality of modern ink is one of the many questions at present agitating the Church of England in the Old Country.

The Bishop of Worcester recently described to me his method of how there is preserved in his palace a register more than 600 years old. The leaves are of thick parchmain, and the words can be clearly deciphered. But over the bishop's study is a photograph of the late Bishop Creighton, Bishop of London, and underneath his signature written about fifty years ago. But the ink is fading fast.

The bishop believes that much of the modern paper containing ecclesiastical records will decay, discolor and crumble away and the ink will fade. He is, therefore, urging the church to use parchmain for their records, and ink that will not fade.

A Curious Reflection.

"Have you been the Museum ghost?" asked my friend, an Egyptologist, when with him in the Egyptian Gallery of the British Museum. We had just passed the empty black basalt coffin of a priest of Ptah, but on looking through the glass case that contains a statuette of Isis, he pointed out that the previously empty coffin now held a mysterious figure! My companion's explanation of the somewhat disturbing apparition was that the reflection of an effigy in a coffin on the other side of Isis's case was caught by one glass of the case and thrown by the other glass right into the breast coffin of Ptah's priest! The illusion is certainly remarkable.

Ken (ringing up George)—That you, George? I'm just going along to the club. Can you manage to get along."

George—Sorry, but I'm afraid you've got the wrong number. This is Main one—four—five.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

It wouldn't hurt anybody if kindness to animals was generally practiced. We do not say that the great majority of people are not kind to them. The exception is the rule. Here and there, however, are persons who are in position to be carelessly unkind to dumb beasts. Once in awhile the Humane Society is compelled because of excessive cruelty to take action against individuals. When this occurs there are those who think that the members of the society are mere busybodies, interfering in what is none of their business. In that, of course, the critics are mistaken. It is the business of any person to interfere where cruelty to animals is being practiced. But the great majority of persons are not inclined to do more than verbally protest against cases of cruelty that come under their observation. It therefore becomes necessary for someone to be clothed with authority to take definite action where such course is deemed advisable. Hence the Humane Society. This society was for many years known as the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Its shorter name is more comprehensive and more in keeping with modern ideas.

Necessity for such a society is recognized in the charter of activity granted to it by the Government. Similar societies are to be found in every community of importance in Canada and other countries where cruelty to animals is outlawed. The existence of the local society has been justified on numerous occasions and lately in the cases that have been brought before thee magistrate of Port Arthur and Fort William. Much of the members of the society regret the necessity for taking drastic action but do not shrink from bringing prominent and extreme offenders to justice, but not by any means do they introduce all offenders to the magistrate. Many minor cases of cruelty brought to the attention of the officers of the society are dealt with outside of the courts. It is a credit of most people when their attention is directed to the facts, they are quick to respond to the appeals made upon their sense of humanity. More cruelty is suffered through thoughtlessness than by intent. If we would all do our share in meeting justice to our dumb friends there would be no need for the existence of the Humane Society.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

THE Highway Traffic Act requires that every person operating a motor vehicle shall secure an operator's or chauffeur license and shall at all times while driving carry same. A penalty is provided for failure to produce such licenses when demanded by an officer.

It is necessary, owing to the number of motorists who persist in driving without licenses, that the police be instructed to require the production of these licenses from time to time.

CANADA'S TOURIST POSSIBILITIES

Greater Attention Being Given to Development of Traffic—Dominion's Varied and Unrivalled Attractions

One of the notable features in Canada's commercial development in recent years has been the increased attention and active aid directed to building up the country's tourist trade. The Department of the Interior has long been closely associated with this phase of our national economic life; its investigatory work relative to development of the natural resources of the country places it in a position to supply valuable information along the line of tourist inquiries and to issue material that promotes the development of tourist travel. For a number of years the Department has been conducting a vigorous campaign to bring Canada to the attention of prospective tourists and to extend tourist business as a constructive public activity that contributes largely to the national income and development.

That this work is bearing much fruit is evidenced by the fact that tourist travel is fast becoming one of the important industries of the Dominion. The growth of the traffic is most strikingly indicated by the increase in tourist automobile entries. In 1928 a total of 3,645,455 tourist cars entered Canada, as compared with 3,153,800 in 1927; an increase of upwards of 500,000 cars. The expansion of tourist travel to Canada via railway and steamship lines has been remarkable in recent years, and while it is officially estimated that the value from all classes of the traffic reached $242,754,000 in 1927, reports from reliable sources throughout the country indicate that this expenditure was far surpassed in 1928. Briefly tourist travel brings to Canada an income comparable with the value of either the country's pulp and paper or mineral production.

As already pointed out, the work of developing tourist traffic fits logically into the general work of Canadian development. The railway and steamship companies have played a very important part in directing attention to tourist attractions particularly along their respective routes. Well organized provincial and local tourist bureaus have been active.

With such magnificent and varied natural scenery combined with ideal summer and autumn conditions and accomodation to meet the requirements of practically all classes, Canada offers the vacationist an unlimited range of attractions each having a strong appeal. The natural advantages which, the country hold for the canoeist, the camper, the motorist, the angler, or those seeking recreation and health are unique. Each year increasing numbers enjoy the scenic beauty of Canada's vast lakeland districts, her forested areas and majestic mountain ranges, which are surpassed by no country in the world.

One of the most historic and picturesque parts of the Dominion is comprized in the seaside provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The distinctive recreational attractions of these provinces include scenic rivers and lakes, famous for their salmon and trout; easily accessible hunting areas; beautiful marine views; good motor highways; and delightful summers and autumns. Ontario and Quebec, Canada's great central provinces, stretching from the International Boundary northward to James and Hudson Bays cover an immense and diversified territory. First-class railway and steamship accommodation, excellent motor highways and a network of rivers and lakes provide a generous transportation system. The great Laurentian upland which occupies most of Ontario and Quebec is a country of forest and stream, of hunting, fishing, canoeing and camping. It is a country of rare natural charm and the extensive areeas of forest reserves and provincial parks offer a splendid field for study of wild life. In addition one is always assured of pleasant warm days and cool evenings during the summer and autumn seasons.

The prairie country, which forms a broad belt across the southern portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, though less known for its attractions than for its productiveness, and its endless miles of golden grain, has an appeal all its own—there is a spaciousness which gives the idea of freedom, youth and rapid development. The northern areas of these provinces abound in rivers, lake, and forests, which offer the angler good fishing, and the sportsman exellent opportunities for hunting birds and big game. Alberta shares with British Columbia the possession of some of the most famous mountain scenery in the world, much of which has been preserved in the immense areas which have been set aside as national parks British Columbia, Canada's most westerly province, is by reason of her enormous wealth of forest and fishery, marvellous and magnificent mountain ranges, and majestic rivers, a recreational country of great attraction. This province offers the angler various species of salmon and trout and in addition its vast mountain regions are natural breeding grounds for numerous varities of game animals. Scenic routes in both Alberta and British Columbia link up with highways of the United States and Canada's Middle West and enable the visitor to view some of the world's most renowned spots in the Rockies with their snow-capped peaks, enchanting valleys and jewel-like lakes.

Yukon Territory, in the last five years, has come to the front as one of Canada's tourist regions pre-eminent in certain characteristics. Lines of well-equipped steamships and railways take each season, an increasing number of tourists to this land of the midnight sun. Big game is one of the major attractions, and the short, pleasant summer the profusion of wild flowers, the outstanding scenery, and the prolonged hours of daylight, are soures of wonder and delight to the many visitors. The Northwest Territories has hitherto been a great unknown land but already the advance of settlement and commerce has provided facilities which enable the tourist to follow in comfort in the footsteps of Mackenzie and other early explorers down a magnificent system of waterways to the Arctic ocean itself.

VIEW WORK OF FOREST PRODUCTS LABORATORIES

Members of Engineering Institute Visit Department of the Interior's Main Laboratories

On the occasion of a recent monthly meeting the members of the Ottawa branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada to the number of about 110 visited the main laboratories in Ottawa of the Forest Products Laboratories, Department of the Interior, and spent several hours viewing the modern equipment and studying the methods of work of that institution.

After a brief introductory explanation of the purposes and work of the laboratories, by Mr. T. A. McElhanney, the superintendent, the party inspected the various departments where the operations in progress were explained by the divisional officers. Practical demonstrations were given in timber mechanics, one of the chief attractions being the timber-testing machine which is the only one of its kind in Canada. Another wonderful contrivance seen in action was the hazard tester, a huge revolving drum which determines the amount of resistance crates and boxes of different sorts and sizes exert against careless and reckless handling. Standard specimens of forest products, such as cellulose derivatives, resin, and oil were exhibited and fully described; the processes of wood-preserving by creosoting ties and timber, together with the financial and structural advantages of the various processes were explained in detail; and an examination was made of the timber pathology display. The tour concluded with an interesting series of slides on timber physics.

The main laboratories in Ottawa include in their work the mechanical testing timbers, the utilization of wood waste, the study of wood decay, wood structure, the measurement of fibre lengths, the adhesive strength of wood glues, the holding power of nails and screws, the design of wooden containers, the preservative treatment of woods, the relative properties of different preservatives, the seasoning of wood either naturally or in dry kilns, the distillation of hardwoods, and many other related problems.

It may be stated that in addition to the main laboratories at Ottawa, there are branches in Vancouver and Montreal. The Vancouver branch deals with Pacific Coast woods, and the Pulp and paper Division in Montreal is devoted to scientific research in that field. The Montreal laboratory the work of which is carried on co-operatively by the Department of the Interior, the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, and McGill University, is housed in the new Pulp and Paper Building recently opened by His Excellency the Governor General.

CURIOUS RACES.

Bees Beat Pigeons In a Three-Mile Race.

Miners who have trained whippets to chase mechanical hares recently engaged in a novel match near Coalville, Leicestershire, England. A pigeon and a whippet raced over a grass course of 200 yards. The dog was given a start, but the pigeon won by a narrow margin. The pigeon flew only 18 inches above the ground, and after passing the winning post returned to its master.

Though there is no doubt about the homing pigeon's capacity for racing, it can lose. A fancier, told that bees could beat his pigeons, regarded the matter as a joke. The beekeeper thereupon offered to wager two to one on his bees.

Both were hard-headed Yorkshiremen, and iron-bound conditions were laid down, so that there could be no room for error. The rules were these: The bees, twelve in number, were to be released three miles from their hive, and the same number of pigeons an equal distance from their cote. The first six to arrive home to be the winners.

The first bee was home half a minute before the first bird, and three more bees reached their hive before the second pigeon.

Some time ago a race was run in Australia between an ostrich and a horse. In the sprints the horse just managed to win, but over a long distance the bird won easily.

An annual event in Calcutta is known as the Noah's Ark race, the competitors on the last occasion being a goat, a horse, and an elephant. Whether there was a handicap we do not know, but the goat won easily and the horse was a bad third.

It is on record that Lord Oxford once backed a drove of geese to race an equal number of turkeys from Norwich to London. He won the bet, for the geese kept to the road all the time. The turkeys, when darkness came on, flew to roost in the trees, from which their drivers had a hard task to dislodge them. The turkeys were two days behind the geese!

CHIMNEY SWEEP AIDED ARMY.

Cadman Created Military Titles of Salvation Army.

It is Elijah Cadman, a humble chimney-sweep of Coventry, to whom the credit for the military ranks and titles of the Salvation Army must really go, writes a contributor in Tit-Bits.

Once known as "King of the Roughs," Cadman was converted and became an ardent Salvationist. He was given charge of a mission and began to call himself a "Captain in God's Army to fight the devil." To mark William Booth as his superior officer, Cadman called him "General." And because William Booth knew well the value of a dramatic appeal to the popular mind, the titles, after some hesitation due to modesty on William Booth's own part, were accepted.

To-day the Salvation Army is more than an army; it is a League of Nations in itself. Salvation Army officers preach their religious message and perform their social work in 67 different languages, including Cingalese, Chitscuru, Kikwahlie, Shinshan, Xosa and Zechua.

NO MORE BRITISH OAK.

Grows So Slowly, It Is Being Superseded by Larch.

Reforestation plans in Great Britain call for very few oak saplings. Oak grows so slowly that it does not pay and it is being superseded by larch. An oak at fifteen years is worth nothing, but a larch of that age will make good fence posts which will last in the open for at least twelve years.

Oak is the best for heavy gate posts but larch is almost as good. Elm is best known for the making of coffins, but it is useful for all inside work and makes fine rafters. Unfortunately it rots when exposed to the weather.

Beech, poplar and sycamore are all quite useless for fence making, for they rot quickly in the open. Spruce and silver fir are not much better. Both will decay within five years.

Oddly enough horse chestnut, though quite a soft wood, withstands bad weather better than a number of other trees.

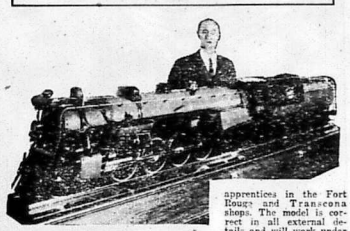
STEAM UP FOR LONDON



This model, a perfect working miniature of one of the Canadian National Railways' giant 6100 Northern type locomotives, is now on its way to London, England, where it will be exhibited in the European offices of the National system. John E. Wood, of Winnipeg, constructed it in his spare time, and it took him fourteen months of diligence and skill. The main frames and some of the other parts were made by apprentices in the Fort Rouge and Transcona shops. The model is correct in all external details and will work under its own power. The boiler has been tested to 150 pounds pressure. For the purposes of exhibition a motor was placed in the oak base to drive the wheels through a worm gear on the main driving axle. The over-all length of the model is eight feet, six inches, while the over-all length of the original 6100 is 94 feet, six inches. The model weighs approximately 275 pounds and the superlocomotive 526 tons.

Are you miserable and run-down?

WOMEN of all ages, all over the world, are finding new health in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Actual microscopic tests have shown that the medicinal elements contained in them increase the blood count and build up and revitalize the entire system. Miss Juliette Seguin, of Dalkeith, Ont., testifies as follows:—

"Two years ago I became weak, nervous and run-down. Various prescribed treatments did not help me. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it was not long before I noticed a big improvement; and soon I was in the best of health. A year ago also my mother was badly run-down; her nerves were shattered and life became a burden. She began taking the pills and as a result she is in perfect health."

Buy Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now at your druggist's or any dealer in medicine or by mail, 50 cents, postpaid, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Was In Bed All Summer

"I have to work in the store and do my own housework, too, and I got nervous and run-down and was in bed nearly all summer. The least noise would make me nervous. I was told to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken seven bottles. It has made me stronger and put more color into my face. I am looking after my store and housework and my four children and I am getting along nicely now."—Mrs. J. Malin, R. R. No. 5, Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The stately old aristocrat was approached somewhat cockily by a rich and vulgar young man who annoyed: "I say, sir, I am thinking of marrying one of your girls. Have I your permission?"

"Yes, indeed," was the reply. "Which one interest you, the maid or the cook?"

TEX M'LEOD'S STORY

How a Cowboy Left a Texas Ranch to Take Up Stage Career.

From a Texas ranch to the West End (London) stage is a pretty long way. I've done it by easy stages, writes Tex McLeod, the famous fancy rope spinner, in Pearson's.

My father was a Scottish schoolmaster, and my mother Spanish, with lands and money of her own. In the hopes of getting both, my father married her. All he got was ten kids, seven boys and three girls. I was one of them. If there was ever a disappointed Scotsman, it was my father.

Still, he was a business-like man. When I went to his school, he nearly cried when he found I was not to pay any fees.

My proper education was on the ranch where I was born. Being bred among cowboys, I became a cowboy, and soon began to break in wild horses. Rope-spinning followed as a natural thing. The next best thing to lassoing a horse is making people think you can—even if you can't. My reputation as a fancy roper worked both ways.

Then, in 1912, I went in for a rope-spinning contest in Calgary, Canada, for the title of "Champion Fancy Rope-Spinner of the World." I won it. Only the Judge knew why. Even now, I get entangled in my own rope every evening.

In my time I've lassoed everything—from a snake to a Shakesperian actor. The Shakespearian actor was standing in the wings one night when a fancy throw of mine went wide, and the rope fell round his neck. I pulled it, and Hamlet came on, shouting savagely.

The first time I ever spun yarns whilst spinning ropes was when I performed at a ship's concert on the way from São Francisco to Australia. All the stories I told them were true. Looking back, I cannot remember any particular ones they laughed at. It is more than possible they didn't laugh at all.

In Australia, I performed in a big Wild West Circus. Hoot Gibson, the cowboy star of the films, figured in the same show. He was one of the "crowd" men, and received fifty shillings a week.

Ten years ago, an agent in New York suggested I should go on the stage, there to twist ropes and talk. At first I was not at all keen, and then the lure of the footlights gripped me. To-day I often wish myself back on the ranch.

My first talking show took place in Liverpool. It wasn't my fault that I succeeded. Directly I came on the stage, a youth in the gallery shouted: "Hello, Yankee; how are you, Yankee?" and so on. The audience shook with mirth at his imitation of the American twang. Consequently when I started my patter they were already laughing. In the morning the critics said I was the great in the sandwich at the so-and-so theatre. If that is so, that sandwich in the middle was the mustard.

Recently I came back to England on the Berengaria. On board was Prince Henry, eager to meet his old father. At a ship's concert I cracked jokes about the prince, and so, when I encountered him afterwards, I felt a little uneasy, but I need not have been.

"McLeod," he said, "I enjoyed your performance. I hope to see you in England."

I prefer England to the U. S. A. I've been here for several weeks, and just had my first glass of water. I like the English for, too. It must be my Scottish blood. I am able to develop the films of my camera in the daytime—and so save a lot of time.

TO GET BRITISH BREW.

Corporation Gets 99-Year Monopoly In Albania.

Most of Albania's economic life has been mortgaged to Italian interests, but Albanians will buy British when they take their beer. A British corporation has obtained the sole concession of the brewing of beer for ninety-nine years in the kingdom of Zog.

Thanks to the excellent terms obtained from the Zogu Government the concessionaires will be taxed only 55 cents for every 175 pints of beer they manufacture, while there is a tax of $8.95 on imported beer. King Zog has promised to raise this import tax if necessary to safeguard the company against foreign competition. In no case will the import tax be lowered.

The concessionaires are exempt from any payment of income tax or capital tax in Albania. They expect a profit of at least $500,000 per annum.

Sanctity of All Life.

Bardoli, India, recently witnessed a quaint mass meeting to protest against the massacre of a number of fleas by a disgruntled traveller. Then, not content with this action, the meeting, which consisted of members of the Jain cult, sent a deputation to the philosopher and leader, Mr. Ghandi himself. It appears that a traveller peddling homespun cloth, ing took lodging in a Bardoli hotel and found it full of fleas. Unmindful of the sanctity of all life, he destroyed some with insect powder and the remainder with kerosene.

Goose Acts as Watchdog.

A grey-white goose sitting outside a butcher's shop in Bloomsbury, England, does duty as watchdog all day long. She answers to the name of Daisy and gives an affirmative cackle to children and grown-ups of whose appearance she approves. She furiously forbids all dogs to approach the shop-door. She deals rapidly and effectually with cats which attempt to slink inside by stacking them by the tail and slinging them into the street.

LITTLE MARY PICKFORD

BELASCO TELLS HOW HE MET UNSPOILABLE ACTRESS.

Sitting In a Dark Theatre He Was Charmed When the Child Spoke Her Lines for Him—Always Was Sensible and Sweet.

David Belasco has these interesting things to say about Mary Pickford:

My first meeting with her occurred in 1907, when I was preparing to produce my play "The Warrens of Virginia." I had chosen Frank Keenan and Charlotte Walker for the leading roles, because I felt that they were most certain to score in the characters of war-time southern folk. The next necessity was two children—just the right children—for the roles of Bob and Betty. Here was a problem, for it was indicated that the children must match adequately the characters of the father and mother, and must have unusually fine voices.

Child after child appeared and was rejected, until one day the late William Dean, then my assistant, came to me with a note from Blanche Bates, asking me to see a little protege of hers.

"She's a sweet, self-possessed little thing," he told me, "and has had some stage experience, though nothing of especial note."

I told Mr. Dean to have the child memorize some lines, and instruct her to come to me on the stage after the next evening's performance of "The Rose of the Rancho." Further to test whether she had poise under adverse conditions, I told him to usher her directly on to the stage without bringing her to meet me first.

I was waiting in the dark auditorium the next evening. The sole illumination of the stage was the pilot light—a single incandescent which is kept burning continuously when the remaining lights are off. Soon there was a stir in the wings, and I saw Mr. Dean motion the child forward.

Her intelligent eyes searched the darkness until she made out my figure in an aisle seat, well forward. She smiled, thoroughly unperturbed, inclined her head in greeting, and said:

"I have memorized some lines from Patsy, Poor, a character in 'Human Life.' If you wish to hear them."

Though I was charmed by the child's appearance, I carefully kept any note of encouragement out of my voice, merely saying, "Proceed, please. I will be glad to hear them."

Then, without further preliminaries and with the utmost self-confidence, the child began voicing the [illegible]. And as she spoke, I marvelled at the clearness of her diction. There was no slurring of consonants, no [illegible] of words.

I watched her hands in the glare of the pilot-light, but there was not the slightest evidence of nervousness. The expressive fingers moved in time with her perfect gestures. Her eyes gleamed with interest.

I [illegible] when I said, "That's very good," at the end. I knew that I had found my "Betty Warren," and I told her to come to my studio next day.

"But shall I come for the whole?" I exclaimed when she appeared [illegible] promptly. I am always [illegible].

"Yes, it is pretty terrible, isn't it?" she said, laughing after she had settled herself in one of my largest chairs. "But daddy's name was 'Smith' and mother chose the 'Gwendolyn' part of it."

"One of my relatives married a man named Pickford," she suggested tentatively.

"Mary Pickford!" I ejaculated. "It was made to order for you. That is it; the perfect name for you!"

With the close of "The Warrens of Virginia," Mary came to me and said:

"Unless you advise against it, I think I will try motion pictures for a while. I have had some tests at the Biograph studio and Mr. David Griffith has promised me regular work. I think I will like it, but I do not want to attempt it, if you think it will interfere with my stage prospects. Tell me what to do."

Here was a problem! I knew that the child's beauty and sweetness would make her a positive success in pictures. But, on the other hand, the stage would be losing these qualities. But in the end I nodded approval.

"Will you make me one promise?" I asked.

"Anything, of course," she replied.

I pledged her to forget the speaking stage definitely for a time and to give her best efforts in the new field.

It may be that they can advance you more rapidly to the heights than you can rise in the legitimate theatre," I told her. "But I want you to learn once and for all whether there is fame for you in the films."

Her success was instantaneous.

She knew that she was a born actress—but never did she attempt the thousand-and-one little tricks of temperament so many display. In fact, she was more apt to satirize them.

I remember that one evening I was chatting with her before the performance. She had a pet kitten and the animal, jealous at being neglected, began to mew. Finally Mary smiled roguishly and said to the animal:

"See here, young kitten-cat, don't you know actresses with temperaments cannot stand silly noises in the dressing-rooms?"

Success never has spoiled and never will spoil her.

Woman Makes Bricks.

[illegible] woman in England who follows the ancient craft of hand [illegible]'s Mrs. Bennie Gibbs, of [illegible] Farm, Ingham. Her father died [illegible] year or two ago, leaving an [illegible]ard in the corner of his [illegible]. Mrs. Gibbs turned her attention to brickmaking, and became an expert. She motors samples of her work to local builders and architects, who welcome her fine hand-made bricks.

Are you miserable and run-down?

WOMEN of all ages, all over the world, are finding new health in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Actual microscopic tests have shown that the medicinal elements contained in them increase the blood count and build up and revitalize the entire system. Miss Juliette Seguin, of Dalkeith, Ont., testifies as follows:—

"Two years ago I became weak, nervous and run-down. Various prescribed treatments did not help me. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it was not long before I noticed a big improvement; and soon I was in the best of health. A year ago also my mother was badly run-down; her nerves were shattered and life became a burden. She began taking the pills and as a result she is in perfect health."

Was In Bed All Summer

"I have to work in the store and do my own housework, too, and I got nervous and run-down and was in bed nearly all summer. The least noise would make me nervous. I was told to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken seven bottles. It has made me stronger and put more color into my face. I am looking after my store and housework and my four children and I am getting along nicely now."—Mrs. J. Malin, R. R. No. 5, Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The stately old aristocrat was approached somewhat cockily by a rich and vulgar young man who announced: "I say, sir, I am thinking of marrying one of your girls. Have I your permission?"

"Yes, indeed," was the reply. "Which one interest you, the maid or the cook?"

TEX M'LEOD'S STORY

How a Cowboy Left a Texas Ranch to Take Up Stage Career.

From a Texas ranch to the West End (London) stage is a pretty long way. I've done it by easy stages, writes Tex McLeod, the famous fancy rope spinner, in Pearson's.

My father was a Scottish schoolmaster, and my mother Spanish, with lands and money of her own. In the hopes of getting both, my father married her. All he got was ten kids, seven boys and three girls. I was one of them. If there was ever a disappointed Scotsman, it was my father.

Still, he was a business-like man. When I went to his school, he nearly cried when he found I was not to pay any fees.

My proper education was on the ranch where I was born. Being bred among cowboys, I became a cowboy, and soon began to break in wild horses. Rope-spinning followed as a natural thing. The next best thing to lassoing a horse is making people think you can—even if you can't. My reputation as a fancy roper worked both ways.

Then, in 1912, I went in for a rope-spinning contest in Calgary, Canada, for the title of "Champion Fancy Rope-Spinner of the World." I won it. Only the judge knew why. Even now, I get entangled in my own rope every evening.

In my time I've lassoed everything—from a snake to a Shakesperian actor. The Shakesperian actor was standing in the wings one night when a fancy throw of mine went wide, and the rope fell round his neck. I pulled it, and Hamlet came on, shouting savagely.

The first time I ever spun yarns whilst spinning ropes was when I performed at a ship's concert on the way from San Francisco to Australia. All the stories I told them were true. Looking back, I cannot remember any particular one they laughed at. It is more than possible they didn't laugh at all.

In Australia, I performed in a big Wild West Circus. Hoot Gibson, the cowboy star of the films, figured in the same show. He was one of the "crowd" men, and received fifty shillings a week.

Ten years ago, an agent in New York suggested I should go on the stage, there to twist ropes and talk. At first I was not at all keen, and then the lure of the footlights gripped me. To-day I often wish myself back on the ranch.

My first talking show took place in Liverpool. It wasn't my fault that I succeeded. Directly I came on the stage, a youth in the gallery shouted: "Hello, Yankee; how are you, Yankee?" and so on. The audience shook with mirth at his imitation of the American twang. Consequently when I started my patter they were already laughing. In the morning the critics said I was the hit in the programme at the so-and-so theatre. If that is so, that youngster in the gallery was the mustard.

Recently I came back to England for the first time in twenty years. On board was Prince George, en route to meet his dear father. As a ship's concert I cracked jokes about the prince, and so, when I encountered him afterwards, I felt a trifle uneasy, but I need not have been.

"McLeod," he said, "I enjoyed your performance. I hope to see you in England."

I prefer England to the U. S. A. I've been here for several weeks, and just had my first glass of water. I like the English for, too. It must be my Scottish blood. I am able to develop the films of my camera in the daytime—and so save a lot of time.

TO GET BRITISH BREW.

Corporation Gets 99-Year Monopoly In Albania.

Most of Albania's economic life has been mortgaged to Italian interests, but Albanians will buy British when they take their beer. A British corporation has obtained the sole concession of the brewing of beer for ninety-nine years in the kingdom of Zor.

Thanks to the excellent terms obtained from the Zogu Government the concessionaires will be taxed only 55 cents for every 175 pints of beer they manufacture, while there is a tax of $8.95 on imported beer. King Zog has promised to raise this import tax if necessary to safeguard the company against foreign competition. In no case will the import tax be lowered.

The concessionaires are exempt from any payment of income tax or capital tax in Albania. They expect a profit of at least $500,000 per annum.

Sanctity of All Life.

Bardoli, India, recently witnessed a giant mass meeting to protest against the massacre of a number of fleas by a disgruntled traveller. Then, full content with this action, the meeting, which consisted of members of the Jain cult, sent a deputation to the philosopher and leader, Mr. Ghandi himself. It appears that a traveller peddling homespun clothing took lodging in a Bardoli hotel and found it full of fleas. Unmindful of the sanctity of all life, he decoyed some with insect powder and the remainder with kerosene.

Goose Acts as Watchdog.

A grey-white goose sitting outside a butcher's shop in Bloomsbury, England, does duty as watchdog all day long. She answers to the name of Daisy and gives an affirmative cackle to children and grown-ups of whose appearance she approves. She furiously forbids all dogs to approach the shop-door. She deals rapidly and effectively with cats which attempt to slink inside by clasping them by the tail and slinging them into the street.

Is Growing Fast.

London is growing faster than any great city. Its population has risen from six and a half millions to eight millions in the last twenty-five years.

LITTLE MARY PICKFORD

BELASCO TELLS HOW HE MET UNSPOILABLE ACTRESS.

Sitting In a Dark Theatre He Was Charmed When the Child Spoke Her Lines for Him—Always Was Sensible and Sweet.

David Belasco has these interesting things to say about Mary Pickford:

My first meeting with her occurred in 1907, when I was preparing to produce my play "The Warrens of Virginia." I had chosen Frank Keenan and Charlotte Walker for the leading roles, because I felt that they were most certain to score in the characters of war-time southern folk. The next necessity was two children—just the right children—for the roles of Bob and Betty. Here was a problem, for it was indicated that the children must match adequately the characters of the father and mother, and must have unusually fine voices.

Child after child appeared and was rejected, until one day the late William Dean, then my assistant, came to me with a note from Blanche Bates, asking me to see a little protege of hers.

"She's a sweet, self-possessed little thing," he told me, "and has had some stage experience, though nothing of especial note."

I told Mr. Dean to have the child memorize some lines, and instruct her to come to me on the stage after the next evening's performance of "The Rose of the Rancho." Further to test whether she had poise under adverse conditions, I told him to usher her directly on to the stage without bringing her to meet me first.

I was waiting in the dark auditorium the next evening. The sole illumination of the stage was the pilot light—a single incandescent which is kept burning continuously when the remaining lights are off. Soon there was a stir in the wings, and I saw Mr. Dean motion the child forward.

Her intelligent eyes searched the darkness until she made out my figure in an aisle seat, well forward. She smiled, thoroughly unperturbed, inclined her head in greeting, and said:

"I have memorized some lines from Patsy, Poor, a character in 'Human Life,' if you wish to hear them."

Though I was charmed by the child's appearance, I carefully kept any note of encouragement out of my voice, merely saying, "Proceed, please. I will be glad to hear them."

Then, without further preliminaries and with the utmost self-confidence, the child began voicing the lines. And as she spoke, I marvelled at the clearness of her diction. There was no slurring of consonants, no fetching in-ins of words.

I watched her hands in the glare of the pilot-light, but there was not the slightest evidence of nervousness. The expressive fingers moved in time with the gesticulations. Her eyes gleamed with interest.

I was curious when I said, "That's very good," of the child. I knew then I had found my Betty Warrens, and I told her to come to the studio next day.

"But what is your name for the stage?" I exclaimed when she appeared and, crossing to me, I am Gladys Smith."

"Yes, that's pretty terrible, isn't it?" she said, laughing, after she had settled herself in one of my largest chairs. "But Daddy's name was Smith, and mother chose the 'Gladys' part of it."

"One of my relatives married a man named 'Pickford'," she suggested tentatively.

"Mary Pickford!" I ejaculated. "It was made to order for you. That is it; the perfect name for you!"

With the close of "The Warrens of Virginia," Mary came to me and said:

"Unless you advise against it, I think I will try motion pictures for a while. I have had some tests at the Biograph studio and Mr. David Griffith has promised me regular work. I think I will like it, but I do not want to attempt it, if you think it will interfere with my stage prospects. Tell me what to do."

Here was a problem! I knew that the child's beauty and sweetness would make her a positive success in pictures. But, on the other hand, the stage would be losing these qualities. But in the end I nodded approval.

"Will you make me one promise?" I asked.

"Anything, of course," she replied.

I pledged her to forget the speaking stage definitely for a time and to give her best efforts to the new field.

"It may be that they can advance you more rapidly to the heights than you can rise in the legitimate theatre," I told her. "But I want you to learn once and for all whether there is fame for you in the films."

Her success was instantaneous.

She knew that she was a born actress—but never did she attempt the thousand-and-one little tricks of temperament so many display. In fact, she was more apt to satirize them.

I remember that one evening I was chatting with her before the performance. She had a pet kitten and the animal, jealous at being neglected, began to mew. Finally, Mary smiled roguishly and said to the animal:

"See here, young kitten-cat, don't you know actresses with temperaments cannot stand silly noises in the dressing-rooms?"

Success never has spoiled and never could spoil her.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

The single-blessedness of Captain A. G. P. Benton the Northampton Conservative, a dashing cavalry officer and hero of the war, provoked some sour married misanthrope to ask him whether he was in favor of a tax on bachelors.

Instantly Captain Benton turned the laugh against the heckler by replying: "I am in favor of the Premier's policy not to put a tax on raw material."

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them. Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, an excellent remedy.

Why suffer from corns when they can be painlessly rooted out by using Holloway's Corn remedy.

Al Jolson the comedian asked his New York banker for a loan of $10 the other day and insisted on leaving $10,000 in Liberty Loan bonds as security. Jolson signed the note for $10 at 6 per cent interest, payable in one year, and received his loan. The banker was still mystified.

"How much do you people rent safety deposit boxes for?" asked Al.

"Ten dollars a year and up," replied the money man.

"Well," said Jolson, "you keep those bonds for me as security for the $10 loan and I'll be saving on safety deposit rental—let me see, about $9.40 a year."

Internally and Externally it is Good.—The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

Lady Candidate (to heckler who had been pestering her for a plain "Yes" or "No" to his various questions): "If I ask you a question will you answer 'Yes' or 'No?'"

Heckler: "With pleasure."

Lady Candidate (employing well-known device): "Have you stopped beating your wife."

Heckler: "No, I beat her this morning."

Lady Candidate "What?"

Heckler: "Yes—three up and two to play."

A Power of its Own.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has a subtle power of its own. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. It uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

"My dear," remarked Mr. Pitt, as he sat at breakfast one morning, "I think there was a burglar in the house last night."

"Why do you think that?" asked his loving wife.

"Well," said he, "I left a lot of money in my pockets before I went to bed last night, but ther's none there now."

"That's your own fault," she replied snappily. "You should have got up and shot the person. If you hadn't been such a coward, you wouldn't have lost your money."

"Yes, perhaps you're right my dear, but then, I didn't want to become a widower."

When a mother detects from the writhings and fretting of a child that worms are troubling it, she can procure a reliable remedy in Miller's Worm Powders which will expel all worms from the system. They may cause vomiting but this need cause no anxiety, because it is but a manifestation of their thorough work. No worms can long exist where these Powders are used.

Kindly gentleman—Dear, dear, little boy! Can't you get along without fighting? Why don't you arbitrate your difficulties?

Boy—I did. This is the arbitrator I'm fighting.

Asthma Victims. The man or woman subject to asthma is indeed a victim. What can be more terrifying than to suddenly be seized with paroxysms of choking which seem to fairly threaten the existence of life itself. From such a condition Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought many to completely restored health and happiness. It is known and prized in every section of this broad land.

A schoolboy magazine wisely observes that with one automobile in America to 6.6 persons, there are too many of the six-tenths persons driving.

THE OLD APPLE TREE.

The "Golden Pippin" Is Possibly a Native of Britain.

"Most of our fine varieties of apples came to us from the continent at various times since the fifteenth century, e.g., the old Nonpareil. But the Golden Pippin was possibly a native variety. Dr Duhamel called it the 'Pomme d'Or,' or 'Reinette d'Angleterre'," writes Mr. A. R. Horwood, F.L.S., in the Sussex County Magazine.

"The finer varieties of pippins were little known until the latter part of the sixteenth century. In the sixteenth year of Henry VIII. a Sussex celebrity, Leonard Mascall, author of one of the earliest works on angling, brought some pippins from abroad and planted them at Plumstead. These fine apples were undoubtedly the forerunners of many of the varieties, later improved upon, which we grow to-day in our gardens. These pippins were so named because they were raised from pips or seeds. At this time, apple culture had become an important industry, for in the thirty-seventh year of Henry VIII.'s reign it was a felony to bark an apple tree. It is probable that this legislation gave an impetus to the cultivation of pippins."

UNAUTHORIZED CREST.

Large Number of Crests and Insignia Not Registered.

British authorities are becoming increasingly vigilant in their hunt for those who are using crests and insignia without authority.

Strangely enough, writes Lostenor in the London Daily Chronicle, quite a number of municipalities throughout the country are among the offenders. Several London boroughs boast crests which have never been recognized at College.

The olive branch of Battersea, a curious symbol for the alleged "redest" borough in the south, is unauthorized, and Woolwich uses three silver guns without authority. Bethnal Green has incorporated the pretty legend of the beggar's daughter in arms is "not known" at the college, and Stepney, Lewisham and Stoke Newington are other boroughs who have taken crests without authority.

The most interesting offender is St. Pancras. Not only is its coat-of-arms unregistered at Heralds College, but, according to Mr. Richard Crosley, the heraldic expert, no one has ever been able to translate its motto, "Constans Justitiam Monlti."

HISTORIC IRISH STONE.

Ancient Clogh-Oir Stone Placed In St. Macartan's Cathedral.

The ancient Clogh-Oir stone from which Clogher (Ireland), is said to have derived its name, has, with the consent of the Bishop of Clogher, been placed in the vestibule of St. Macartan's Cathedral, to preserve it from the weather.

The Clogh-Oir Stone is said to have been one of the three sacred stones of Erin, the others being the Lia Fail, or Stone of Destiny, which rests under the Coronation Chair in Westminster Abbey, and the Crom Cuach, which is supposed to have bowed before St. Patrick. This famous stone which has hitherto rested against the north wall of the cathedral, was visited at one time by Concober MacNessa, High King of Ulster.

Canon Maguire, who wrote a commentary on the register of Clogher in 1490, states: "This sacred stone was preserved on the right of the entrance into the church, and traces of the gold with which it has been covered by the worshippers of the idol Ceomeod Celsetachel are still visible."

THE MAHATMA AND CHRISTIANS

Gandhi Glad Christians and Hindus Are Working Together.

Mahatma Gandhi recently visited the Eduvil Girls School of Northern Ceylon. He had been told that half the students were Hindus and half Christians — some 600 in all — and that no distinction was made between high and low castes.

Addressing the girls, he said that he was glad to find Christians and Hindus working together, and living together without caste distinction; it mattered not what sort of clothes a girl wore — she might be dressed in silks and look very beautiful; those things did not count. But it did matter how her heart looked; how she felt in her heart toward others. If she was proud and looked down on other girls in the school, or felt no sympathy for the poor or unfortunate, she was not really beautiful.

Gladstone's Double.

That saintly Victorian statesman, W. E. Gladstone (otherwise known as the "Grand Old Man"), had a double in the person of George Hodgmann, well-known sportsman and raconteur of his day. One day a train was held into Waverly station, Scotland, carrying Hodgman and it got noised about that Gladstone was on the train, travelling incognito. A huge crowd quickly gathered and shouts of "Speech! Speech!" filled the air. A friend of Hodgman's pushed him to the front, and entering into the fun of the thing, Hodgman thrust his head into the window.

"Thank you, gentlemen!" he said "So-and-so will win the Cesarewitch,' (a famous horse race).

Recent Ancient Bell.

A bell which was installed at Thundersley (Essex) Church in 1583—340 years ago—has been taken from and sent to be recast by a London firm which constructed it. It has been suspended all these years from oak ship's beams. Other beams supporting the walls and roof have been in service since 1230, fifteen years after the original building was burned down on a Christmas Day.

One Hundred Years Old.

The London omnibus is just one hundred years old.

A Manchester firm of engineers recently spent some time in pondering over a letter, written in Greek, which demanded the production of a (literally translated) "water sheep." After some racking of brains, it turned out to be a request for a "hydraulic ram."

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EXTENDING CANADA'S AIR MAIL SERVICE

Plane Makes Successful Flights to Points in Mackenzie Valley, Northwest Territories

Modern improvements in means of transportation and communication are playing an increasing part in the extension and improvement of Canada's mail service. Early this year both the aeroplane and the radio were utilized for the inauguration of a new service to ameliorate the postal isolation of the inhabitants of the Northwest Territories.

In January Hon. P. J. Veniot, Postmaster General, learned that the Western Canada Airways Company had arranged a schedule of ten flights down the Mackenzie from Waterwas, Alberta, to Simpson, in the Northwest Territories. Pilot C. H. Dickins had been detailed for the work in a Fokker plane equipped with skis. The Postmaster General immediately made arrangements to take advantage of this circumstance. Considerable mail had accumulated at McMurray, near Waterways to be transported by dog-team, and authority was granted to move this mail by plane on one or more trips.

In order to complete arrangements for the new service, radio messages were sent out from Edmonton to the postmasters at the different posts at which it was intended to call and in this way preparations for the speedy handling of the mail were completed. On January 3rd Pilot Dickins left McMurray at 12.50 p.m. in his Fokker plane and reached Fort Smith at 5 o'clock the same day. At 10.30 a.m. on the 25th he continued on to Simpson which was reached the morning of the next day, having remained overnight at Providence. Unfavorable weather prevented the commencement of the return flight until the morning of January 27th. The plane flew from Simpson to Resolution on Great Slave Lake and completed the 400-mile trip from that point to McMurray in 2 hours and 40 minutes.

On February 6th a second trip was made with a capacity load, leaving McMurray at 8.15 a.m. proceeding to Resolution and returning to McMurray at 4.10 p.m. First class mail from Resolution, Fitzgerald, and Fort Smith was brought out on the return trip.

All the accumulated mail at McMurray was moved and the success attending these operations induced the Postmaster General to authorize another flight from McMurray to the accumulated mail from intermediate points to posts farther north—Wrigley, Norman, and Good Hope—a total distance of 1,293 miles. This was safely carried out during the first week in March.

Similar services in Northern Canada were those being carried on between Whitehorse, Mayo, and Dawson in Yukon Territory. Up to January 18, nine round-trips had been made this winter, and the speed with which the services have been performed is again in striking contrast to that of the tractor and horse-drawn equipment used until recently.

Striking evidence of the appreciation of these outlying places is afforded by a letter of thanks sent to the Postmaster General by the white residents of Resolution, N. W. T., in which they point out that the air mail service has given them more mail in two trips than they had received during the last four winters by ordinary means.

HUMANE SOCIETY NAPANEE

The loading of calves and cattle at town railway stock yards has caused considerable annoyance to people of these towns. Although part of this annoyance is due to the bawling of the animals, the Humane Society is frequently appealed to regarding these cases.

Extracts of the law relating to such cases are:

1 Cattle shall not be confined in a car for more than thirty-six hours.

2 No calves under three weeks of age, other than those at foot of milch cows, or pure-bred calves may be shipped.

3 If any cattle are confined for more than fifteen consecutive hours, the Humane Inspector may supply the necessary food, water, etc., and recover expenses from the shipper.

Consequently a letter should be sent to our Inspector, Mr. A. G. MacMorine, Napanee, stating distinctly where the above law is being broken, when and by whom and he will have the case cleared up. This letter should be signed by several reliable people of the town whose names are kept strictly confidential. This method of securing information may seem unnecessary to many people, but we find it the quickest and only way to clear up such cases.

SOFTBALL

Newburgh has always been noted for its great baseball teams and the 1929 edition is as good as its predecessors. On Thursday they took on the powerful riverstown and what they did to them was nothing short of murder. For three innings it was anybody's game but in the fourth Newburgh let loose its full batting power and slammed the ball to all corners of the lot to score eleven runs and then came right back in the sixth to score eight more and sailed away the ball game. F. Cummings pitched a good game for the Newburgh boys and was well supported by his teammates. W. Gannon was the leading slugger with a home run and a three bagger to help the Newburgh cause.

Ernesttown fought back stubbornly and used three pitchers in their attempt to stop the Newburgh boys but found the lead too great to overcome. However the proved themselves good sports and everyone enjoyed the game. Newburgh has yet to be beaten playing softball; long may it continue so.

The lineup was as follows:

Newburgh—F. Luas 3b, C. Shorts 1b, J. Yeomans ss, M. Finn cf, H. Ramsay rf, D. Vandervoort c, W. Gammon 2b, F. Cummings p, M. Carten lf.

Ernesttown—Scott rf, Mitchell 1b, Dunn ss, Miller p, Reid c, McDonald 3b, Reid 2b, Lee cf, Craig lf,

Score by innings:

Ernesttown	2	1	4	3	0	3	0	0	—13
Newburgh	5	1	3	1	1	2	8	0	—20

Umpires Craig at the plate, Carter on bases.

Aylesworth Family Re-Union at Bath

SIR ALLAN AYLESWORTH TRACED HISTORY OF FAMILY

With over two hundred guests present, the re-union of the descendants of Job and Bowen Aylesworth, held at Bath on Saturday afternoon, exceeded the most optimistic hopes of those in charge of the arrangements for a record attendance. This great family reunion marked a new page in the history of the Aylesworth family. Guests were present from Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and points in the United States, to help and make this probably the biggest family re-union ever held in the Province, if not in the Dominion.

Every guest registered at the Town Hall in Bath, and as soon as registration was completed all adjourned to the Masonic Hall, where a most bounteous repast had been provided for the hungry visitors by the Ladies' Guild of St. John's Anglican Church. The tables upon which the dinner was served were prettily arranged, and the ladies put forth every effort to make the meal a success.

At the meeting which followed Geo. Anson Aylesworth, of Newburgh, presided. Rev. W. G. Swayne, Rector of St. John's Church, Bath, produced a most interesting document, and read its contents. It was the original marriage record from the register left by Rev. John Langhorn, the first missionary of St. John's Church, of Bowen Aylesworth and Hannah Perry. The banns were announced on Oct. 22nd, Oct. 29th and Nov. 5th, 1797, and the couple were married on Nov. 21st. In these days there were no licenses issued, and marriages took place after the announcing of the banns. "In addition to this important and interesting document, a framed photograph loaned for the occasion by Mr. Morley Aylesworth, of London, showed Hannah Perry and Bowen Aylesworth standing side by side.

The most interesting address of the afternoon was given by Sir Allan Aylesworth, who traced the career of the family from the time that the pioneers first came to this country. In his opening remarks Sir Allan stated that it was in 1776 that Arthur Aylesworth left England and settled in Rhode Island. The reason he left England was because he did not like the law in that country, which made it unlawful to hold any religious service unless under the rites of the established church. He married a girl by the name of Brown, and had six sons. One never married. But the others had large families, from which are probably descended all the Aylesworths in America. The speaker contended that the Aylesworths were divided into five distinct tribes to correspond to the five original families. Following the line of descendants he traced them from the time they came to Canada and settled near Bath, until the present day. There are some families of which trace has been lost, as they left England and went to the United States and Canada.

Speaking of the family name, Sir Allan said that records indicated the name to be pure Saxon. It was first known as "Aylworth" and was given to a piece of land in England some 1,000 years ago. About 1800 it was found that many members of the family were spelling the name with an "s", but no objection was raised by the older members of the family as long as it was not changed to "Ellsworth." A short time later in printed matter the name appeared with an "e" between the "l" and the "s" and despite all efforts to make a correction, the letter "e" remained, until today the name has both an "s" and an "e" and is spelled "Aylesworth." In the English spelling of the word the letter "s" was left out, but the letter "e" appeared, and in some old records the name was spelled "Aylesworthe."

Following Sir Allan Aylesworth's address, a resolution was moved by Rev. W. W. Aylesworth, that this address, outlining the history of the family, be placed in pamphlet form. The motion was carried unanimously. Mention was made of the fact that in the Violet graveyard lie the remains of Job Aylesworth, and the stone marking his grave is in need of attention. Donations were solicited so that a proper monument may be erected to his memory and Mr. George Anson Aylesworth was appointed treasurer of the fund.

Short speeches were given by other representatives of the Aylesworth family, after which the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Despite the rain everyone felt that a most enjoyable day had been spent at the Kingston Rifle Band, which was in attendance, furnished music for the occasion, which was greatly appreciated by all the visitors. When the various groups of people came out on the verandah of the building, cameras clicked constantly, and several took away visual as well as mental pictures of a dream of years, come true. Some of the speakers in their addresses referred to the fact that such a gathering had been planned a long time ago by other generations, but it was not until Saturday, August 10th, 1929, that this dream had finally materialized.

Mr. Richard Aylesworth, who was present as the gathering is a grandson of Bowen Aylesworth, and is the only representative of that generation, Warden W. R. Aylesworth, of Pentenac County, and George Anson Aylesworth, of Newburgh, have been prominent in the working out of the details for the re-union, and it is a matter of great satisfaction to them to see the event prove such a huge success.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CHANTECLER BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION

July 6th was a glorious day for the members of the Chantecler Breeders' Association. They had on that date their annual meeting, which was held this year at the birthplace of the Chantecler fowl, the Monastery of La Trappe, P.Q., Canada.

More than three hundred members, breeders or friends gathered at the poultryhouse at 10 a.m. Therefrom they started to visit the beautiful agricultural buildings of the Monastery, and around 12 o'clock climbed up the hill for a friendly luncheon at the Oka Agricultural Institute, directed by the Trappists monks. All the guests did honor to the tasty chicken of La Trappe, as well as to its delicious and well-known Oka cheese, followed by succulent strawberries.

The Honorable J. L. Perron, Minister of Agriculture, of Quebec, was present. He made a most beautiful and practical speech about poultry.

The Poultry Chiefs, J. D. Barbeau, of Quebec; F. C Elford and Geo. Robertson, of Ottawa, also spoke at the meeting, and added to their congratulations for the success of the "day," very useful advice on poultry.

The organizers had also secured a choir of artists, musicians and singers, who brought a pleasant variety, among the different speeches and lectures. Miss Edith MacMorine, from Napanee, Ont., delivered a beautiful piece of elocution, a poem on the Chantecler breed, composed especially for the occasion, by her mother, Mrs. Mary MacMorine, who is a great fancier of the Chantecler fowl. The poem reads as follows:

THE CHANTECLER

"Like a sunbeam of the Mountains,
Breaking thro' its gorgeous height;
Like soft music, gently wafted
O'er Lake Como's foamy flight;
In thy robe of dazzling whiteness
Intermingled with the gold,
Crimson-crested like a warrior
In the days when knights were bold!
Thou art bred within the purple,
Where the Master holds His Court;
Thou are born mid' Prayer and Silence.
As an offering daily sought.
Thou didst come while men were fighting
O'er the seas, on distant shores;
Hearts were breaking, women weeping,
They had given all for All!
Then the Peace-bells ringing clearly;
Joy to men! Goodwill! Goodwill!!
And to these thy pinions learly,
Didst thou sour the World to win.
As the years have brought the laurels!
Many sing thy name and fame,
Unto "him" who made thy glory,
Brother M. Wilfrid is "his" name."

—Mary MacMorine.

A very heavy electric storm passed over this vicinity on Saturday. Mr. Perry Brown's barn was struck by lightning and, and along with some hens, calves and pigs, besides the season's hay crop, was a total loss; partly covered by insurance.—Quite a number from here motored to Kingston on Sunday morning and took in the trip through the islands. Prink, of Odessa, spent Sunday at M. Joyce's.—Quite a bit of grain has been cut, and while the hay crop was good, the grain will be short and light.—Our road work is coming along nicely and soon we will have a good road to Napanee.

The youth of former years was always expected to say in the face of temptation, "Get thee behind me, Satan," but now it's "Come aside, Nick —you're blocking the road."

MOTORISTS SPEND MORE ON AUTOS

FUEL IS BIGGEST ITEM

While the figures would be slightly different for Canada, owing to duty on cars and parts, an average of $293 was spent by each motorist in the United States during 1928 in the operation and maintenance of his car, according to figures compiled by the American Motorists Association. Of this sum, $101, or 34 per cent., was expended for fuel and lubricants, this being the largest item in the motorist's annual operation and maintenance bill.

The $293 figure does not take into account depreciation. The average life of a passenger automobile, according to computation of the Federal Government, is approximately seven years.

During 1928 the average retail price of passenger cars in the United States was $875, which, based on a seven-year life expectancy, would mean an average depreciation of $125 per year.

From this figure, plus the average upkeep cost of $293, it will be seen that the general average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $418 per year, or approximately $1.14 per day. The comparable figure for 1927 shows that the average cost of operation, plus depreciation, was $365 for that year, or one dollar per day.

The second largest item on the motorist's maintenance bill is the labor incident to repair work, the motorist expending in 1928, for this item, an average of $82. His replacement parts cost him $55, while his average tire bill, during the year, was $34. An average of $21 was expended for accessories, which with the $101 spent for gasoline and oil, make up the total of $293 as the average cost of maintenance for each motor vehicle for 1928.

Comparing the cost of operation in 1928 and 1927 the association's figures show that last year the cost was 23 per cent. more than during 1927, when the average operation cost was $292.

Comparative figures, between the two years, however, it is pointed out by J. Burton Weeks, President of the Association, do not indicate that operation costs are necessarily increasing, the difference being explained primarily by the fact that with better highways available each year, the average motorist uses his automobile proportionately more.

EXPECTS TO MAKE FUELS FROM WATER

A YOUNG GERMAN ENGINEER DEVELOPS NEW METHOD OF EXTRACTION

The possibility of using water for automobile engine fuel, an old expedient, has come to the front in Germany in a new way.

The hydrogen in water, when separated, long has been known as a good automobile fuel. The trouble has been that so much power was required to separate the hydrogen from the water that the process was not economic.

Now a young German engineer, Paul Hausmeister, of Goettingen, Wurttemberg, has developed a new method for the extraction and applied for patents.

He claims to produce oxygen and hydrogen from water by electrolysis and pressure, getting a highly compressed liquid. It is claimed further that a far smaller expenditure of power is necessary to get this compressed product than to extract these gases in free state and that it can be had at much less than the cost of coal or gasoline.

Prof. Alfred Coehn, of Goettingen University, announces that he has experimented with the process and confirmed the results.

It is said that if the young man's process stands up against the tests it is likely to compel a modification of the law for conservation of energy, a fundamental of physics, as results are only equal to the energy expended.

The point in the new process is said to be a demonstration that breaking down the molecules of water requires a much smaller expenditure of energy than might be expected under the classic interpretation of the physical law.

The compressed gases that Hausmeister obtains are stored in steel drums with a resistance of 1,865 atmospheres.

STOPS MOTORISTS FOR ODD REASON

SHERIFF BELIEVES HE HAS FOUND A WAY TO CHECK SPEEDING

A unique campaign for safe and sane driving, which had motorists guessing for a few days, is being carried on by Sheriff G. E. Cress, way out in Ceno Gordo County, Iowa.

Thousands of drivers have been stopped by the Sheriff and his Deputies on the highways. The officers promptly display the well-known red card and demand the driver's name. When the latter follows with an attempted alibi the officer becomes more harsh, shoves the card in the driver's hand and leaves.

Imagine the driver's embarrassment when he reads this:

"I have watched your driving over several miles. You drove safely, sanely and sensibly.

"Every day in the State of Iowa there is approximately one person killed and forty persons seriously injured on our streets and highways.

"Safe, sane and sensible driving will stop this loss of life and limb.

"If you don't know what the other fellow is going to do, slow down until he does it.

"Continue to be a safe driver. Help to prevent accidents. You may save a life.

"Thanks for your co-operation. Goodbye. Good luck.—G. E. Cressy, Sheriff."

Cress believes that the campaign is netting results and declares that it is the only sensible system to follow now that Iowa no longer has a speed law.

The detective put away his magnifying glass.

The culprit has left a number of clues," he declared, casting a quick glance round the room, "and I'm certain the thief has short black hair, is five foot seven inches tall, smoked cigarettes, wore woollen socks, and drove here in a car. Another thing—"

"How wonderful," interrupted the victim of the robbery. "Now, was the culprit a man or a woman?"

It was then that the detective was baffled.

"Pigs would live a lot longer, if they didn't make hogs of themselves," said a doctor to a farmer suffering from indigestion.

WILTON W. M. S. SUNDAY EVENING SERVICE

Quite a number of Moscow friends came to Wilton on Sunday evening, August 4th, and the ladies of the Moscow W. M. S. presented their sacred drama, "The Two Masters," in the United Church, in the interest of the Wilton W. M. S. An unusually large congregation greeted the ladies, and in the absence of our pastor, Rev. Mr. McQuade, is on his holidays, Mr. W. H. Mills kindly consented to take charge. The service was opened at 8 o'clock by all joining in singing the hymn, "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult," after which Mr. Mills led in prayer.

The Wilton quartette favored the audience with the selection, "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me." Miss Keitha Babcock read the scripture lesson, and the offering was taken by two of the Wilton W. M. S. members. The collection, which amounted to $13.25, was considered very gratifying by the members.

Mr. Mills then asked the Moscow ladies to take charge of the service. Each one in the drama took her part exceptionally well. They made their hearers feel that in order to be a true fellower of our Master, Jesus Christ, we must live so that our daily lives will radiate the missionary spirit. All cannot go to foreign countries, but all can show by their reading, associates and conversation that we are trying to do our part, and perhaps our zeal for missionary work will inspire some one who can go to go and tell the old, old story.

On behalf of the W. M. S. of Wilton, and the congregation, Mr. W. H. Mills thanked the Moscow ladies for the real service they had rendered in coming to us to give us this evening service, as it is not always easy to fill in these services when our pastor is on his holidays. The evening service was brought to a close with prayer by Mr. Mills.

Mrs. A. W. Babcock invited the Moscow friends to her home, where they were served light refreshments by the members of the Wilton W. M. S.

AEOLPHUSTOWN W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of the U. E. L. United Church held an open meeting of the Society on Wednesday, July 31st, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Magee. The W. M. S. of the other appointment were invited, but were unable to be present, owing to the funeral service of the late Mrs. Donald Bilkey being held that day.

The meeting was in charge of the President, and opened with hymn "Speed Away." Prayer was offered by Mrs. W. J. Magee, and the scripture lesson, Psalm 91, was read by Mrs. John Magee, after which hymn, "The Whole Wide World for Jesus," was sung. Miss De Mazee then sang a solo, "Unto Me," very sweetly.

Mrs. Fred Hooper, of Napanee, was present, and gave an inspiring address to the Society, which should encourage us to press on.

Misses Humphrey sang a duet, very prettily, and Mrs. E. Gilloride, of Napanee, gave an interesting and instructive talk on the Ukrainians of the West," which showed us the great need for more interest in Home Missions.

Rev. Mr. Plant and Mrs. Plant sang a duet, which was greatly enjoyed by all. The closing hymn was "Hark, the Voice of Jesus Calling" after which Rev. Mr. Plant dismissed the meeting.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

The August meeting of the W. M. S. was held on Wednesday afternoon, August 7th, at the home of Mrs. Ereall Foster, with an attendance of twelve. The meeting was in charge of the President.

The meeting opened with hymn "I Need Thee Every Hour," with Mrs. W. J. McCrudden as organist. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. Jean Humphrey, and all joined in repeating the Lord's Prayer. The scripture lesson, Matt. 5:1-12, was read by Mrs. E. Ferris, and was followed by hymn "The Morning Light is Breaking." As the Secretary, Mrs. A. C. Davis, was absent, there was no report given, and the minutes were taken by Miss L. Carr. Miss Annabel Magee, Treasurer, gave an encouraging report of monies sent to Branch. Three heralds on the Watch Tower reported. Miss Annabel Magee gave an instructive talk on "Temperance," showing the conditions in Africa. Miss Carr, Superintendent of Christian Stewardship, arranged an interesting talk on "Stewardship," several members taking part, which showed how the tithe and prosperity was regarded in the Old and New Testament. There was no programme, as Mrs. John Duffet, who was in charge of it, was absent.

Miss Elsie Magee took up the chapter, "Daughters of Africa," in the Study Book, after which roll call was answered by a verse of scripture on harvest. Collection was taken, and the meeting joined in repeating the 23rd Psalm. The closing hymn was sung, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The meeting adjourned, to meet in September at the home of Mrs. W. D. Roblin.

"Jones!" said the schoolmaster sternly, "you have again been caught in the act of flagrant disobedience. Your example to others is most injurious. In short, sir, you are going to the dereff. Come with me!"

HUNTING IS AN AUTUMN ATTRACTION IN CANADA

This Season Has Its Special Appeal In Dominion's Recreational Areas—Open Seasons Vary

Within every one of us there is something which thrills to the thought of a holiday spent in the great open spaces with the scent of pine and the freedom from the artifications of modern life. It is possibly inherited from our pioneer ancestors, but nevertheless the urge to get back to nature for even a short time is exceedingly great. The gratification of such desires is possible at every season of the year in Canada. Winter, summer, spring and autumn all provide opportunities for the enjoyment of recreative sport which in the light of presentday knowledge is so necessary to the well-being of the modern man or woman.

At the time of the year when the "feel" of frost is in the air and the trees are taking on their autumnal tints, the out-of-doors seem to have an even stronger appeal. To the sportsman and hunter the lure is compelling, and sons of Nimrod in thousands go trekking through the forest and lakeland areas of the Dominion in search of the lordly moose and nimble deer. The hunting season in Canada is ushered in early in September and for several months the rigid protection provided the feathered and furred denizens of our vast hinterland is somewhat lessened.

In wilderness areas of Canada which lie just beyond the settled portions of the provinces, the remnants of the wild life of the continent have taken refuge. Wise game laws and the co-operation of sportsmen and hunters are helping to conserve our wild life resources. National parks and forest reserves, by providing sanctuary for the wild life, are also aiding in this work, and the future of hunting in Canada for many years to come seems assured.

Generally throughout the Dominion, moose, deer and bear may be hunted at varying periods between the first of September and the middle of December, while open seasons for caribou occur in Ontario, the Prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and British Columbia. Ducks, geese, rails, brant, woodcock and Wilson's snipe may be shot within certain periods, there being a slight variation in different parts of the Dominion. In general wild life matters are a responsibility of the provinces and the regulation of the taking of game animals is controlled by provincial law. Changes occur in the game laws from time to time as conditions require them and prospective hunters, in order that they may be furnished with the latest regulations, should communicate with the chief game official of the province in which they intend to hunt before starting out for their trip. The shooting of migratory game birds is regulated by the migratory Birds Convention Act, which is based on the treaty entered into for the protection of water fowl and other valuable species of birds migrating north and south across Canada and the Uniter States. Copies of the regulations under this Act may be obtained from the Commissioner of National Parks, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or from any of the provincial chief game officers.

Read what Mrs. Wright says: "I received your sample of Zutoo Tablets, and took them for severe pain (monthly) and headache. At the end of 10 minutes, I was entirely free of pain and experienced no more throughout the period. I suffer a great deal at these times and feel grateful that I have a remedy which affords quick relief. Every woman in the land should know about Zutoo Tablets and what they willdo."

ENGINE ROOM IS SPOTLESS

Oil Burning Liners of Today Contrasted With Old Colliers

Coal burners with black-faced stokers have been replaced by oil burners on liners to-day. Stokers would have collapsed at the end of their four-hour shift from the terrible physical strain of keeping the steam up for present record breaking runs.

Today the boiler pressure is increased just by turning a little gadget and releasing the oil. An idea of what goes on in the engine room of a great Atlantic liner trying to establish an ocean-crossing record may be obtained by the man who has an oil burning furnace in his home. Conditions in his cellar sitting beside the oil furnace are much the same as sitting in the engine room of a large liner. A temperature of 89 degrees is averaged on many but the engine room of the liners is a well ventilated room of great proportions and kept spotlessly clean.

On the Antonia, a Cunarder liner at present in port, 35 men are employed to keep the ship's engines going. Twelve of these are officers. Nine of the crew are oilers, and the rest are known as "stokers"—though there is no stoking to do. The work is done in four hour shifts, with an eight hour interval for rest. A system of air cooling changes the air so rapidly that the heat at no time becomes oppressive. It reached nearly 100 degrees on the last trip. These men have to watch 24 oil fires burning under four boilers.

When questioned regarding the life in the engine rooms, Chief Engineer J. Bond of the Antonia laughed. "Why it isn't any different to working on any other part of the ship," he replied.

"So your name is George Washington," mused the old lady.

"Yassum," replied the small Negro boy.

"I'll bet you try hard to be like him, don't you?"

"Lak who?"

"Why like George Washington of course."

"Ah kain't help bein' lak Jawdge Washington, 'cause dat's who ah is."

Uncle John (to his little niece)—Well, Nellie have you been a good little girl since I saw you last?

Nellie—Yes, uncle, but nobody knows it.

TYENDINAGA EAST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Tyendinaga East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McFarlane on August 15th, with the president in the chair.

A large attendance of members were present and several visitors from other points were present. Mrs. H. Syne, Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. L. Hill, Mrs. Clarke, of Shannonville; Mrs. Luther, of Newburgh; Mrs. M. Russell, Napanee; Mrs. Saul McFarlane.

After the usual opening exercises the roll call was answered by the members giving their maiden name. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Several business letters were read, which had been received since the last meeting. Current events were read by Mrs. A. Waddingham. Arrangements were discussed as to what would be required as to our fall entertainment. Different committees were chosen for each line of work in connection with the entertainment. After a lengthy discussion we had our social half hour. Duets given by Mrs. H. Syne and Mrs. Burnett. Mrs. Husband gave a reading on the many ways that vinegar can be used outside of cooking and vinegar is certainly very valuable in many ways.

As this was Grandmother's Day we were very proud to have the honor of eight grandmothers with us and each one was presented with a bouquet of flowers from the Institute, showing the great esteem in which grandmothers are held. After the presentation Mrs. Clark, of Shannonville, thanked the ladies in a few well chosen words for their kindness in remembering the grandmothers which was replied to by the president, that we were proud to have the honor of so many grandmothers with us.

A vote of thanks was given to all that helped in entertaining, also a vote of thanks to the hostess for her hospitality. This very delightful afternoon was brought to a close. A dainty lunch was served. Closing exercises, National Anthem, Mispah Benediction.

Mr. James P. Loyst and family wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of Mrs. Scott. 34ap

The relatives of the late James Cannon wish to thank their friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in their recent bereavement. 34ap

Editor of The Beaver,—Will you kindly allow us a short space in your columns to thank our neighbors and friends who so nobly responded and gave their help to extinguish a fire that broke out on our farm, on August 11th. They certainly did excellent work for which we give our heartiest praise. They came from Selby, Marysville and Lonsdale, Forest Mills and Napanee, and we would also add to the ladies a goodly number. How it broke out is unknown to us. There was a thunder storm passed over and probably a spark of electricity dropped in a stumy or old log, or a careless cigarette by someone passing. Had the fire been allowed to spread (as their was a heavy swamp close by that runs through toward the Selby Road) there might have been serious damage done; but they fought and conquered.

We remain,
34ap I. S. and W. E. JACKSON.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of Okland Arthur Jackson, who died on August 3rd, 1914.

OBITUARY

James Cameron

he death came with startling suddenness to Mr. James Cameron on Tuesday morning, August 6th. In company with his brother, Thomas, he went to the woods to do some cutting. The brothers separated and in a few minutes, Thomas failed to hear the sound of his brother's axe and on investigating found the lifeless body of his brother lying face downward.

Dr. Huxtable was summoned as soon as possible and on examination found the deceased had passed away from the result of a stroke.

The late Mr. Cameron was a native of this county, he having been born on the same farm when he met his death.

For forty eight years he resided in Wisconsin, Mich., and came to Newburgh this spring to reside with his sister and brothers.

Although here only a short time he was well known and was of a cheery disposition and had a smile for all he met.

Surviving are his sister, Elisabeth, his brothers, John and Thomas, and a niece, Miss Margaret Cameron.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, August 8th, at the home of Mr. Thomas Cameron and was conducted by the Rev. Mr. McDuffy of the Presbyterian Church, Camden East.

DISAPPEARING ISLE OF FALCON, NEAR TONGA, DECREASING

From time to time news reaches New Zealand of the activities of one of the most curious volcanoes in the world, the disappearing island known as Falcon, near Tonga.

This island has had a most checkered history. It was first seen as a breaking reef by H.M.S. Falcon, in 1865. Twelve years afterward another warship saw smoke issuing from the sea where the reef had been. In the 'eighties it was found that an island over a mile long and 150 feet high had been thrown up, a mass of ashes with deep water all round. It sank again and later rose longer than before, and so on. Last year two American natural scientists landed on the island accompanied by the Prime Minister of Tonga, who claimed the spot for his tiny country.

There are signs that Tonga's new possession will shortly disappear again. On a recent round trip of the steamer Tofua, whose home port is Auckland, the captain took the ship slightly off her course so that the passengers could get a close view of Falcon Island, and it was seen to be decreasing in size.

According to an account published in the New Zealand Herald, the island is without life. The Prime Minister of Tonga planted a cocoanut palm there, but no signs of a tree were seen. The island is a mass of cinders and lava, with a burst of steam coming every now and then from the crater. The Pacific swell is eating into the sides and the heavy tropical rains are taking there toll.

WHEAT CROP OF 1928

Distribution figures showing the disposal of the wheat crop of 1928 are now fairly complete. Exports of wheat during the crop year ended July the 31, 1929, amounted to 355,424,669 bushels, while exports of wheat flour totalled 11,868,775 barrels, or the equivalent of 53,130,488 bushels of wheat, making 408,564,187 bushels of wheat in all. The amount required for seed for the 1929 crop is estimated at 87,141 million bushels, while food requirements may be put at 44 million bushels. The total thus accounted for is 497,069,187 bushels, while stocks in Canada on July 31, 1929, were reported as 163,426,327 bushels, making 660,495,514 bushels accounted for in all.

The carry-over on July 31, 1928, from the 1927 crop was 77,020,000 bushels, and imports during the crop year are estimated at one million bushels. The amount of wheat disposed of from the 1928 crop is therefore shown as approximately 523 million bushels.

Commercially graded grain from the 1928 crop was estimated at 27,834,000 bushels whilst the loss in cleaning was placed at 10,007,000 bushels. These figures indicate that the gross crop of wheat harvested in Canada in 1928 amounted to 376,729,000 bushels, of which approximately 344,000,000 were grown in the Prairie Provinces.

It may be pointed out that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimate of September 11, 1928, indicated a crop of 550,482,000 bushels for all of Canada (527,532,000 bushels for the Prairie Provinces). This, it will be remembered, was, at the time, subjected to much adverse criticism as being too high. The estimate of September, 1927, was also attacked in a similar manner, although in both cases the estimates were shown by subsequent marketing figures to be low rather than high.

And Who's Mary?

A slight knowledge of the Scottish vernacular is necessary to appreciate the point of a story told recently by the Duchess of Atholl, the Conservative M.P. for Perth and Kinross.

He had been rather lax in his attendance at the English school to which he had been sent, so the master called him before him.

"Why have you been away so often?" he demanded.

"Oh, sir, I've been minding Mary's bairn," was the reply.

"And who's Mary?" demanded the master sternly.

"Och, sir, she's fine!" said the boy.

Norse Speak English.

Practically every second person in Norway is said to be able to speak English. On enquiring my way back to the ship after a recent expedition in Bergen, some time ago, says a correspondent, the first person of whom I enquired the way in faltering Norse language answered me in perfect English. When I expressed surprise I was told, "At school we all have to learn at least one language other than our own, and nearly every one chooses English, chiefly, I think, on account of our Queen being English."

The Wind's Eye.

The little huts in which our early ancestors lived were lighted and ventilated merely by a hole in the roof. They called this hole the wind's eye —which is exactly what our word "window" means.

TONG WARS FLARE AND END SUDDENLY

Once more the rival Chinese tongs in the United States have signed a lasting peace, in succession to the other lasting peace which was signed in 1927. Lasting peace between these gangs is something like farewell concert tours of a popular prima donna. It is impossible that it should be otherwise. It is not for man to know permanence. There is a quarrel between two Chinamen, and one of them kills the other. The rumor spreads that the Chinaman was killed because he was a member of a certain tong and the murderer the member of another. In any event, the slain man is likely to have friends and kinsmen, and they feel it a duty to revenge him, knowing that in Chinese killings the police are not likely to be very enthusiastic or effective. So the shooting breaks out wherever there are tongs or friends of the parties involved in the original quarrel. It continues as a rule until the police heavily guard the districts where the Chinese congregate and the federal attorneys announce that if there is any more shooting there will be deportations. It is this threat that has ended all recent tong battles.

Half Century of Tongs

Tongs have been fighting each other in the United States for 50 years or more. We understand that like chop suey and the tong is unknown in China. It is an invention of Chinese in a foreign country. They say that the tong is really a fraternal society like the Masons or a social organization like the Rotary Club. It main purpose is to assist its members and defend and advance the interests common to all Chinese earning a living far from home. Its critics say that the tongs are merely criminal gangs. They organize to protect members engaged in bootlegging, the smuggling of opium and aliens and dealings in slave girls. The reason that tongs are brought into a rivalry that produces bloodshed is precisely the same reason that white racketeers fight over needle beer and other spoils of the underworld. But, the causes of conflict remain obscure. The Chinese refuse to take the Caucasian into their confidence. They prefer to avenge their own wrongs, and never give the police information about their enemies. They are as staunch as they are mysterious.

The Pretty Slave Girl

The chief tongs in the United States are the Hip Sings and the On Leongs. The former is said to have 2,000 members who pay an annual fee of $12, while the latter claims a membership of 5,000 with annual dues of $20. It need scarcely be said that the average Chinaman sees nothing immoral in dealings in narcotic laghore or opium. In gambling they see only a natural and innocent diversion, which has been made a crime by the laws of the white man which they had no part in framing. Their views about slave girls are also extremely liberal. One of the tongs' most notable fights was precipitated by one of these girls, the beautiful Ee. Kum. She was owned by a Hip Sing but tired of him and fled to New York and took up domestic with a member of the On Leongs. She was pursued and in the ensuing battle both of her masters met death. This was in 1910 and the fighting continued sporadically until 1913 when another lasting peace was signed. In one of these battles two white bystanders were killed as a result of which three Chinamen were executed. It should be noted that Chinamen are rarely if ever executed for the murder of other Chinese.

Gambling Monopoly

Generally, the New York fighting broke out because of gambling quarrels. Tom Lee, chief of the On Leongs, controlled the Chinese gambling privileges in the city and was proprietor of most of the opium dens. He was called the "Mayor of Chinatown," and though he was surrounded by an armed bodyguard he went in mortal terror of the Hip Sings. Time and again his life was attempted, but because of the notoriously bad marksmanship of Chinese tongsters, he escaped. His leadership was challenged by Mock Duck, a picturesque character who joined the Hip Sings and made war on Tom. This was in 1900, and for months there was not a week which did not see the slaughter of some Chinamen, usually the victims of the hatchetmen, the hatchet being a favorite weapon of the tong warriors. Mock Duck helped gradually reduce Lee's power by informing the police, who closed down one den after another. In the course of his crusading Mock Duck received a knife wound in the stomach, but survived. He is supposed to be now in Chicago. Tom Lee died peacefully in his bed in 1910.

Deportations End War

From 1924, to March 26 1925, a tong war raged wherever in the United States members of the rival gangs came into contact. In the course of the fighting more than 60 Chinamen were killed and many more wounded in New York and the authorities seemed powerless to end the strife. It was then that the wrath of the federal government was sought and several hundred Chinese were deported. This quelled the rest of them who had no liking for the id..a of returning to China to live for the rest of their days on rice and bird's nest soup. Deportation thus ends tong wars and not the fear which the fighting Chinese have of each other. It is interesting to note that while the rival organizations have outbreaks are almost always obscure the police are generally given warning when fighting is about to break out. With their innate love for ceremonial the rival tongs never fail to remove from their headquarters the peace flags which fly as long as the gangs are on good terms with each other.

Keep Children Well During Hot Weather

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and after only a few hours illness, the mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. 948

TO INVESTIGATE COPPER-MINE RIVER MINERAL RESEARCH

Examination of Copper Deposits

During the coming summer an investigation of the mineral and other natural resources of the Coppermine River mineral reserve in the Canadian Arctic Coast will be undertaken by Major L. T. Burwash, exploratory engineer of the North West Territories and Yukon Branch of the Department of the Interior. The area contained in the reserve is described as being that portion of the Northwest Territories lying north of the 65th parallel of north latitude, and between the 105th and 116th degrees of west longitude, comprising the islands in and the territory adjacent to Coronation Gulf and to Bathurst Inlet.

For many years the existence of deposits of native copper along the Arctic Coast of Canada has been known. The names Coppermine River and Yellow-knife Indians (the latter so named because they made knives and utensils from the metal) bear testimony to the early knowledge of these deposits. Thirty years ago the idea prevailed in many quarters that large deposits of almost pure copper were to be found in the area and that its recovery was commercially possible because of the inaccessibility of the territory. Later, during the war, the high price of copper set men thinking of these reported rich deposits and interest in them revived. In the meantime the Dominion Government had the area examined and has, through the Geological Survey of the Department of Mines been informed that while pockets of drift copper are occasionally found and while it seems highly probable that parts of the district contain workable or even rich deposits, the area as a whole is one which to be profitably worked must be developed on a large scale.

Since operation on an extended scale was precluded by the lack of transportation facilities, the Department of the Interior deemed it unwise to have possible future development held up or frustrated by claims staked as ventures, and, therefore, in December, 1918, by Order in Council withdrew the area in question from disposal under the Mining Regulations. The information received since then has confirmed these reports and the area is still withdrawn.

Major Burwash, who completed his investigations as to the condition of the natives, the abundance of wild life and related matters in and around Boothia peninsula early in this year, has been in the Far North since the summer of 1928. In June of that year he left Ottawa for Aklavik at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. From this post he travelled eastward in the Department's auxiliary power schooner "Ptarmigan," along the Arctic Coast, visiting native settlements and trading posts en route. Early in September he left Victoria Island for the southeast coast of King William Island, where he established his winter quarters in Gjoa Harbor. Later he proceeded by dog team to Kent Bay near the magnetic pole, where the Hudson Bay Company's steamer, "Fort James" was stationed for the winter and through its wireless set, Major Burwash was able to keep in touch with Ottawa. He had completed his investigation in Boothia Peninsula and around King William Island, when he received wireless instructions from the Department to proceed as soon as possible to the Coppermine and make a series of investigations in that area.

About the middle of April he left his winter quarters and started his journey south and west across the ice to the Coppermine. Major Burwash expects to reach that area early June. He will spend the summer in and around the reserve and will come out to Norman via Great Bear Lake in time to catch the last boat up the Mackenzie River system to railhead at McMurray.

MINING ACTIVITIES IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Renewed Interest in Mineral Possibilities of Province—Investigate Known Metal Deposits

Renewed activities in metal mining in New Brunswick during the past year and increasing interest in the mineral possibilities of this province are referred to by Dr. F. J. Alcock, of the Geological Survey of Canada, in a statement recently issued by the Dominion Department of Mines. Although much of the territory has never been prospected, occurrences of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, antimony, iron, and tungsten are known, and Dr. Alcock points out that increased development of known ore deposits and a stimulated search for new ones may result in New Brunswick taking her place among the metal producing provinces of Canada.

During 1928 exploratory work was carried on in different parts of the province by a number of companies. Investigations were made into the economic possibilities of a copper prospect near Lansdale; a copper showing near Goschen, and a copper-zinc deposit near New Ireland, and surface work was conducted on the Lumsden property, Albert County, carrying gold, silver, zinc, and copper. Attention was directed also to the Lake mineral antimony deposits about twenty-five miles southwest of Fredericton.

A copper-nickel deposit near St. Stephen and a copper occurance on Adams Island were examined by a local group, and a showing of nickel-copper near Marrtown was investigated by Montreal interests. Other work in the province consisted of a detailed investigation carried on by the development Branch of the Canadian National Railways in northwest New Brunswick, and exploratory work on zinc-lead showing in Restigouche County and copper prospect in St. John County.

TAMWORTH

(For last week.)

The Lawn Social and Concert held under the auspices of Christ Church, on Saturday, August 10th, was very well attended and enjoyed by all. The "Night-Cap" Concert, modelled on Pierrot lines, proved a great attraction and was something new for the district.—At the morning services at Christ Church the Rector was assisted by a former Rector, the Rev. S. E. Harrington, and by the Rev. T. B. Butler, who preached the sermon. The Rev. E. Vesky, of Lyn, was a visitor at the church.

(For last week.)

The Anglican Church Social and Concert was given Saturday night with great success, over one hundred and fifty were served with supper on the rectory lawn, after which they went to the town hall for a concert given by the "Night Cap" Concert Party, under directorship of Mr. H. Piper. This was also attended with tremendous success and the hall was packed to overflowing. The artists are to be congratulated for the fine program given, and the way each one contributed their own part. The idea of a costume concert party in Tamworth was novel and they are assured of a warm welcome upon its return show. Everyone was well away more than delighted. We understand that the concert party has already been booked for neighboring places.—We are glad to see Mrs. Kenneth Stinson home again after spending a couple of weeks in Kingston General Hospital.—Rev. J. N. Beckstead, who has been spending a holiday at Macdonald College, Quebec, will be returning home this week.—The United Church services for Sunday, August 18th, will be held in the morning at Reidville; Marlbank in the afternoon, and Tamworth at 7.30.—Miss Doris Chapin and Alexandrio Gilmore have returned from a visit to Toronto and Orillia.—Mr. Chapin, of oronto, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilmore. —Miss Blair is visiting old friends.—Miss Beatrice Posten returned to Sandhurst on Friday.—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jackson and family of Kitchener, and Mrs. Shields and son, of Toronto, were visitors last week of Mrs. Crich, Miss Dorothy Jackson returned for a visit with them.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Little, of Millbrook, spent the week-end with Mrs. D. Thinnan. Mrs. Little will remain for two weeks.

BAY CIRCUIT

(For last week.)

The storm of Saturday did a great deal of good and some harm. Mr. Percy Brown's barn was struck by lightning and burned. The barn was full of hay. Mr. Brown had some insurance but enough only to cover part of the loss.—The Sunday School Picnic for Bay Circuit was held on Huffman's Island on Wednesday, August 7th. Everyone agreed that it was one of the best picnics ever held. All of the five schools were represented. The races were keenly contested. The baseball tournament was won by Hayburn. The booths did a flourishing business, the net proceeds being $34.00. Much credit is due the committee, who worked so hard to make this the best picnic yet.—At a meeting held in Sand Hill Church on Friday evening, August 9th, it was decided to renovate the church and rebuild the shed. Work will begin at once. Church will be closed for a month.—River Road School is receiving a coat of paint, inside and out, and a general renovation. This is the time to get school buildings in good condition for the beginning of the fall term.—Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Huffman leaves this week for Rochester.—A number of the people of our community attended the Dean-Mellon wedding in Napanee last Thursday.—The Women's Missionary Society for Bay East met at the home of Mrs. Barnhartt on Thursday, August 8th. A very fine program was given of music and readings and an address. It was decided to entertain the convention for this area, which will be held in Anderson Church in October. Mrs. Barnhartt served lunch and the social hour was much enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Kloe Baldwin's.—Rev. Beckel and family left for Oshawa where they are spending their vacation. They will be away until the first of September.
